TAFTVILLE

Joseph C. Marsan of Hunters avenue, president of Council Gagnon, No. 308, St. Jean Baptiste was in Plainfield recently to attend a meeting of delegates from all the local societies in this district, which makes up district No. 8 of the national order. Mr. Marsan is also president of district No. 8. One of the matters which came up for consideration was the representation of the district at the national convention of the order which opens in Holyoke, on October 13th, and continues for the three days following. It was voted to have a float in the parade which will open the convention, and a contract has been made to have a float furnished for this time. A band has also been engaged to accompany the local delegation to Holyoke. The Garde St. Jeanne d'arc of Council Gagnon has voted to go to the national convention and take part in the parade. Mr. Marsan said Tesday that besides delegates which have been elected to represent the local council at the convention, he believed that 60 or 70 Taftville people would be present. There are 23 councils in district No. 8, and about 800 have already signified their intention of attending the national convention, which will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order.

Miss Mildred Kloss of Lorenzo street has returned from a two weeks stay with friends in Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bogle of Providence street have returned from Holyoke, where they have been spending a week with Mr. Bogle's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Osten Ferguson.

The monthly meeting of the Taftville Business Mens' association was held Monday evening in the fire department hall on Merchants avenue, with a good attendance.

A mission in English is being conducted every evening this week, at Sacred Heart church by the Holt Ghost fathers. Large crowds are attending the services which began Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Kean, of South Second avenue, have been visitors this week in New York.

Joseph D. Aiken, of the Ponemah house, has returned to the village after an eight weeks' trip to Europe, where he visited England, France and Germany. The return trip was made on the Aquitania.

Supt. Victor H. Davis presided at the workers' conference held Tuesday evening in the parlors of the Congregational church. At the invitation of the pastor, Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, Rev. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, of Norwich, and James L. Case were present to speak on the New London County Sunday School association and the Norwich Council of Religious Education. There had been a misunderstanding in the minds of many of the members of the conference that these two organizations were one and the same, or that one was to supplant the other. Mr. Case explained that they were two separate organizations, and that both of them were to function in this locality. Mr. Graham told of the formation of the Council of Religious Education, but because no very definite plans had been made for its program, there was very little information that could be given out at present.

Early in the spring, the Taftville church school had voted to give its annual subscription of $25 to the New London County Sunday School association but this money was held up awaiting the explanation that Mr. Case and Mr. Graham supplied. After their remarks, the conference voted to pay the sum into the treasury of the association.

Superintendent Davis, who had served the school and church faithfully for the past few years, desired to resign, but was prevailed upon by the other members of the conference to retain the office at least until the annual election of officers in January, 1926.

One of the main discussions of the evening was the opening hour of the church school. Prior to the closing of the school for the summer vacation, the school had been opening at 9:15 a. m. When the school came together again this fall, many of the classes requested the time to remain unchanged. The conference considered the matter very carefully and decided that from April 1 to Nov. 1, the school would open at 9:15, and from Nov. 1 to April 1, the opening hour would be 13 o'clock noon.

Next Sunday was set for Rally day, the official opening of the school, which will begin at 9:15 a. m. Mr. Johnson, of Norwich, is to be the speaker. Cards to all the scholars of the school will be mailed out this week.

Other matters discussed were the forming of a teacher training class to be held one night a month. At one time there was such a class connected with the church school and many thought it profitable. There were about 50 present at the conference.

The members of the O. J. S. met Wednesday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church.

The members of Castle Perilous, K. O. K. A., met Wednesday evening, holding their conclave in the lecture room of the Taftville Congregational church. It was announced at the meeting that a delegation from the castle would attend the Knights' service at the Baptist church in Westerly, R. I., on Oct. 11, at the invitation of Edward G. Dennison, baron of Castle Watch Hill. At this service there is to be a special sermon by the pastor, and the Woman's Relief corps of Westerly are to present a banner to Castle Watch Hill with appropriate ceremonies.

Miss Sophie Bilda has resigned her position with the Ponemah company.

Miss Mabel Mather, of North A street, has been visiting in Brockton

MAKES FRAUD CLAIM IN EXCHANGE OF REAL ESTATE IN NORWICH

A number of suits which are returnable before the superior court for this county on the first Tuesday in October were filed Wednesday at the office of the clerk, George E. Parsons, in this city.

Makes Claim of Fraud

Damages of $10,000 and reconveyance of real estate in Norwich which had been exchanged between them is sought in a suit brought by Barnet and Yetta Cohn against Meyer and Esther Bruckner, all of Norwich. It is alleged that in September 1924, Barnet Cohn and Meyer Bruckner jointly owned the property, No. 25-27 Main street, which had $13,000 in mortgages on it, and at the same time the Bruckner's owned No. 63 Washington street. Un the oral representation of Meyer Bruckner, it is claimed, that the Washington street property was in good habitable and tenantable condition, the plaintiff, Barnet Cohn, made a trade for this Washington street property, giving his interest in the Main street property and $2,500 cash for it. Subsequently the Cohns found out, it is alleged, that a great amount of water flowed into and remained in the cellar of the Washington street house, making the property unhabitable and of no value to the plaintiffs. It is alleged that there was fraud on the part of Bruckner in stating that the property was habitable. Mr. Cohn having made the trade without inspecting the premises but relying upon the statement of Mr. Bruckner.

Demand for the return of the $2,500 cash and reconveyance of Cohn's interest in the Main street property has been refused, Cohn offering at the same time to re-convey the Washington street property with an accounting for rents collected and for expenditures.

Judgment is asked for an order of reconveyance, for an injunction to restrain the Bruckners from disposing of the Main street property, for an accounting for income derived from it, and to have the deed from Barnet Cohn to Esther Bruckner declared void.

Automobile Passenger Sues

Julia A. Robinson of Stonington, a passenger on the afternoon of Oct. 19, 1924, in an automobile owned and operated by Salvatore BiFrancesco, sues Rose Gellombardo and Joseph Mitell, alias Joseph Mitchell, both of New London, for $5,000 damages for injuries in an automobile accident. It is alleged that Mitell was driving the Gellombardo machine which ran into the BiFrancesco car in Pawcatuck near the Shaw greenhouses. It is alleged that Mitell was driving on the wrong side of the highway as the cars approached each other, that he was making high speed in recklessly attempting to pass cars ahead and that he failed to give one half the traveled way to the machine in which the plaintiff was riding. The plaintiff suffered injuries to her nose, ribs, knee and leg and was confined to the house for a long time by her injuries.

RESERVOIRS DROP IN MONTH OF SEPTEMBER

September rains have not been enough to keep the two Norwich reservoirs up to the level at which they started the month. There were five rains during the month, which gave a total rainfall of 2.41 inches, according to the measurements kept at the water department office.

At the beginning of the month, Stony Brook reservoir was down 3 feet, 1 inch from full pond and Fairview down 5 feet, 7 inches from full pond. The reservoir measurements taken Tuesday showed Stony Brook down 14 feet, 3 inches, and Fairview down 6 feet, 11 1-2 inches.

A. local committee met with the Pioneers Wednesday evening. The members of this committee are W. E. Adams, Arthur Gregory and A. W. Canney.

Resuming Union Street Work.

Work on Union street, which has been delayed owing to a breakdown in the electric motor at the stone crusher on Roath street, was renewed Wednesday after the crusher had been gotten into operation again. Considerable stone was laid in the street and this will be continued today (Thursday) and the improvement of the street pushed to completion.

POLICEMAN STOPS CAR— FINDS DRIVER WITH GUN

At the city court session Wednesday morning a case of violation of the automobile laws against Mrs. Margaret M. B. Cole of No. 318 Main street, was continued until Saturday morning, on recommendation of City Attorney Leroy Robbins. Mrs. Cole is a school teacher and the case was continued until Saturday morning when she will be able to be in court.

Tuesday night Mrs. Cole was driving her automobile through Greeneville towards the city and was stopped by Officer Clifford Crary as the machine was displaying no lights. The officer saw the machine without lights and stepping into the road signalled with his flashlight for the driver to stop. The machine came to a sudden stop alongside the officer and when he looked into the car he saw that Mrs. Cole had a revolver in her lap. She has both local and state permits to carry a gun.

Officer Crary made a report of the affair and Captain Thomas P. Murphy summoned Mrs. Cole to the city court Wednesday morning. The charge against her is operating a machine without lights.

Mrs. Cole, who had driven to Greeneville to take gasoline to a stalled automobile there, stated Wednesday night that she was returning towards the city after delivering the gasoline and in turning a corner into Central avenue her motor stalled. She followed her usual custom of turning her lights out as she started her motor again, and drove along without noticing that she had not turned the lights on. As she came to a point in Central avenue where trees make a heavy shade, she saw a man with a flashlight approaching towards her machine. She could not distinguish his clothing, she said, she had no idea he was a policeman and she felt doubt about stopping. She said she did not know the man in the street was a policeman until he came so close to her machine that she could see his cap. She turned on her lights when the officer called her attention to them, and after giving him her name and address drove home.

EXPRESS KILLS MYSTIC MAN AT NOANK STATION

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30.—H. J. Marikle, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Marikle, Mystic contracting trucker, was instantly killed at Noank this afternoon when the truck, one of the Arrow line motor vehicles that Marikle was operating, was struck by the Shore Line express that left New London for Boston at 4:09 o'clock. The truck was demolished. Two other men on the truck saved themselves by jumping.

Marikle was getting a load of fish at Noank, to be conveyed to New York. As he backed his truck across the rails of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, just west of the Noank station, Marikle did not see the express approaching. Before the truck had cleared the rails it was struck by the pilot of the locomotive and truck and driver were hurled a considerable distance. Marikle was dead when the train crew reached him.

SLAME DIEHL FOR NOT SENDING RADIO TO BASE

"Diehl hasn't a leg to stand on," is the opinion of officers at the submarine base at Groton regarding the conduct of Capt. John H. Diehl of the City of Rome, following the collision of the Savannah line steamer with the submarine S-51. The manner in which Capt. Diehl broadcast radio information of the disaster was the subject of strong criticism by officers of the base.

According to them, Capt. Diehl failed to broadcast any information of the collision and sinking before two hours and thirty-nine minutes had elapsed from the time of the crash which occurred Friday night at 10:24 o'clock. Lieutenant Jeffaff, who was duty officer at the base the night of the accident gives the following account of the strange roundabout way in which news reached him at the base executive office Saturday morning at 2:30 o'clock, four hours and six minutes after the sinking:

"Captain Diehl was never at any time following the collision in communication with the submarine base nor was the base successful in communicating with him aboard the City of Rome after news of the sinking reached me. Dewey Kile, when taken aboard the City of Rome after his rescue was told by the first mate of that ship that he had been in the water for an hour and a quarter. Kile says that the City of Rome got under way 45 minutes after he was taken aboard. The submarine was struck at 10:24 o'clock Friday night. This indicates that the City of Rome sailed from the scene at 12:24 o'clock, or just two hours after the sinking.

"Radio operators are on duty at the base 24 hours a day. But the City of Rome broadcast no SOS call nor gave any other radio distress signal on a long wave length as is customarily done in such circumstances.

"The first message was received at the New York office of the Radio Corporation of America at 1:03 o'clock Saturday morning. This message containing a brief statement of the collision and sinking and signed "Diehl" was telegraphed by the Radio Corporation through a Western Union office in New York to the Western Union office in New London. The message was then relayed from New London office to the submarine base and given to me at 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

"I was at first puzzled to account for the name 'Diehl' affixed as a signature to the message, but I concluded that it was the name of the captain of the City of Rome. Immediate orders were given by me to the base radio operator to get into communication with the City of Rome. Although our operator tried ceaselessly to communicate with that ship he received no response. A wave length calculated to reach the City of Rome was used, but without success. It was not until between 5 and 6 o'clock Saturday morning that any naval station heard from the City of Rome and that was when the vessel began radio conversations with the commandant of the first naval district in Boston through the wireless station at Chatham, Mass."

Lieutenant Jeffs said that a radio SOS from the City of Rome sent at the time of the accident on a 600 metre wave length would have reached the submarine base receiving station immediately. No one at the base could account for Captain Diehl's action in communicating exclusively by a special wave length with the New York office of the Radio Corporation of America. It is thought, however, that this was done because the Savannah line may employ radio operators from the corporation and carry on all of its wire'ess communications through some contract or agreement with that corporation. This is said to be a practice with shipping companies. But the fact that the City of Rome resorted to this procedure at so critical a time is severely criticized by naval officers at the submarine b.

DECLARES RADIO MAN DID SUPERHUMAN WORK

James S. Herran of Great Bend, Kan., radio man, second class, at Groton submarine base, was called on Wednesday the "most outstanding man in entire station" for his work in handling messages concerning the sinking of the submarine S-51. Lieut. Comdr. H. A. Flanigan, executive officer at the base, said he would recommend to the navy department that he be permitted to skip a grade in rating and be made a chief petty officer as soon as possible.

Herran went on duty at 8 o'clock last Friday morning. At 1:30, after working a long trick, he was just ready to go to bed. The first message concerning the S-51 came over the Western Union wire in the station's radio office. Herran notified Washington and stayed on the job until 8 o'clock Sunday morning, a trick of 47 hours, during which he handled messages continuously without delay and without garbling a line. His naps since then have been only for three or four hours out of each 24 hours.

Herran enlisted in Kansas City in November 1923. He likes radio and said that he was so interested in the job that he hadn't time to get tired. He is the only man on the station who can operate a radio and a land wire too.

"His effort was superhuman," said Lieut. Comdr. Flanigan.

Brown. The plaintiff seeks to foreclose on a mortgage for $11,224.50. The following concerns are named party defendants in the action, holding mechanic liens on the Liebmann property: Meech & Stoddard, Inc., with $13,857.90; Broadway Bank and Trust Co., with $15,000; P. Cutler, Inc., with $2,600; and J. J. Shea with $2,640. The property is appraised at $42,500.

The property was originally built at a cost approximating $90,000 for a summer hotel, but the business failed.

Fined in City Court

The arrest was made by Officer Michael Pounch.

Connecticut College

Stern, solemn, silent the sophomore class sat watching the prison-like lock step of the long, straight line of freshmen as they filed sombrely with staid steps into the gymnasium on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Each freshman was made to march up the steps of the platform as her name was called and repeat her full name backward. Ludicrous combinations resulted such as Cook Louise Catherine, Green Emma Amelia. The first group was made to walk up, the next to skip, the third to hop, and the fourth to skip, throwing flowers as they went. The fifth group was told to represent Pan, playing his flute as he skipped through the forest; the sixth took three running steps and a kick, alternating until they reached the platform. The seventh group waltzed gracefully to the place of inquisition. Skating was the next and last means of locomotion.

We, sophomores, the dignified and all-seeing class of 1928, do hereby set forth the following precepts. We demand that they be carried out cheerfully, submissively and to the letter of the law.

1. Thursday, Oct. first, appear wearing mittens, signs of "Darwin Was Right," which were tonight given out, and kid curlers on your hair.

2. Upon meeting a sophomore or upper classman you shall raise your right mittened hand in salute.

3. You shall be ready at any time to tell a joke to any sophomore who may request it. Should said sophomore have heard said joke, said freshman shall be ready to tell a bigger and better one.

4. To compensate the sophumores for the expense they have undertaken to give you these pleasures, you shall deposit 25 cents in the box on the gymnasium steps at some time between 9 and 4 o'clock tomorrow, Thursday, Oct. first.

5. Friday, Oct. second, you shall appear wearing one black and one white stocking and sneakers, a dunce cap made from a newspaper; the mittens.

6. You shall rouge your noses and powder your faces.

7. Upon approaching a sophomore or an upper classman you shall curtsy deeply and lowly.

8. You shall be ready to cuckoo the hour for any sophomore who may request it. Upon the stroke of twelve (noon) every freshman shall cuckoo the hour wherever she may be.

9 Any freshman daring to disregard or disobey any phase of these directions shall have her name entered on the cradle roll and shall suffer the penalty for her offense on Friday evening.

The various houses of the college are requested to have the following "stunts" ready for Friday evening when their initiation will be continued:

Bannon, Mystery play; Blackstone, Pantomime; Branford, Hawaiian operetta; Chandler, vaudeville; North, a Tragedy; Plant, Evolution dances; Thatcher, Hiawatha; Thames and Winthrop, play entitled, "Why a Girl Leaves Home in Three Parts."

Between eight and ten minutes will be required for each stunt.

DR. CASSIDY'S MONUMENT IN CELTIC CROSS DESIGN

A Celtic cross monument erected recently on the family plot of the late Dr. Patrick Cassidy in St. Mary's cemetery, Norwich, affords an interesting study in the use of this design.

This monument stands about fourteen feet above the ground and is about five feet wide at the arms of the cross. It consists of a lower base, which serves as a platform upon which the monument stands and which is made of granite quarried at Deer island, Maine, an upper base or die, and the cross proper, the two latter pieces being made of Westerly, R. I., blue granite.

The cross itself is copied in outline form from a cross at Clonmacnoise, Kings county, Ireland, which was erected in the tenth century. The central part of the cross is surrounded by a nimbus, or wheel, significant of the crown of thorns. Surrounding the large raised boss in the center of the cross are four smaller bosses, or circular raised panels, which together are symbolical of the five wounds of Christ.

The original of this cross was decorated with crudely sculptured figures which are hardly adapted to modern use. It was deemed advisable, therefore, to substitute for these figures some of the richly carved interlaced panels which featured other crosses of this period. The lower large panel on the front is taken from a decoration in the Book of Kells, a code of ecclesiastical law of mediaeval Ireland. The other panels on the front and back of the cross are taken from the crosses of Killamery, Kilklispen and Moone Abbey, County Kildare. An interesting feature of each of the panels is that the idea of eternity is symbolized by a single continuous ribbon in each case which is carefully followed to its original starting point. This feature was the principal point of difference between the crosses erected in Ireland in that period and those found in Scotland and England.

The family name, which appears in a raised panel on the front of the upper base, is cut in raised letters, the design being taken from the inscription on the tomb of Queen Eleanor in Westminister Abbey.

The entire memorial was designed by a firm in Waterbury, and was cut and carved at their works in that city. Mr. Jackson, the designer, devoted much time and study to the history and meaning of the various symbols on the cross. The monument is massive and imposing.

I Trust Men

On face creams

Notice my results

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For 40 years I have consulted experts on the utmost in face creams. They have all been men, and mostly Frenchmen.

As a result, at a grandmother's age, I still have a baby skin. Many a young girl envies my complexion, soft and smooth and rosy.

I searched the world to find these helps, and spent a fortune. Most women cannot do that. So I am placing at every woman's call the best helps I have found. In my busy stage life I am urging you to try them.

One is Youth Cream. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also the best that science knows to foster, feed and protect the skin. My own skin, envied by millions, shows how much it does.

My Youth Cream comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. Both have the same essential ingredients. I apply the cold cream at night to foster my skin while I sleep. In the morning I use the vanishing type as a powder base, and as all-day skin protection.

Now I am old, yet no debutante could want a finer complexion. That is largely due to my Youth Cream.

I wish I could induce every girl and woman to do what I have done. Do the utmost when you use a cream. I will gladly send a sample free to anyone. Learn what it means to you. Clip the coupon now.

CAILLAUX TO SUBMIT TO FRENCH GOV'T AMERICAN TERMS FOR DEBT SETTLEMENT

French Finance Minister Refrained From Signing an Iron-Bound Agreement Because He Questioned His Own Authority to Do So—Under Proposed Arrangement France Would Pay $40,000,000 a Year For the Next Five Years and Would Resume Negotiations For Full Settlement During That Time When Conditions Warranted—Caillaux Gave the American Commissioners the Hope That the French Government Would Accept the American Offer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP) — The frail formula of a tentative arrangement which must be ratified by the French government, today was thrust into the breach to prevent complete collapse of the Franco-American debt funding negotiatinos.

Thus, one week after Finance Minister Caillaux and his associates had laid down the first French proposal for funding their government's four billion dollar war debt, they departed for Paris, taking with them a document intended only to fill the gap sufficiently to assure continuity of can debt funding negotiations.

The arrangement, proposed by the American debt commission as a final move to overcome what appeared to be insurmountable difficulties, would have Franch pay an annuity of $40,-300,000 a year for five years and would enable the two governments to continue consideration of a program of final settlement to succeed the proposed temporary pact at its expiration. Further, it concedes that the annuity thus paid shall be in lieu of all interest on the debt during the time it shall run—or an interest charge of one per cent a year.

M. Caillaux gave American commissioners the hope that he believed the French government would accept the agreement. He declined to sign it as a plenipotentiary inasmuch as he had been intrusted by his government, he said, to sign only a final settlement and he questioned his own right to act on an arrangement of a provi-

"Consequently, being as desirous as you are not to interrupt the negotiations, which cannot fail to reach an agreement," M. Caillaux's last statement to the Americans said: "The minister of finance can do no more than submit to his colleagues of the French cabinet in Paris the propositions which you have made today, and he will do his utmost to give an answer as soon as possible."

It was after making that statement that M. Caillaux and his associates marched in single file from the meeting and the end of the conversations between the two commissions had come. M. Caillaux was unhappy that a permanent arrangement was not reached. Secretary Mellon, too, was disappointed, but he, nevertheless, regarded the results as a step forward and he felt that a better understanding between the two nations had been developed.

But observers, and even members of the American commission, held varied opinions as to the tangible results of the seven-day conference. Disappointment and dissatisfaction predominated in some quarters that the Americans had been unable to do more; in others the prevailing sentiment was that France can do better in the way of terms five years hence then her representatives felt able to do at this time. Among all of those directly concerned with the negotiations, however, there was a noticeable sense of relief at their conclusion.

While members of both commissions had views as to the causes for the stop-gap arrangement finally resulting from the conferences, it was agreed generally that Secretary Mellon had stated the problem succinctly in the last memorandum read to the French.

"We believe it fully recognized," he said, "that the only basis for negotiations fair to both peoples is the principle of the capacity of France to pay.

"The nub of the difficulty of the two commissions arises from a difference in judgment as to the future capacity of France to pay without . . . determining her economic and social fabric and this difficulty arrows itself to the future rather than the present, for we are prepared to accept the French commission's views as to the immediate difficulties of France."

The last day of the conversations brought vigorous, although vain efforts, evident even to casual observers, on the part of the two commissions to get together.

Chairman Mellon and four of the American commissioners sought the advice of the president early in the day and then told the French they could not accept the offer made yesterday providing a series of lump sum payments spread over sixty-eight years and returning a total of $6,220,-000,000 to the American treasury.

There was a talk of only ten minutes between the two commissions and then they separated to consider what the next move would be. It came in the form of the tentative arrangement which M. Caillaux is taking back to Paris.

M. Caillaux said he was unable personally to predict what view his government would take of the arrangement, and that he was unacquainted for the moment with French opinion further than indications in press dispatches that general councils throughout France were protesting to the government against the proposals the commission had made. The minister added that if his government approved the arrangement "we shall certainly lay it before the chamber of deputies."

"You understand," he said, with unusual seriousness, "that if the chamber does not approve it, the government will resign, so you see it is a serious matter with us.

"The proposal would go before the chamber first because it is a financial measure. Then if the chamber approved, to the senate, as we say on such occasions, the government always engages its responsibility. If the vote is not favorable the government must resign."

The annual payments of twenty million dollars which the French have been making as interest on war supplies sold them, will continue while the five year payment arrangement is under consideration in Paris. That debt does not mature until 1929, so provisions of that agreement will continue until superceded by a permanent funding arrangement.

As the intricacies of the negotiations unfolded tonight after the smoke of the battle had cleared, it became increasingly plain that some members of the American commission had balked flatly on the French demand for a safeguarding clause to permit France to reopen negotiations whenever their country's finances were thought to be in such condition as to preclude further immediate payments. That section of the commission has stood out from the start against it and when it appeared as the fund offer yesterday, it drew emphatic declarations from its opponents who said it never could be defended in congress. It is understanding that oppositions, spokesmen asserted the safeguarding clause might have been circumvented with some provision for delay in payments under stated circumstances had the other phases of the offer approached any where near the point of acceptability.

The clause was understood not to have been pleasing to he president. Liewkise, publication in some newspapers giving a French spokesman as authority that a settlement had been agreed upon obviously irked Americans who, after the white house conference, took occasion to make formal and emphatic denial. This and other developments threw the French into somewhat of an uneasy state of mind and obviously did not improve conditions under which the two later sessions were held.

It became evident for the first time with publication of the statements, formally exchanged in the conferences that the French mission had sought to develop a settlement here along the lines of the Anglo-French tentative settlement which M. Caillaux negotiated in London recently. The first French offer, laid down a week ago today, appeared to Secretary Mellon as an attempt to apply those terms which he described as "infeasible to France" in their application to the debt owed the United States.

Mr. Mellon's statement showed how the Anglo-French arrangement had divided the debt to Great Britain and sought to show in his detailed study of the French offer here that segregation of the amounts due the United States as had been done in London would result in France binding herself to pay $161,000,000 annually in the first twenty years, and $61,000,-000 a year in the next forty years.

The secretary arrived at these calculations by dividing the advances made to France on the basis of purposes for which they were made, exactly, he said, as the British advances to France were separated in the London arrangement. He added that his figures did not contemplate any adjustment for the gold security involved in the British negotiations.

The exchanges disclosed that the final offer for a settlement of a permanent character made by the Americans contemplated payment by the French of a total of $4,025,000,000 plus interest over a period of sixty two years. It would have started with a payment of $20,000,000 in account of the principal, or approximately one half of one per cent. of the amount then due. Arrangements for a graduated schedule of payments, increasing over the entire life of the agreement, were calculated and the interest would have started at one-half of one per cent. in the first year and would have increased at a rate of one quarter of one per cent. in each of the succeeding years until it reached three and one-half per cent in the thirteenth, there to remain through the balance of the period.

The exchanges did not disclose what the French objection may have been. Mr. Mellon's memorandum to the French on the subject declared that it had been the desire of the American commission to so arrange the payments and the interest charge "as to meet the economic and financial necessities of France." He called attention that the French debt with accured interest to June 15, last, was $24,227,000,000, so that in working out the settlement formula he had suggested, a concession by the Americans of more than two hundred million dollars was represented.

Heinen Reveals the Names of Informants

LAKEHURST, N. J.—Oct. 1—(AP)—Captain Anton Heinen former German Zeppelin pilot, gave to the naval court of inquiry here today names of the men upon whose statements he said he had based his charges that those at the Lakehurst, air station knew why the Shenandoah collapsed and that the change in the gas valve system in the airship had been fought all along.

They were Benjamin C. Hereth, a machinist's mate and James Worth chief draftsman at the air station. Hereth later denied on the stand that he had given Captain Heinen any reasons why the collapse occurred. Worth will be called later for questioning as to whether he did say that those at the air station had fought the reduction in the number of the automatic gas valves on the ship.

With respect to his statement that the crew of the ship were apprehensive about the mid-western flight because of her condition, Captain Heinen conceded that it was based upon an account given to him by his secretary of a conversation the latter had had with a man named Buckley, a former member of the Shenandoah personnel.

Before the court insisted on a disclosure of the names of the men referred to in his testimony yesterday, Captain Heinen had stoutly maintained through all the fire of cross-examination that those in charge of the Shenandoah should have been warned by danger signals present in the air in ample time to have saved the ship.

Frankly conceding that while piloting German dirigibles he had got into ascending air currents through errors of judgment, the witness maintained that in the case of the Shenandoah there should have been no such error since te signs were plainly present to be read.

Asked if there were any pilots in this country who could have got the Shenandoah out of the storm, Captain Heinen said there were many, including Commander Zachary Landsdowne himself.

When his examination finally had been concluded, Captain Heinen, speaking slowly, and with appearance of some emotion, made this statement to the court.

"I thank the court for their courtesy in allowing me to go at the length that I thought it my duty and the most difficult duty of my life to day and I am thankful that the spirit was accepted everywhere, especially in that quarter where I had to hit, and I want to make each man feel that here nothing personal ever entered my mind but that I felt called upon to say about the airship what was innermost in my heart, and I don't want any ill-feeling to appear in anybody.

"I might make another statement that might be of some interest—I had occasion since 1912, to train airship men in all courses of life in Germany, especially in civilian life, the army and the navy and I want to state here that I never found and had a more highly qualified lot of people, that took the interest in this development as here in the American navy."

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT AT OLD SAYBROOK YESTERDAY

OLD SAYBROOK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Camello Bedini, automobile driver, was fatally injured when his machine plunged through a guard rail between Fairview hotel and Saybrook bridge on the Ferry road this afternoon. A passenger in the car was cut and bruised and two others were shaken up. Bedini died a half hour after the crash. He was 32 years old and lived in Ivoryton.

Bedini had as a passenger in the car Mrs. Edith Snyder, of the Fairview hotel, Old Saybrook, who was sitting in the front seat of the automobile. Mr. and Mrs. George Collins, also of the Fairview hotel were in the rear seat.

Bedini and Mrs. Snyder were on their way to New London and the driver stopped at the hotel to buy cigars. While there he heard Mr. and Mrs. Collins say that they intended to go to New London by bus and invited them to ride in his machine.

On the Ferry road, a short distance from the hotel, Bedini's hat blew off and when he attempted to grab it, he lost control of the machine. It left the road and crashed into the guard rail. The top rail pierced the radiator and the dashboard and struck Bedini in the chest. The second rail also entered the car nearly striking Mrs. Snyder and pushing out the back of the front seat. Mrs. Snyder was cut and bruised. Mr. and Mrs. Collins were shaken up. Coroner L. A. Smith of this city will conduct an inquest within a few days.

PROCTER $50,000 SUIT IN HANDS OF THE JURY

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—The federal jury hearing the $50,000 suit of Colonel William Procter, Cincinnati soap manufacturer, against Colonel A. A. Sprague, Chicago commissioner of public works tonight was ordered to return a sealed verdict tomorrow morning if an agreement is reached. They received the case about 8:30 p. m.

Colonel Sprague is being sued for half of a $100,000 note which he and Colonel Procter signed in obtaining funds to conduct the presidential campaign of General Leonard Wood in 1920. Colonel Prague, who was treasurer of the Wood national committee maintains that Colonel Procter, as chairman of the committee, assumed full responsibility for the note and that he merely affixed his name as an official of the bank which loaned the money and not as a co-guarantor.

Seven Naval Officers Criticize Air Service

Charge That the Present Administrative System is Responsible for Unrest and Discouragement Among the Air Personnel.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(A. P.)—Organization of the navy air service was sharply criticized by seven of its own officers in testimony today before the president's air board.

Solidly lining up in favor of a separate air corps in the navy, each witness charged the present administrative system was responsible for unrest and discouragement now manifest among the air personnel.

Questioning of the air pilots will be continued tomorrow, when Commander John Rodgers, who was in charge of the Hawaiian flight plane PN-9 No 1, will be the first to be heard.

The board expects to adjourn at noon until Monday.

The testimony of the navy pilots was in accord with that previously given by army air officers, all of whom, except Colonel William Mitchell, recommended a separate air corps for the army. The colonel, who concluded his testimony yesterday, favored establishment of a department of national defense.

Each navy officer today was questioned whether he knew of any hesitancy among naval officers to freely express personal opinions before investigations bodies, and on this point the witnesses were in disagreement. Four said they were aware of such feeling among some officers, while the other three testified they had not observed it.

The board also asked each officer for constructive suggestions as to reorganization of the air service, and among the recommendations was one by Captain George C. Westervelt, manager of the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia, which would create a separate air corps within the navy subordinate to the secretary of the navy and the bureau of navigations. The corps would be complete within itself as to ordnance, quartermaster and other similar departments. It would function, not independently, but as a part of the fleet.

Dwight W. Morrow, chairman of the board, was impressed with the proposal and requested a copy of it to send to the department for analysis.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)— Jewelry valued at $750,000 by Mrs. James P. Donohue, daughter of the late Frank W. Woolworth, was stolen from her apartment at the Plaza hotel last night. The robbery was consummated during a few minutes that Mrs. Donohue was absent from her bedroom, but still in the apartment.

The loss was discovered at once and was reported to the hotel management but no clue was found on first examination and the police department was called in today.

Among the articles listed was "spea" necklace valued at between $450,000 and $500,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Donohue returned recently from Europe and went to the hotel while their city home was being renovated.

Last evening, Mr. Donohue said today, she left the jewels in a dresser drawer while she stepped from the bedroom into an adjoining room for not more than ten minutes. On her return she missed the valuables and called in the hotel detective.

The entire loss is said to have been covered by insurance.

SHIPPING BOARD HAS CONTROL OF FLEET CORP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—The shipping board resumed full and exclusive control over the fleet corporation today after a period of two years during which, at the request of President Coolidge, it had delegated broad administrative powers to the operating agency. It refrained, however, from asking for the resignation of President Palmer of the corporation, and some of the commissioners opposed to his administration indicated that no step in this direction would be taken for some time, at least.

The move was denied as having any connection with the appointment by the president yesterday of H. G. Dalton of Cleveland, to inquire into the entire shipping controversy and report to him, but word of the action was received with evident surprise at the white house and in fleet corporation circles. No comment was made, however, on behalf of Mr. Coolidge, and Mr. Palmer said he had not been officially notified by the board and would not comment at this time.

Mr. Palmer was shorn of his broad powers by a vote of 4 to 0. Chairman O'Connor being present but refraining from voting, while the four, all whom have expressed dissatisfaction with Mr. Palmer's administration, were Commissioners Benson, Haney, Plummer and Thompson.

TEXAS RUM RUNNERS ARE BLAMED FOR CATTLE EMBARGO

BOSTON, Oct. 1—Texas rum runners were blamed by Dr. Lester H. Howard, state director of animal industry, for the situation in that state which resulted in an order from his office today forbidding the importation of cattle from Texas. The ban was imposed to prevent the spread of the foot and mouth disease to Massachusetts.

In April last, Dr. Howard said, there was a noutbreak of the disease in a section of Texas frequented by men running rum from South America, where the disease is common. The health authorities apparently stamped it out but there was a recurrence later in the same region, resulting in a federal quarantine. It is believed the Texas cattle contracted the disease by eating hay and straw in which liquor from South America was packed.

DIVERS FIND ENGINE ROOM OF S-51 FLOODED WITH WATER

Discovery Greatly Lessens Possibility of Anyone Being Alive on the Sunken Sub—A Diver is to Be Sent Through the Engine Room This Morning to Investigate the Motor Room—Ships With Derrick Failed to Budge the Sunken Sub—Graphic Picture of the Disaster Was Given in Testimony of Two of the Three Survivors Before the Board of Inspectors of the U. S. Steamboat Service in Boston.

ON BOARD U. S. S. CAMDEN, OFF BLOCK ISLAND, Oct. 1—(By Wireless to the Associated Press)—Hope that any members of the crew of the S-51 might be found alive in the engine compartment of the submarine disappeared tonight when an "exploring hole," the diameter of a pencil was bored through the hatch and revealed that the compartment was flooded with water. The motor compartment will be explored tomorrow for any indication that members of the crew may have taken refuge there.

Discovery that the engine compartment was flooded was made by Harry Reinhartfen, a diver, who cut the hole in the hatch. He reported that only a few bubbles of air were emitted and that further investigation showed the section of the ship filled with water.

It took seven minutes to cut the hole with the aid of an oxy-acetylene torch. Reinhartfen went down to the submarine after Diver R. A. Grove and connected the cutting equipment.

The condition of the motor compartment, adjoining the engine room is still uncertain and divers will repeat tonight's process of drilling an exploring hole there tomorrow if weather conditions permit.

The divers did not determine whether any bodies were in the engine room.

Naval officers had clung stubbornly to the hope that some of the crew of the vessel that was sunk last Friday night might have found refuge and still be alive in the engine room. Tonight's discovery showed that they had been unable to slam shut the water tight door between that compartment and the control room when they felt the S-51 crash with the steamer City of Rome.

If the divers in their investigation tomorrow find that the motor room also is filled with water the last glimmer of hope for the lives of any of the men will be gone.

Thirty one men remain to be accounted for. Three of the crew of 36 were picked up by life boats at the time of the disaster and divers have taken two bodies out of the wreckage. Seven are believed to have been washed overboard, but airplanes and destroyers have been unable to find any trace of them on the surface of the water.

The two bodies recovered were in the battery room, and were found when divers entered the hole made in the submarine's side by the steamer.

DETAILS OF S-51 DISASTER GIVEN BY TWO SURVIVORS

BOSTON, Oct. 1—(A. P.)—At least four men, including Lieutenant Rodney H. Dobson, commander of the S-51 were swept to death from the bridge of the submarine when it was sunk in a collision with the steamer City of Rome off Block Island last Friday night. This was brought out in testimony today by two of the three survivors, Alfred Geier, of New Bedford and Michael S. Lira of St. Louis, who were summoned before the local board of inspectors of the United States Steamboat Inspection service in the course of an examination to determine responsibility for the disaster.

Neither man noticed or saw the submarine's running lights in that brief minute they remained on the bridge before she sank. They testified that as far as they knew, both the steerlaz gear and the lights of the submarine were in good order on the night of the collision. Lira criticized the failure of the City of Rome to throw a line to the submarine in answer to the plea of the commander. Other than this, both declared they had no criticism to make of unseamanlike conduct on the part of the officers and crew of the other craft.

That the submarine probably was running on the surface prior to the collision was brought out in the examination. Neither man was able, however, to give any information concerning the events immediately preceding the disaster since both were asleep in the battery room below when awakened by the crash of the vessels coming together.

A graphic picture of the disaster was given in the testimony of the pair. Geier was awakened by a "crash." Lira thought it was there had been a battery explosion as he awakened and leaped from his bunk, located in the same compartment as those of some of other sleeping men and officers.

Geier saw the chief signal man aiding another man up the stairs to the conning tower hatch, the only one believed open. Lira saw Lieut. Dobson pause in the central operating room, heard him call the men to quarters and then saw him climb to the deck. Both men climbed through the conning tower hatch to the bridge. Geier thought the deck to be level, and apparently the ship riding normally, but Lira said the bow was down ten degrees. Both said that the port side of the submarine was "very close" to the starboard side of the steamer and Geier thought they were rubbing.

Lieutenant Dobson pleaded for a line from the City of Rome, Lira said, declaring that the commander's last words before the submarine slipped beneath the water were: "Please give me a line."

Both were caught in clearing lines or antenna and went down but struggled loose and came to the surface.

"I got to the surface and looked around," Geier said. "I counted six heads. The stern of the City of Rome was going away. After a few minutes I looked for the other boys and I only saw four of them."

His testimony was taken to indicate that of the seven in the water including himself, only three were saved by the boat lowered by the City of Rome.

Lira was the first picked up Geier said that a light ring buoy was thrown him and he was picked up, and that at that time the steamer had headed about and was approaching him.

Testifying as to the trips of the submarine, they said that the vessel was supposed to be on an engine test from six o'clock in the evening until the following morning and therefore would have run on the surface of the water all night. Neither looked for, or noticed the running lights before the boat sank. Geier testified that one white light would be visible to other vessels at all times but that the side lights would only be seen from certain angles.

He believed the batteries to be in good condition and had never known of the running lights being out of order. Lira said that he had known steering gear to go out of order several times, when it was necessary to steer the vessel by hand from the motor room instead of by power from the bridge. Neither knew of any trouble with the steering geer on the night of the 25th.

The inspectors, Captain Herman T Parker and John Stewart, were surprised when Geier told them that he had told his story of occurrences from the time of the collision until he was picked up, to a man representing himself as Captain Parker. The man had appeared at the Chelsea Naval hospital where the men are undergoing minor treatment. Geier and Lira thought that he represented the steamboat inspection office or the shipping board.

The hearing today was open as a result of an order from Washington. The investigation was begun last Sunday with the taking of statements from officers and members of the crew of the City of Rome. Further hearings, it was said, will be held when the steamer returns from Savannah.

DERRICKS WERE UNABLE TO BUDGE THE SUB. S-51

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, New London, Conn., Oct. 1. (By the Associated Press.)—The submarine S-51 refused today to budge from her bed of sand at the ocean's bottom. She withstood the efforts of two monster floating derricks that strained at their cables in a desperate effot to bring her to the surface to determine if the spark of life by any chance remained in the bodies of any of the 31 remaining men who went down with her when she was rammed by the steamer City of Rome last Friday night.

Although no hope had been entertained by officers on the scene since yesterday that life might exist in the sub-51, the rescue attempts were continued today, because Secretary of the Navy Wilbur insisted that the work go on until the fate of the men was definitely established. The secretary's insistence recalled the finding of the crew of the seaplane PN-9, in the Pacific after they virtually had been given up as lost.

Word that the Monarch and Century had failed to budge the S-51 was received at the Submarine base in a wireless message from Admiral Christy reading:

"Extreme combined capacity lift of Monarch and Century applied to stern. Sufficient air supply at same to compartments and tanks with air hatches and main induction secured. Attempt failed to start S-51."

Wreckers have estimated that if the vessel is turned over to them by the navy department that about 30 working days will be required to salvage her. It was pointed out, however that this did not mean that she could be brought to the surface in that length of time. There would be some delay in getting the necessary apparatus to the scene and there might be some days on which weather conditions would make operations impossible.

Once raised the S-51 probably would be towed to the Boston navy yard before her hatches would be opened and bodies removed. From Boston, officers said, she would be taken to the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard for repairs, this yard being especially fitted for work on submarines.

To put the S-51 in condition would cost, it was estimated, from $600,000 to $1,000,000. She originally cost to build about two and one-half millions. In addition to repairs to the hull, new batteries and electric lines would be required and it was said all of her motors probably would be found to be grounded.

CONFERRED WITH CAPTAIN OF THE CITY OF ROME

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 1—(AP)—When the City of Rome, which collided with the submarine S-51 arrived here late today, it was met by attorneys of the Ocean Steamship company, who immediately went into conference with Captain Diehl.

Captain Diehl said he had nothing to add to the statement relative to the collision other than what he has said in Boston.

The master of the ship and the attorneys took into the captain's room the log of the vessel and a mass of papers.

WILLIMANTIC

The selectmen have completed their annual report of the town of Windham showing that it cost $86,951.61 to conduct the business of the town during the past year. This amount was $76,853.93 less than the previous year, when several special appropriations were made. There was little change in the regular expenses. The amount shown does not include the amount of borrowed money. A table of the expenses for the years 1921-25 give some idea of the fluctuating annual accounts: 1921, $86,607.76; 1922, $99,953.64; 1923, $146,807.71; 1924, $159,578.94; 1925, $86,951.61.

The budget for the coming year totals $304,200 of which amount $175,000 is sought for school expenses. The borrowed money for the year totalled $118,100. In the budget of highways, an appropriation of $4,000 was asked for to purchase motor equipment. As the year closes, the selectmen find that although the motorizing of the department cost $4,200 and the roads are in excellent condition, there is still a balance shown in that budget. The old wooden bridge over Beaver Brook has been replaced with a steel girder bridge and two of the smaller bridges in the town have been replaced and widened with concrete. This explains the increase in bridge expenses. It is the purpose of the board to annually eliminate one or more wooden bridges, until eventually the entire town will be fitted with dependable and lasting structures.

The almshouse was given a coat of paint and minor repairs, at a cost of $1,535.50, a price considered very reasonable. The report extends the usual commendation of the selectmen to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chamberlain who not only keep the almshouse in excellent condition, but, under the supervision of Superintendent Chamberlain the home is provided with all necessary vegetables raised in the gardens, making the home practically self-supporting from a table board standpoint. $300 worth of wood was taken from the almshouse and delivered to needy families in the town. For the support of state paupers in the past year the sum of $1,277.88 has been collected from the state. This amount deducted from the total expenses of the town for outside poor leaves an actual expense for the year for that purpose $7,134.37. There was an increase in election expenses for the year, due to the special election for United States senator.

In order to care for a $105,000 bond issue which came due the first of April, 1925, it was necessary to obtain a temporary loan for thirty days, to save interest on money in the sinking fund. This accounts for the increase in borrowed money over the previous year. The budget for the year 1925-1926: highways $8,000; almshouse $8,500; outside poor $5,000; schools (asked for by the town school committee) $175,000; expense of town clerk's office $500; salaries and expenses in selectmen's office $2,500; election expense of town clerk's office $500; salaries and expenses in selectmen's office $2,500; election expenses $2,000; assessing and collecting taxes $6,000; cemeteries $6,000; bridges $2,000; town building $5,000; attorney's fees and legal expenses $200; insane and idiotic $7,000; miscellaneous $6,000; registrar of vital statistics $1,000; state and other taxes $15,000; old town hall $500; state roads and town's share of North Windham road $5,000; widow's pension $2,500; schools and school property $500; interest on borrowed money $40,000; Total $304,200.

The local men were interested in the applications of the New Haven railroad and George J. Gary to operate a bus line from Willimantic to Putnam, via Chaplin, Phoenixville and Pomfret. The expected conflict did not materialize, however, when Mr. Gary withdrew his application in favor of the railroad concern.

KEYS IDENTIFIED MAN BURNED IN MANSFIELD BARN

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 1—Definite identification of the man burned in Mansfield City fire early Monday morning was established Thursday, when keys found near the torso of a male being in the ruins of the destroyed barn on the Brownie Siedzieksky home were tried on a suit case owned by Boleslaw Michalak and a room which he occupied at 23 Schell-don street, Hartford and opened the locks.

Michalak, who was also known as Wasyl Michalak and Beel Michael, had occupied a room at the home of Konstant Szmiegielski, known locally as A. K. Smith at 41 Jackson street, this city. One of the keys found near the charred torso fitted the lock of the room. The key was also recognized by members of Smith's family. Michalak was last seen Sunday night at 8.45 o'clock, when he left the Siedziewsky home, presumably to go home, but is believed to have returned and entered the barn to wait till the end of a rainstorm. He is known to have been an inveterate pipe smoker and had often been cautioned about smoking in bed. The conclusion, as previously stated in The Bulletin is that he fell asleep and his lighted pipe ignited the hay. An effort will be made to locate the man's two children, who reside in the Republic of Poland.

Sallis has been intimately acquainted with Mr. Smith for many years and has been associated with him in some most successful evangelistic efforts not only since he has been a pastor but also in former years when he was a church organist. It is expected that Mr. Smith's visit will bring to the community a fresh and vital presentation of the gospel which it will have every reason to remember with deep satisfaction. Further opportunity for prayer and conference were offered this week at the prayer meeting in the church. Thursday evening and will be offered again at the residence of Dr. Hill this (Friday) evening.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

The voters in town are becoming so numerous that another voting district will need to be provided, if all expect to vote in the hours defined by the present law. Nearing 2500 on the list it will be found that some hustling must be done to get them through the single file inlet. Another district in Plainfield village would accommodate many in that section. The women, too would appreciate the extra voting booth in all parts of the town.

Several important matters are to come before the electors Monday next, at town election.

October 7th will see the town hall racked again when the road changes will be discussed.

It is a pity the town cannot take the visitors into a more genteel looking town hall than the one here now presents on the interior. Basket ball is responsible in the past for much of the damage.

Fred Raccicot of Waureagan fell and broke his left arm a few days ago while at work in the mill. The fracture was reduced by Dr. Gardner at his office.

The Congregational church here awaits a settled pastor. For about a year the committee has been seeking without finding one and it is hoped a minister may be obtained this fall. A nice newly fitted parsonage awaits the man.

Half the world is half asleep

Many people are considered lazy when they are really suffering from the world's most universal disease—constipation. It is a disease which robs you of your energy, your interest, your desire to do things. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure and safe relief from this disease.

"Poor Betty! She always looks tired"

BETTY was the office mystery. Once pretty, her beauty now lay masked behind an unwholesome complexion. Once vivacious, she now seemed eternally tired—a drooping figure of disappointment and dismay. Too bad she didn't realize that it was constipation which was stealing her strength.

But many men and women have rid themselves forever of this devastating disease, have regained their charm and renewed their old-time vigor and vim. By the simple means of eating two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—or in chronic cases, with every meal.

As Kellogg's ALL-BRAN journeys through the system its fiber remains unchanged. It is what doctors call a bulk food—a bulk food which sweeps the intestines clean—a bulk food which absorbs and carries moisture through the intestinal tract, stimulating natural, healthy action. Something habit-forming pills and drugs can never do.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, sprinkled over cereals; cooked with hot cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on the package. Doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. You will, too, after a few days' trial. You'll become an enthusiast when you feel the surge of vigorous blood in your veins again.

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN

To be effective, bran fiber must go through the various digestive processes without submitting to any of them. It must pass through the entire alimentary tract without its form being changed.

What happens when a bran food is eaten?

After the saliva has acted upon it, it passes through the stomach and into the intestines, where every part which is not fiber is absorbed.

In ALL-BRAN the quantity of fiber is so great that it furnishes bulk enough to prevent and relieve constipation.

In a part-bran food, the quantity of fiber is so small that there is only a puny amount to do a herculean task.

ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Demand it.

Warning: Be sure to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. A part-bran product can only be partially effective.

Kellogg's is the one, only and original ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it. Buy a package today. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Advance copies of the annual reports of the officers and committees of the town of Killingly made their appearance Thursday afternoon These reports will be of particular interest to citizens who like to make a study of what goes on in the administrative departments of the town and as to how Killingly spends its money and as to its sources of revenue, including taxes.

An outstanding fact in this year's school committee report is that it expended approximately $1,800 less than had been estimated would be the cost of schools for the past fiscal year and in addition met some unlooked for expenditures.

The school committee orders for the year totaled $74,419.96. The total of the orders of the selectmen was $59,058.74. The reduction in the town's debt during the year was $3,592.25.

An increase is noted in this year's reports of the cost of caring for outside poor. In a measure this was due to industrial depression in this territory during a part of the last fiscal year. The depression left numbers without work or insufficient work. The outside poor and poor in state hospitals cost Killingly $12,581.43 last year. Less sundry credits from other towns, these credits amounting to $415.58.

The net expenditure at the town farm exclusive of interest on the plant was $4,204.96. Board and care at the rate of one person per week was $3.72, a very creditable showing.

The report shows that the town farm produced a very considerable revenue —$3,342.73, which was applied to reducing the net cost of the plant. Sale of cream and milk brought $1,051.09, teams $1,186.23, eggs, $220.08, chickens, $107.40, garden stuff, $183.50, cows, calves and hides, $159.04. There were other minor receipts.

A year ago it was related with considerable satisfaction that the town court receipts were $686.40 in excess of the cost of maintaining the court. The business showed that profit. Such a pleasant financial story cannot be told about the court this year. It went in the hole, as the bankers say—or do they?—$1,050.49.

The deficit in the court business this year is chiefly due to the fact that there has been less revenue from violators of the liquor laws than in 1924. This may be charged either to greater respect for the Volstead act, as to the sale of intoxicating beverages, or to the greater cunning of those who sell and their enhanced ability to evade detection. In any event, it cannot be conceded that there is no longer a market for hooch.

The weather man helped square for the town the loss it sustained in the town court. In 1924 snow removal cost $1,879.23, while the 1925 cost was only $604.09. The difference there is $1,275.19, on the right side of the ledger.

Selectmen's and school committee reports together with reports of the town treasurer, supervisor of schools and other officials are set forth in detail in the new reports.

It is possible that a hearing scheduled to be held in Norwich this (Friday) morning, before the Public Utilities commission, may be momentous, in so far as concerns future trolley service through this territory on the part of the Connecticut company. If, as has been anticipated by many, the commission sees fit to grant the Connecticut company permission to substitute motor busses for trolleys, the trolleys may disappear with great promptitude, probably within a few days. Today no one can say that definitely. It merely seems to be impending.

Towns all along the trolley line will be represented at today's hearings. Efforts were being made Thursday to have members of the Danielson Chamber of Commerce, other representative business men and manufacturers present. The matter under consideration is of prime importance.

Danielson as a whole watches with interest. No protest has been heard against the substitution of busses for trolleys. Such a protest, after all, would be unseemly in view of the fact that trolley patronage has not been too generous here and in consideration of the fact that the Connecticut company stands ready to give an adequate bus service should it remove its trolley cars.

Incidentally, if trolleys are abandoned for busses, Attawaugan will get direct service between Norwich and Putnam. This community, a mile off the trolley line, has always desired better transportation facilities and now seems on the eve of realizing that wish The village had it for a time when the Pellett bus lines were in operation between Danielson and Putnam.

Of interest generally here as regards the development of bus lines is the plan of the New England lines to allow patrons of its busses checking baggage over the lines of the New Haven road while the patrons go to their destination by bus. There is no New England line of busses through Danielson at present, but the advent is anticipated.

Harvest time is once more with us and those who planted the seeds well are now reaping their reward. If you deposit in the savings department of the Windham County National Bank, Danielson, Conn., you will reap the reward when the fruits of your savings are ripe and most needed.—Adv.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Jette are leaving next week for a motor trip to Montreal and other Canadian points.

Many motorists here receive din their morning mail Thursday forms on which to apply for their registrations for 1926. Registration markers on pleasure cars in Connecticut next year will be chrome orange with black figures.

An attraction of local interest in the baseball world is the impending game between Danielson All Stars and the Dayville team.

This (Friday) afternoon the Civic federation is to hold its first meeting of the fall season at the health station in the town hall building.

A young buck, legs broken through being struck by an automobile on the state highway near Dark Lantern hill was despatched by Deputy Game Warden G. E. Withey and the carcass brought to Danielson.

Some good bags of ducks were obtained by hunters who went out for their first shooting of the season on Thursday, but all who hunted were not successful.

Michael Grimshaw, of Attawaugan, has the season's distinction of being the first to have the radiator of his automobile frozen and burst. It happened Thursday morning, when the temperature was down to 23 degrees hereabouts and ice formed to thickness of three-quarters of an inch on small vessels of water. The Grimshaw car was left standing out over night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hall of Boston are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cristopher Andrews of Riverview.

The first fall meeting of the Fortnightly club is to be held next Tuesday with Mrs. Arthur G. Bill of Maple street.

At St. Alban's church next Sunday, also at Trinity church in Brooklyn, Rt. Rev. Edward Campion Acheson will administer the rite of confirmation.

Harry E. Back, Jr., and Franklin D. Crosby have returned to Yale university to resume their studies.

Rev. Roger C. Stimson, pastor of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church, is to be a spaker at the religious education council convention in Putnam Monday.

A Well Baby conference is scheduled to be held in the town hall building this (Friday) afternoon.

The car owned by Theodore Boulay, of Dayville, that was stolen from School street Tuesday night evidently is well out of the territory. No trace of it has been found.

YARN ABOUT SHERIFF'S HOOCH IS ONLY A FAIRY TALE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 1—Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer is no shrinking violet. Those who know him well appreciate his capacity to say what he thinks in a very convincing way, if occasion warrants. Sheriff Ayer's ire was aroused Thursday, over a wide-spread and spreading report that federal officers had raided his barn at Dayville, seized a large quantity of liquor, arrested him and placed him under bond. This absurd fabrication, sufficient to arouse the wrath of an innocent person, contained not one word of truth. The manner in which the story spread was amazing. It is for this reason and at Sheriff Ayer's request that an absolute denial of it is made here this (Friday) morning.

Trouble impends for the person or persons responsible for circulating the story, and Sheriff Ayer hopes that he may be able to run down the source of the rumor. How such an incredible fairy tale could receive any serious consideration from intelligent and well informed people was proving a puzzle here Thursday. Some were inclined to regard the story as intended to injure Sheriff Ayer politically but this theory was discarded as unsound by many. In any event it would be interesting, if sulphuric, to hear an interview between the sheriff and the person who started such a ridiculous yarn. Yes indeed it would!

PUTNAM

Daniel Davis, who conducts a small merchandise store at West Woodstock, found upon opening his store a few mornings ago, that it had been entered during the night and a quantity of goods stolen. Among the missing articles was a case of eggs, a ham, canned goods, tobacco and about fifty pairs of work trousers. Mr. Davis lives but several hundred yards from the store and there are several houses even nearer, but no one heard anything unusual during the night. The telephone wires had been cut and Mr. Davis had to use a neighbor's phone to get in touch with the state police. This is the third time that Dr. Davis has had the same experience.

Mrs. William R. Barber, regent of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., and Mrs. Mary Bishop, state registrar, attended the annual meeting Wednesday of the chapter regents and state officers held at the Elsworth Homestead, in Windsor. There were two sessions, a morning one at 10:30, and an afternoon session following a box lunch at 12 o'clock noon.

Miss Elizabeth Wheelock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock will leave next Tuesday for a visit to California. Miss Wheelock will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Root and daughter, Deborah, of Uxbridge, Mass.

The local stores are now open on Thursday afternoons as the half holidays for the summer ended last week.

Joseph Plessie, insurance agent and collector of personal taxes for the town of Putnam, is seriously ill at his home on Woodstock avenue.

As Alex Gilman was going up School street Thursday afternoon in his big sedan he saw a boy on a bicycle directly in his way. He pulled his car sharply to the left undoubtedly saving the boy's life. The boy was Richard Gelinas of Grove street, who was coming down the grade. The big car grazed the mudguard of the bike, and threw the boy off, but did not injure him. Parked in front of Fisher's store was a runabout owned by Kenneth Light of the Little River road. The front of it was badly smashed, but there was no one in the car.

The barn on the Bradley estate at Pomfret destroyed by fire Wednesday was owned by James Lucey. It was built many years ago by the late George Lathrop Bradley and was considered a model country estate barn. About forty tons of hay were consumed and 100 barrels of apples. The old Manor house was burned about a year ago. It is not known how the blaze started.

As usual in collisions and other accidents, the flivver that is turned out at the rate of 5,000, or is it 50,000, a day came out best in a head-on encounter with a touring car in Woodstock several days ago. The touring car of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bacon of Willimantic collided with one owned and driven by George A. Wetherall, of East Woodstock at the four corners. In Mr. Wetherell's car were two of his daughters whom he was taking to Woodstock academy. No one was seriously hurt, Mrs. Bacon was suffering considerably from the shock when she reached Putnam a short time after the accident. She was not hurt physically, and a local physician thought she would soon be over the nervous strain under which she was laboring.

Several of the occupants of Mr. Wetherell's car were thrown out and one, Rebecca Hibbard, was hurled a distance of 15 feet from the place where the collision occurred. Mr. Bacon was coming from the north and another machine travelling in the same direction was just ahead of him. This one passed the Wetherell car and then the other two cars came together. The front of Mr. Bacon's car was badly damaged and a wheel was taenk off the other one.

TEACHER AND PUPILS HOLD QUADIC REUNION

A reunion or old home day was held at the old schoolhouse in Quadic recently for teachers, pupils, parents and friends of the school. The day was perfect, the attendance good and fully 200 attended during the day.

The schoolhouse was attractively decorated inside and out with flags and bunting. An excellent picnic lunch preceded the formal exercises. A. A secretary pro tem was chosen, also a committee on resolutions was appointed. Then Newton A. Ballard of Putnam, chairman of the day and originator of the plan explained that from a personal desire to meet his old pupils once more and because he realized how small a gathering it would now have to be, he conceived the idea of compiling a list of those who had taught in Quadic school since 1850. To do this successfully implied much writing and many personal calls. On procuring this list Mr. Ballard spoke particularly of the credit due Oscar Munyan who had almost a complete list of Town reports since 1879. Prior to that date good memories of some of the older pupils finally secured the complete list.

Then began the roll call. The name of each teacher was given and the year or years in which he or she had taught was stated. Those teachers present were asked to stand first and then all the pupils present who attended school during each specified period. Claude Munyan and Miss Mary Chase were appointed as tellers.

Those living in Quadic at present generously offered to bear the whole of the expense, but the out of town friends requested a share in this. Eleanor Russ and Pauline Bell were appointed collectors. The expenses were small and the suggested nickel collection amounted to $8.39.

Richard Barton, chairman of the present school board, gave a short talk. He had been particularly impressed by the number of different teachers who had served in the school since 1850. In contrast to this he mentioned the fact that during his grammar school days, in England he had only two teachers. He hoped and believed that many of these frequent chances were growing less here, due to the fact that the teachers in country schools were now being better paid.

Particular mention was made of Mrs. Harriet Greene, the oldest teacher present.

James Converse's talk was made interesting due to the fact that he brought with him many of the things he used when a teacher in the old school. He called the roll as it stood when he was there, etc.

Professor Walter C. Bronson, now of Brown university, expressed pleasure at meeting so many of his former pupils and friends and recalled several incidents very real to some present. He recalled when one student informed him that "lumbering" meant "making a big noise"; and when a boy whom he thought was munching an apple behind his desk was diligently reading the Bible.

Wilfred Mills declared he could promise the chairman that he should not need more than two minutes of the five allowed him, but he did want to say how glad he was that such a gathering had been called, and that he had twelve of his former pupils present. He reminded those enjoying the shade of the maples trees at one side of the yard that is was set out when he was a pupil of the school and that it had been named "Longfellow."

Asa Rose, a former pupil and once a member of the school board gave a very interesting description and history of the old school building itself. He also recalled one or two stories of pranks done to make life more interesting for the teachers. One happened at the time of the building of the big dam at the reservoir, and the pupils were deeply interested in its progress. At recess four or five boys went down and did not return, whereupon the teacher sent more boys after them and they didn't return. Then the girls were sent. The boys went back to the school, but the girls stayed. Again the boys were sent down and this time they all stayed.

Oscar Munyan, also a former pupil and a member of the school board expressed his pleasure at such a reunion, which left one in a reminiscent mood both sad and pleasant. Referring to Mr. Barton's remark regarding the number of teachers since 1850 he explained that because the boys attended in the winter more than in summer and went until they were nineteen or twenty years old, men teachers were required to enforce discipline during the winter terms and women were hired for the other terms. He recalled his first day in school—how he had gone home and told his mother that he was not going to school again until he was used to it, and how he had tried to carry out his plan by starting for his uncle's the next morning instead of for the school house. However his mother beat him to it and he went to school!

Jerome Munyan, one of the oldest pupils present, mentioned that sixty-eight used to be an average attendance when he was a pupil there. Mr. Ballard referred to his school records and found the average attendance to be around thirty-three when he taught there.

Mrs. Clemens declared that as she looked over the long list of teachers she felt first of all proud of her profession, and secondly glad that her name was in the list of teachers at Quadic.

Miss Mary Chase had noted one remarkable change particularly. One day when school was in session an automobile was heard approaching and she told all of the pupils to go over to the window and see it and then it was still at the top of the hill and took fully ten minutes to pass out of sight, for several days it furnished conversation for everyone.

Clayton Thurber, in speaking of how good it seemed to see so many familiar faces, expressed the sentiment of the whole gathering when he said it seemed as though a gathering of this kind ought to continue.

The committee on resolutions formally extended thanks to Mr. Ballard and the various committees for the very pleasant meeting of the former teachers and pupils and for the bountiful lunch served.

This committee was Oscar Munyon and Asa Ross.

In closing Mr. Ballard said "on the whole we had as good a set of teachers as any place." The remainder of the afternoon was spent in renewing acquaintances and making new ones. A photograph of the gathering was taken.

A committee of five was appointed, one of which is to be whoever is the teacher at the time of the next reunion. The other four are Newton A. Ballard, Asa Ross, Oscar Munyan and Mrs. George Teft. Gladys E. Munyan was chosen secretary. Just how often these gatherings will be held has not been specified. This and similar matters were left in the hands of the committee.

WILD GEESE FLY SOUTH A MONTH AHEAD OF 1924

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Oct. 1.—Indications and prognostications of an unusually cold winter were emphasized this morning by a large flock of geese flying over the city headed south. There were more than one hundred in the flock which was in the usual V form and tey were flying very low, their cries being so loud that the noise was comparable to that of an engine of an aeroplane. Last year, it is said, they did not start south until about the first of November.

THE COMING CAMPAIGN

Whether the absence of a strenuous campaign has caused you to overlook the fact that next Monday is town election day, it ought not to be forgotten or neglected. The conduct of the town's affairs is an important matter. It is desired that it should be maintained on a high standard, that it should be done economically and efficiently, and results should be obtained in keeping with the desires of and the professions made by the townspeople in meeting assembled.

For the past two years Norwich has had cause to be gratified at the manner in which First Selectman W. S. Murray has directed the town's business. Keenly alert to his responsibilities as the record he has made is a highly creditable one. The town cannot fail to recognize this as the report of the activities is studied and it is realized that while money has been spent where needed it has not been squandered. Prudent management has made it possible to meet unexpected expenses without calling for additional appropriations. In various departments work has been completed at figures well within the appropriations and the two years of his management point to the excellence of his judgment and the ability displayed in meeting the demands upon the office.

Next Monday there will be opportunity for the voters of the town to show their appreciation of work in their behalf. Most certainly should his administration be endorsed and there is no better way of doing it than by replacing him in the office for the next two years. Messrs. Murray and Bushnell, a veteran on the board, deserve a rousing majority.

For assessor the voters will be eager to reelect Arad R. Manning to a post for which he is most admirably fitted where he has had experience and where he is in immediate touch with the new responsibilities which will be placed upon the assessors' shoulders under the coming reassessment.

On the board of relief James C. Fitzpatrick and Francois Beique have served faithfully and well and their choice to succeed themselves is something to be desired.

Being nominated on both tickets Town Clerk Holbrook and Collector Robinson are assured of election, as are the registrars of voters and the school committeemen.

The republican ticket from top to bottom is made up of candidates who are deserving. They are well known citizens who should be elected in the interest of good government for the town.

THE SHIPPING BOARD MESS

As we learn that the president in the conduct of his personal investigation of the shipping board has named a referee to dig into the matter of the relationship of the shipping board and the Fleet corporation, the claim is made that the majority of the board was about ready to ask for the return of its control over the fleet, and we are made aware again of the manner in which the handling of the merchant marine under the present method of double control is making a football out of the valuable property.

It has long been apparent that the shipping board was giving more consideration to its own interests than it was to the welfare of the country, that it was determined to have its own way with a seeming disregard for what was known to be the sentiment of the country relative to the ships. Friction has prevailed within and while it was considered a splendid move when the board was made responsible to congress it has been found by experience that it makes it impossible to overcome undesirable conditions when congress is not in session.

The president is at work on the job of straightening out the situation. It is no easy matter but he is determined to get at the facts and in the meantime it is not surprising that the demand for the abolishment of the shipping board and placing its duties under control of one of the departments is steadily gaining in favor.

There is no reason why the playing of politics should be tolerated in such a board and yet it has been made evident that there are those who are determined to take advantage of the situation to do so. Whether they realize it or not, they could do nothing more that would serve to hasten the day when their services and the board will be eliminated. The idea of putting squabbles over authority before the administration of duties calls for an ending of the whole sickening mess and the president is evidently on the right road to accomplish it.

THE NEW HAVEN'S APPEAL

When the New Haven road asked the federal court to modify its order so that it may regain possession of its property standing in the name of the Connecticut company, which has been in the hands of trustees for disposal for a number of years, it remains for the railroad to produce the facts which will convince the court of the wisdom of such action.

The situation regarding transportation lines is much different today than it was when the disposition of the trolley lines was ordered. There has never been a time when the electric lines could have been sold at a figure that would have done justice to the owners. That has been repeatedly shown but the Connecticut company has been obliged to stand the expense of the trustees during more than ten years when it has needed the money many times for the purpose of paying taxes and other expenses.

When the move was made to separate the trolley lines from the railroad there was a different view held concerning consolidation of transportation lines. It was in marked contrast to that of today when consolidation is being urged and legislation advocated to hasten it.

It is only a logical step that the New Haven road wants to take when it seeks to regain possession of the trolley lines that it may coordinate these resources. Trolley lines are not what they were but are still undergoing changes. They are being succeeded by busses, with trolley companies operating them, while the railroads are likewise making similar changes. Just why these properties should not be employed for the betterment of transportation facilities, with such benefits accruing to the patrons and to the owners is difficult to understand.

The plea of the New Haven road has the endorsement of the state legislature and it must appeal with equal force to the individual citizen of the state who gives the matter thoughtful consideration. It is well that the railroad is prepared to lay its facts before the court. It is a situation where it appears to be fully entitled to what it asks.

CAPTAIN HEINEN'S CHARGES

The inquiry into the loss of the Shenandoah is revealing some unanticipated testimony. As was to be expected there is a difference of opinion among the experts as to what happened and as to what was advisable under the circumstances encountered on the flight west.

It doesn't appear at any time that Commander Lansdowne tried to have the flight postponed for weather conditions, or that he considered it dangerous to proceed under the orders given him. His concern was in having the airship reach the points intended and his suggestion of a delay was based upon the condition of a landing field which he had not supposed was ready to receive the Shenandoah.

It comes as a bit of surprise when the testimony of experts indicates that had the big airship been turned to the south when it was found there was a storm ahead the disaster might have been avoided. This is the view of Captain Anton Heinen, the German expert, who maintains that the maneuvering of Commander Lansdowne was wrong and that had he been in charge he could have saved the ship. That is of course a claim which he puts forth as an experienced official in the handling of such craft. Some support is given to it by the testimony of Lieutenant Anderson regarding his conference with Commander Lansdowne relative to the weather conditions and the advisability of turning south, but there are evidences that Captain Heinen in his enthusiasm and his apparent disposition to indulge in broad statements may reveal only that it was a case of operating judgment and that he simply differed from the commander, though it is to be remembered that he did guide the airship through a tempestuous storm under a severe handicap, and did it successfully under the same methods that he points out should have been followed over Ohio. Unless shattered his testimony bids fair to play an important part in the inquiry and the future handling of dirigibles.

MERELY IN PASSING

Their skirts were very brief and their rouge was tinted orange and they chirped with joy when they saw the handsome car waiting in the shade of the trees by the roadside in the park.

"Let's!" they cried in chorus and, opening a door, dived in. They looked at one another and giggled as they drew out vanity cases.

"Ernie will be surprised," said the girl with deep blue eyes, repairing damages to her bombproof complexion. "It's his car, all right—'E. B. S.' on the door in an oval with curlicues! I guess I've been in it often enough to know."

"He's gone over to register at the links," declared the young woman with the Gloria Swanson plastered hair. "Where'll we make him take us?"

"Some place expensive," chuckled the girl with the blue eyes. "Ernie hates to let go of his money and it does me good to pry the boy loose! Say, what have we here, what have we here?"

The immaculate old gentleman who had paused by the side of the car smiled pleasantly.

"Waiting for somebody?" he inquired.

The feminine occupants of the car regarded him with stony faces and expressionless eyes. "We are," finally said the girl with the plastered-down hair. "If it is of any interest to you! What was it you were just trying to say to me, Corinne?"

"Excuse me," the old gentleman broke in on their chatter, "but I wonder if you would mind if I sat down awhile in the driver's seat? I'm waiting for somebody who was to meet me along here, too, and there is no bench handy, and I can't stand very long—"

The two looked him over with deliberate surprise. "Well!" gasped the girl with blue eyes, "I must say!"

"Nowadays," remarked the other girl, noncommittantly, "one doesn't let strangers into his car, you know—it isn't done, grandpa! Run along!"

"Of course, of course," the old gentleman agreed amiably. "Very wise of you young women, I'm sure. I'll just rest here a bit on the running board—my legs sort of give way if I use them too long;" he sat down.

"It's a wonder they let 'em run around the way they do!" said the girl with the plastered hair, not bothering to mute her voice. "Childish! That's what! What'll Ernie think when—"

"Ernie!" repeated the old gentleman. "A nice name! Is that the person you are waiting for"

"Yes, dearest," said the girl with the blue eyes, "and when Ernie comes he has a date with us and I am afraid you will get spilled off that running board!"

"Maybe Ernie would take me home, so that I wouldn't have to wait," suggested the old gentleman placidly.

"Now see here," began the other girl after an eyebrow query of her friend. "Ernie hasn't any time to chauffe you around because he's taking us! Isn't there anybody around here to look after you? Are you all by yourself?"

"Oh, I shouldn't say that!" the old gentleman protested politely, turning his head in their direction. "Maybe a cab will come by or something! And you'd be surprised at the distance I do travel by myself. I get along splendidly!"

"Can you beat it?" asked the plastered hair girl under her breath. "Who cares? And interrupting us this way, too! Really, don't you think you'd better be going?"

"I'm sorry I'm bothering you," the old gentleman apologized, "but really, there doesn't seem any place to go—still"—he got to his feet and glanced down the distant path. "There's Ernie now!" he said in satisfied tones.

"Ernie!" repeated the two young women in deeply puzzled voices. They leaned forward and regarded him vaguely. "Say, you don't know him, do you?"

"Pretty well," the old gentleman told them. His eyes had taken on a new and steely glint. "He's my grandson, and while I was in Europe this last year I let him use my car, this one. He—oh, don't get out, I beg! I'll be so glad to take you young ladies anywhere you wish to go—"

"Oh, thanks, don't bother — much obliged!" they said hurriedly as they hastened away with great rapidity. "My grief, now, whoever would have dreamed of such a mixup? Oh, well, Ernie's a sort of fish anyway!"—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

Johann Kubelik, the Great Violinist

At one time it was quite the fashion in the world for a son to take up the father's work and to carry it on. It often happened that many generations continued to live in the same surroundings, to do the same work, and even to live in the same house. No one in the family strove to rise, or to be any greater or any better than his father. Happily for the world, that condition has passed. If Johann Kubelik, the great violinist who has delighted so many in the United States, had continued to carry on his father's work he would today be hoeing vegetables in a garden instead of entrancing vast audiences with the magic of his violin.

Johann Kubelik's father was a gardener in the city of Prague, in Bohemia. At evenings, when he came home tired from his work, he was accustomed to take his violin and to refresh himself with music. He was by no means a great player but he loved music. It pleased him to see little Johann sit with wondering eyes listening to him. Sometimes he held the violin for the little boy and guided the child's arm and hand in pretense that the boy himself was playing the instrument. To his great delight little Johann very quickly learned to play. In a short time it was the father who sat and listened to the boy.

There is a famous old Conservatory of Music in Prague, and to this Johann's father sent the young musician. In the six years that the gardener watched his son's work in the conservatory he realized more and more that he was the father of a genius.

The youth went to the proud city of Vienna and won applause. He won the coveted Beethoven Medal given by the London Philharmonic society, and everywhere he went, in Europe and in America he was recognized as a genius. In time he became the owner of a rare and costly violin known as an "Emperor Stradivari," and with this richly costly resonant instrument he is still winning the praise of the world.

What a very different career he would have followed if he had carried on his father's work and had become a gardener! There is something exceedingly pleasant in the picture of the father and son playing the violin together in the garden in the old Bohemian city.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Arthur Henderson, who is sailing for America today for a tour of Canada and the United States with a view to getting into closer touch with the labor movement on this side, is one of the best known leaders of the British Labor party. He was a member of the Lloyd George war cabinet and was home secretary under the MacDonald government. Mr. Henderson is a Glasgow man, shrewd, big-hearted, and not averse to a fight when a fight appears necessary. To a native intuition, dignity and practical common sense he adds the essential quality of a leader of men, strong and deep loyalty to those who work with or under him. He began his public career as a member of the Newcastle city council. In 1903 he was returned to parliament. In the industrial world he began as an apprentice in the great engineering works of Robert Stephenson & company at Newcastle.

Stories That Recall Others

Brought the Garbage Instead

A business woman, who is also a housekeeper, occasionally takes to the office a lunch prepared at home. One morning recently, following a chicken dinner the evening before she took from the refrigerator what was left of the repast, with which she prepared an appetizing lunch. Bones, peelings and other debris were placed in a neat package to be taken to the garbage can, and the lunch was also carefully wrapped. When she opened her package at the office imagine her feelings when she found that she had brought with her the package that was intended for the garbage can and had tossed her lunch into that receptacle.

Just Needed a Taillight.

He started to drive to a dance hall and being late stepped on the gas and sped along at a rapid rate. Suddenly he heard the whir of a motorcycle behind him and looking back saw a state motor cop on his trail.

The policeman sped past the motorist, shouting at him to "follow me." The motorist racked his brain to think of a good excuse to give the cop, but hailed along after the motorcycle. He never wanted to travel slowly so much in his life. He had it all figured out that the cop would stop him by the roadside and arrest him as a speeder. But the policeman kept on going, occasionally looking back to see that he was following. The motorist lived through many minutes of agony, until a small village was reached. The policeman pulled up in front of a garage and the motorist meekly stopped to receive the bad news. He felt satisfied that he had arrived at the home of the justice of the peace.

Turning to the proprietor of the garage the policeman said: "Put a taillight on this guy's car."

Then he drove away. And the motorist breathed a sigh of relief while the garage man replaced the burned out taillight.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE ISLE OF WIGHT

Encroaching on the southwest shore of the Isle of Wight at Freshwater bay, the waters of the English channel again are menacing the unity of that delectable English playground near Southhampton, according to recent dispatches from England.

"The section that would be cut off, known locally as the 'High Downs,' contains some of the finest scenery and richest historical associations in the British Isles," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "It is like an irregular triangle, and forms the extreme western portion of the Isle of Wight. A narrow isthmus of marshy land, less than a quarter of a mile wide and extending from Freshwater bay, on the channel, to Yarmouth, on The Solent, connects it with the main part of the island.

"This isthmus is but a few feet above the ordinary spring tides. The sluggish river Yar rises in the vicinity of the village of Freshwater and flows north through the marshy isthmus to The Solent. Its source is in a number of springs which are so little raised above the sea, and are so near the beach at Freshwater bay, that the waves from the channel splash into these springs during periods of extremely high tides. The Yar then presents the peculiar phenomenon of a river of flowing salt water.

"The prospect of the sea overflowing the isthmus and dividing the island at this point is not a new one. Several times the esplanade wall along Freshwater bay has been broken. Ancient maps show the bed of the Yar a long narrow inlet, like that of the river Medina between Cowes and Newport, in the north-central part of the island. During the reign of Charles I, however, it was proposed to insulate the 'Downs' artificilly by cutting down the low barrier at Freshwater bay, to make the 'Downs' a citadel of defense. Private land owners have advocated a breakwater along Freshwater bay for some time.

"The section threatened with isolation is particularly endeared to the islanders as the home, for 40 years, of Alfred Tennyson. On the top of one of the hills, or downs, is the home he called Farringford, clothed with ivy, almost buried in trees and flowers, and swept by the breeze from the sea. Here the poet produced many of his great works and the effect of the natural beauty of his surroundings can be traced in much of his poetry. It must have been the surf below Farringford that inspired him to write:

"The voice of the long sea-wave as it swelled,
Now and then in the dim-gray dawn.

"The main body of the Isle of Wight is significant to the English mainly as a health and pleasure resort. At Cowes, on the north shore opposite Southampton, is held the yachting (and social) classic of the empire each summer. Ventnor, Shanklin and Sandown are famous watering places along the south coast, and there are so many golf courses that a British wag has suggested that the name of the island should be changed to Foreland.

"But THE Island, as the natives refer to it, which is about twice as large as the District of Columbia, is not wholly a region of bath houses and flying golf balls. Long stretches of the coast reveal dazzling chalk cliffs and booming surf, while inland the beautiful downs unroll their carpets of soft green brachen and purple heather, with distant glimpses of the blue sea. Little inns along smooth, winding roads, and cottages smothered in flowers complete an idyllic picture.

"Tennyson was not the only writer who drew inspiration from the island's store of beauty. Natives of Shanklin will tell you that Keats, one of the 'discoverers' of the island, lived and wrote in that retreated village by the sea. At Bonchurch, not far away, John Stirling is buried, while at New St. Boniface, close to a convent bell and a rookery among the elms, is the grave of Swinburne. Others who have visited and written about the island include Henry Fielding, Michael Drayton, Charles Kingsley, Bayard Taylor and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"The island, and its location, often reminds Americans of Mt. Desert Island off the coast of Maine, only chalk cliffs replace those of granite, and the mountains on the American island are higher.

"Geologists and naturalists find the island a compact natural laboratory, with rock layers so exposed that one authority says 'it might have been cut out by nature for a geological model illustrative of the principles of stratification.' Through the center of the island is a buckbone of chalk downs. To the north are wooded hills. To the south are beds of sand and marl ending in the chalk cliffs. 'Gothic' landscape, with caves, 'chines' or ravines, pinnacles, and towers (like 'The Needles) rising from the sea. The hills and chines are overrun with ivy and honeysuckle, ad interspersed with thickets of hazel, briers and blackthorn.

"Along the southern shores are many interesting caves like those of Capri, in the Bay of Naples, and other formations wrought by the beating of the waves. Some of them were once the dens of smugglers, and, when the sea is rolling and the sky is gray, it is said the spirits of the old adventurers again unload their kegs of brandy and store them in the black caverns below the white cliffs, screened by a portcully of foam falling from the mouth of the caves after each receding wave.

"The climate of the Isle of Wight is the mildest in the British Isles. Snow seldom falls and does not last. High winds and chilling fog alone prevent its rivalling the Riviera. Its spring is far ahead of that of the rest of England, while its autumn, due to the tempering effect of the water which encircles it, is long and delightful."

LEARN TO LIVE TODAY

The days that are to come seem longer than
The years our hurried feet have left behind,
The bridge we've crossed seems much the shorter span,
For valiant hope our backward glances blind.
It matters not how fair or foul the past,
Or whether fortune on us smiled or frowned,
As long as we held to our purpose fast
And kept our feet steadfastly on the ground.
The promise of the future may seem bright,
But clouds are sure to cloud the fairest sky;
So let us with the present spend our night
Before the fleeting years have passed us by.
The harvest we await is far away.
A better plan is learn to live today.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The homeliest baby is pretty to Ma. But this is not always conceded by Pa. —Old Mother Nature.

You may be sure that it wasn't long before all the Green Forest knew about the babies in the hollow stump. Of course Peter Rabbit told every one he met, and of course the one who was told told some one else. Ol' Mrs. Buzzard didn't mind, for she was no longer trying to keep it a secret. She couldn't have kept it a secret if she had wanted to, no what those babies had to be fed. There had to be constant coming and going. Of course everybody who could visited the hollow stump for a peep at those babies. Ol' Mrs. Buzzard was too proud for words. According to her they were the finest, handsomest babies that ever had lived. She was quite truthful about it. She really believed it. That was because she was their mother.

"Hump!" exclaimed Sammy Jay, "if they take after their father and mother they certainly are no beauties. I'll have to have a look at them."

So Sammy Jay flew over as fast as his blue and white wings could carry him to a tree from which he could look down into that hollow stump. Mrs. Buzzard was standing on the edge of the stump. "Didn't you ever see such darlings?" she asked, as Sammy peered down into the hollow. "Did yo' ever see such handsome babies?"

Sammy peered down in. Then he began to laugh. He laughed and laughed and laughed. He laughed so heartily he nearly fell from his perch. "Handsome!" he gasped. "Handsome! Oh, my peaked cap! To think that any one should call those fuzzy creatures handsome. I have seen some ugly looking babies in my time, but none to equal these."

Ol' Mrs. Buzzard became very angry. She hissed at Sammy as only an angry Buzzard can hiss. But Sammy only kept on laughing. He wasn't afraid of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard. She couldn't possibly catch him. And so he stayed around making fun of those babies and tormenting poor Ol' Mrs. Buzzard in every way he could think of.

The worst of it was every one else who saw those babies agreed with Sammy Jay, and soon the word had gone all through the Green Forest that never had there been two such homely babies in it. They were homely babies. But for that matter the babies of most of the feathered folk are homely when they are very little. Very few tiny babies of the feathered folk are pretty like the babies of Mrs. Bob White and Mrs. Grouse. These two Buzzard babies were covered with down, which is more than could be said for some other bird babies. For instance, take the babies of Rattles the Kingfisher. When they are hatched there isn't a feather nor a particle of down on them, and really they are much uglier and homelier looking than were these Buzzard babies.

Sammy peered down in

The down covered them all over, even their heads. It covered their funny little wings. Could you have seen them and not known who their parents were, you never, never would have guessed that those funny little wings ever could be among the most wonderful wings in all the Great World. They certainly didn't look it then. They didn't give the least hint of what they would be by and by.

Those hollow tree babies grew as only hungry young babies can grow. Where there parents managed to find enough food for them was a mystery. After the first curiosity was satisfied there were few visitors to the big hollow stump. You see, Ol' Mistah Buzzard and Mrs. Buzzard are really vultures, and live altogether on dead food. They did not catch other birds or animals. This is one reason why they are not feared by their neighbors. But the food they eat disgusts most of their neighbors, and so all of these kept away from the hollow tree. This suited Mistah and Mrs. Buzzard. There was nothing to disturb their growing youngsters.

By and by the first feathers appeared and they appeared on those funny little wings. My, how proud Mrs. Buzzard was of those first feathers! The youngsters grew bigger and bigger and presently their wings were all feathered out, while their bodies were still covered with down. Even when they were big enough to take their first lessons in flying, which consisted in flapping heavily up into a tree, they still wore a great deal of down. It covered their heads. They certainly were no beauties, to say the least, but Ol' Mistah Buzzard thought they were, and Mrs. Buzzard thought they were, so perhaps after all they were. You know, so much depends on the point of view.

COLCHESTER FATHER AND DAUGHTED SUE ON CLAIM THEY WERE BEATEN

The following suits, returnable in October, were filed here Thursday at the office of Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the superior court:

Two suits each for $5,000 damages, are brought against Joseph Savitsky of Colchester by Joseph Haraczkiewics and his daughter, Julia, a minor, also of Colchester, for the injuries they received in an alleged assault and battery upon them by the defendant on July 20, 1925 at Colchester. The man alleged that he was beaten on the head with a heavy cart stake and the woman that she was beaten with a club and the defendant's hand and was brutally pushed about and thrown down violently.

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $4,000 on two farms in Preston containing about 190 acres is sought by Barnet Gamerov of Brooklyn, N. Y., in a suit against Antoni and Frances Gut, both of Preston. The mortgage was given to the plaintiff November 29, 1922 by Andro and Julia Golias, who subsequently on May 16, 1925, conveyed the real estate to the defendants named in the suit. There was a provision in the note that it was to be paid off $200 every five years, with the remaining balance then payable upon demand, but any change in ownership would make the whole sum payable upon demand. A mortgage for $6,000 on the premises which is prior to the plaintiff's mortgage is held by the Federal Land Bank of Springfield.

Suit for $4,000 damages is also brought by Gamerov against Andro and Julia Golias on the ground that the payment of the whole sum due on the note has been demanded since the change of ownership but it has not been paid.

Many parents are beginning to realize the growing need of corrective and supervised activities.

A full program of special social activities were planned to take place following the work in the gymnasium and swimming pool, but owing to the lateness of the hour, it was decided best to postpone them until Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The peanut-scramble and other events will take place and a large number of prizes will be given to the winners of the various contests and games. The large prize that was to have been awarded to the boy bringing in the most members resulted in a tie score, so it was decided to hold the contest open until Saturday afternoon.

NORWICH ENGINEERS ARE WINNERS OF SECOND PRIZE

At the national convention which was held at St. Paul recently, the Norwich Association of Engineers, No. 6, was awarded the second prize in the national educational contest which was open to all engineering associations throughout the entire country. This is, indeed, very gratifying to the members of Norwich No. 6 and their friends, and it proves conclusively that all the best engineers are not located in the larger cities.

A list of engineering questions was sent out monthly through the "National Engineer", a paper published by the association at Chicago. The answers to these questions were to be in the hands of the committee before the end of each month, and the prize was to be awarded by the national educational committee at the end of the year. Several of the engineers who are members of the Norwich association entered this contest as a committee and their percentage in standing was so high that it was a question as to whether the national educational committee would not be compelled to split the first and second prizes, which was a good sized sum of money.

The Norwich association, at present has seventy-five engineers, men who hold responsible positions in the different manufacturing and power plants in the city and vicinity. They hold their meetings bi-monthly and they have recently leased new quarters in the Pierce block on Franklin square and will meet in these new quarters twice a month, the first meeting to be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 8th. At these meetings engineering subjects are taken up and discussed and members derive considerable education by their attendance.

Following are the officers of the association: President, John A. MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION 216,746 IN CONNECTICUT

The total motor vehicle registration for Connecticut for the first six months of 1925 was 216,746, according to a report made public by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture in Washington, D. C. The total registration for the first six months of 1925 for the entire country was given as 15,716,709, or an increase of 13.9 per cent. over the registration during the same period last year. This figure does not include the 70,200 official vehicles owned by the states on which registration fees were not paid.

Connecticut ranks second among the New England states in the number of registered motor vehicles. The states in order are: Massachusetts, 639,315; Connecticut, 216,746; Maine, 126,200 (an approximate figure); Rhode Island 89,247; New Hampshire, 78,120; Vermont 60,424.

There are five states in the union that have over a million cars registered. They are: New York, 1,404,653; California, 1,317,825; Ohio, 1,292,000; Pennsylvania 1,205,287; Illinois, 1,122,084.

The greatest increase in registration for the same period in 1924 is in Alabama with 53.6 per cent., followed by Florida with 41.0 per cent., Oklahoma 35.9 per cent., and Mississippi with 32.6 per cent.

The total registration represents 15,519,647 passenger cars, 2,114,750 trucks and 82,513 taxies, busses and cars for hire. Only twenty states register the taxies, busses and cars for hire separately, the remainder including such vehicles under one of the other two classifications. The number in operation is, therefore, in excess of the number reported.

Total gross receipts from registration fees, licenses, permits, etc., amounted to $226,399,709 of which $183,780,371 is applicable to highway work under the supervision of the state highway departments.

The bureau reports that gasoline taxes collected by the state yielded a revenue of $60,109,734 in the first half of the year of which $53,614,240 is applicable to road work. At the beginning of the year there were thirteen states which did not tax gasoline but at the present time there are only four states in the union that do not have a tax. These are Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York.

On July 1 the tax per gallon was five cents in one state, four cents in two states, three and one-half cents in one state, three cents in twelve states, two and one half cents in one state, two cents in twenty-three states and one cent in five state.

The gross receipts from January 1 to June 30 for Connecticut were $527,671. This was when the state had a one cent tax, now it is two cents.

South Carolina is the state that has the five cent tax. Arkansas and North Carolina have a four cent tax.

Directs Barry's Discharge

As no case was found against Francis Barry, 30, of Convent street, on the charge of violation of the liquor law City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins directed his discharge Thursday morning. Barry's arrest came about Wednesday night after he had purchased a bottle of liquor for $2 for officers who were looking for violators of the law. When he turned the liquor over to the officers and found out that they intended to arrest the party who sold it, he declined to give any information as to where he got it. So he was taken to police headquarters and booked on a charge of violating the liquor law.

Connecticut College

(Special to The Bulletin.)

The psychological examination that is given yearly to the entering class of Connecticut college was held Thursday evening at seven o'clock in the gymnasium of the college under the supervision of Dr. Morris, head of the psychology and philosophy departments. The examination was planned on the two hour schedule, with sufficient rest periods between the various parts.

From the artificial light of the gymnasium, away from the dreaded exam which was now a thing of the past rushed the freshmen out into the cool night air. And at the old stone wall they joined the other three classes in the first moonlight sing of the year. On Thursday evening at 9:30 o'clock the three lower classes waited for the seniors to file down the driveway of the college, and down the little path that leads to the wall, in cap and gown, twenty-six rustled to their places; other classes were silent as they waited. And the moon that shone so brightly down upon the college on the hill must indeed have been greatly pleased as the harmonious chords of the senior song were wafted into the air. Then the seniors sang to the various classes who responded with songs to the seniors. And after the songs were over, a little hush hung over the assembled girls before a general murmur about the beauty of it all ran through the crowd. Then quickly the crowd dispersed, Thus ended the first senior stone wall sing of the year.

MACHINE IS UPSET IN COLLISION AT CORNER

Shortly before 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon a Dodge coupe, owned and driven by Miss Mary Higgins, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins, of Sachem Terrace, and a Dodge sedan, owned by Thomas J. Shahan, and driven by Alex Goldberg, collided at the corner of Sachem and Washington streets. The sedan was upset and Goldberg received a badly lacerated hand which was dressed by Dr. Higgins. Miss Higgins escaped injury.

The Shahan sedan received a cracked engine base, a badly bent mudguard, a broken rear window and the top was considerably damaged. Miss Higgins' car suffered bent front mudguards and some minor damage to the front end.

Don't Say You Can't Sleep —You Can

If your health and nerves are to be maintained at the full vigor, which makes life worth living, you must get proper sleep. The number of hours you sleep is not as important as the depth of your sleep. You should be able to fall asleep almost as soon as your head touches the pillow and sleep without a break until morning. That kind of sleep is the greatest aid to health, beauty, vigor and strength.

And you can do it. Those who are troubled with fitful, broken slumbers have found that this condition is changed as soon as they begin to use a new preparation called Neura.

Neura is an easy-to-take pink pellet that contains no opiates or any harmful or habit-forming drug. Neura quiets the too active brain, soothes the shattered nerves and brings the sweet, profound sleep of childhood. And best of all, you can get Neura from Lee & Osgood Co. or any good druggist with an absolute guarantee to return your full purchase price if you do not get wonderful results from the use of the very first package.

Why Children Should Take Beecham's Pills

Often because of improper or irregular feeding, or lack of exercise, children become bilious and out of sorts. We suggest that for a child of two years or over, you give one Beecham's Pill. Within a few hours the system should be relieved of the poisonous waste matter, and nature then has the opportunity to restore your child to normal health and spirits.

BILL M'KECHNIE, PIRATE MANAGER, HAS HAD A VARIED CAREER IN BASEBALL

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Oct 1—Bill McKechnie, a third baseman of parts in his day and a native of Pittsburgh, has attained a national pennant after approximately three seasons as manager.

McKechnie is a product of the sandlots and a much travelled ball player. His life has been entangled with several of baseball's squabbles. Early life found him playing third for the Butler and Washington teams in his home state and in 1907 he was purchased by the Pirates, making his first appearance in the majors at about the time Heinie Zimmerman cropped up at second base for the Chicago Cubs. Babe Adams also made his bow that season.

In 1908 McKechnie was transferred to Canton, O., and a year later appeared with Wheeling where he played remarkably and was adjudged the best man at his position in the Central League. In 1910 he rejoined the Pirates and played very little, the same holding for 1911 when the presence of Jack Miller, Bobby Byrne and Hans Wagner prevented any aspirant from breaking into the infield.

St. Paul received him in 1912 and in 1913 the Braves drafted him. He played only one game in Boston and drifted to the New York Americans. Once again he went to St. Paul on August 22, 1913, to play alongside a youthful shortstop who was destined to create records in the majors—Everett Scott, of the Red Sox and Yankees, and now with the team that will host McKechnie's band in the worlds series, the Senators.

The next year the present Pirate manager was among several who jumped to the Federal League. He proved to be one of the organization's greatest infielders with Indianapolis. That year he batted .305. In 1915 the team was transferred to Newark and McKechnie succeeded Bill Phillips as manager and won the pennant.

Another season saw the collapse of the Federals and for a time McKechnie was out of work. He finally went to the Giants in a settlement which Harry Sinclair handled. In New York he played brilliantly but the Giants lost eight straight battles, only to drive through the west for the first time and capture every game, with the mauling bat of their third baseman working overtime.

Returning to the Polo Grounds McKechnie was the hero of New York, only to be traded to Cincinnati two days later along with Christy Mathewson and Eddie Roush for Charley Hersog and Wade Killifer. At Cincinnati he alternated with Heinie Groh until he suffered a broken hand in the second game of the 1917 season, and was out of play for almost the entire schedule.

Hugo Bezdek, now Penn. State athletic director, out at that time the Pirate manager, obtained him in 1918 and McKechnie participated in every game. He left baseball in 1919 to enter business. The call of the diamond was too strong and he was back in uniform in 1920, the year that Harold (Pie) Traynor appeared on the Pirate squad. Traynor came fast and McKechnie was sent to St. Paul the next year, to be called in 1922 as coach and assistant manager to George Gibson, recently named manager of the Cubs. He succeeded Gibson as Pittsburgh manager on June 30 of that season and has remained in control since.

Three times before this season, the Pirates under McKechnie have been pennant threats but no more. Each season they have faltered in the stretch usually in tackling their main rivals but this year it has been a different story. McKechnie, with Fred Clarke as his adviser, has kept the Pirates to the fore and when the crucial test came with the champion Giants not long ago, the Pittsburghers came through triumphantly.

BROWNS CLINCH THIRD PLACE, BEATING DETROIT

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—The St. Louis Browns clinched third place in the final American League standing for 1925 by overcoming the Detroit Tigers today, 4 to 3, in the opening contest of a three game series. The locals may now lose the two remaining tilts without dropping in position. Manager George Sisler, leading American League batter in 1922, came out of his recent slump by singling in the first inning for his first hit in 26 times up. Score:

YALE HAS FINAL SCRIMMAGE OF WEEK

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1.—(A. P.)—A short scrimmage was the order of the day for the Yale varsity football squad this afternoon. The varsity lineup today, probably the one which will start against Middlebury Saturday, was as follows: Potts and Bradley, ends; Butterworth and Richards, tackles; Flaherty and Root, guards; Murphy, center; Bunnell, quarterback, and Kline, Noble, and Allen in the backfield. The only question is as to whether Noble will be in the lineup Saturday. If he is not, either Cutler or Cottle will take his place. Cutler was injured in the first scrimmage of the season and is not quite back in shape. Either Cutler, Cottle or Noble is needed to do the punting.

Webster, who was captain of the freshmen team last year and who has been a substitute tackle on the varsity, is out of the scrimmage for a few days on account of a bad shoulder. Sanger, who was moved up from the scrubs for a tryout in the end position, has a muscle bruise which will keep him out of the game for a few days.

Old players who watched the work today were Ralph Boomer, who was tackle on Hogan's team, and Paul Veeder, fullback in 1906.

Sargent will pack a 14 pound beauty, a Grimes barrel on Ballard action. Grieshammer will use his pet Grimes-Schwetzen rifle weighing 14 1-2 pounds. The up river boys are coming down with the full intention of winning this match.

JOHNSON THE BIG MAN OF THE WORLD'S SERIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The "big train" of baseball remains an express, humming through the cities of the American league, always on time, its smoke pouring defeat upon those who would flag it. Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators and every other member of the club are passengers, for the "big train" of baseball is Walter P. (Barney) Johnson, out of Humboldt, Kans.

After piling up glorious records for years the "train" last year whistled for a stop, but the signal went unheeded and it has sped on and on until once again it has come into Washington bearing an American league pennant, its fuel conserved but with smoke pouring from one of the game's mightiest arms.

Last winter Johnson was through, his journey at an end—so many of the experts ruled. He went to the Pacific coast and attempted to buy a baseball club of his own, but failed, and he returned to the only major league baseball team he has known—the Senators. Then if was that the writers of sport saw the end which has not come, for Johnson, veteran of 19 baseball seasons, again has been a great factor in determining the league title.

"They had me all through," he said at Philadelphia after winning one of the Labor day games recently, which meant much to Washington hopes, "but there seems to be something left." He is 38 years old.

Johnson faced the New York Giants thrice in the worlds series of 1924 and twice they battered him down, but at the end, throwing his arm with every pitch, the "big train" gained full steam and hurtled through four innings of that last great 12 inning struggle in the national capital to a remarkable victory. Frisch, Kelly, Young and the other powerful sluggers of the Giants attempted to sidetrack it, but were hurled from the rails, for Johnson was piling through to his destination in a cloud of smoke.

Two hundred pounds of brawn well distributed throughout his six feet have given Johnson a power of mound delivery that few men have equalled and surely there is none to deny his claim to a brilliant record of sustained achievement. Last season his 19th with Washington, he won 27 games and lost 8, winning 13 in succession. On August 26 he held the St. Louis Browns hitless for seven innings, when the contest ended.

In 18 seasons he had 3216 strikeouts and 109 shutout victories. Christy Mathewson stands second in the matter of scoreless games, with 83 over a period of 17 years, and Grover Alexander has 77. Denton T. (Old Cy) Young has only 73 shutouts in his 21 years on the mound, and Babe Adams of Pittsburgh in a long career has been able to register no more than 45.

Johnson entered professional baseball with Tacoma of the Northwestern league in 1906 and in the same year appeared with the Weiser, Idaho semi-pro club. He started with Weiser again the following year, but soon found himself with Washington never again to shift allegiance. He is expected to pitch the first contest against the Pirates at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, October 7.

RENSALLAER TEAM ON AGGIE SCHEDULE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Oct. 1. The Connecticut Aggies will play Rensallaer in football at Troy, Nov. 21, according to the announcement made here today by R. J. Guyer, head of the department of physical education. This is the date that was originally held by Syracuse, but which was cancelled when that institution dropped football as an intercollegiate sport.

Although the Aggies eight game schedule of this year is probably the toughest ever tackled by a Storrs eleven, Mr. Guyer stated that sentiment at the State College favored scheduling the contest. Connecticut's athletic authorities felt that it would be a worthwhile courtesy to fill in the Troy team's open date, and as Rensselaer has agreed to play at Storrs in 1926, the arrangement is likely to prove satisfactory in every way. This year will be the first that the two institutions have met in athletics.

ACADEMY SQUAD HAS LIGHT SIGNAL PRACTICE

Coach Whitney put his Academy squad through a light afternoon's work Thursday. Practice opened with a short drill in punting after which the entire squad of about thirty players were sent for a trot twice around the track. Following this the first team had about two hours fast signal practice with the remainder of the squad following along the side lines.

The team wore their new jerseys this afternoon for the first time this season. The body of the jerseys are maroon with a two inch white arm band, and gives the squad a fine appearance.

SCRIMMAGE FEATURES AGGIE PREPARATIONS FOR N. Y. U.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Oct. 1. Another stiff scrimmage was held in the camp of the Connecticut Aggies today as Coach Dole continues to drive his men in preparation for the New York university game.

Playing for thirty minutes against the other eleven men that make up Connecticut's 1925 grid squad, Dole's first string team ripped through the opposition for four touchdowns. It was the best piece of offensive work shown by the Storrs team this year, and Dole expressed himself as being much pleased with the work of his men.

Eddy and Makofski were the big guns in the Aggies running attack, while Captain Brink starred on the receiving end of several passes.

Prior to the session of scrimmage, Dole held a long signal drill in which all the plays to be used against the New Yorkers were run off. Kicking from scrimmage was also worked on considerably. Following this, the backs were instructed to run through a gauntlet of linemen, who tried to take the ball from them as they ran.

FRANKIE BARBER WILLING TO MEET ALL CHALLENGERS

Frankie Barber, recognized as the bowling champion of Eastern Connecticut, has come forth with the challenge that he will defend his title against all comers this winter and is ready to schedule matches immediately. Last year Barber tried hard to get matches but the other bowlers in the Eastern part of the state steered clear of him with the result that his title was not even threatened. Barber is champion and will remain so until he is beaten which seems a pretty tough proposition to do.

Barber has a match scheduled at Manchester on the evening of the 14th against one of the foremost pin smashers in the silk town.

Broad St. Tigers Beat Saints

The Broad street Tigers beat the St. Patrick's school team 10 to 7 in a hard fought and fast game at Mohegan Park on Thursday afternoon. Mingo, J. Marks, Sabrowski and Rabbitt featured for the Tigers while Capt. Drew of the Saints was the only man to score for the school team.

BRILLIANT GOLF PLAYED IN NATIONAL WOMEN'S TOURNAMENT AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1. (AP)—Brilliant golf today marked the third round matches of the women's national championship at the St. Louis Country club. All four winners scored under 80. The lowest score of the losers was an approximate par 81. As a result of these contests, Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, of Ottawa, will meet Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, Ohio, and Glenna Collett, of Providence, will compete with Edith Cummings, of Chicago, in the semi-finals. Mrs. Fraser, who held the national title five years in succession while a resident of Atlanta, had to score three under par for the 16 holes played to defeat Mary K. Browne, of Los Angeles, tennis star, 3 and 2, while Miss Fordyce found Mrs. F. C. Letts, of Chicago, off her game and won handily, 7 and 6, by shooting three under par for 13 holes.

Miss Collett had the best score of the day, equalling the medalist card of 77, made by Mrs. Fraser on Monday, in overcoming Frittie Stifel, of Wheeling, W. Va., 3 and 2, and Miss Cummings was also three better than par for 15 holes, including two successive eagles, in eliminating Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, 4 and 3.

In the international match between Mrs. Fraser and Miss Browne, the Canadian starter at a relentless pace, snatching three birdies on the first half and playing all the other six holes in perfect figure to gain a lead of five up with a 37, although Miss Browne was only two above par with 42. The Californian developed a slice at the start of the round, and this all but cost her the first hole and did deprive her of the second and third. She lost the next two to a birdie and a par and was five down at the end of seven holes when she took four at the short seventh.

Mrs. Leitz, who yesterday eliminated last year's champion, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, was not playing well today, taking 45 for the first nine and being three down to Miss Fordyce, who was over par on only two holes and got one hadie for a 41.

The former Ohio champion apparently decided to end the duel at the 13th green, which is close to the club house, for she shot three birdies on the next four holes and won all of them to be seven up and five to go.

Miss Collett lost the very first hole to a birdie and was lucky to halve the next in par 4 when Miss Stifel took three putts, but the Rhode Islander got down a 15-foot putt for a birdie 3 at the 153-yard third to even the match. They shared the next four holes in perfect figures and the eighth in birdie 4 so that it was not until Miss Collett bagged a birdie 5 at the 518-yard 9th that she could become one up. She was two under par for the nine with 38, while Miss Stifel was perfect with 40.

The West Virginian snared a birdie at the tenth to even affairs and there they stood for three holes, the 13th being halved in birdie five when Miss Collett sank a 35-foot sidehill putt.

This was a crucial play, for while it did not keep Miss Stifel from scoring pars on the next two it enabled Miss Collett to grab two birdies and become 2 up with only 3 to play. They both slipped at the short 16th, getting in a trap, whence they barely reached the green in two. Miss Collett ran up short and then Miss Stifel sealed her doom by rolling to one side and stymieing herself, taking five and losing the match. They played out the round, and Miss Collett bagged her fourth birdie of the half on the 18th, making seven for the 18 holes. Their card:

Miss Collett out 5 4 2 5 6 4 3 4 5—38.
Miss Stifel out 4 4 3 5 6 4 3 4 7—40.
Miss Collett in 5 5 4 5 4 4 4 4 4—39.
Miss Stifel in 4 5 4 5 5 5 3 4 5—42.

SKETCHES OF SOME OF WORLD'S SERIES STARS

The following brief pen sketches of world's series players give a brief history of the career of those who will occupy the spot-light of sportdom next week:

Tate—Senators

Like the manager of the world's champions, Henry Bennett Tate, utility catcher, spent his young days in the coal districts and got his first experience in baseball with sand lot teams in those districts. Born at Whitwell, Tenn., December 3, 1901, Tate migrated with his family to Birmingham, Alabama when he was an infant.

While Benny had a hankering for the backstop job, the neighborhood kids decided he did not have enough heft for that place so he began playing as an infielder. Later, however, he worked around to the place of his first love and after playing in the coal districts in Ohio and Illinois he was signed by the St. Louis Americans. They farmed him to Rock Island in the Three-I league and after one season there he was bought by Mobile of the Southern association for the 1923 season. He was released, however, and then joined the Memphis team from which Washington obtained him two years ago.

Leibold—Senators

Harry Loran Leibold had seen ten years of big league baseball before joining the Washington Americans as a utility outfielder.

Born at Butler, Ind., February 17, 1892, "Nemo" as he is known around the American league circuit, early became a resident of Detroit. He graduated from the semi-professional ranks there to the Milwaukee team of the American association in 1911. After two years with the Brewers he was drafted by Cleveland. In 1915 the Chicago Americans obtained him and six years later he went to the Boston Red Sox from which club Washington purchased him in 1923.

Ruel—Senators

Herold D. Ruel, catcher, is one of the few college men on the Washington champions.

He is a graduate of Washington university, St. Louis, and is a lawyer. His early baseball training was on the sandlots of his home town of St. Louis, where he was born on February 20, 1897. He had become an outfielder in the national game at the age of eighteen that the St. Louis Americans took him to a training camp, but later farmed him to the Memphis Southern association club. After he had played there two years the New York Americans obtained him in 1917.

In June, 1918, Ruel entered an officers' training camp, but after the war he rejoined the Yankees. He was traded to the Boston Americans in 1921 and came to Washington in a trade in 1923. He caught every game for the American league champions in the 1924 world's series and is regarded as one of the brainest backstops in baseball.

Marberry—Senators

It is that of relief pitcher and in it he has had no small part in carrying the Senators on to two American league championships and one world's championship.

Although nearing the age of 26, Marberry did not begin pitching until five years ago. Born on a farm in Freestone county, Texas, on November 30, 1899, Fred had little time for baseball as a youngster, but when nearly grown he did manage to get in some play on Saturdays, holding down an infield position. Later he turned to pitching and got his first professional engagement with Mexia in the Texas-Oklahoma League in 1921 as a result of his showing with the Hillsboro, semi-professional club. Mexia sold him to Little Rock in the Southern association and it was from that club that Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, personally obtained him when on a hunt for "ivory" in the "bushes" in 1923.

Zachary—Senators

Tom Zachary Jonathan Thompson Walton—to give him the name by which he was christened, is one of the few pitchers who made good in the big leagues without a period of seasoning in the minors. Born in Alamance county, North Carolina, on May 7, 1897, Zachary still is a farmer and is as proud of his work in that direction as he is of his pitching for the world's champions.

After making quite a reputation as both a pitcher and hitter in grade and high schools, Zachary entered Guilford college, near Greensboro, where he succeeded as the box star Ernie Shore, who graduated to earn world's series fame with the Boston Americans. Before his college course was completed Zachary enlisted with a Red Cross unit and while waiting at Philadelphia to sail overseas he pitched and won a couple of games for the Philadelphia Americans under the name of Walton.

When the armistice was signed Zachary again turned to baseball and wrote both Connie Mack and Clark Griffith for a job. The Washington manager ordered him to report in February, 1919, but he did not return from overseas in time. Later, however, he was signed by Washington after he had a personal interview with Griffith. He had only fair success in the box until the 1924 world's series; then after other Washington stars had failed he twice turned back the New York Nationals, and kept Washington in the fight for the championship.

McNeely—Senators.

From the sandlots to the big leagues as a $50,000 prize player in the course of less than four years is the record of George Earl McNeely, fleet-footed Californian whose double in the last game of the 1924 world's series gave Washington the championship.

Although he had played around town teams, McNeely never took baseball seriously until after his World war service. In the winter of 1920 he joined a semi-professional team in his home town of Sacramento, where he was born on May 12, 1899. He then played third base and his speed early attracted Pacific Coast League scouts. He decided to cast his lot with the team of his native city and began his professional career in 1922.

A split finger nail sustained while playing the infield caused McNeely to turn to the outfield and there he made his reputation. An appendicitis operation kept him out of the game during much of 1923, but returning in 1924 he finished all of his old time speed and Washington bought him in mid-season to round out its outfield.

WINGFIELD PROVED TOO MUCH FOR CHAMPIONS

BOSTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—Wingfield's pitching proved too much for Washington to overcome today, the Red Sox taking the second game of the series, 3 to 1. Only five hits were made against him, two of which came in the first inning when the Senators scored their run. The spectacular play of Rentera at second base, a recent addition to Boston, was the feature. The score:

WILLS WOULDN'T SIGN TILL HE SAW DEMPSEY'S NAME

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(A. P.)—Jack Dempsey's name on a contract and a gift of $50,000 for training expenses influenced Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, to sign the negro heavyweight for a title match with Dempsey Mullins, who arrived here tonight from Niles, Mich., accompanied by Wills, said these two factors were largely responsible for his decision to accept Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons' proposition for the title clash.

"I am convinced the men behind Fitzsimmons are sincere in their endeavor to promote this match and I am further convinced they are on the level," said Mullins.

"They are going to build a new stadium with a seating capacity of 125,000. This will be located at Michigan City, Ind., about an hour's run from Chicago.

PIRATES HAVE STIFF PRACTICE SESSIONS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 1—(A. P.)—Bill McKechnie divided his Pirate champions into two squads this afternoon, issued orders for everybody to "bear down" and the players went through seven innings of frisky baseballing. The score was 3 to 2, with Babe Adams and Kremer twirling for the second squad and Culloton and Oldham flinging for the lineup which will battle Bucky Harris' Washington Senators for the championship of the baseball world.

Informed that they will be greeted by President Coolidge October 10, when they go to Washington, the team left tonight for Cincinnati for the final three games on the regular schedule.

CAPITAL OF MOROCCAN REBELS IS BURNING

MADRID, Oct. 1—Ajdir, the capital of Abd-el-Krim is burning, General Primo de Riviera, the Spanish commander in chief, reported to the government in a telegram today. The Riff Dan chieftain's own residence was afire, the telegram said.

"S. O. S."

S. O. S. is a code signal only, and not an abbreviation. Officially there is no phrase as "save our ship" or "suspend other service" for which the letters stand. They were adopted as the universal distress signal by the international radio telegraphic convention of 1912. The signal is transmitted as three dots, three dashes and three dots, and was chosen because it is easily sent and easily distinguished.

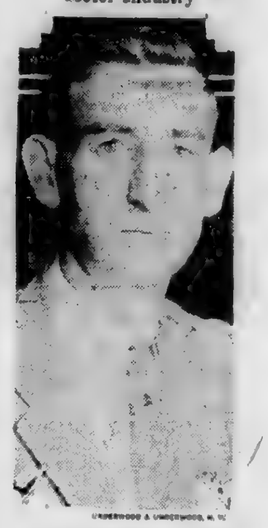
New Fuel May Revolutionize Motor Industry



Thomas Diehanty, a chemist employed in the Department of Commerce, Washington, has discovered the secrets of thirteen German patents seized by the Alien Property Custodian, during the war. The find may revolutionize the motor industry, for the secret is the formula for Methanol, the basis of Synthol, which, it is claimed, will give fifty miles to the gallon in motors weighing half what the present motors weigh.

To complete an organization of a woman's auxiliary for Harley P. Chase post, Veterans of Foreign wars, a meeting is to be held this (Friday) evening in Vets hall, Pawcatuck. The Westerly republican town committee, Wells R. Fowler, chairman, having for its membership from the first voting district of Westerly Charles D. Maxson, Herbert P. Clark, William C. Mudge, Jennie H. Nichols, Mark Pierson and Charles Ruisi and from the second voting district, besides the chairman, Isabella C. Chapman, Elisha C. Burdick, Clarence A. Vars, Edward Pasetti, Charlotte P. Stanton and Harry King, held a meeting Thursday evening one in a series of the past few weeks for making up a slate for town officers to be presented at the republican caucus next Monday night. It was at first planned to have a meeting of the committee at the beach home of a prominent Westerly politician, but it was understood that some of the women members of the town committee objected. Accordingly a sub-committee consisting of Herbert P. Clark and Isabello C. Chapman was reported as named to interview the present members of the Westerly town council and to secure their signatures to that effect. A considerable amount of secrecy is being maintained in the signing of the papers of the republican town committee, it being said that the signers were not permitted to see or know as to whether other present members of the Westerly town council have signed or not. At least two of the present members of the council, apparently those who could not be accused of "dual office holding, are stated to be Councilmen John D. Nichols and Farquhar Smith. Other members, if they have signed, as Councilman Morrison or Rossi, now hold offices in the town government which are appointive by the council, President Campbell or Representative Then there are other members, as Utter, who have been elected to state office since being councilmen, so that the only remaining member of the council is Charles Fowler, whose business requires his presence in New York city the greater part of the time.

It is apparent that the town committee must find new candidates able and willing to accept office as a member of the town council. In this connection it is also reported that the town committee may be enlarged by adding new women members. A report is current that there are some women in Westerly, whom if given an opportunity, would not decline nomination.

A surprise party was given Miss Evangeline Atkinson Wednesday evening at the Lorraine Community house. Miss Atkinson has recently come to Westerly from Nova Scotia and entered the employ of the Lorraine company. In order to make her new home a hospitable one, some thirty of her friends presented her with a black morroco pocketbook and a bouquet of carnations. Games, dancing and refreshments served to complete the evening at which her sister, Mrs. William Senior of Pawcatuck, was chaperone.

Judge Antonio A. Capotosto opened the adjourned Westerly session of Superior court for Washington county, September session at the county [illegible] Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, when consideration was given to the Westerly trial calendar in which were set down over fifty cases, actions at law, cases other than criminal and equity cases.

The docket was disposed of as follows:

Joseph Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lamb of Main street, left Thursday for New York and will sail Saturday for Rome, Italy. For the next seven years he will be a student at the American college in Rome.

Mr. Lamb was selected to continue his studies abroad by Rt. Rev. Bishop Hickey, as a result of his high scholastic standing during his preparatory school work and for the high rating he received in a competitive examination for the honor.

During his studies at Rome, Mr. Lamb will prepare himself for the priesthood, and it is probable that he may be ordained before returning to this country.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The funeral of Dorothy Baxter, the 17 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baxter, was held at the home of the child's parents, Wednesday afternoon, at two o'clock. Rev. F. J. O'Neill read the committal service and burial was in St. Edward's cemetery. The child was kicked by a horse near her home Monday afternoon. It is not known just how the fatality happened, but it is thought that the little girl went near the horse to pet it, when it let its heels fly and struck her. His father heard the child crying and ran to her assistance. A physician was called but the injury proved fatal.

SOME FREAKS OF HUMAN CREDULITY.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

In front of my windows but across the road lies a low meadow, a bit swampy in spots. Through it run two small brooks. Both brooks are bordered with thickets of "tag" alder. Since the prohibitory blight to which farm wages have risen has forbidden the owner to mow this meadow for several years, the alders have begun to spread all over it. It is, in fact, rapidly reverting to its original state of "alder swamp."

Four or five years ago the then owner had the alders along one of the brooks cut down and burned. He was an "old-fashioned" farmer, holding in great contempt all forms of "book-larin's", but pinning a simply credulous faith to what grandfather did or grandmother said. As it was laid down by one or the other of those ancients that alders would be killed, dead, if only cut in the old of the moon in August, my neighbor had those along his brook cut in August and in the old of the moon.

A year later, my other neighbor, who owns the other brook with its alder fringe, had his bushes cut, too. Being a progressive not to say radical sort of fellow, he paid no attention to either month or moon, but had the bushes cut whenever it seemed handiest.

Looking over the meadow this bright fall morning with a somewhat critical and sharply appraising eye, I quite fail to observe even the slightest shade of difference between the new growths which have come up in place of those cut off.

Of course, they both renewed themselves with vigor and zeal. None of them seems to have appreciated the deadly character of an August axe, especially one wielded in the old of the monthly moon.

They took the cutting simply as a bit of helpful pruning and made it serve them as a stimulating incentive to ranker growth. I can't say, with my hand on my heart and my fingers crossed, that those cut in August are any more vogorous and thrifty than those cut in July or September. But, on the other hand, those cut regardless of Mrs. Moon's proportion of display, cannot be classed as stronger than the others. It's just "nip and tuck," with "nip" a little ahead in one place and "tuck" ahead in another, but averaging too much alike to assure the blue ribbon to either.

Now, any farmer who has alders in his meadows has long known that cutting them in June, July, or any of the spring, fall or winter months doesn't seriously annoy them. The evidence which the meadow across the road presents to the eyes of any one who will take the old of the moon doesn't inting of them any other time.

There never was any reason to assume that it would. But reason is about the last thing to be found in farm superstitutions. And it is an entirely functionless faculty in most farmers who cling to such superstitions.

A few years' calm observation of the habits and characteristics of alders, with a few minutes' dispassionate use of the reason with which most of us have been endowed,—however little we use it—would show any alder-owner that cutting down his undesirable tenants would do them no permanent harm and cause them but trifling temporary annoyance, so long as their roots were left in the ground.

When once alders have established themselves along a brook or in a low meadow, the only sure way to exterminate them is to dig them out, roots as well as branches. If they are five or six years old, this is a job for a good team of horses and a stout "snaking chain."—And for more time than most farmers have to spare, to say nothing of work and grime.

But last year, with the evidence of the other two men's failure standing fully developed on every side, the new owner of that moon-regarding farmer's brook proceeded to cut off the alders again. And he, too, waited for the old of the moon in August. Thirteen months have passed since this second trimming and the new growth is already promising to outdo both its fathers and its grandfathers. It stands six to eight feet high and a-b-o-u-t three times thicker than it was before last year's pruning began.

And that's that, as the boys say.

It has set me thinking of some other queer freaks of human credulity in the purely material and natural realm.

There's the "line storm," for one; the "equinoctial" as some prefer to call it. The superstition which believes that a special sort of storm occurs in September when the sun crosses the equinoctial line seems to have been brought to us from England. For it is as common there as here. Sailors and soiltillers alike share the belief.

It is hard to imagine how the idea started. There is no basis for it, either in reason or in experience. This "line" which the sun is supposed to cross and whose crossing stirs it into furious stormbreeding is quite nonexistent. It is simply an imaginary mark on a celestial map, indicating to map-readers when the sun has completed an exact half of its southward swing, which lasts from June 21 to December 21. The sun doesn't actually cross anything on September 21, for there is nothing more for it to cross that day than any other day. Nor is there anything in the fact that it is half-way between the summer and the winter solstice to indicate a storm, any more than when it is one-quarter or one-sixty-fourth of the way.

Not only is the idea of a special "line storm" repugnant to reason, it is emphatically negatived by observation. Weather records kept by numerous stations in various parts of the earth show that there is no greater frequency of storms when the sun "crosses the line" than at any other time. In fact one series of observations and records extending over 50 years in Scotland showed conclusively that, during those 50 years, there were actually fewer storms in the five-day periods following March 21 and September 21 than on either of the five-day periods prereding and following.

In other words, instead of there being any certainty of a "line" storm, there is a slight probability of better weather than normal on and around September 21.

There is another "sign" widely accepted by the unthinking in my neighborhood connected with the moon's orbit. When the moon rises far to the south some old Uncle Jeremiah will tell you that it prophesies a long, hot, dry spell. When the same moon rises well to the north, he will again shake his head and warn you to look out for a cold snap. As if the moon, instead of following a fixed and unvarying orbit went woozily wandering about the heavens, first 'way up north and then 'way down south, with a view to warning Uncle Jeremiah what the weather was going to be!

I'm sure I've told you about how Uncle Gad and his neighbor Ives used to squabble over the right time of the mooon in which to plant cucumbers. Never mind them, now. But I can't meet a neighbor on a moonlight night this year of grace 1925 without his asking me if I had noticed what a "wet" or a "dry" moon there was.

And here's the curious thing about this "wet" or 'dry" moon stuff: those same neighbors are about equally divided in their opposite interpretations. One, for instance, holds with some fabulous "old Indian" that the moon means drouth if its lower horn tips down so steeply that a dry powder-horn couldn't be hung on it. Another holds just as firmly that the moon means rain if the same horn won't hold a wet watey-bucket.

It would seem, according to one, that if the powder-horn slips off and spills the powder. It will catch fire in falling and burn things up: according to the other it is equally certain that, if the water-bucket slips off, it will promptly develop into a soaking rain-storm.

It would really be ludicrous to follow up such utterly silly ideas. It would be worse than ludicrous: it would be depressing. For what hope of progress can be found in a state of mind which will neither listen to reason nor learn from experience.

I know quite a number of old farmers who are terribly down on what they call "scientific farming," which they denounce as impractical. Because some half-baked youngster from an agricultural college ties himself all up in tangles, trying to farm it according to some college ritual he has committed to memory and regardless of changing conditions, they denounce all attempts to use science as a farm ally. Instead, they prefer to cling to father's methods and be guided by grandfather's superstitions.

Instead of being impractical, true science is the most uncon.promising-ly practical thing on earth. It is, always and everywhere, a demand to know, as opposed to the tendency to guess. It is, primarily, the collection and statement of proven facts; secondarily only, the formulation of presumed laws from those ascertained facts. Its prime article of faith is that the more we know the wiser and more efficient we shall be.

And if that isn't good farming sense I'd like to know what is! There isn't another vocation on earth which depends so completely upon the action or inaction of natural forces. The more we know about those forces the more likely we shall be to use them effectively when they are helpful, and to control them when they are antagonistic. That is exactly what science seeks—knowledge of what nature is and how nature acts.

Of course, the scientific gentlemen, being human like the rest of us, are liable to make mistakes. Uncle Jeremiah and Uncle Gad and Uncle like make mistakes, too. One difference between them is that the scientists are perfectly willing to learn from their own mistakes, while Uncle Jeremiah et al refuse to admit that they can or do err occasionally.

And also, being as we have noted, quite human, scientists are sometimes prone to be a little bumptious. They sometimes jump to conclusions and fall into the ditch through failure properly to estimate its width and depth. But they average a good deal better in the matters of painstaking research and careful statement than most of us non-scientific and "practical" folks do.

You remember what the Wise King once said: "Though thou shouldst bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him."

But, perhaps, by the kindly eliminations of nature and the slow broadening of knowledge, we may somewhat diminish the number of "fools." Wouldn't that be desirable?

THE FARMER.

America Best Lighted Land.

During 1924 in the United States, 252,000,000 large electric lamps were sold. That represents a per capita consumption of electric light of 2.3 lamps. Compare this with England, Hungary, Austria, France, Italy, Germay and Switzerland combined, with a total population of 200,000,000, exceeding the United States by 90,000,000. In 1923 the per capita consumption in those European countries was only two-thirds of a lamp.

The record in the United States is all the more striking when it is recalled that the history of illumination in this country covers only 133 years—fish oil, whale oil, colza oil, lard oil, kerosene, kerosene gas, gas and electricity. Electric light in this country today is a leading salesman, an important factor in manufacture and a necessity in the home, office and school.

Electricity as a salesman is growing in importance. Recent tests proved that only 35 per cent. of the pedestrians walked on the poorly lighted side of a street in the retail district and only 7.2 per cent. stopped to look at window displays. With improved lighting 60 per cent. of them stopped to inspect the displays in well-lighted shop windows.

Illuminated signs, of course, are no novelty. A recent survey found 300,000 in the country and the field barely scratched.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Spanish Have a Biarritz.

The Spanish counterpart to Biarritz the famous French vacation resort, is San Sebastian, where Peter the Great of Russia, and Austrian monarchs as well as those from Sweden years ago, went and drank scented waters. It is at present the king of Spain's summer resort. The spa was chemically scented in the olden days, as the kings apparently didn't care for the natural taste and smell of the waters.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

In "The Golden Princess," now current at the Palace, Betty Bronson—the lovable, adorable "Peter Pan"—establishes conclusively her right to stardom. You will agree that Paramount made no mistake in promoting her when you see her in this powerful melo-romance of California in the golden days of '49.

For the realization that this is her first starring vehicle has prompted Betty to call forth every ounce of talent she possesses, with the result that she registers with a resounding bang! She is by turns tender and wistful, prankish and mischievous, flightin' mad and deliriously glad—one minute a teasing, laughing, romping tomboy, unbelievably lovely in her rough mining outfit, the next a tearful, woeful, griefstricken girl crying as if her heart will break. It's Betty at her supreme best—sweeter, more fascinating than ever, and revealing all the subtlety and skill of the seasoned trouper!

Frances Agnew who wrote the screen adaptation from the story by Bret Harte, and Clarence Badger, who produced it with such convincing realism, deserve a generous share of the credit. The production fairly oozes with historic atmosphere and color, and the photography and backgrounds leave nothing to be desired.

Although Betty's is the outstanding performance, the supporting players acquit themselves with considerable distinction. Neil Hamilton has a film personality that fairly radiates manliness and he makes an excellent leading man. Rockliffe Fellowes is a genuinely good "bad man"; and Phyllis Haver handles an exacting role with deftness and finesse.

Palace Theatre

It is doubtful if more than a few hundred people ever heard the famed harp "that once through Tara's halls" but upwards of two millions of Americans each season for the past several years have heard its twentieth century equivalent, played by Miss Winifred Bambrick, who is the harp soloist for Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who is now on his thirty-second annual tour at the head of the great band which bears his name. Because of her small size and the great size of the instrument which she plays, the presence of Miss Bambrick with the Sousa organization is interesting, and she is a figure of unusual interest when she appears in a bright frock against the background of the one hundred sombre-clad musicians who make up the Sousa ensemble.

Miss Bambrick is probably the only woman who has been a harp soloist with a band, and her instrument, usually seen only in connection with an orchestra, is but one of the many novelties which Sousa has welded into his programs. Her appearance with the Sousa organization, of course, is due to the fact that she is one of the best harpists in America of either sex, and Miss Bambrick's solos are one of the features of the Sousa program which are certain to be widely acclaimed. But she is more than a mere soloist. Miss Bambrick is the only woman soloist with the Sousa organization who maintains her place on the platform throughout the program, and during the band numbers she performs an important service which Sousa describes as maintaining liason between the reed sections and the brass. For some reason, not well understood either by Sousa or by sound experts, who are not musicians, the presence of the harp makes a difference in the "finished product" of the Sousa presentation which is readily noticeable if Miss Bambrick finds it necessary to cease playing for a few bars to tighten a string upon her instrument, and of all instruments, the harp, with its susceptibility to weather and atmospheric conditions is most difficult to keep in exact pitch.

Miss Bambrick was born in Canada and like all of the sousa soloists, received her training entirely in America. Her present engagement may be a farewell one, as she has entered into a contract with Lionel Powell, the London concert manager, for an engagement abroad.

A man never fully understands the meaning of court costs until he has been the defendant in a breach of promise suit.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Sunday night will see an exceptionally fine show at the Broadway theater which includes two big features, a comedy, Kinograms and augumented orchestra all for 25c.

A fashion show in which more than a million dollars worth of sable furs were paraded before Claire Windsor, who plays one of the leading roles in the Tiffany production, Souls for Sables, suggested from Garland & Co., by David Graham Phillips, is one of the big features in this production, which will be seen for the first time in this city at the Broadway theater, commencing Sunday.

A dozen professional models were employed for this one scene, and practically every furrier in Los Angeles was called upon to contribute his sable furs for display. To insure the safety of this fortune in furs a dozen men from a private detective agency were stationed in and about the Tiffany studios, and no one was permitted on the set unless they were actually engaged in the scene or attached to the production department. Eugene O'Brient and Claire Windsor is featured in this first attraction.

Breed Theater

Durand of the Bad Lands, the William Fox production starring Buck Jones, now at the Breed theater for today and Saturday, is a colorful, fast moving drama of the great southwest, in which hard-riding, quick-shooting he-men and captivating, heroic girls play important parts.

The plot centers around a "bad man of the Bad Lands," which is enough to insure plenty of action and thrills. Buck Jones plays the "bad man" role, so it is safe to say he isn't beyond redemption, especially when the heroine (Marian Nixon) comes into his life.

An excellent cast is to be seen in support of Mr. Jones and Miss Nixon, including such well-known names as Malcolm Waite, Fred De Silva, Luke Cosgrove, Carol Lombard and George Lessley.

Chapter five of Play Ball with Allene Ray and Walter Miller with John J. McGraw and the New York Giants as members of the cast is also on this bill. Baby Blues a juvenile comedy completes this fine program.

Coming to the Breed

Constance Talmadge plays her most unique role in Her Sister From Paris, which First National will present at the Breed theater Sunday. For the first time in her life, she acts the part of her own sister!

The story has to do with the exploits of a young and charming—although too thoroughly domesticated — wife who educates her husband into showing his love for her. To do it, she impersonates her own madcap sister from Paris, who has become famous as a dancer.

It was necessary to evolve for Constance a disguise which would so completely transform her that even her husband wouldn't know her, and at the same time retain enough of her real loveliness so that she looked like herself. Particular care was taken with her gowns, and dressmakers worked for weeks before Constance were satisfied. In the early part of the story she appears as a meek little person in housewifely garb, and then suddenly changes into bizarre, loud, brazen young dancer.

In her first character she is unable to hold her husband's love; in her second character she charms him so completely that he even elopes with her, thinking she is her own sister!

Wit is the wine of intellect and ill nature turns into vinegar.

Advises Ordinary Buttermilk for Wrinkles and Enlarged Pores

This Good Looking Young Woman Uses Old Time Recipe of Buttermilk Cream in a New Way—A Gentle Massage with Fingers Around Eyes and Mouth Before Retiring All That Is Necessary.

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness was grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to ensure a beautiful complexion and snow-white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream, which you can buy in small quantities ready to use at any first-class drug store by simply asking for "Howard's Buttermilk Cream."

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just a common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream.

To get the best effect, be sure to follow the simple directions. Lee & Osgood and all druggists guarantee a noticeable improvement after the first application or they will refund the money.

WILLIAM SAWYER, N. LONDON SALESMAN, ABSENT FROM HOME SINCE AUG. 29TH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Gertrude Sawyer, of 9 Hope street, today made it known that her husband, William Sawyer, 44, is missing from his home when she requested the police to institute a search for the missing man. Sawyer, who had been employed as a salesman by the Putnam Furniture company, 300 Bank street, left New London Aug. 29, intending to go to New York for a visit. Since that time Mrs. Sawyer has not heard from her husband and knows nothing of the man's actions since he left this city.

Sawyer is described as being about five feet, four inches in height, medium build, brown hair, gray over temples; and has blue eyes. When he disappeared Sawyer wore a brown suit, light fedora hat and blue overcoat.

It became known today with the discontinuance of motorcycle officers of the New London police department that the motorcycles have outlived their usefulness and before this form of duty is resumed next year at least two new cycles will have to be purchased by the city. It is probable, too, that the new cycles when purchased will be of the scout type, the same as is used by the state police department, instead of the larger type, which has been used for several years. The smaller type are as powerful as the larger type, but they are much easier to handle.

The engagement is announced of Miss Alice Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howell S. Bennett, 360 Ocean avenue, to Willard Francis Prior, Oneida, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Bray, 115 Riverview avenue, are entertaining Mrs. Allen P. Smith, of Deer Isle, Me. Mrs. John Brassell, of Columbus, O., is the guest of her cousin, Miss Josephine O'Connell, of 4 Bulkeley place.

Patrolman Howard Sloan is no longer a member of the police department of the city of New London. This afternoon that officer tendered his resignation to City Manager William A. Holt as a result of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer having been preferred against the officer by Richard Storey, Jordan Village, Waterford, acting as guardian for his minor daughter, Ruth. The resignation was anticipated, for a hearing as to have been given Sloan tomorrow afternoon at the office of the city manager.

Sloan is scheduled to appear in the Waterford town court tomorrow afternoon and answer charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Maurice L. Hendel has sold an undivided one-half interest in the business known as the Firemen's Lunch room, 237 Bank street, together with an undivided one-half interest in the realty where the restaurant is located, to Samuel Tuvman, of Springfield, Mass.

Ella W. Stearns has sold a house and lot, corner of lower Boulevard and Parkway, to the Misses Mary M. and Marguerite Donohue.

Charles Cowan has returned to his home at Stonington after having been under treatment at Lawrence hospital.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins S. Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of Charles Smith, 53 Lewis street, and H. G. Snow, Ocean avenue, to be suspended. Commissioner Stoeckel also caused the operators' licenses of Dr. Charles Kaufman, Montauk avenue, and Antone Mitchell, Jefferson avenue, to be returned to the respective owners.

Mrs. John C. Ellis, 23 Sherman street, complained to the police late this afternoon that her nephew, Joseph Powers, a youth residing in Philadelphia and who is visiting his aunt, had stolen a bicycle belonging to one of the boarders at the Ellis house. While the police were instituting a search for the youth he returned to the Ellis home with the bicycle and stated that he had not intended to leave the city, but simply went for a ride to Ocean beach.

Motorcycle duty in the police department was discontinued today until next spring when Motorcycle Officers Augustus Ray and George McCaskey were relieved of that form of duty. Officer Ray was assigned to patrol duty and McCaskey, who is serving a week's suspension for violation of the rules and regulations, will be assigned to patrol duty Saturday, when his suspension will have been lifted.

It was "dunk" night for members of the coast guard at New London Wednesday. A couple of members of the force supposed to be seeking violators of the liquor war on the water, were arrested when they created a disturbance at the skating rink in Golden street. Officer Braxton Hill had the task of subduing them. He was equal to it and accomplished that duty without such harsh usage of William E. Ward and Rosario Liotti both drunk and fighting. He did have to use force with the pair, but he kept his composure well and they have reason to be thankful for the consideration shown to them. William T. Sizer, also a coast guardsman, was found down and out on Bank street in front of the Klinck building. He said he was on a lone spree and that his condition was due to his consumption of "alky" and "jakey." Sizer is a New London boy and the probation officer represented to the court that Sizer had developed a lawless disposition for the first time, as he had been under the eye of the officer for many years. The trio overstaid their liberty and that will bring them punishment at the coast guard station, so the court directed that the men should be delivered there to take the discipline that is coming to them.

Richard Hodson, a frequent charge at the Learned Mission, went there last night intoxicated and was promptly handed over to the police, that he might have a chance to sleep off his drunk and not disturbe others. He attempted to dodge facts when he was presented in court, but he finally acknowledged that he had sopped up a lot of cheap booze and that it floored him. He is a debtor to the mission for board and lodging, so he was given an opportunity to pay what he owes or take a term in jail. He chose the former course.

William H. Burdick, driver of one of the trucks of the Amour Beef company, this afternoon was ordered by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer a charge of blocking traffic. Burdick caused, it is alleged, traffic to be held up on Main street several minutes, during the congested period of the day.

Edward Kleinberg, 55 Shaw street, complained to the police this evening that some time last night a thief entered his yard and stole his bicycle.

Mrs. Edward Bangs, 11 Garfield avenue, made a complaint to the police this forenoon that while her son was at St. Mary's parochial school earlier in the day the boy's bicycle was stolen. Later Mrs. Bangs informed the police that the wheel had been located at the home of a Brewer street youth, where parts of the cycle had been removed. The cycle also was damaged, it is claimed.

The body of John L. Gibson, engineman second class, one of the two recovered from submarine S-51, will not be buried from his residence, 25 Spicer avenue, Groton, as was at first believed. Arrangements were completed today to have the body forwarded to the former home of the sailor at Bangor, Me., where the funeral and burial will take place.

At Ashmont, Mass., this morning, Edward Ruddy May of Hartford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. May of 53 Montauk avenue, New London, and Miss Janet O'Donnell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Donnell of Ashmont, were united in marriage at St. Mark's church. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May of Norwich, uncle of the bridegroom, solemnized the marriage and Rev. Francis E. May of Mount Carmel, another uncle of the bridegroom, celebrated the nuptial high mass.

The bride was attended by Miss Catherine Cosgrove of Marlboro, Mass., maid of honor and had Misses Olive Rooney of Waltham, Eleanor St. Louis of Marlboro, as bridesmaids. The best man was Councilor James A. May, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were George T. O'Donnell, Jr., of Ashmont, brother of the bride; William O. Robertson and Francis B. Mubry of New York, Francis B. MacMahon of South Norwalk, George D. Pisoselli of New York and Clarence R. Halloran of Framingham, Mass.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the Hotel Somerset, Boston.

Miss O'Donnell is a graduate of Notre Dame convent, Roxbury, Mass., also of Miss Chamberlayne's school, Boston and the Lesley school, Boston. Mr. May was graduated from Niagara university and studied law at Fordham university. He has been admitted to the Connecticut and New York bars. He is a member of Gamma Eta Gamma.

As a result of a man and a youth having been attacked by a U. S. V. police dog owned by Edward Figourey, Main street, recently when the pedestrians were near the corner of Church and Main streets, the latest of which attacks occurred last evening, Dog Warden John Sweezy this afternoon caused Figourey to be served with a notice, prepared by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky. The owner of the animal must hereafter keep the dog leashed or on the Figourey premises at all times and that a failure of Figourey to obey the mandate will result in the owner of the dog being prosecuted.

A bull owned by Joe Daboni of Waterford, got the owner into trouble recently for last night in the Waterford town court, Daboni drew a fine of $5 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of abusing, resisting and interfering with an officer in the performance of duty. Complaint had been made to the Waterford authorities because Daboni maintained the bull in a pasture and only secured by a small dog chain. When Officers Frank Peabody and Chester Brigham went to the Daboni farm to remonstrate with Daboni for not properly securing the bull, Daboni attacked the officers with a flow of abuse and criticised the officers in connection with the complaint. In imposing the nominal fine, Judge Dimmock warned Daboni to keep the animal properly and safely secured at all times.

Herbert A. Haney, administrator of the estate of Thomas G. Haney, has sold a house and lot on Faire Harbour place to Michael J. and Mary E. Corcoran.

TWO FRAUDS IN UNIFORM ARE TOLD TO BEAT IT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 1—Another scheme of young men, working the public by securing funds for their personal gain and on the representation that they are procuring the funds for a legion organization, was nipped in the bud here this afternoon.

Two young men attired in civilian garb, appeared at the police station, where they requested permission to sell literature about the streets, the men displaying discharges from the army in order to obtain permission to sell the literature without being compelled to take out a license, for which a fee is charged. After inspecting the discharges, Acting Desk Sergeant William Babcock granted the men permission to sell the literature. A short time after the pair left the police station they went to their lodging place, donned army uniform and then started out to sell the literature. Pedestrians were held up and an officer, in looking over the literature immediately recognized the booklet as foreign to any reference to the world war, also determined that the disposers of the booklets were not connected with any legion whereby that organization was to derive benefit from the sales. The officer decided that the sellers of the booklets were the sole beneficiaries of the generosity of the public and that the scheme was concocted solely to enable the two young men to obtain an easy livelihood. The pair was escorted to the police station where they admitted that the money obtained by the sale of the booklet was for their personal use. Acting Captain J. Sullivan reprimanded the imposters and ordered them to get out of the city on the first train, which they did.

man Fred Caron of Groton barracks, charged with poultry theft. The accused was locked up at the New London police station and this evening was presented before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church at Montville, and a fine of $25 and costs with a suspended sentence of one year in jail was imposed.

Pisowski on Sept. 28th visited the farms of William Hastman and Abraham Listahitz, both at Oakdale and from the former's farm seven chickens were stolen and from the latter farm a dozen chickens were taken away. The thefts were reported to the state police and this forenoon after having investigated the thefts, Officer Caron went to the home of Pisowski where the accused was taken into custody and after several of the stolen chickens had been located. The chickens not found, it was disclosed had been sold in the market by Pisowski.

William Walsh, Montville was also before Justice Church tonight charged with the theft of three automobile tires from an automobile owned by Listahitz. Walsh was fined $25 and costs and was given a suspended sentence of six months in jail.

Walsh went to the Listahitz farm the same day that Pisowski stole the chickens and going to the garage removed three tires from the wheels of Listahitz's automobile. State Policeman Caron investigated the theft and arrested Walsh late this afternoon.

MARKET WAS STRONG.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Relaxation of the recent strain in the money market paved the way for a vigorous recovery in stock prices today. Standard industrial shares assumed the leadership of the advance, with bullish enthusiasm reaching its greatest intensity in the motor and rubber shares and a few of the specialties. Net gains of two to five points were scattered freely throughout the list.

Lowering of the Bank of England's discount rate from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent. effectively dispelled fears that the New York Federal Reserve bank would raise its rate at this time. With call money rates showing progressive ease throughout the day, this conviction grew stronger as trading proceeded and was borne out after the close of the market at the meeting of the bank's directors. Call money appearen to be more plentiful with the passing of the period of heavy dividend and interest disbursements. Trade developments were mainly favorable and were utilized to advantage by traders operating on the constructive side of the market. Freight movement for the week ended Sept. 19 again exceeded one million cars, testifying to a substantial volume of fall trade. Crude oil production again was reported to be on the decline. The announcement early in the day that French debt proposals had been found unacceptable was ignored as a market factor in view of the virtual certainty that attempts would be continued to reach a satisfactory settlement.

Speculative energies in the motor group were concentrated on new leaders, curbing the recent violent fluctuations which had been in progress among special favorites. Dodge was a star performer, mounting four points to a new high record above 33 on an enormous turnover. General Motors resumed its upward movement with fresh vigor, attaining a new peak price at 112 7-8 and closing 3 3-8 points net higher at 111 5-8. Gains of one to three points were registered by Chrysler, Hudson, Mack Trucks, Chandler, Dodge preferred, White and Pierce-Arrow.

Time stocks kept pace with the recovery in the motors. U. S. Rubber was the favorite in this group, soaring five points to a new top price at 69 5-8 on transactions exceeding 100,000 shares. Estimates of increased earnings this year and the company's strong crude rubber position attracted buying orders to the stock. Lee Rubber and Tire, Goodyear, B. F. Goodrich and Fisk 1st preferred followed with more moderate gains.

With U. S. Steel again taking a prominent part in the advance, buying interest was reawakened in many representative industrial shares. General Electric spurted up five points and rallies of two to six points included Railway Steel Spring, American Can, American Agricultural Chemical preferred, American Linseed issues, Fleischmann, Allied Chemical, Barnet Leather and Central Leather preferred. Heavy buying of North American was based on predictions of good results from recent expansion on the Pacific coast. Oils moved up under the leadership of Mariand, Atlantic Refining and Pan-American. Some profit taking appeared in these issues before the close but was easily absorbed.

The reaction of sterling to the cut in the British bank rate was the most interesting development in foreign exchange trading. The demand rate at one time fell as low as $4.82 3-16, the lowest since England's return to the gold standard, but it subsequently recovered to around $4.84. Belgian francs moved up about 4 1-2 cents on reports that negotiations soon would be opened for a large stabilization credit or loan.

The easier credit situation was reflected in the drop in call loans to 4 1-2 per cent. after renewals at 5 1-2. Time money and commercial paper were firm with the rates nominally unchanged although asking rates on six months time loans were quoted as high as 5 per cent.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Lemire and family of Providence street are moving to Westerly, R. I.

Miss Emma Molleur of Providence street has entered the William W. Backus hospital training school for nurses at Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rheaume of South B street have begun the erection of a new bungalow in Montville.

President Joseph C. Marsan of Council Gagnon, No. 208, Union St. Jean Baptiste has announced the delegates from Norwich, Baltic and Taftville to the general convention of the union to be held in Holyoke, on October 13th next as follows; Joseph E. Rochette, George Lacroix, Joseph D. Pratte, Arthur P. Cote, Joseph C. Marsan, Joseph O. Tellier, Francois Mathieu and Albert Frechette.

L'Union Saint Jean Baptiste d'Amerique is an association devoted to the interests fo American citizens of French descent, the primary object of which is to provide them with an active and efficient organization capable of bringing together their widely scattered groups and co-ordinating their energies and efforts for the general welfare of all.

It is a fraternal beneficiary society incorporated in March, 1900, under the laws of the state of Rhode Island. Its operations extend throughout all the New England states as well as the states of New York, Michigan, Illinois and California. At this date, its membership numbers over 50,000, and its assets have nearly reached the three million dollar mark. The valuation of death certificates, made by the insurance department of Rhode Island as of December 31, 1924, gives the society a percentage of solvency of 105.519.

This showing is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that l'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique limits its membership to Catholic American citizens of French origin.

The Society does not however confine its activities to the protection of the family and to the material relief of the sick and afflicted. Since its foundation, it has devoted its untiring efforts to keep above in its members, the qualities which distinguished their forefathers and constitute their most precious contribution to American civilization.

Moreover, l'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique maintains a scholarship fund, which at the present time insures a college education to 44 children of its members. This fund is supported by members' contributions. Another fund, supported in the same manner and called the fund for the aged and incurable members and for the wives and children of deceased members, brings timely relief to more than 125 needy and suffering members as well as to widows and orphans of members, through the means of monthly pensions. Numerous additional activities, of a fraternal, religious and civic nature, are also to the credit of the society.

This is the year of its 25th anniversary. Such an event in the life of the association could not be passed unobserved, and it has seemed fit to celebrate the occasion in a most appropriate manner. Due preparations to this effect have therefore been made by a competent committee in order to insure complete success of the festivities which are scheduled to take place on October 12, 13 and 14, in Holyoke, Mass. The chairman of this committee is Joseph Lussier, editor of La Justice of Holyoke, and the secretary, John T. Noy. On the same dates will also be held the eleventh general convention of the society to which will convene nearly 500 delegates of the various councils.

The supreme officers of the society, are: Mgr. Charles Dauray, P. D. of Woonsocket; spiritual adviser, Rev. Phillas L. Jalbert, North Dartmouth, Mass., assistant spiritual adviser; Felix Gatineau, Southbridge, Mass., honorary president; Henri T. Ledoux, Nashua, N. H., presidential, Arthur Daviau, Waterville, Me., first vice president; Edward A. Brodeur, Worcester, second vice president; Evarite A. Marcotte, Kankakee, Ill., third vice president; Elie Vezina, Woonsocket, secretary; J. Arthur Favreau, Boston, treasurer; F. A. Faust, M. D., Pawcatuck, medical examiner; J. George Lafaivre, Syracuse, comptroller; Eugene L. Jalbert, Woonsocket, legal adviser.

The directors are J. Henri Riopelle, M. D., Saginaw, Mich.; Gedeon Vallee, Lewiston, Me.; Alma Forcier, of Goodyear; Prime Robichaud, Gardner, Mass.; Telesphore Malo, Chicago; J. B. E. Chevrier, Winooski, Vt.; Adonat J. Demers, Woonsocket, Romeo A. Gelinas, Manchester, N. H.; Emile Dubuc, Pawtucket; J. C. Z. Potvin, D. D. S., Springfield; J. Ubald Paquin, M. D., New Bedford, and Edmond Cadoret, Torrington. The home office of the union is located in Woonsocket.

There is to be a meeting of Troop 3, Boy Scouts, in the recreation rooms of the Taftville Congregational church Friday evening. Scout Master Harold E. Linderson is desirous of a large attendance.

SUN'S RAYS BLIND WILLIMANTIC DRIVER, HITS NORWICH AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 1.—Several people were shaken up, two slightly injured and the machines badly damaged when a Chevrolet touring car owned and driven by Fred Cunningham, a photographer of Main street, this city, and a Chandler sedan owned by Albert H. Chase of Norwich and operated by his wife Mrs. Ada R. Chase, collided on Brick Top road two miles from this city about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The Norwich car was headed for that city and riding with Mr. Chase were Mrs. Colt, Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Pearson. The Chevrolet came from the opposite direction and in rounding the bend near the A. H. Anderson home, Mr. Cunningham claims that he completely lost sight of the road when the setting sun struck directly in his eyes. In that instant his car collided bean on with the Chase machine. The shock broke the windshield of the Willimantic car inflicting cuts on the driver's face. Mrs. McGuiniss, wife of Dr. McGuiness of this city, who was one of three women riding in the Cunningham machine suffered severe cuts on the face. She was taken into the Anderson home where she and Mr. Cunningham received treatment by Dr. F. E. Guild of Windham Center. The Norwich people escaped injuries.

In some manner the switch key of the Willimantic machine was broken and within a few moments the racing motor became overheated to such an extent that there was danger that the machine would catch fire. Officer Nicholas Orlando of the local police department, who was called, could not approach the motor upon his arrival due to the excessive heat and finding no other course for quick action shot two bullet holes through the gasoline tank to drain out the supply. The damage to the Willimantic car consisted of broken front springs, demolished radiator, bent axle, broken windshield and broken steering wheel. The care was hauled to the Jordan Buick garage here for repairs. The front of the Norwich machine was badly smashed and the car was towed to Norwich for repairs.

HEALTH IN WINTER SHOULD BE GUARDED

The weekly bulletin of the state health department, says:

Now that "old Sol" has seemingly changed back into his winter schedule, laughingly rising earlier in the morning and running quickly to cover before the day is wholly spent, one is confronted with the problem "what now in the sport line?" Outdoor sports have become such an integral part of the daily programme that one is at first inclined to resent this change back to "normalcy." But the benefits that have been derived from the extended daylight of the summer months are fresh in one's mind, and are evident in the ruddy complexions and elasticity of the muscles as the sport or another has been indulged in.

At this vantage point in the calendar one should make immediate plans to carry over some of these health measures into the winter months. The power of the sunlight to promote health is an accepted fact. Even unbelievers are willing to admit that their intimacy with the sun's rays is the cause of their renewed vigor with which they are returning from mountain, lake, or shore where they have spent their holiday. Garden enthusiasts, too, credit their new energy to their exercise in the sun, while they view with pride the product of their labors.

There is still walking and hiking—an all year sport. By rising earlier in the morning one can still take advantage of the sunlight and walk to town. One, two or three miles of a brisk walk will put an edge on the day. Or, one can grasp the best part of the day by lunching in the open in some sheltered spot, or indulging in a few moments of vigorous play while the sun is still at its height. This practice could well continue during the winter months as exercise in the open air is rated higher than any form of exercise indoors.

Exercise there must be to keep the blood circulating freely. Sitting by the open fire, or overheated radiator is not conductive to health. Some part of every day should be spent in the open.

Meanwhile these late fall days should not slip by without taking advantage of them to the fullest extent.

INCOME TAX DELINQUENTS MANY IN NEW ENGLAND

Deputy collectors of internal revenue checking up on persons liable for income taxes during the month of August found the fourth highest number of delinquents in the Boston supervisors district, which comprises the six New England states, according to word from the bureau of internal revenue at Washington.

The New England states reported 1,017 delinquents, the collections amounting to $30,899, while additional assessments to the amount of $2,169 were made. The division with headquarters at Detroit, including the states of Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia, reported the largest number of delinquents 1,610, with tax collections amounting to $37,314, and additional assessments totaling $4,573.

During August a total of 1,164 miscellaneous tax delinquents were discovered in the New England states, resulting in collections amounting to $20,193, with additional assessments of $14,823. This was the seventh highest number of such delinquents for any section of the country.

The total number of tax delinquents discovered during August who never made a return was 23,830, of whom 9,688 were income tax delinquents and 14,142 delinquent in the payment of miscellaneous taxes. "The figures shown are not the result of a special drive but is part of the continuing work of the bureau," the report points out.

The addition tax collected as a result of this work totaled $4,162,998, while the additional tax levied amounted to $4,554,254.

INCOME TAX COLLECTORS GOING TO HARTFORD SCHOOL

Announcement of the opening of the third income tax school to be held at Hartford, Oct. 19, 20 and 21, for the further instruction of internal revenue field deputies and members of the office staffs has been made by Col. Robert O. Eaton, U. S. internal revenue collector, Col. W. Ellery Allyn, chief field deputy, has ordered in all field deputies in Connecticut, 40 in number and 16 field deputies from Rhode Island have been ordered to join the Connecticut officials at the school. Members of the local office staff connected with the department handling income tax affairs will also join the school. The study is instituted at this time in preparation for the sending out of 1925 report blank.

Field Supervisor Thomas B. Hassett of the Washington office will be the instructor and the city of Hartford has offered the use of part of the old state house for classroom, through Superintendent of Public Buildings Anthony. The school is for the purpose of informing all deputies and officials connected with the income tax returns of changes in rulings of that taxpayers may be aided in preparation of their reports. Instruction of the deputies has been ordered for the past two years by the internal revenue office at Washington and the work has proved beneficial to taxpayers generally in helping them to file correctly their reports, Colonel Eaton said.

The Rhode Island office, being smaller than the local department, sends its deputies to Connecticut for instruction. Supervisor Hassett, who will conduct the school, is a veteran with 13 years spent in the service.

RIGHT FOODS NEEDED TO GIVE CHILDREN HEALTH

Children cannot be trusted to select their own food. Given a free choice they gravitate toward sweet things—candies, cakes, pastries, or toward spiced things like pickles and relishes just as a magnet picks up iron filings. For endless ages the jam pot and the cookie jar have been pictured as the pantry tempters of childhood. Many a downfall has been laid to their door, for are they not even just beyond reach.

Now cookies and jams play a part in the child's diet if they are not used to excess. Cookies, if simply made, are just a glorified breadstuff, and jams, if not too sweet, but an intensified fruit. As a part of the regular meal they are an excellent source of nourishment. But there are other foods which, by virtue of their more bland flavor, do not make so high an appeal to the child, though they rank of higher importance in the diet. Such foods are milk, and cereals and bread and butter. Then there is the family vegetables which startle the child by their garrish display of color. Children make up their mind to dislike them before the taste is registered.

Mothers must come to the rescue during this growing period and select the foods that are best for children. 'All play and no work makes Jack a dull boy." So with food—all sweets will not build a strong child. There mudst be a proper balance between these foods which have a homely though important part to play and those which glorify the whole by an appealing taste only. A generous supply of milk, a plentiful supply of breadstuffs in the form of breakfast cereals and dark breads. A free use of butter, a variety of vegetables, an abundance of fruit. These are fundamental to good health. It is for the mother to guide the child down this pathway with a firm but sympathetic hand, meanwhile attempting to build up confidence in these foods so that they may become to the child the mainstay, in which such foods as sweets and pickles only occasionally intermingle and tea and coffee are given no place.

CRASHED INTO POLE ON CURVE AT TANNERY

About 12:45 o'clock this (Friday) morning a Nash touring car operated by August Dupont, 28, of R. F. D. No. 4, Norwich, smashed into a telegraph pole in front of the plant of the Norwich Belt Manufacturing company on North Main street. Mr. Dupont was driving north and while rounding the curve at the tannery his rear right wheel slipped off the pavement, the car swung to the right into the pole, the impact turning the machine completely around, so that it was headed in the opposite direction. Neither the driver nor a man in the front seat with him was injured, although the passenger was thrown from the car.

The right rear wheel on the car was smashed, as was the right running board. There was a large dent in the body, the gasoline tank was smashed, letting the gasoline run into the street, and the frame was twisted. The wreck was towed away to a Taftville garage.

THE Supremely GOOD FLOUR for EVERY PURPOSE

BISHOP MURRAY IN MAINE HAS HISTORIC DIOCESE

Bishop John Gregory Murray, a native of Waterbury, soon to leave his native diocese of Connecticut, itself rich in pioneer colonial history, in becoming head of the See of Portland, goes to a vast episcopate, stirring with the earliest Catholic tradition of New England and harboring within its borders the descendants of the Indians and the French voyageurs who were present at the first Catholic service ever held in northeastern America.

A Connecticut bishop will now go forth to the expansive territory from which there came a Jesuit missionary to say the first mass celebrated in Connecticut, and where at the beginning of the 15th century French evangelists laid the foundation of the Catholic faith in the northern part of the United States and Canada.

The diocese of Portland which has been placed under the jurisdiction of Bishop Murray has a Catholic history which antedates the landing of the Pilgrims. In 1604, Pierre du Guast, with authority from Henry IV of France to establish colonies in North America, landed in Nova Scotia and pushing southward established a colony on an island which he named Ste. Croix. It was on this island in 1604 that mass was first said within the confines of New England, the celebrant being Pere Nicholas Aubrey of Paris. Descendants of the old Indian tribes which the French missionaries began at once to evangelize still remain and form a part of the diocese which will be administered by Bishop Murray.

After the establishment of the hierarchy during the Revolutionary war period, Bishop Carroll of Baltimore sent Father Ciquard of the Society of St. Sulpice to minister to the Maine Indians. Cardinal Cheverus, when a missionary priest of Boston, also did evangelization work in Maine and in 1824 Bishop Fenwick of Boston established a Catholic colony at Benedicta.

The diocese of Portland was established July 29, 1853, and comprises the entire state of Maine, an area of 29,895 square miles. Its first bishop was Rt. Rev. David William Bacon who was installed in the Portland cathedral, May 31, 1855. He was succeeded by Rt. Rev. James Augustine Healy, 1875-1900—who was succeeded by the present Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston.

Rev. Louis Sebastian Walsh succeeded to the Portland See October 18, 1906 and died in office May 12, 1924, since which time the see has been vacant.

The Catholic population of Maine is 158,241. The Catholic population of the city of Portland has grown from 43 in 1853 when the diocese was established, to more than 18,000. There are 139 secular priests and 28 priests of religious orders in the diocese. The diocese has 168 churches, 95 with resident priests and 73 mission churches. There are also 80 stations with 38 chapels.

There are 670 women attached to religious orders in the Portland diocese. The mother house and novitiate of the Sisters of Mercy, for the diocese, is located in Portland.

Catholic education facilities in the Portland diocese comprise parochial schools in 56 parishes, Catholic high schools, and four orphanage schools.

There are six hospitals under the care of the diocese in Maine, including Queen's hospital in Portland. The diocese has five religious communities, two of the Dominican Fathers and three of the Marist Fathers. In the city of Portland there are seven Catholic parishes besides the parish of the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, the future residence of Bishop Murray.

The trip consumed sixteen days and was filled with interesting visits and some unusual thrills. While in Cohoes, N. Y., the boys had Gov. Alfred C. The governor's party in some manner started away without the governor after a Boy Scout rally and Mr. Burns and Mr. Walsh had the good luck to happen along in the nick of time. The boys also are in possession of the autographs of the mayors of sixty-three cities in addition to that of Governor Smith.

He was found unconscious at the bottom of a flight of stairs by several of his friends and was taken to the hospital. They are at a loss to know how he came to be hurt.

The injured man took the name of Rogers and served under that name in the U. S. navy during the war. ALL ABOARD THE SUNKEN S-51 ARE DEAD SUB. FOUND FLOODED FROM STEM TO STERN

Death Came to the 33 Men Immediately After the S-51 Was Rammed a Week Ago Last Night—Vessel Sank so Quickly That Members of the Crew Were Unable to Shut the Watertight Doors—None of the Men had a Fighting Chance For His Life—Four Bodies Have Been Recovered—Search For Other Bodies is to Be Continued.

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 3—(By the A. P.)—The lives of the men who went down on the submarine S-51 were snuffed out almost immediately after she was rammed and sunk by the steamer City of Rome off Block Island a week ago tonight. The death roll stands at 33.

This was established today when divers found that the last two compartments in which it had been hoped there might have been air, the motor and torpedo rooms, were filled with water. None of the crew who went down had a chance for his life. The submarine sank so quickly that they were unable to shut the watertight doors connecting the compartments and thus give themselves a fighting chance of being brought to the surface with their ship. The story of their efforts to save themselves will never be told.

All that remains now for those who have toiled at the task of rescue is to recover and identify the bodies after which the submarine will be turned over to wreckers for salvage.

SEARCH FOR BODIES IS TO BE CONTINUED

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. CAMDEN, Oct. 2—(By the A. P.)—Seven days of desperate effort by naval authorities to move the crew of the ill-fated S-51 which sank last Friday night after being struck by the City of Rome off Block Island ended tonight when it was definitely established that the ship was flooded with water and that all of her crew who went down with her had perished.

Although hope had been held until the last minute that some of her crew might have found safe refuge in one of the submarine's compartments, that hope was shattered tonight. Diver's punctured the last compartments awaiting exploration, the torpedo room and found that it was flooded as were all other compartments of the ship.

Acting on instructions from Washington Rear Admiral H. H. Rousey will continue the search for bodies. Already five of the crew have been accounted for, two bodies having been recovered Tuesday and three found today. Lieut. S. R. Hickey, in charge of the diving operations, hopes to accomplete his quest for bodies by tomorrow or Sunday if weather conditions permit. The operations will be resumed tomorrow morning.

Although Diver William Lilka succeeded in recovering the bodies of two men in the engine room today, he was unable to move a third body which he found and was forced to give up the attempt when his lighting connections failed.

It is planned tomorrow to remove the torpedo room hatch and to enter it in search for bodies, of which 28 are still unaccounted for. Some of these are believed to have been washed from the submarine when she sank.

Both the Monarch and the Century, the huge crane ships which futilely strained to lift the submarine yesterday were released by Rear Admiral Christy who sent them under tow to New York. Their departure was followed by that of the naval tug Lark, bearing the bodies recovered today. Only a skeleton fleet remains, enough to care for the needs of the divers. The ships remaining are the Camden, in charge of operations, the diving boat Chittenden, the S-47 and the tug Falcon.

A lighted buoy, flashing a sombre red, now marks the grave of the S-51. As the buoy was placed in position a wave rose within it emitting a prolonged moan which was heard by the entire fleet. The buoy spectators felt, made a fitting tombstone for the stricken ship.

The S-50, sister of the S-51, which has been pumping air into the sunken vessel in an effort to lighten it, returned to the submarine base at New London tonight to start a regular run.

The S-1 arrived at the scene of operations at 8 o'clock tonight carrying Rear Admiral John D. Beuret, commander of the construction and repair bureau, who was accompanied by Simon Lake and William G. Esmond, the designer and naval architect of the sunken craft. They will assist in salvage work after the bodies of the crew have been removed.

TWO MORE BODIES WERE RECOVERED BY DIVERS

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 3—(A. P.)—With her flag at half staff, the naval tug Lark steamed into Newport harbor late today bearing the bodies of two of the four known victims of the sinking of the submarine S-51. The bodies, recovered today by divers in the engine room of the sunken ship, were those of Walter E. Lawton, electrician's mate of New London, and H. D. Lindsay, engineman, of Pensacola, Fla.

The bodies were taken to the naval hospital, where they will await formal identification. There are now three bodies here, that of the fourth victim, John L. Gibson, having been sent to his mother's home in Portland, Ore., yesterday.

B. & M. SEEKS TO ABANDON SEVERAL BRANCH LINES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—Final argument today before the interstate commerce commission resulted in the submission of what the Boston & Maine regards as a test question upon the right it may have to abandon very extensive sections of its line in New England. W. A. Cole, counsel for the road explained that while the applications discussed today would give the railroad—if granted—merely the right to cease operations on six short branch lines in New Hampshire, aggregating 94 miles of line, it had other applications pending for abandonment of a total of 215 miles of other lines in New England.

In addition, the road was studying the earnings of other branch lines, he said, and proposed to seek permission for ceasing operations on these as well under a plan by which the Boston and Maine Transportation corporation, which he said was a subsidiary of the railroad, would establish automobile bus lines to replace sections of abandon line where the action might be held necessary.

Cole's argument, which was opposed by that of E. C. Niles, special attorney for the State of New Hampshire, and by Representatives of the affected communities, rested almost entirely on the financial situation.

The Boston and Maine was said to have lost $250,000 per year on the New Hampshire lines, and be losing approximately $600,00 per year on the branch lines which it will seek eventually to abandon. There has been a loss of population since 1850 in rural New Hampshire districts which the branches serve, he declared, and the situation was "hopeless so far as attempting to establish profitable operation goes."

Taking issues with this view, Niles argued that the railroad figures had not taken into consideration the earning power of the branch lines as "feeders" for the main system. The interstate commission in allowing abandonments elsewhere, he said, had been insistent in holding that a branch line by itself did not have to show profit, if it furnished traffic to a main line of which the railroad could make up the loss.

He said that the railroad had failed to make adequate proof of its claims, and sharply denying the loss of population, he said that the character of the population has changed, so that summer residents maintaining homes, though not legally credited to the number of inhabitants, furnished numbers sufficient to require service.

A portion of line which the railroad proposed to abandon, he added, was leased by it from other corporations, and he questioned the right of the commission to abrogate lessee mergers because the Boston and Maine might be losing money.

COOLIDGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO W. MURRAY CRANE

DALTON, Mass., Oct. 2. (AP)—A tribute by President Coolidge to the integrity and character of W. Murray Crane, former governor of Massachusetts and United States senator from this state, marked the dedication here today of a tablet to Senator Crane's memory on the fifth anniversary of his death. A letter from the president was read and Chief Justice Taft and Senator Willis M. Butmier spoke in praise of Mr. Crane.

"It is not only because he had a great mind," President Coolidge wrote, "but that he had an ever greater heart, that his friends and neighbors of Berkshire county have dedicated this monument, a lasting memorial to all that is finest and best in human nature. It is one of the prides of my life to think that he was my friend."

Chief Justice Taft said that Mr. Crane, although with large corporate holdings, was no Bourbon or reactionary.

"He insisted on fairness in dealing with the public and individuals by every company with which he was connected. He sought fair compromises. He always tried to find a common ground with the other side. . . . I cherish his memory as that of a loved and loving friend."

OPINION OF THE RUSSIAN SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—(AP)—M. Tchicherin, the Russian Soviet foreign minister, who is on a visit to Germany, attributes the unsatisfactory situation in Europe "mainly to Great Britain's anti-Russian policy." His views were given in an interview with the correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt.

According to the newspaper, he accused Great Britain of aiming at the political and economic encirclement of Russia rather than military aggression be contested the action of the British banks in refusing credit to enable Russia to buy raw material, textiles and machinery with that of American banks which, he said, "enable us to place big orders over there."

When interviewed by the Vossische Zeitung, the soviet foreign minister emphasized that the tone of the American press was becoming more conciliatory toward Russia. The non-existence of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia he thought represented a great obstackle to economic co-operation.

"It appears to me," he said "that the greatest hindrance in diplomatic relations between Russia and the United States is non-familiarity of the American people with actual conditions in Soviet Russia."

HARTFORD, Oct. 2—Separated by less than fifty miles for more than thirty years, two brothers, Merill Cushman, prosperous merchant and farmer, has remained in his native town all his life, while Lochis wandering has followed his trade of painter and paperhanger in the towns of northern Connecticut and western Massachusetts.

NEW YORK POLICE TRYING TO TRAIL $683,000 JEWEL THIEF

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—The thief who on Wednesday night stole two pearl necklaces and other jewelry valued at $683,000 from the Hotel Plaza suit of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Donahue, was in the opinion of detectives who are trying to pick up the cold trail, aided by "inside information."

Acting on the theory that the criminal was an international crook, a minute description of the stolen gems was broadcast today to Canada, England and France.

The "inside job" hypothesis was based upon the fact that the theft was perfectly timed and executed with an apparent previous knowledge of Mrs. Donahue's habits.

Another feature of the robbery which led detectives to suspect the connivance of someone in the Donahue household was the fact that the more valuable necklace taken had been completed only the day before by the addition of two great rose pearls, each worth $12,000, purchased in Paris this summer. It took ten years to complete the necklace, most of the pearls having come from the treasures of the shah of Persia.

CHARGED WITH VIOLATING THE IMMIGRATION LAWS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—Henry R. Silva, one of eight Cruzan who escaped from the schooner Yukon while awaiting deportation from this city several months ago, was found here today and arrested on a charge of violating the immigration laws. After preliminary hearing he was released on bond to appear later and show cause why he should not be deported to the Cape De Verde Islands. Silva went to the Islands last spring to attend his wife's funeral. Failing to obtain a return certificate he was denied admission to the country when he returned. It was while waiting deportation that he escaped. Captain Benjamin Costa, skipper of the schooner Yukon, was afterward arrested for alleged negligence in allowing Silva and the others to escape. He will appeal to the secretary of labor. The Yukon will be sold at auction tomorrow.

CHANGES IN PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT OF ITALY

ROME, Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—Sweeping changes in the provincial and municipal government of Italy were outlined by Luigi Federzoni, minister of interior, at a long conference today with Premier Mussolini. Proposals were discussed for instituting a system for municipalities up to 5,000 inhabitants, whereby a "podesta", appointed by royal degree, would be head of government.

Premier Mussolini expressed keen satisfaction over the details as presented to him, and the proposals will be considered at a cabinet meeting in the near future. The plan is considered one of the most important steps in the "fascistizing" of Italy yet undertaken by the Mussolini government. The proposals include the appointment of a governor and unification of municipal and state police forces for some.

TO CURB RECKLESSNESS IN INTRASTATE BUSSES

HARTFORD, Oct. 2.—(A. P.) — A movement to curb the recklessness of intrastate busses and trucks and to require them to follow routes prescribed by the state through which they pass was started at a meeting of the eastern conference of motor vehicle administrators held at the capitol today. Following a recent supreme court decision, the states have stood helpless to control these transportation systems which have sprung up all over the country in short order.

The problem presented by this situation occupied the greater part of today's session and the administrators and their spokesmen, representing all the states of New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and District of Columbia and the Canadian provinces of Quebec and Ontario, voted to make an appeal for relief to the incoming session of congress, looking to the granting of authority to each state to regulate all traffic within it, whether by constitutional amendment or otherwise.

WINDOWS SMASHED TO TEST EFFICIENCY BOSTON POLICE

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—Story of how five men who broke into two commercial establishments and smashed a plate glass window last night escaped arrest was revealed by the police today. Two patrolmen, a patrol wagon load of inspectors, and patrol detectives arrived in time in the first break to catch Police Commissioner H. A. Wilson with inspectors and a police sergeant, in a West End fur store. They were allowed to go but a short time later were found when an alarm came from another store. Again they were allowed to go.

Still later patrolmen heard the sudden crash of a paving brick passing through plate glass. In 19 seconds he was on the scene and found the commissioner and his party. The commissioner complemented him, as he had the other officers, on their promptness. For it was all a test. The window had been smashed with the approval of an insurance company.

MAGNUS JOHNSON IS TO AMEND HIS PETITION

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The petition filed by Magnus Johnson, former senator from Minnesota, contesting the election of Senator Thomas D. Schall, will be withdrawn and re-submitted with amendments making specific accusations instead of charges in general terms. Johnson's attorneys reached this decision in conference here today with Mr. Schall's representative and a sub-committee of the senate committee on privileges and elections.

The sub-committee granted Mr. Johnson's attorneys three weeks in which to file an amended petition, and after that another two weeks for Senator Schall's reply.

Mr. Johnson's petition does not seek his restoration of Senator Schual upon allegations that he made false statements regarding Mr. Johnson and raised an excessive amount of money for his campaign.

Debt Abeyance Good For U. S. and France

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(A. P.)—Although the progress of the French-American debt funding negotiations had faded from the picture today, the results of the conferences which were concluded yesterday stood out above all other discussion in official circles.

The administration and its supporters and many others in official life held, however, that the American commission had suggested the only available solution for the problem at this time in the five-year lump sum payment plan which Finance Minister Caillaux took back with him to Paris. Regret was voiced generally that a settlement of a permanent character had not come from the negotiations, yet the feeling was evident from statements of administration leaders that both America and France may benefit from the breathing space allowed under the temporary proposition.

President Coolidge entertains the view that France will improve both economically and financially in the five years which may elapse before a permanent pact is arranged. He most earnestly desired a final settlement at this time but was convinced that such was impossible. His thought was that the Americans had made every concession that was practicable and had assured a continuity of the conversations which may lead to the right sort of an agreement for extinguishing the entire obligation.

The president, of course, was disappointed and he had held hope nearly to the end that a different sort of success than that which came about would result. But the chief executive, nevertheless, believes the French mission did the best it could to come to terms with the Americans and were prevented from doing so only by insurmountable conditions.

In allowing for an elapse of five years before a permanent pact is necessary, providing the plan submitted is approved by the French government, the president feels that France will have and time to put her finances in shape, fund her internal obligations, restore her devastated regions and re-establish her currency. With those elements in her situation remedied, the president's belief is that France will make a settlement satisfactory here.

The White House expression was followed by statements from the capitol where Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, and Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee, made declarations in support of the action of the funding commission.

Senator Borah who had actively opposed acceptance of any terms more lenient than those accorded Great Britain, asserted he would rather have the negotiations fail than "to save the American commission accept any of the propositions put up to it by the French." Both senators were hopeful that ultimately a satisfactory settlement would come from conversations at long-range.

In saying he regretted that a permanent settlement had not been obtained, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, took the position that it was inconceivable that France will be in a worse position in five years than now. He regarded the five-year stopand one that is likely to result finally and one that is likel yto result finally in a permanent agreement.

Meantime, study was also given by treasury experts to the last proposal submitted by the French, and upon the basis of calculations prepared, Under Secretary Winston said he believed the offer would have brought less money than the settlement accorded Belgium despite that the French obligation is larger. There was no official comment otherwise, but private conversations embraced attacks on the last plan as "more ridiculous" than the first. It contemplated payment of forty million a year for five years, sixty millions annually in the following seven years and one hundred millions a year over the remaining fifty six years of a sixty eight year agreement. It was calculated that the interest rate which America would have been charging had that plan been accepted would have been less than one percent a year.

FRENCH PRESS DISPLEASED WITH AMERICAN TERMS

PARIS, Oct. 2—(A. P.)—Downright disappointment over the failure of Finance Minister Caillaux to come to an agreement at Washington the funding of France's debt to the United States is mingled with unconcealed approval of M. Caillaux's stand, refusing what is characterized here as "the unnecessarily hard conditions" imposed by the American debt commission in the comment of the French press and the people as the minister of finance begins his homeward journey.

The disappointment is tempered by a certain relief that the ultimate offer of the French negotiators, which, Paris experts contend, would have strained France's resources to the limit, had been rejected.

In the absence of Foreign Minister Briand at Locarno, Switzerland, and Premier Painleve at Nimes, no official opinion is forthcoming on behalf of the French government. In official circles it is explained that no such expression can be made until M. Caillaux has laid the situation before the cabinet council upon his return to Paris.

The general feeling is that the parliamentary situation of the minister of finance has been strengthened by the developments at Washington.

The Bulletin Leads All the Rest.

Roy B. Clark, who has recently opened a store in this city, has been an advertiser in The Bulletin for a considerable time. He has also used the advertising columns of the newspapers throughout the state for the promotion of his business. In his advertising campaigns he has been interested enough to keep a record of the results obtained in the various communities.

It was therefore a bit of interesting information which he provided one day recently when he volunteered the statement that he got more responses from his advertisements and did a larger volume of business as the result thereof from the advertisements placed in The Bulletin than from any other newspaper in the state.

That is one reason why he has decided to extend his business by locating a store here and increasing his use of The Bulletin's advertising columns. It is one of many instances which points out the advantage of the circulation furnished by The Bulletin. A word to the wise is sufficient.

During the past week the following news matter has appeared in The Bulletin's columns:

PRESIDENT APPROVES SHIPPING BOARD ACTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—The shipping board, in the opinion of President Coolidge, acted unwisely in stripping President Palmer of the fleet corporation, of his powers, but it was indicated today at the White House that he contemplated no new move as a result of the board's attitude.

While the president does not profess to be an expert on shipping matters, it was pointed out today at the White House that his advisers have been practically unanimous in their belief that operation of the merchant fleet should be in the hands of the fleet corporation head.

Senator Jones, of Washington, author of the shipping act, has so advised the president as have Secretaries Mellon, Hoover, Weeks and Wilbur and Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board.

President Coolidge selected H. G. Dalton, of Cleveland, to conduct a survey of the merchant marine situation in the belief that, coming as he does from the Great Lakes region, he is neutral and his recommendations should carry weight.

The president is still of the opinion that Commissioner Haney of Oregon, who has led a fight to oust Mr. Palmer, should realize the impropriety of remainingon the board after his resignation had been requested by the executive, but Mr. Coolidge has received no indication that he will retire and there was nothing to indicate that the president contemplates action regarding him.

Commissioner Haney was out of the city today and the board situation developed no change. Mr. Palmer indicated that he would make no move pending some study of the problem by Mr. Dalton.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

President Coolidge completed tentative plans for his trip to Omaha.

World political problems were discussed at the second session of the interparliamentary union.

Application for Miss Mary MacSwiney, member of the Irish republican party, for admission as delegate to the interparliamentary union was denied the president, it was announced, considers that France will improve her economic position by the temporary debt funding settlement.

President Coolidge held the shipping board acted unwisely in stripping President Palmer of the fleet corporation, of his power.

The judge advocate general of the navy held that the navy did not violate the law by sending the Shenandoah overland, as charged by Colonel Mitchell.

TRIED TO STEAL HAT FROM THE HEAD OF POLICEMAN

THOMPSONVILLE, Oct. 2—A new record for daring crime was set here today when a man snatched a hat off the head of a policeman and attempted to make his getaway. Patrolman Leonard Barton had just started out to do traffic duty at Hotel square when a man sneaked up behind him, grabbed his hat and srted off on the run. The policeman chased the hat snatcher to the railroad station, where the hat was recovered. An examination by two physicians showed, it was said, that the man was mentally unbalanced. His name was not given out.

Storm Phenomena Made Michigan Dark

DETROIT, Oct. 2. (AP)—A storm phenomena that plunged Detroit and other Michigan cities into the darkness of night for more than half an hour today cost four lives, resulted in the probable fatal injury of two others and the less serious injury of ten more.

Two section workers were killed and twelve others injured when the velocipede and three trailers on which they were riding on the Wabash tracks near Milan, Michigan, was struck by a Chicago to Detroit passenger train. Darkness prevented the men seeing the approaching train. Two men met instant death at Lansing when struck by lightning.

A combination of fog, low hanging clouds and a thunderstorm caused the daytime darkness in Detroit, the weather bureau explained.

COM. RODGERS DENOUNCES COL. MITCHELL'S CHARGES

Rodgers Denied That Arrangements For the Flight to Hawaii Were Made by "Non-Flying" Officers—Commander Rodgers Asserted That He Was Given a Free Hand and Full Cooperation by the Bureau of Aeronautics in Preparing For the Trip—Cannot See How Navy Department Could Be Held Responsible For Failure of the Flight.

Testifying before the president's air board, Commander Rodgers, without mentioning Mitchell by name, declared that "Regardless of what mistakes were made before or after I challenge anyone to make a just criticism of that flight."

The PN-9 No. 1 commander also took direct issue with the Colonel's assertion that arrangements for the flight were carried out by non-flying officers. He said he was given a free hand and full co-operation by the bureau of aeronautics in preparing for the trip and that his record would prove he was a competent naval aviator.

"I cannot see," he asserted, "how the navy department can be held responsible for the failure of the flight. Everything was done that could be done.

"The secretary of the navy personally visited San Diego and ordered the bureau of aeronautics to give us everything we asked for.

"This was done."

After hearing Rodgers, the board adjourned until Monday when it will continue the examination of naval officers. The recess was taken to enable several board members to leave the city to attend to private business matters, Chairman Dwight W. Morrow and Major General James G. Harbord, retired, going to New York and Howard E. Coffin to Detroit.

Commander Rodgers agreed with the testimony given yesterday by seven brother air officers in urging a change in the organization of the naval air service as necessary to improve the morale of its personnel. He, however, was at variance with their views in view of establishing a separate air corps in the navy. He said he favored a separate budget and promotion list for the service, but did not think such a corps desirable.

The commander advocated creation of a department of national defense as an ultimate goal to be reached in the nation's military establishment, but in this proposed department he said the air services should be left under the army and navy respectively.

Commander Rodgers made only a passing reference to the Shenandoah disaster, saying he could not "see how the navy department can, in any way, be responsible for the fact that a good airship, well manned and captained, goes out on a cruise, meets heavy weather and is lost."

Although Commander Rodgers has been selected to succeed Captain A. W. Johnson as assistant navy air chief, he made no mention of the fact in his testimony, merely stating he had recently been assigned to command of the Hawaiian flight and later to special duty to appear before the board.

MITCHELL TO BE HELD TO ACCOUNT FOR STATEMENTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—Military machinery to call Colonel William Mitchell to account for language employed in his San Antonio statements which had considerable influence in the appointment of the president's air board, will be put in motion again next Monday with every prospect that the officer will be brought before a court martial here within the next ten days or two weeks.

The proceedings were deferred to permit Colonel Mitchell to appear as a witness before the air board without being under any charges. The board notified the war department yesterday that it had completed the taking of his testimony except for data it had asked him to prepare which would require about three days. Colonel Mitchell, who was preparing to go to Omaha as a delegate to the American Legion convention was ordered today to report Monday to the inspector general of the army in connection with the investigation previously ordered in his case.

While the actual order convening the court is still to be issued, department officials already have given thought to its composition and probably most of the officers called for that duty will be either major or brigadier generals. Regulations require that an officer shall be tried only by his seniors in rank which will permit colonels of longer service than Mitchell to sit, but it is expected that for the most part officers of even higher rank will be selected.

The specific charges against Colonel Mitchell probably will be drawn under the article of war providing penalties for officers on conviction of charges of conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline. Approval by the president is necessary to make it effective, or the president may reduce or set aside the penalty imposed by the court.

SEVEN MEN MISSING AFTER CAVE-IN IN RICHMOND, VA.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 2. (AP)—Tom Mason, engineer, is believed to have been killed and six negro workmen are missing as the result of a cave-in of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad tunnel at Church hill, today, which trapped more than two score men engaged in reinforcing its walls. Most of the workmen, however, dug themselves out of the fallen earth and crawled to safety, and police officials declared that little hope was held out for any remaining in the tunnel.

Gases drove the rescue workers from the tunnel shortly after nightfall and it was believed that any who may be entombed in the passage way could not survive the poisonous fumes.

Officials indicated that rescue operations would not be resumed until tomorrow.

The fact that those who escaped were hurried to homes or hospitals, prevented officials from making any accurate check of the men who were in the tunnel when the slide came.

Engineer Mason is believed to be buried in his locomotive, which was completely covered with earth. His brakeman, D. F. Moseley, and A. G. Adams, a brakeman, both escaped. They were severely scalded by steam which poured from the twisted boiler of the engine. C. S. Kelso, another brakeman, also was injured badly.

PROCTER WINS $62,697 VERDICT AGAINST SPRAGUE

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—A verdict for $62,697 in favor of Colonel William Cooper Procter of Cincinnati, chairman of the General Wood presidential campaign in 1920, and against Colonel A. A. Sprague of Chicago, who was the campaign treasurer, was returned today by a jury in federal court.

The award was the full amount sued for by the Cincinnati manufacturer, including interest on $50,000, or half the amount of a note for $100,000, which Col. Procter and Col. Sprague both signed early in the Wood campaign and which Procter later paid.

The suit involved the question whether Sprague signed as one liable for half the face of the note, or whether he was what was known as an accommodation indorsee, as he claimed.

Sprague charged aht the 1920 senate investigation of campaign funds was chiefly intended to wreck the Wood campaign and admitted that his statements before that body were intended to defeat the purpose he attributed to that inquiry.

Col. Procter last night returned to Cincinnati.

COMMUNISTS DENOUNCED BY HERBERT SMITH

LIVERPOOL, England, Oct. 2—A vigorous denunciation of the communists by Herbert Smith, vice-president of the Miners federation, was the most important development of the closing session of the parliamentary labor conference today. Mr. Smith declared his confidence that the miners never would adopt communism.

Ramsay MacDonald, the former labor premier, expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied with the proceedings of the conference.

MATTERS BROUGHT BEFORE INTERPARLIAMENTARY UNION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP) — Councilmen of the Interparliamentary union, meeting after the conference sessions had adjourned for the day, decided unanimously tonight that the union would not appeal to the United States to join the league of nations, ask the league to revise its covenant or espouse adoption of a world language.

During the day, conference sessions at the capitol and later in the hall of the Pan-American union were marked by a variety of discussions, including the Sakiatvala incident, which was injected into the otherwise peaceful proceedings, suppression of Bolshevism by concerted international action, control of international trusts and the Pan American union.

At the same time, Barton Theder Adelsawed, of Sweden, president of the council, refused admission to the conference sessions of Miss Mary MacSwiney, Irish republican advocate. His action was taken after he had referred the question of Miss MacSwiney's admission to members of the Irish Free State delegation and obtained their approval.

Ben Riley, British labor parliamentarian, introduced the Sakiavala case with applause from a half dozen colleagues in the British group and as many more in the German delegation. Mr. Riley told the conference that unless it enabled all its members to enjoy equal rights and contribute to the work the union stood for, confidence in it would be destroyed.

Vladimir Molloff, president of the Bulgarian group, decried the evil of bolshevism and urged concerted international action to prevent its spread throughout the world.

While members of the union's council refrained from making any official statement on their action at tonight's meeting, it was said informally by some that the decision reached finally disposed of the motion laid before the conference by Carl Lindhagen of Sweden. Mr. Lindhagen had asked the conference to declare itself in favor of a united humanity so that "the covenant may give a true expression of the aims of the league."

His second motion, also rejected by the council, asked the conference to address "a friendly appeal to the United States to join the league of nations," while still another motion urged the conference to direct its council to advise adoption of a world language "by mutual international agreement as a spiritual necessity for a united mankind."

Council members also decided to refer to the committee on organization for study and report the question of whether the conference should adopt Spanish as one of its official languages. Decision on this question came after a petition had been presented the conference by representatives of 14 Latin American republics.

WILLIMANTIC

The purchase of the controlling interest in the Jordan Hardware company from William P. and Fred D. Jordan by Nelson A. Daniels, R. Linn Weatherhead and Postmaster Walter R. King was announced Friday upon the completion of the transactions for which negotiations have been under way for some time. The new members of the concern plan to take an active interest in the business. Mr. Weatherhead stated Friday that he had taken up the matter of concluding his duties as manager of the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company. With the withdrawal of Messrs Jordan a meeting of the members of the corporation will be held soon.

The transaction is considered one of the largest in the city in recent years, although it includes only the business and not the building. The Jordan Hardware company was established in 1899, on the present site, by A. B. Carpenter and Fred D. Jordan. It was known then under the firm name of Carpenter & Jordan. Mr. Carpenter had been a member of the firm of Carpenter & Fowler and Mr. Jordan had been a clerk in the same store. Upon the death of Mr. Carpenter, in 1898, his interest was purchased by William P. Jordan, at that time junior partner of the drug firm of Frank M. Wilson & Company of this city. The new firm adopted the name of Jordan Brothers and in 1908 incorporated as the Jordan Hardware company, taking into the firm three employes, George L. Holt, Nelson A. Daniels and William O'Brien.

In a spectacular fire on November 23, 1910 the building and stock of the company were destroyed and the present building was completed one year later, and is owned by William P. and Fred D. Jordan. It has a floor space of 45,000 square feet. There is a warehouse of 6,300 square feet with railroad sidings at the rear of both buildings.

In connection with the local retail business, wholesale branches carry on transactions in Rhode Island, Massachusetts and throughout Connecticut. Since its establishment, the force of employes of the company has been increased from three to twenty-five.

The present members of the corporation who control the majority interest in the business in addition to Messrs. Daniels, Weatherhead and King are George L. Holt, Robert Cla and Clarence Webster of this city. Mr. Daniels has been in the employ of the Jordan Hardware company since 1899, during which time he has gained a wide experience in the hardware business.

Walter R. King is a native of Monson, Mass. He was chief clerk in the local post office for twenty years and later became chief clerk in the state treasurer's office in Hartford, remaining there four and one half years. March 21, 1924, he was named postmaster of the local office to succeed John O'Rourke, now deceased.

A. Linn Weatherhead was a lineman for the New England Telephone and Telegraph company in Greenfield, Mass., in his earlier days. He was later transferred to Bristol as a repair man for the Southern New England Telephone company, for which concern he had worked in Hartford. Since that time his rise in responsibility has been rapid. In January 1907 he was appointed manager of the Manchester exchange, and in August 1911 he came to Willimantic. He is a member of Morris F. Tyler camp, Telephone Pioneers of Connecticut. By virtue of having been connected with the telephone company for 21 years or over, Mr. Weatherhead represents the town of Windham in the state legislature and is registrar of voters.

Unprecedented situations arising in the coming town elections will account for a history-making vote at the polls next Monday, it is predicted. The fact that both nominees for first selectman are republicans and that a spirited fight is on for the office of tax collector excites unusual interest. James M. Smith, former selectman and a republican has been named as the standard bearer of the democratic party, to oppose the republican nominees, Ernest P. Chesbro, also a former selectman. Each is out to win and the fight promises to be a hot one. This situation was created by the entrance into the political game of the former operatives of the American Thread company, as a non-partisan party to defeat Selectman Russell A. Andrews and other office holders whom they considered unfriendly and elect supporters of the cause of labor. They won their point at the caucus. Inasmuch as the democratic party is considered a battle at the polls is certain to try to land their choice of candidates in office.

The tax collector candidates are Bert F. More, democratic incumbent of the office and Lester H. Blish, at present the republican auditor. These two candidates are grinding their axes for the final round Monday. There are at least two men sure of election. Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton and John E. Pickett, assessor both democrats endorsed by the republicans. Fenton has been town clerk for twenty-seven years and his service has been such that he has been annually favored with endorsement. Mr. Pickett has been assessor for eleven years. His ability is recognized by both parties. For town school committee three of four candidates will be elected. They are H. Clinton Lathrop and Christopher C. Case, republican and Dr. W. P. Keatinge and Arthur P. Bergeron, democratic candidates. The first three named have served for years on the board.

The local Y. M. C. A. has accepted the challenge of the New England associations to compete in the biggest membership drive ever outlined and plans for an intensive contest beginning October 15, are already under way with Roland B. Jordan, chairman of the contest, which will be carried on by three divisions directed by Roland B. Jordan, James B. Fullerton, president of the Y. M. C. A. and Mrs. Robert H. Fenton, president of the ladies' auxiliary of the "Y".

Raymond Rondeau of 51 Moulton Court, this city and John Brown of 64 Roath street, Norwich pleaded guilty in the Chaplin town court Thursday afternoon to an amended charge of failure to give the right of way. Each was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace William D. Newton. The fines were remitted and the costs of $14.40 in each case were paid. The original charges had been of reckless driving, following a collision of Ford cars operated by the defendants on the highway in the town of Franklin last Tuesday evening. The arrests were made by State Policeman Frank Schweikert.

NEW HOTEL COST SET INSIDE $200,000 LIMIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 3—The directors and building committee of the Community Hotel Corporation issued an announcement of the status of affairs Friday, in response to inquiries on that subject. It is stated that the amount of capital raised will not permit an expenditure of more than $200,000, including architect's fees, for the construction of the proposed hotel. Plans to conform to that amount were presented to the board and accepted. They called for a handsome, fireproof building, five stories high with stores, hotel lobby, dining room and kitchen on the first floor and 68 sleeping rooms above. The plans called for a frontage on Main street of 118 feet. The bids on these plans, however, as submitted by several contractors, two of whom were local concerns, were much higher than the finances would allow. A revision of the plans was made, but again the bids were too high, although considerably lower than the first. The directors have now instructed the architects to draw plans for a first class fireproof building the cost not to exceed $200,000 and these plans will soon be submitted for bids.

The building committee gives assurance that the hotel will be built as soon as details can be worked out to the interest of the stockholders.

The American Hotels corporation which will operate the hotel is optimistic over the success of the project, and predicts a paying proposition from the outset. Up to and including July 15th three calls for payments on stock have been made, amounting in the aggregate to 40 per cent. of the subscriptions. Of this 31 per cent. has been paid, a good amount, in consideration of the fact that no pressure has been brought to bear upon the stockholders for payments. September 15th the fourth payment up to 50 per cent. of the capital stock was called for and payments are now being made.

MRS. ANNA FOSTER FOUND BEATEN BY ANDOVER ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 2—Residents of the peaceful section of the Andover Willimantic highway, a few miles east of Andover were shocked Friday at startling disclosures reaching them following the finding of Mrs. Anna Foster lying unconscious near the Hill View gasoline station conducted by Bill Weller, about 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Mrs. Foster was picked up by the driver of the Hartford-Springfield and Providence daily bus. The woman's face was covered with blood and it was later found that she probably suffered from a broken rib. She was taken a mile and one half further to the gasoline station conducted by Mrs. Dinah Fox, where first aid treatment was given her. The woman said that she had been beaten by Bill Weller because he was jealous," but when Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink was called she refused to prosecute the man. Occupants of the bus were much incensed at this act of barbarism and there were fears for Weller's safety, if he had put in an appearance while they were in the vicinity. Upon the request of the suffering woman an effort was made to locate Dr. W. L. Higgins of South Coventry but he could not be reached and she was returned to Weller's home without having received medical attention. Weller, who is said to be quite well known about the state, has a wife and two children residing in Hartford. Mrs. Foster is believed to have a husband living. According to information unearthed Friday, the doings at the Weller place have been of a shady nature for the past summer. Young women have been known to make the station their temporary home and one of them known as "Irene" and Mrs. Foster have remained there practically all the time. All night parties have been frequent, it was said. Weller was out-of-town for a few days and upon his return on Thursday morning found reason to beat Mrs. Foster. Just how the woman happened to be lying on the roadside could not be determined. Although it is believed that she ran from the house and then fainted. The Hill View place, which is owned by Mrs. Anna Weller of Hartford, mother of Bill Weller, was not open for business Friday. All the curtains in the place were drawn, but the opinion was expressed that the injured woman was in one of the rooms.

VOLUNTOWN

Friday evening last, the second annual Voluntown school fair was held in Union hall and was a great success. The exhibits of fruit, flowers and vegetables could have taken prizes at many county fairs, and were many in number and variety. There were also exhibits of cooking and other work by the children which were very creditable. There were exhibits of poultry, rabbits and other pets. During the evening there was a concert by Voluntown Brass band and a pleasing program by the school children, including a number by the new school orchestra of five pieces, which was organized this term of school, and was well received on its first appearance. Mr. Service, of the County Farm bureau, Mrs. Brownell and Miss Murphy of the state health department, were in attendance. Union hall was not large enough to contain the large crowd wishing to attend, which proved that the school fair should be an annual event. The crowd showed their appreciation of the program presented and the efforts made to provide a pleasant evening's entertainment. The school committee, teachers and children all worked hard to make the affair the success it proved.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

In the town court Friday morning, George White of Pomfret was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward to answer to alleged violations of the motor vehicle law. White was represented by Attorney Louis A. Wolsard.

A crash between cars driven by White and Harry C. Young of this town at the junction of Main and Spring streets, Thursday night, resulted in White being charged with failure to give Young the right of way, with driving a car under the registration of another car and of driving without having an operator's license.

The first count—relative to not giving the right of way—was nolled and a fine of $5 imposed on each of the two counts. White paid $20.49.

That misapprehension may not continue to exist as to the manner in which the town tax rate will increase, in case Killingly votes next Monday an appropriation of $150,000 for proposed additions to Killingly High school, it may be mentioned that two mills increase will be ample to meet the interest charges and provide also for gradual retirement of such of bond issue as would in all probability be authorized to meet construction and equipment costs.

There is no ground for the belief that the tax rate would increase by 25 per cent. Some do believe that. If it is propaganda against increased high school facilities, it is unfair. A two mill increase in the tax rate is all that would be necessary.

It has been stated by an able banker that Killingly would have no difficulty in placing $150,000 worth of school bonds at 5 rate not higher than 4 1-2 per cent. There is a possibility that a rate as low as 4 1-4 per cent. could be obtained.

But assuming that the rate would be 4 1-2 per cent, the yearly interest would amount to $6,750. If 30-year bonds were issued with a provision for the retirement of them at the rate of $5,000 each year, the town, at the outset and paying interest on the entire issue, would be called upon to produce $11,750 annually on its school bond account.

Roughly, one mill on the last grand list produces $7,000. It is, therefore, clearly evident that an increase of only two mills in the tax rate will be more than ample to finance the proposed enlargement of the high school. There are the facts and are entirely aside from any viewpoint as to what the town should do in the premises. The voters will decide that next Monday. What has been set forth here is to dispel belief that the tax rate would be boosted 10 to 15 mills, as some have thought "because the town debt would be about doubled." Incidentally, tuition from "out" of town students in Killingly High school will produce $6,900 in revenue this year—a sum equal to what one mill would raise on the grand list.

It was announced Friday afternoon that a motion will be made at the annual town meeting next Monday afternoon to accept the report of the committee that has investigated as to the town's need of increased high school facilities, discharge the committee with a deserved vote of thanks for its careful and painstaking labors and then seek through another motion to defeat the clause in the warning providing for an appropriation of $150,000 for enlarging the high school.

All of this, the program is, with a view of having the town appoint another committee to investigate as to constructing a new high school, at a cost not to exceed $250,000. The opponents of the plan to increase the facilities of the present high school are not opponents of better high school facilities. They merely disagree with the proposal that so much money—$150,000—be spent to build additions on the present building. They advance many interesting reasons why they believe that it would be better in the long run for the town to build a new high school with facilities for a junior high school than to increase the facilities of the present high school. If Friday's plans mature, these reasons will be fully set forth at Monday's business meeting of the town.

The checking department of the Windham County National bank, Danielson, Conn., offers the best means of paying your bills.—Adv.

With tax costs a subject of paramount interest just now, in view of the pondering citizens are doing over the best course to pursue in providing increased high school facilities, it is of interest to compare Killingly's tax rate and what the citizens get for the taxes they pay, with the tax rate of numbers of rural towns lacking high schools, good highways and many of the good things that a community like Killingly enjoys from the revenues received by the town as taxes.

This year's tax rate in Killingly is 18 mills. Killingly is one of the most prosperous towns in eastern Connecticut. It has good schools, good highway, good town buildings, good road working equipment and many other important assets. It is fortunate in its manufacturing interests—much more fortunate than many towns, for the manufacturing interests pay many thousands of dollars in taxes. That is one reason why the tax rate is as low a 18 mills.

Now consider Voluntown (the figures here given are from a state bulletin of 1923) with a tax rate of 40 mills, Lebanon with a tax rate of 24 mills, Lisbon with 30 mills, Union with 30 mills, Mansfield with 27 1-3 mills, Ashford with 25 mills, Canterbury with 31 mills. Not one of these towns maintains a high school, as does Killingly, yet all have tax rates very materially higher. And a dollar is a dollar in every one of these towns exactly as it is in Killingly—and in some instances harder to get than in this town. Killingly, as to tax rates, is not so badly off.

The annual inspection of McGregor, Woman's Relief corps, is set for next Wednesday evening. A class will be initiated.

Misses Jean Storer and Elizabeth Francis, recent graduates of Killingly High school, have entered Posse Nissen college, Boston.

Judge James N. Tucker of East Killingly writes that Edward Aldrich of that section showed him a chestnut burr recently—the first found hereabouts in years and evidence, it is taken, that the chestnut blight has about run its course and that there will be chestnut trees again within a few years.

Mrs. Maud Keech, Mrs. C. A. Downs, Mrs. F. E. Cunneen and Miss Helen Keach make up the committee arranging for the sisters' night program of Killingly grange, scheduled for next Monday.

"I used to drive 'em over the road from Norwich to Brooklyn fair grounds," said a horseman, who was in town Friday morning. "Now we cart them about in a big truck like this," pointing to three splendid race horses comfortably placed inside the truck, en route from Brockton to Rockville.

A brick addition that is to be 60 feet square is being put up by the School street garage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whipple, of the Green Hollow road, have purchased the E. L. Perry cottage property, near Dayville Four Corners.

East Killingly people are wondering what will be done to provide transportation facilities between that place and Danielson, regularly, in case the trolley service is suspended and no provision made for bus service. This is a matter of real interest to Danielson, the trading center for East Killingly, from whence much good money comes into this community.

At Monday's town election, the ballot boxes will be opened at 8 a. m. Arrangements have been made by party organizations and candidates to get out the vote.

AND THE LITTLE FORD KEPT RUNNING RIGHT ALONG

Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 2.—A flivver that was left standing in front of Kennedy's store at Mechanicsville with the engine running, started to move, went down over a steep embankment and crashed into the bridge over the New Haven railroad tracks. In keeping with its reputation th only damage was a broken wheel. An approaching train, was flagged by trainmen in time to save the locomotive from destruction and the car was moved off the tracks. After the car was back on the highway and a new wheel was put on the car responded to the driver's commands and ran right along as if nothing had happened.

SUPT. JACOB E. VIGNOT DEFENDANT IN STRANGE SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 2.—Suit has been brought in the Dover, N. H. courts against Jacob E. Wignot, superintendent of schools by Miss Jennie Philbrick, veteran teacher of Dover. Mr. Wignot was formerly superintendent of Putnam schools and principal of the Putnam High school for the school term of 1912-13. He succeeded C. C. Spratt, who was high school principal for several years. He has been sued for $10,000 damages for "a shadow assault" on Miss Philbrick at Dover, which she alleges caused her to fall and break her jaw.

The superintendent claims the fall which caused the injuries to Miss Philbrick was induced by a weak leg from which she has been suffering since she fell and broke it a year ago.

The defendant and other witnesses testified that on the eve of a mayoralty election in the city, 24 teachers signed a letter which, if published, would have assured the election of former Mayor Charles G. Waldron.

Miss Philbrick alleges that she "was called on the carpet" at the Sawyer school by Wignot and accused of "playing politics." She says that Wignot was so vehement that he caused her to fall.

Earth Given Great Age

Prof. Henry Russell of Princeton university conjectures that the earth is 8,000,000,000 years old, basing his theory on a computation of the time it took the Colorado river to carve out the Grand Canyon. Also he cites as a gauge the time it takes uranium to decompose. It takes a speck of uranium 50,000 years to decompose, and by studying the lead beds of the world, which are all that is left when uranium has disappeared, he arrives at his conclusion on the earth's age.

A LEADING QUESTION.

Every father, who has at heart the future welfare of his daughter, is interested in knowing something of the financial responsibilities of her suitor. He is therefore justified in inquiring, "How much have you saved?"

Marriage means additional responsibilities. Every young man must prepare in advance to meet them.

GET OUT AND VOTE MONDAY

Voters should bear in mind the importance of getting out to the polls and voting whether it is national, state or city election. Those who have the franchise should appreciate it sufficiently to use it.

Monday the biennial town election will be held for the selection of the various town officials. Because there have been satisfactory results accomplished during the past two years, because there is a general feeling that such good service should be rewarded by reelection or because there is a feeling that no serious contest is to be expected does not justify the voter in staying at home and trusting to luck that the few who do go to the polls will cast their ballots in such a way as to accomplish the desired results.

There is a responsibility which rests upon the individual to do his duty. He owes it to himself, to his neighbor and to the community to get out and vote. Upon the response that he makes depends a great deal. Even if his vote only serves to pile up the majority, it is far preferable that such an expression should be given than to neglect to vote and find that through such negligence the result is unsatisfactory. All the voters, women as well as men, should get, or be gotten, to the polls on Monday in the interest of good government.

First Selectman Murray and Second Selectman Bushnell have established records in the management of the town's business that call for continuance. Any thoughtful citizen, regardless of party, should be eager to keep these able public servants in office.

For the board of assessors Arad R. Manning should be reelected. Norwich needs the benefit of his judgment in the work which this board has been directed to do and the time to make sure of it is next Monday.

The entire republican ticket is in fact made up of worthy citizens, specially fitted for the office for which they have been named and they deserve to be elected by substantial majorities. To do this it is important that all the republican voters and all those who stand for good government should get out and vote.

PENNSYLVANIA LAWS

The head of the coal miners is a big quset because of the recommendations which have been made by John G. Hammond concerning Pennsylvania laws, the changing of which would leave the consumer far less at the mercy of strikers in the coal region. He asks Mr. Hammond and makes attacks upon him personally without paying much attention to the recommendations. He realizes that it would be a terrible blow to the coal miners that their strikes if they could not be backed up by the certification law.

It has been repeatedly said that the coal troubles rested particularly upon the shoulders of Pennsylvania. The governor of that state gave certain recognition to this when he brought about an adjustment of the last strike by getting an increase for the miners. But what Mr. Hammond is endeavoring to do is to get attention focused upon the fact that Pennsylvania has enacted laws which lend encouragement to a strike among the miners because they know that others are forbidden to mine coal and it is impossible to replace those who refuse to work.

The certification law, by which miners are obliged to prove their ability to work at such a trade, no provision is made for dealing with the emergency which develops when those who can mine coal take a long vacation. The state has said who can go into the mines to work as a protection to those underground, but it has given no thought to the position in which it places the coal consuming public in case of hardships faced through coal shortage.

Just what course Mr. Hammond would pursue has not been revealed in detail, and it is recognized that he would experience difficulties in dealing with such a monopoly in one state, but he certainly points to a tender subject with the miners as the reaction of their president indicates.

But when it comes to Pennsylvania law the consumer most certainly feels that the one taxing anthracite should go into the discard.

THE DEBT ARRANGEMENT

As the result of the visit of the French debt commission, there has been no settlement reached of the war debt which France owes to the United States. It was impossible to reach an agreement. No compromise that was suggested was acceptable. This country through its debt commission did not demand of France every last penny that was borrowed or that had accrued or would accrue in the way of interest. It had taken into consideration the fact that even though it is paying 4 1-4 per cent. on the money that was loaned to France it will in time be able to reduce that interest and in its plan that was taken into consideration.

Uncle Sam has sought no more than it believed France was able to pay. There was a difference of opinion between the two commissions as to what that was, but while our plans did not extend the same liberal terms to France that were allowed Belgium, it was the endeavor of Caillaux to get even more favorable terms than his neighbor had gotten.

With an agreement found to be impossible a temporary arrangement has been resorted to. For a period of five years France will pay $40,000,000 a year and at the end of that time another effort will be made to bring about an adjustment. Within a period of five years it may be possible to get a better and clearer view of what France is going to be able to do and how it has recovered industrially in that time, but it is to be remembered that other countries have been delaying their debt adjustments until it was seen what France was going to do. If this is going to mean that other countries will now insist upon waiting for the five years the arrangement cannot be regarded as fortunate.

There is in fact no good reason why others should wait. It has been made evident that France is expected to pay and a settlement at the present time for any of the countries would be much more advantageous than to wait for five years. This is because of the interest which is piling up at a sizeable rate.

Much has been said about what congress would do in regard to a settlement with France. There was much stress laid upon the point that leniency ought not to be overdone, but it remains to be seen now how congress will react upon the temporary plan which must be ratified by congress and the French deputies.

There is disappointment, of course, that terms of settlement were not reached, but the Caillaux attitude has at no time created an abundance of confidence that should would follow, however much it was hoped for.

AIR SERVICE PLANS.

From the testimony which is being received by the president's air board it is apparent that much information is being obtained about the manner in which the air service is at present maintained what those in it think about it, what recommendations they have for improving it and what plans have been developed or suggested for extending and developing it.

The testimony is not all one sided. There are those who are disposed to engage in grandstand play and to decry everything which does not jibe with their views as to what should be done. But there are others who are more temperate and while standing for progress and a getting away from conditions which they do not believe puts the air service on the same plane as others and does not give what they believe the right chances for promotion, are not making wild charges and beating the air with their tongues.

From such testimony as has been taken it is shown that there are plans which have been drafted for dealing with the air service even during peace times. They of course call for large outlays and while they have not been adopted or the money to carry them out voted it has been brought out before the board that the economy which has been brought to bear upon other services has not hit the air service. Figures for that have been regarded as low enough and cutting has been carried on elsewhere.

In connection with the national defense this indicates that the air service is not being ignored, but on the other hand is getting its share of consideration with the prospect that it will increase instead of decrease. It would be folly to attempt to ignore its importance now and in the future.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The temporary breaking of the New York rum ring may simply be a preliminary to making it larger.

The man on the corner says: The coming of October brings some delights but not all that it used to.

When the Sing Sing executioner retires after 140 executions will they present him a chain as a parting gift?

Because there have been too many fatal auto accidents in the past doesn't seem to bring about a reduction for the present or the future.

When it comes to battered railroad service, certainly if it is worth buying it is worth supporting for it cannot be retained otherwise.

While Europe seems amazed at the wealth of the United States, imagine how its eyes will stick out over some of the tales that are coming from Florida.

Strike violence in Scranton isn't just the answer that ought to be expected to the efforts of the business men of that city to bring about a settlement of the coal strike.

Are you keeping in mind the fact that next week is Fire Prevention week and the chance it offers for cutting down the enormous annual waste that is needless?

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Is it not something of a shock to us who claim to be 100 per cent American to be reminded at least once each year how negligent we are about fires? If we are the pink of perfection as is claimed in some quarters it ought to humiliate our pride to have those high in authority feel the necessity of telling us we are the most careless people among civilized nations in regard to fires. Very recently President Coolidge has issued a proclamation for the observance of Fire Protection day, and yet we learn nothing from experience. When he tells us how many people perish in fires, both in houses and forests; and when he gives us figures running up into the millions that show the money losses; figures that quadruple anything of the kind in Europe, what does it amount to, for we shall go on throwing the lighted cigar stub out to the dry leaves of the forest. In some things we do not learn by experience.

A New York official, whose name I think is Buckner, has hit upon a mode of procedure in liquor cases that will have a tendency to draw the teeth out of the thriving bootleg business. Merely finding a man for making and selling rum doesn't even make him quiver. He does squirm a bit when a jail sentence is attached. But when this judge talks about deportation for those found guilty of defying the Constitution of the United States there is quite a disturbance in the bootleg camp. Of course it is out of the question to deport an American born citizen, but naturalization papers can be revoked for treasonable acts. But this judge has discovered that aliens are doing a thriving business along this line. The majority of those arrested for violating the eighteenth amendment have names clearly indicating their foreign birth. Why not deport all such who are guilty?

Findings of the survey conducted by the special committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of America of the present status of prohibition, it must be admitted, is not a very rosy one. Yet it bears the hall marks of accuracy and sincerity. It has been approved by friend and foe alike. The anti-prohibitionist praises it for its honesty of facts and courage. The Anti-Saloon League says that it tells us just where we stand on the most vital question of the day. Blind optimism is just as injurious as bitter pessimism. It is however quite encouraging to see that the forces of law and righteousness, instead of slumping down into an attitude of despair and surrender and girding up their loins to a vigor of action never seen before. The new head of the enforcement bureau is not failing much but there is a prevailing feeling that we are going to see now as we have seen in the past that the Constitution is not going to be trampled in the mire. We are going to see this law vindicated.

Among the churches the most prominent thing in the air is the religious education of its young people. All Protestant churches are at last realizing that they have been unpardonably lax in this direction. This is very far from saying that they have done nothing in this direction, but they have been lamentably wanting in the quantity and quality of their religious education. One must be impressed with the thoroughness with which the early Jews looked after the spiritual welfare of their children (and the later Jews for that matter.) The 6th vote is sounded by their Prophet Isaiah when he says: "And all thy children shall be taught of the Lord; and great shall be the peace of thy children." The work started by Robert Raikes in 1780 was one of the most important in the history of the Christian church, but more than one hour a week is needed. We must have week day instruction.

It is a hopeful sign of better times as far as criminality is concerned when men of such sanity of judgment as Judge E. H. Gary of The United States Steel corporation are willing to devote a part of their valuable time to the examination of the causes of crime which is so alarmingly on the increase in this country. We get very little comfort in making comparisons between even Chicago and London or putting this country alongside of any other civilized land. Still why is it that Chicago every year quadruples the number of murders committed in London during the same period? Is it due to any superiority of civilization of Great Britain over that of the United States? Or hasn't civilization anything whatever to do with it? Is moral stupidity to be the human race? It is well to remember that many sociologists are making this claim.

Is there anything we Americans need more in modernism? We are so bright, so apt to overdo what we undertake, of course there is as much imperfection in underdoing as overdoing, but it is necessary to strike a golden mean for the highest success. But the typical American is far more prone to err in the latter direction. As one illustration, take the smoking habit. Probably no one today would consider smoking as a sin in itself. But most men who smoke at all smoke too much. If you doubt this statement ask the first doctor you meet. All excesses carry with them their punishment. You can't get away from this logic because you cannot separate cause from effect. Eating is another thing that is done to excess. Talmadge once said that "more men are dying their graves with their knives and forks than by any other weapons." While swords and rifles claim their thousands, knives and forks claim their tens of thousands. Why can't we be more rational in these things?

Dr. Linder, connected with the chemical section of the internal revenue bureau of the government at Washington and regarded as one of the ablest chemists in this country is quoted by the Popular Science Monthly as saying, "that less than one per cent of the liquor now being sold is genuine, and that while some of it kills almost immediately, some of it also poisons the system slowly but produces death almost certainly after a few months." All of the stuff, according to this article is manufactured under filthy conditions. And yet with full possession of this knowledge men deliberately buy it at an outrageous price, knowing that if it does not kill them sooner or later they stand in great danger of becoming blind. If it is true, as scientists affirm, that this physical world is wearing out, is there not some evidence that the human race is deteriorating?

BIG TIMBER AUCTION BRINGS IN OVER $44,000

A large auction sale of standing timber was held here Saturday. Turner Brothers of Oxford, Mass., sold nearly 5,000,000 feet of white pine, hemlock and various hardwoods, situated in different parts of Union. The buyers were Fred Hall of Southbridge Mass., Leroy Allen of Dudley, Mass.; and F. Phillips of Willimantic. The sum received for the whole amount of timber was $44,000. In addition to this sum the new owners have to pay the back taxes due on the property.

Light Bulb Shoe Drier

A novel and very good way of drying wet shoes is to turn on an electric bulb and place it inside the shoe. The steady, dry heat from the bulb will evaporate the moisture without warping the shoes in any way.

If a man is a coward he is scorned and abused; if a woman is a coward she is petted and encouraged.

RACING KING WINTER DOWN GREENLAND COAST

"Racing King Winter down the Greenland coast furnished the MacMillan Arctic expedition with a series of adventures on its way south from Etah, Greenland," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Both the Bowdoin, the flagship of the expedition, and the Peary, the airplane carrier, made interesting and valuable additions to their respective logs, while the scientists and photographers took advantage of the long days above the arctic circle to obtain the most complete surveys of bird, plant, animal and human life, and of the geographic features of the country, that have ever been secured," says the bulletin.

"Everything from near-shipwreck to a new running record featured the Bowdoin's journey from Etah, the ship and airplane base in the arctic. The Peary, more heavily loaded, had its most anxious moments when the supply of coal ran low on the last stage of the trip down the coast. After battling a heavy head sea for hours it arrived at Godthaab, southern Greenland, with hardly a ton of fuel in its bunkers.

Bowdoin Jettisons Gasoline

"Shortly after leaving Etah the Bowdoin ran aground in Murchison Sound, one of the 'inside' passages on upper Baffin bay. The tide had just begun to ebb and only by the quick action of the crew in throwing overboard several steel gasoline drums was the ship prevented from capsizing. It tilted to an angle of 35 degrees. The Peary, which was at Igloo Dahouny storing the airplanes on board, was hastily summoned and at high tide a two-inch hawser was connected with it. Just as the elaborate preparations for refloating her were completed, however, the swell from a bursting iceberg nearly washed the Bowdoin off the reef and into deep water again. The stout little ship came through with hardly a scratch.

"Better weather favored the expedition on the next stage of the journey. The Bowdoin and Peary literally played tag on the run to Cape York, first one leading, and then the other. Photographs were made of the picturesque tupiks, the summer tent homes of the Eskimos, amid the snow banks along the shore. A brilliant sun brought out the beauty of the famous Cape Dickson, or Mahogany Cliffs north of Cape York and the photographers were kept busy recording this unique tropical-like feature under a heavy mantle of new snow.

Bowdoin Makes Record

"Melville Bay, which proved so difficult on the northward journey, was almost free of ice on the homeward trip, in fact the Bowdoin logged 1,- sail after rounding Cape York and made the longest continuous run of its career—a total of 713 miles reaching Holstenborg just north of the arctic circle, in 84 hours. Sails were used to conserve fuel although the Bowdoin's oil engines can use seal or whale oil in addition to the regular market grades.

"The Peary, not so versatile, put in at Umanak, 300 miles north of Holstenborg, to obtain enough coal for the run to Godthaab, the principal coaling station along the west coast. Through the courtesy of the Danish government the Peary was refueled on both the northward and homeward journeys at Greenland west coast ports although the supply is seldom more than sufficient for local needs.

"Adding to the excitement of the night runs in heavy fog was the knowledge that the commissaries on both ships were unreliable, due to the removal of shifting of the steel cargo line locks and Liberty engines. By keeping clear of the rocky inlets and headlands near the coast, and by dodging an occasional icebergs, it was not necessary to stop to make corrections until fueling stations were reached.

Natives See Selves in "Movies"

"At Holstenborg the Bowdoin was given a noisy welcome by the natives, who swarmed around the expedition's flagship in their little boats. In the evening a moving picture show was given on deck for them, including a few views of themselves and their little town nestled among the rocks and snow, taken by Commander MacMillan last year. At this port also Commander MacMillan discovered further evidence to confirm his belief that William Nutting of the Lief Erickson, and his brave comrades, have sailed from their last port.

"Here the crew went ashore to attend services in the little church, which occupies an isthmus and is mirrored in the water on either side. This is the first time that any member of the expedition had ever called at this port and as it has seldom been visited by Arctic expeditions the photographers were busy reproducing the picturesque setting of the town and the colorful costumes of the natives.

"Meanwhile the Peary was having the most exciting run of the trip. After leaving Holstenborg the ship bucked a heavy sea and head wind, with rising barometer, all night. The morning brought exceedingly cloudy weather. Godthaab, where she was to coal for the rest of the homeward voyage, lies fourteen miles up a fiord with myriad islands at the entrance. As the coast is largely uncharted and lighthouses are unknown it was only with extreme difficulty that the small, unlighted beacon floating outside the harbor was picked up.

"This beacon is not easily located in clear weather. Under full check, not making more than a mile an hour, the Peary carefully picked her way through the fog, bucking a high sea astil. With practically no coal in her bunkers and heavily laden on its upper decks with the three airplanes, the ship offered high wind resistance which, with its weight, caused it to lift over like a schooner under full sail. 'Only three of the personnel appeared for breakfast' a message from the expedition succinctly stated. There was hardly a ton of coal in the bunkers of the Peary when it finally dropped anchor inside the harbor."

"Nutting sailed from Norway with three companions in the spring of 1924, to follow the Viking trail to America. In August he sailed from Greenland for Labrador and has not been heard from since. MacMillan talked with the man who last entertained Nutting, O. C. Rasmussen, then deputy governor of Julianehaab, and learned that Nutting's destination was Battle Harbor, Labrador. This port he should have reached in seven or eight days as his supplies and fuel were ample.

"The Peary rejoined the Bowdoin at Holstenborg, the first time the ships had been together since the run through Melville bay. At Umanak the photographers and scientists had been busy while the bunkers were being filled with enough coal for the limited supply to reach Godthaab. In the middle of a radio programme being given for Australia and New Zealand, an Eskimo boy on a nearby rock was washed into the water by a tremendous tidal wave, caused by the breaking of an iceberg. The details of his rescue were given, as they took place, by the operator sitting at the microphone, a thrilling and dramatic addition to the regular programme.

The "Venice of Greenland."

"Running a gantlet of hidden rocks and islands, not marked on any chart the Bowdoin showed her nose into the harbor of Sukkertoppen, a hundred miles down the coast, after a spirited run through 'thick' weather from Holstenborg. This village, built on seven hills and numerous little inlets, has a series of waterways and bridges which have earned it the title of the 'Venice of Greenland.'

When They Come Back

George is the counter philosopher. A few days ago he was conversing with a friend about Florida.

"Well, George," he was asked, "when are you going to Florida?"

"Well," he drawled, "somebody will have to stay at home, so I think I'll just hang around here to shake hands with them when they come back."

Kitty Has a Motor

Billy is the very precocious four year old son of a happy household and an interesting member of the immediate neighborhood, due to his quite manners and his bright conversations. Recently when he was holding a neighborhood kitten in the manner most approved by children, on its back and its feet up in the air, and like all cats, the kitten contentedly purring, Billy listened to its purring intently for a few minutes, then called to his aunt: "Aunt Mae, just listen to the kitty's motor running."

THE IDEAL LIFE

"For me to live is Christ," said Paul. He felt that for him to live, to be spiritually alive, was life from Christ. The true Christians life is life from Christ. It is life secured by Christ. He died for us, in our just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God. He took our place. He suffered for the penalty we deserved. "He gave Himself for us." Our life in God is a life secured by Christ. It is also life given by Christ. It is the Christ life that is infused into or quickened the dead soul. This life is also a life maintained by Christ. As heart to the body, as a vine to the branches, is Christ the sustainer, and support of all spiritual life.

"For me to live is Christ" should mean also life for Christ. The Christian's employment is the service for Christ. Paul explained, referring to Christ: "Whose I am, and whom I serve." This means that he recognized Christ's ownership in him. He belonged to Christ. He was given over to Christ's possession gladly so given. "Whose I am." But this was not all. He recognized Christ's claim and right to himself "on duty." He gave his heart to Christ and his hands to His service. His attitude continually was "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do." For to him to live was for Christ.

To the Christ centered man or woman when he or she says, "For me to live is Christ," it means a life lived with Christ. The Christian's joy is communion with Christ. Nothing so pleases as His presence, in the closet, in the printed word, in the sanctuary services, the Christian meets Christ, hears His voice, feels His love, and finds delight. "For me to live is Christ," ought to mean to each Christian the aim to live a life like Christ's life. Life from Christ; life for Christ, life with Christ; ought to result in a life lived increasingly like Christ's life. This is brought about by companionship with Christ, and also by striving ever to follow His example. Companionship with Christ has a transforming influence. We should aim to come "unto a perfect man" unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ. This is the highest possible ideal. Let us make it our own. Life from Christ, life for Christ, life with Christ, life like Christ.

From Small Beginnings

Up in the north of Italy, not far from the city of Turin, in the mountain land that lies to the south of the rugged line of the Alps, about 1875, a little boy sat engaged in the usual occupation of small boys in that rural section—watching sheep. There was nothing for him to do except to look at his woolly charges, or off at the line of hills that shut in the sky on all sides. His name was Jacques Inaudi. His home was a little hovel scarcely worthy of the name of home. His people were the poor people of the region, peasants who could provide little or nothing for their children.

There was just one way in which Jacques Inaudi was different from the scores of other youths in his neighborhood who likewise had been set to watch the flocks. The others sat idly, scarcely thinking, or else they threw stones, or played with their dogs, or built little walls and houses with sticks and rubble. Jacques Inaudi kept his boyish mind as active as though he were in a schoolroom. He counted his sheep, estimated the wool they produced, the amount of grass they ate, the number of lambs there were likely to be, the amount of money they would bring, and the number of people they would furnish food and clothing.

At first he did this merely as an idle amusement, He had no paper on which to write, and there were few flat stones on which he could make records; so he was obliged to remember the facts that he observed. Soon he found that his memory was as good as any flat stone on which he could write, and as good as any paper that he might have. As he had nothing else to do he continued to cultivate his ability to do sums in his head. When people came along and talked to him he asked them to give him the answers to problems he gave them. Then he laughed gaily when they began to puzzle their heads and to write down figures. Soon he would flash out the correct answer to their utter amazement. His fame spread, and people took long journeys to hear him. They asked him difficult questions, to all of which he gave quick answers.

Here was a wonder; a boy who astonished everyone. People found it profitable to take Jacques Inaudi away from the pleasant hills and to bring him before the public as a "lightning calculator." As he grew older he continued to develop his amazing gift, and his fame continued to grow. Soon he was known all over Italy and in Europe as one of the most unusual of persons. He was taken before learned people and questioned, and he amazed the humbler people. He had so cultivated a remarkable nature gift that in manhood—for it is now fifty-three years since he was born—he could, as it were, actually see before him the figures that were given him to use. By cultivating a natural gift he raised himself from poverty into riches and fame.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Theistic Evolution

Mr. Editor: Although much has been written and said on the topic of evolution the theme is by no means exhausted. The above names a phase of the subject which assumes to reconcile the scientific theory with the divine revelation, thus to make it palatable to Christian acceptance. The question, often asked, Can a Christian be a believer in Evolution? is supposed to be answered—Yes! by the theistic formula which bridges the gap between that and the atheist theory.

We do not hesitate to say that to Christian evolution theistic is a misnomer. Evolution, proper, is essentially a-theistic. It will not bear transmutation into any form that admits of creation or a creator. Some theologians fear a loss to the church if evolution is not met, at least, halfway or in some way. The only way to meet error, by the church or by any representative body, is to meet it squarely, not a rear attack. The apocalyptic vision pictured the Holy City foursquare, in fact a cube, as we recall it. The length and breadth and height were all equal. This was vision, with a literal meaning, and fits our purpose here and is the model for our argument. Theistic evolution is not only a misnomer it is a contradiction of terms.

Evolution is the theory that produces the universe of itself, from mere matter, by processes, it owns no deity and has no need for one. It works per-se. On the other hand, deity has a little necessity for evolution for the creator also works per-se.

In the theologians fear to make a mistake by turning down evolution, he cites the case of Galileo and the triumph of Galileo's theory that "the earth still moves" but there is no analogy here. Very few people then, as today, had any knowledge of the Ptolemaic or Capernican idea of the solar system.

But, whether the sun passed around the earth, or the earth revolved round the sun, made no difference as to a man's moral character, if he believed, which way it was, God had made the earth and the sun and man could be religious and trust in him.

The most casual reader can see the distinction here. It is a different affair, if the universe is here and yet no God is.

We have called attention before to the fact that revelation lays the vital emphasis on its moral law and precepts. Like its description of the Holy City, much is figurative in relation other things—which could not have been understood in earlier centuries, nor even in our smarter age. It teaches us of a perfection from which man has fallen, but to which he may yet come more triumphantly.

Contrary to human history, to human experience and gravitation, evolution teaches that we have fallen upward—or rather that we have scrambled upward and that through bitter survivals and transitions; owing no credit to anything but chance and fate and a succession of aces. All these being furnished for it beforehand.

Anyone with a thinking apparatus that is in healthy order and repair who will swallow such a theory might more easily swallow the Bible statement—that the worlds were formed by the word of God so that things are seen were not made of things which do appear."

Getting Ready to Go South.

The seasons come, the seasons go,
And we in age and wisdom grow.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit was one of the very few who often visited the Buzzard home in the Green Forest. After the first curiosity had been satisfied most of the little people of the Green Forest kept away from there. But Peter almost always managed to pass near the Buzzard home whenever he happened to be over in the Green Forest. You see, he was interested. He had hunted for that home so long that his interest had been thoroughly awakened. Besides, he liked to see those awkward Buzzard babies grow. It seemed as if every time he went over there they were a little bigger. It was Peter who saw them make their first awkward attempts to fly. The first time one them flapped his way up to a lower branch of a tree Peter wondered if ever that youngster would be able to fly like his father and mother. He was so awkward with those big wings of his that it didn't seem possible he ever would be able to do anything with them.

When next Peter was over that way he discovered the young Buzzards flapping their way back and forth between two tall, dead trees some little distance apart. They were still awkward and clumsy, but when Peter came to think it over he had to admit that Ol' Mistah Buzzard himself is rather awkward when he first starts to fly, and it isn't until he is up in the air a little distance that he becomes so wonderful to see. So perhaps these two young Buzzards would some day be wonderful flyers like their parents.

The summer passed swiftly. Peter had so many things to see and be curious about that for awhile he didn't go into that part of the Green Forest where the Buzzards lived. In fact, he had rather forgotten them until one morning as he sat just inside the dear Old Briar Patch looking out across the Green Meadows, he saw four dark specks way up in the blue, blue sky. They sailed round and round. He knew they were birds and at first glance he suspected they were Hawks. But when he saw how there was no motion to their wings he knew that they must be vultures, or Buzzards, as they are called. No one else could fly like that. Round and round right up over head they swung in great circles. Many a time had Peter watched Ol' Mistah Buzzard and Mrs. Buzzard. They were the only ones he had ever seen who could fly like that. But now there were four. Suddenly Peter understood. The two young Buzzards were flying with their father and mother.

The young Buzzards were flying with their father and mother

After that he saw them every day. They seemed to be flying just for the fun of flying. They would remain up in the air for hours. Peter went over to their favorite roosting place. He found the young Buzzards quite as big as their father and mother. But they were not bald-headed. Their heads were still covered with a wooly lining down. "Why do you spend so much time in the air?" asked Peter.

"For fun," replied one of the young Buzzards. "There is no fun like it Besides, we're practicing."

"Huh," replied Peter. "I don't see how any one who can fly as you can wastes time practicing."

"We are getting ready to go South," replied the young Buzzard. "Father and mother have promised to take us down to the Sunny South where they came from and our wings must be strong for such a long journey."

And then Peter realized for the first time that summer had passed and that soon many of his feathered friends would be leaving for the Sunny South. For the moment it gave him a feeling of sadness. But it was only for the moment, for Peter is one of those happy-go-lucky people who cannot think of any one thing long enough to be sad for any great length of time

KALGAN

"If you lived in Kalgan, China, your winter's wood supply would consist of several dozen carts, knocked to pieces for the purpose. You would buy your wine and oil and vinegar in baskets instead of jugs; and another basket would replace the old oaken bucket as a container for your drinking water."

So says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society in regard to this Chinese city.

"Kalgan lies 125 miles northwest of Peking close against the great wall that was to keep out the Mongols and other nomad enemies of China," continues the bulletin. "But one needs only a hasty glance around the streets after reaching Kalgan to realize that the wall no longer fulfills its function; for a large part of the population of the city is made up of Mongols. This is a frontier town of China—'the gateway to Mongolia,' it is called—and the sheepskin garments of Mongol teamsters and caravan workers tell the story just as the chaps of cowboys marked our own frontier cities a few years ago.

"Kalgan has another tie with America's old West. It is the end of the railway toward Mongolia, and to this rail-head are driven great herds of cattle and sheep from the plains, as long-horns were driven to Wichita, Kansas, and other rail points a generation past.

"It is as a caravan center for the trade of Central Asia that Kalgan is most noted, however. Before the World war between 100,000 and 200,000 camels were kept busy carrying tea from Kalgan into Mongolia, largely for Siberia. The Siberian demand has dwindled, but still thousands of shaggy humped creatures carry large quantities of hides, leather, wool, furs and other products of the plains. Much of this freight is brought in bullock carts made in the simplest and crudest way. Having served their purpose these carts are knocked to pieces and sold for fire-wood, thus affording the caravan owners a not-to-be-neglected by-product.

"The people of Kalgan capitalize their position as the terminus of a great caravan route. They make harness, saddles and hemp rope for use as traces. The oldest industry, however, is the manufacture of willow baskets as containers for liquids. The baskets, inevitably somewhat coarsely woven because of the materials, are lined with tough, varnished paper and are as water-tight as though made of metal or pottery.

"Kalgan is no longer dependent on camels, bullocks and horses as transportation agencies. A few years ago an automobile line was established across the Gobi Desert from Kalgan to Urga capital of Mongolia, 700 miles away, and was so successful that other motor cars have been added. The Gobi Desert, like the Great American Desert, has been found to be largely a matter of imagination or at least of faulty nomenclature. The grass lands of the Southern Gobi almost meet the even more luxuriant prairies of the north. Only a narrow strip is really barren. The long projected Mongolian railway would probably extend from Kalgan to Urga along the route the automobile mail and passenger line now traverses."

WALES' OLYMPIC GAMES OF SONG

"The Eisteddfodau are among the most distinctive and inspiring institutions preserved for 1800 years by the Welsh," writes Ralph A. Graves. "They are the famous festivals of song, music, and poetry where Welsh bards participate in contests comparable only to those of the ancient Greeks, except that here the competition is exclusively intellectual and artistic, with no place for athletics on the program.

"The national Eisteddfod has been held annually since 1819. In northern Wales and southern Wales alternately.

"A pretty story has survived concerning an Eisteddfod held in the sixth century, on the banks of the Conway, when a prince of Northern Wales in order to prove the superiority of vocal music over instrumental offered a prize to the contestants who would swim across the river and then compete. Those bards who had harps found their strings wet when they reached the scene of the competition but the vocalists were in perfect form and won easily.

"One of the spectacular feats at the Eisteddfod is the 'pennillion' singing, in which the poets compose their songs after the harpist has begun his melody. Each poet in turn sings the verse, beginning two measures behind the harpist, but ending on the same measure. The contestant who is able to improvise the most worthy verses longer wins one of the most cherished honors of the festival.

"Such contests have made the Welsh a nation of singers, and the rivalry between the various sections is such that even underground the coal miners are said to rehearse their choruses for the coming Eisteddfod. And Dr. Daniel Protherve, of Chicago (born in Ystradgynlais), the Welsh composer and conductor, is authority for the statement that immediately after the armistice, when the Allies were celebrating the end of the war, the Welsh soldiers decided almost spontaneously upon a festival of song, which was held on every battle field where there was a Welsh contingent in the line.

"Illustrative of the importance which music plays in the life of the Welshman, there was a war-time anecdote which told of eight Britons who were still fighting, the two sections were found in a dugout after a 1-3 hour bombardment. The two Irishmen were holding a debate, the Englishmen had not yet been introduced, but the two Welshmen were busy organizing an Oratorio society.

"At an Eisteddfod held in the village of Ammanford, South Wales, there were more than 15,000 spectators, including Welshmen who had returned for the occasion from the four corners of the world—from the United States, from Canada, from Australia and New Zealand, from India, Patagonia, and even the Fiji Islands.

"The choruses, solos, and contests in poetry, history, and criticism last, for several days and continue from early morning until late at night.

"The object of these great gatherings is to perpetuate the Welsh language, popularize Welsh literature, and afford the people the cultural advantages of good music. How effective they have been in maintaining the ancient language may be judged from the fact that Cymric is in everyday use on all railway time-tables, in shops, in churches, and other public places; for although the principality was peacefully absorbed into the realm of the Tudor sovereigns four centuries ago, eight per cent of the people of Wales and Monmouthshire speak only Welsh, while nearly a third of the inhabitants speak both Welsh and English."

Why Children Should Take Beecham's Pills

Often because of improper or irregular feeding, or lack of exercise, children become bilious and out of sorts... We suggest that for a child of two years or over, you give one Beecham's Pill. Within a few hours the system should be relieved of the poisonous waste matter, and nature then has the opportunity to restore your child to normal health and spirits.

Taken tonight, in the morning O.K., buy them at your druggist's in 25c and 50c boxes.

Now Is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Yields that ran from 405 bushels per acre to 284 bushels were shown at the potato digging demonstration that was given Friday at the Shedd & Dawley farm at Preston Plains where County Agent Walter T. Clark conducted the demonstration. Seventeen different strains were in the competition and the top figure went to the Corinna, Me., special, of Storrs college.

Each lot of potatoes was graded into firsts and seconds, the following showing the results from the different strains:

There was also a trial between dusted and sprayed potatoes, in which the latter showed superior. The dusted potatoes yielded at the rate of 296 bushels of first and 35 bushels of seconds to the acre, a total of 331 bushels, but the sprayed beat this by producing at the rate of 306 bushels of firsts and 42 bushels of seconds, a total of 348 bushels to the acre.

Dinner was served at noon by Mrs. Dawley on the lawn at her home. The fine shower, rolls and coffee were greatly appreciated by those attending the potato digging.

Professor A. W. Manchester from Storrs addressed the gathering, giving a talk on the economic side of raising potatoes, which he illustrated with charts showing the acreage cost and per bushel cost of the five leading potato states of the union, New York, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. He stated that the Maine costs for the past 14 years had averaged about 80 cents, but on top of this cost to the grower is the cost of marketing which is enough to overbalance the cost in Connecticut so that Connecticut farmers could net a very good profit. There is a chance in Connecticut, he said, for further development in potato raising when modern methods are used, as competition with the outside crops is not as rigid as it was before the freight rates have been increased from one-third to one-half over what they were in 1914.

In the afternoon a potato picking contest was put on, with the field open to all entries. Fourteen youths and boys entered the lists and were stationed at the end of the long rows, each with a basket into which he gathered the tubers. Moving along the rows, the pickers filled their baskets at top speed and emptied them into bags that were scattered along the rows. The contest was close between the first two to finish their rows, the winner coming to the end only about two feet ahead of his opponent. Prizes were given to the first seven who finished in the following order: Percy Drake, $6 worth of merchandise, given by the Connecticut Machinery & Sales company; Timothy Crouch, a barrel of certified seed, given by A. E. Shedd; Morris Blake, $3 worth of merchandise, given by Preston Bros.; James Crouch, one sack of potato fertilizer, given by A. E. Shedd; Asa Vallean, Roland Manning and Harrison Abel, each $1.

WOMEN BLOCK STREET IN BIG BARGAIN RUSH

Bargain hunting women blocked the street in front of Marshall's store at 101 Main street Friday morning at 9 o'clock, the advertised hour for opening the sale, and fought for places to be among the first 100 to get into the place so as to realize on some of the special bargains and prize offerings. For many the great attraction seemed to be the $1 brooms that were to be sold for one cent to the first 100, and whole squads of them marched out triumphantly bearing the prized brooms or other articles on the special bargain list.

So great was the jam at opening time that police help was sought and four officers were assigned to do what they could to handle the struggling crowd. LEGION POST HONORS CREW OF LOST SUBMARINE

The members of Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, at their regular business meeting Friday evening in the Legion rooms, paid tribute to the officers and sailors of the United States navy who went down when the submarine S-51 sank last Friday after being rammed by the steamer City of Rome. The Legion men stood at attention in silence for one minute after adopting the following resolution presented by Comrade Smith:

I make a motion that before this meeting of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, of the American Legion, adjourns this night, that the Legionnaires here assembled rise and stand at attention for a period of one minute as a mark of profound respect and deep sympathy for the men of the American navy, who last Friday night went down into the cold waters of the sea—and West—upon the United States submarine S-51.

The meeting had a large attendance and was presided over by Commander Samuel Jennes. The usual committee reports were heard and accepted and bills ordered paid. Frank P. Chase was appointed chairman of a committee to make arrangements for the observance of Armistice Day. The play committee reported that the plans are progressing. A number of those who appeared in previous theatricals will be seen in the cast again. Several vocalists of unusual merit will be included in the cast.

Two men appeared in the Legion rooms during the evening and asked the endorsement of the post in their efforts to make a living through the sale of a small booklet entitled The Boys in Khaki and pages of jokes. The post declined to give the men any endorsement. It is said they are the same men that have been operating in New London, where the matter came to the attention of the New London police. The profits from the sale of the booklets are not for the benefit of the legion or any other organization but as "a means of self-support as appears on the cover page of the book."

Connecticut College

(Special to The Bulletin)

One of the most unique and laughable initiations in the history of Connecticut college was given to the freshman class in the college gymnasium at seven o'clock Friday evening. The first installment of the initiation took place on Wednesday evening and the "stunts" assigned the various houses were carried out Friday night for the audience of sophomores and upper classmen.

The first act was one staged by the commuters from New London entitled "The Three Bears." The setting was a matter of the imagination and the properties were realistically seen by both actors and audience. The play seemed to have been completely modernized for grown-ups. The wise remarks from the lips girl Goldilocks as well as from the three bears well fitted sayings of various famous products and advertising concerns.

The mystery play presented by Bosworth was a master-mind production entitled the Monkey's Paw. The realistic shriek emitted as the boy who had made a wish that his father and mother receive 60 pounds to pay off the mortgage was terrifying to actors as well as audience. The scenes were laid in England. A sailor came in from a foreign land carrying a monkey paw. The pay was given him by a friend from India. It enabled one to make three wishes. After the sailor friend had made one wish he wished for death. Now the owner had made two wishes: he, too, took death as his last wish. The eager young lad asked to be given the magic paw. His first wish was that the mortgage be paid. This was accomplished by receiving the insurance for his death. The mother made the second wish: that the boy be brought back to her. He was—mutilated and horrible to see: the father made the third and last wish: that the boy remain dead in the sea. Thus ended the great tragedy presented by Bosworth house. The silence was for a moment profound. Then applause broke forth anew.

The third effort on the part of the class of '29 was a circus presented by Bannon house. This was the most elaborate and well received of all the offerings. The Bungling sisters presented the circus. There was the thin lady, the fat one, the strong man, the skeleton, the tight-rope walker, the bare back lady. The sawdust twins hobbled to their place to exhibit themselves as human marvels. There was a bear and a lion, and down the center aisle as last and greatest attraction strutted Mr. Darwin himself leading the first origin of species—"Darwin was right. He traced the likeness of the audience to the monkey that he led, for as he threw the "animal" a handful of peanuts it leaped about to catch them—as did the audience when Mr. Darwin and the baloon sellers of the circus threw huge handfuls of nuts to the audience.

Plant house gave the evolution of dances—burlesqued. First came the Greek dance, then the edieval, next the Virginia reel, then a Bowery stunt and last the Charleston.

Pantomime was given by Blackstone of the various types of college students. There came the studious the athletic, the prime proper prune and the society snob, the book-laden and the bashfully hesitant one, the wee-eekd rah rah girl and the homesick one. There rushed in, too, Dick the tom-boy and New Yawkers mecon-clad. And the last was the ever-late student. These all came to the registrar's desk were matriculated and merged into C. cites.

Chandler house presented vaudeville of various types and sorts.

Branford gave a Hawaiian operetta. The girls sailed on the good ship C. C. and arrived at Coo Coo Island where they were to spend the night. Pleasing dances and numbers by the Hawaiian band followed.

North gave a tragedy in two parts. The secret of the girl's unpopularity was—well, use Listerine!

This ended the "stunts." The cradle roll or black list was then read and various deeds of atonement for sins assigned various girls.

Cider and apple sauce passed about as songs and cheers by '28, '29 nad '27 were given.

Bids for carting the pipe for the line from the new Deep River reservoir were before the water board at its meeting Friday evening in the water office at the court house, but the award of the contract was deferred.

Groton Dog Rewarded

A dispatch from Groton reads: An eleven-months-old German police dog owned by Mrs. S. B. Craig of Groton is perhaps the first dog in the borough to receive a cash reward. Thursday Rhoda recovered a purse containing more than $46 in cash, jewelry valued at $100 and receipts amounting to $1,700. The purse was returned to its owner, Mrs. Jack Rutigliano of Hamilton street, who asked Mrs. Craig to accept a reward for the dog.

Mrs. Rutigliano lost the purse Thursday morning and visited local schools in hopes of locating a finder. About ten o'clock Rhoda, accompanied by Mrs. Craig traversed a short cut path from Baker avenue to Allen street, where suddenly the dog's attention was attracted by an object in the grass. She seized it in her teeth, raced about the open field and then returned with it to her mistress. A telegraph message in the purse bore the name of the owner.

IMMIGRATION STATISTICS OF LABOR DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—While 294,714 aliens were being added to the population of the United States during the last fiscal year, 92,728 already in the country emigrated to their homes, said a report issued today by the labor department. The backward flow was so marked as to several nationalities formerly important in the immigration totals, that there was a net loss of their numbers in the United States.

A total of 27,151 Italians returned to their native land, while but 6,202 were admitted as immigrants. Greece, furnishing 526 immigrants, took back 6,574, and Portugal, with 619 immigrants, had 3,500 returning.

Germany was the source of the greatest number of European immigrants with 46,068, though Great Britain produced approximately 28,000 and the Irish Free State 25,440. There was a sharp drop in the totals of others countries, Sweden with 8,391 and Norway with 5,975, coming next.

Canada, whose citizens are exempted from quota law restrictions, had 100,895 immigrants to the United States, and Mexico 32,964. Other countries to which more aliens returned than were admitted to this country were China, with 2,412 and 1,937, respectively, and Australia, with 344 and 273.

New York still has the largest number of residents by immigration, 65,273 aliens having been bound to points within its borders, while 39,636 went to Massachusetts, 6,553 to Michigan, 23,112 to Texas 20,960, to California 20,382 to Illinois and 17,431 to Pennsylvania. New York with 44,179, likewise lost the largest number of immigrants.

MRS. WHITNEY INCENSED AT NEW HAVEN COUNTY BAR

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2—Mrs. Josepha Whitney, who attended many sessions of the trial of Olympia Maeri here, replied tonight to sections of a report filed today by a committee of the New Haven County Bar association which had been investigating alleged unethical practices of Joseph Koletsky, counsel for Miss Maeri.

Mrs. Whitney's statement said in part:

"In the name of the women who attended different sections of the Maeri trial, I solemnly protest against the insulting statements made about them in the report of the committee of the bar association. A majority of the members who were present at the meeting refused to accept the report and voted to have it filed for future consideration, I am told. Then the gentlemen of the bar of New Haven, will have an opportunity to reject this report and so indirectly make the apology due to the women who have been publicly insulted. These women who attended the trial comprise among their number the wives of eminent professional men, leaders in civic life, professors, judges, women connected with some of our finest and oldest New England families. Their motives in attending the trial seem as impossible of comprehension by the men whose names are signed to this report as were the early efforts of the suffragists to obtain the vote.

JOSEPH MACRI BROUGHT BACK TO NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2—(AP)—Joseph Macri and Mitchel De Meoli, arrested in New York in connection with the death of Henry E. Johnson whose lifeless body was found in the bushes at the foot of Oak street the morning of September 9, were brought to this city today and locked up in the county jail.

Both were taken first to the office of Coroner Eli Mix and questioned. Just what they told the coroner was not disclosed. It was said, however, that the men repeated the story originally told to the police in New York after their arrest.

According to this story, Macri and De Meoli found Johnson in front of the army and navy store at Congress avenue and Commerce street. Some passerby offered them some money to take Johnson home. They said they put the man into a taxicab and tried to locate his home. Failing in this they lifted Johnson out of the taxi on Oak street and placed him in the bushes in the belief that the man, thought to be intoxicated, would sober up in the morning and find his way home.

A police officer had previously testified that he saw Macri and De Meoli at the Congress avenue store, and when he questioned them about Johnson they said he was a railroad worker and that they knew where he lived and were going to take him home. It was said tonight that the youths had denied they had talked with a policeman.

WOMAN HELD UP IN NEW HAVEN GROCERY STORE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2—(A. P.)—Mrs. Katherine Gallenkamp, of 743 Winchester avenue, was held up at the point of a gun in her grocery story tonight and was forced to keep quiet while a bandit rifled the cash drawer of $34. It is believed that the holdup man escaped in a taxicab.

According to the police, the bandit, who was described as short, wearing a gray cap and suit, entered the grocery story and after asking for a match left the place. A few minutes later he reappeared and, covering the woman with a gun, took the money from the register.

A child living in the neighborhood said she had seen a taxicab driving up and down Winchester avenue, finally stopping near the store.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble

COLLEGE FOOTBALL GETS UNDERWAY IN FULL SWING THIS AFTERNOON

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Football's forces, advancing in scattered marches so far, consolidate their ranks tomorrow for a concerted offensive toward the season's big objectives.

While most of the pigskin carriers, East and West, will have their second skirmishes in the preliminary stages of the campaign, a number of notable arrays will go into actual combat for the first time.

Conspicuous among the re-inforcements to the battling college hosts tomororw will be the East's "big three"—Harvard, Yale and Princeton; the fival service squads at West Point and Indianapolis; and the members of the western conference.

Eastern eyes will watch the opening western conference developments with more interest than usual because of the greater number of intersectional frays later on in which outstanding Atlantic seaboard and middle western rivals will clash. Not the least of this attention will be centered in the battle at Urbana, Ill., where Red Grange and Illinois, due for an eastern invasion the last of this month, experience their first test against Nebraska.

Among the "big three," Princeton appears to have the strongest opposition in facing Amherst which showed its power in overwhelming Rochester a week ago. Yale also will have a good test against Middlebury, which boasts no little strength, but Harvard should experience little more than a workout against Rensselaer Polytechnic, although the crimson's first showing under its re-organized coaching system will be of general interest.

Army's veteran forces, looking ahead to bigger struggles with Yale and Notre Dame, face an intersectional rival in Detroit for the opening clash at West Point. The Michigan eleven, coached by the old Notre Dame star, Dorias, may give the Cadets some trouble although the latter should win by as a decisive a margin as last although the latter should win by as decisive a margin as last year's 20-0 score with Harry Wilson and Tiny Hewitt leading the attack again.

Annapolis may face a stiff opening battle again with William and Mary, which held the middies to a 14-7 margin last year but the navy crew, starting under the new coaching regime of Jack Owsley, Owsley will be favored to win by a decisive margin.

Two Pennsylvania rivals are likely to furnish one of the hardest fought games of the day with Lafayette invading Pittsburgh for a tussle with Jock, Sutherland's powerful panthers. Last year Lafayette upset Pitt, 10 to 0, but the Panthers are favored to reverse the verdict and gain revenge tomorrow.

Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Syracuse and Pennsylvania, all of which got away to impressive starts a week ago, face comparatively minor opposition. Clashes in which Boston college meets Catholic university and Holy Cross encounters St. John's also figure on the New England schedule with competition among the "Little three" finding Williams meeting Rowdoin and Wesleyan facing St. Stephens while Amherst invades the Princeton Tiger's strongholds.

Pennsylvania has shifted its backfield for the test against Swarthmore. Penn state, off somewhat disappointingly last week, has Franklin and Marshall for its second opponent, Washington and Jefferson meets an intersectional foe in Marietta college of Ohio, while West Virginia expects to continue a victorious march against Davis-Elkins.

COVELESKI MAY BE UNABLE TO PITCH IN SERIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—The possibility that Stanley Coveleskie may be unable to participate in th eworld series developed today, when, after days of treatment, sore muscles in the veteran hurler's back failed to respond favorably to treatment.

Coveleski, who has been looked upon by Manager Harris to share the bulk of the burling with Walter Johnson, first felt the soreness in his back during a fielding drill last week. Trainer Martin diagnosed the case as a cold in the back, but customary treatments failed to obtain results. The opinion prevails that the spitballer is suffering from a muscle strain.

If Coveleskie is unable to take his turn in the series, it was indicated that Alex Ferguson, the right hander recently obtained from the Yankess, will be used in his stead. Ferguson has pitched with unusual success since joining the champions.

ROY ROCK'S TEAM AT JEWETT CITY SUNDAY

What promises to be the banner attraction for baseball lovers in eastern Connecticut will be staged at Ashland park where the sensational Ashland A. A., with Joe Faber, plays against Roy Rock's crack Attleboro, Mass., team.

Rock is a former minor league star and is well known in this section, playing with the old New London team of the Eastern League. He is a great favorite in Jewett City having played there for the last four seasons and always bringing with him a mighty good ball club.

His lineup for Sunday includes: McDermott c, McCarthy, former sub base twirler or "Tommy" Leach, formerly with Reading International league p, Apple 1b, "Suds" Forsythe, formerly with Milwaukee American association ss, Hardie 2b, Noonie Manning 3b, Rylander lf, Shea cf, Fleming rf, Stone and Rock utility.

The locals will go to the plate in the following order: Nap Liberty 3b, Raney 2b, Spike Liberty p, Joe Faber (Jewett City's own) Reading International league ss, Bill Liberty c, Benjamin rf, Raill cf, Gilbert lf, Robertson 1b, Stanley utility.

Baseball fans of eastern Connecticut will no doubt be eager to see "Joe" Faber in action so arrangements have been made to handle the largest crowd that has witnessed a ball game at Ashland park in years.

The grounds have been put in A-1 condition and Umpire Tommy Corcoran will call time at 3 p. m. sharp. All regular lead to Ashland park Sunday "the home of action."

RED SOX BEAT ROOKIE SENATOR TEAM AGAIN

BOSTON, Oct. 2—Boston made it three in a row over the irregular world's championship Washington club today. The score favored the Red Sox 11 to 2, with Ehmke coasting along under a big lead from the start. The work of Stewart was the single redeeming feature produced by the Senators. Al Schacht, club comedian, had temporary charge of the visitors on the field. The score:

SOLOMON UNABLE TO MAKE 175 POUND LIMIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, today announced he had abandoned his attempt to scale 175 pounds for his 15-round fight next Monday night against Paul Berlenbach at the Polo grounds. Berlenbach's light-heavyweight title will not be at stake if the Central American exceeds that weight mark.

Management of the Panaman explained that he could not afford to make the sacrifice of strength and speed which would be required for him to enter the ring at the championship limit. He will probably weigh 182 pounds, his handlers said, while Berlenbach admitted that he expected to weight at least 180.

Nutmegs Meet Crescents A. C.

Sunday afternoon at Sachem field, Falls, the Norwich Nutmegs will play their third game of the season when they stack up against the fast Crescent A. C. In their two previous attempts, the Nutmegs have returned the victor, winning from the Warriors two weeks ago 24 to 0; and last week winning over the West Ends, last year's city grid champs, by the score of 6 to 0.

The Nutmegs are expected to lineup as follows: ends, Kelly and Couture; tackles, Feily and Robichaine; guards, Hagberg and Enslinn; center, Sullivan; quarter back, Mac Laren; half-backs, C. McGrath and F. McGrath; f. b., Herberts. The Crescents lineup has not been announced but it is expected that they will extend the Nutmegs in order to win. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 P. M.

YALE OPENS SEASON AGAINST MIDDLEBURY TODAY

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2—Yale will open its football season at the bowl here tomorrow with Middlebury as the opponent for the initial contest. Yale will take the field without its captain, John H. Joss, who is recovering from an attack of sinus trouble, and the captain of the field probably will be Ben Butterworth, the other tackle, who is a veteran of two years' playing.

The Middlebury team, a husky looking aggregation, had a last minute workout at the bowl this afternoon, the Yale squad moving to Yale field. The Yale men took possession of the bowl after the Middlebury squad had retained, when the Blue gridiron warriors were put through a stiff signal drill. The coaches also devoted considerable time to individual instruction in the signal drill Noble was in at left halfback. It was thought that perhaps Cutler or Cottle would start the game, but both are suffering from slight injury. Following the signal drill, all the backs had work in running back punts with Wadsworth, Allen, Cutler and Noble doing the kicking.

The officials of the game will be: Referee, J. E. Keegan, Pittsfield; umpire, E. S. Land, navy; linesman, J. N. Young, Adams, Mass; field judge, W W. Elder Williams.

Players of former years who were at the field today included Paul Veeder, 1907, and Ted Hart, 1925.

Why Not Play Football?

Mr. Editor:

So Mgr Parkhurst reads the morning paper! It is a mystery whether it has taken till now for our challenge to seep through Mr. Parkhurst's dense intellect or if it has taken him two weeks to gather his players together from their hiding places after the shock of being challenged to play a real football game, instead of their usual potential championship engagements.

Now that the Speedboys have come out of the fog and are at last willing to play the Greeneville Tigers, what is the matter with the Nutmegs, Yankees, Crescent A. C., West Ends, Independents and other teams. Why not play football instead writing good games?

Yours in sport,
ANDREW BOYD, Mgr.

Metro Team Wins

CONVENT, N. J. Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Metropolitan district golf team defeated the Pennsylvania team in the Lesly cup matches at the Morris county club today, 8 to 7. By virtue of this victory, the Metropolitan team will meet Massachusetts, the present titleholder, for the trophy tomorrow. Victories registered by Jesse Sweetser over Max Marston and by Eddie Driggs over W. C. Fownes, Jr., decided the issue.

MISS COLLETT WILL MEET MRS. FRASER IN NATIONAL WOMAN'S GOLF FINALS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—(AP)—An international match between Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, and Glenna Collett of Providence, will decide the 29th Woman's national golf championship at the St. Louis country club tomorrow. Both women won today in matches so closely contested that one of them ended on the home green and the other went 19 holes.

Mrs. Fraser, who held the title for five successive years while a resident of Atlanta, closed her semi-final match with Louise Dordyce of Youngstown by sinking a 40 foot putt on the 19th green for an eagle 3. Miss Collett, champion in 1922, had to score one better than par for 18 holes to win by one up from Edith Cummings of Chicago, who won the title in 1923 by defeating Alexa Stirling in the finals.

Miss Collett had the best medal score of the day, taking 40 on each nine for an 80, as compared with par 40-41-81, while Miss Cummings was second with 41-41-82. Mrs. Fraser was one stroke behind with 39-44-83 and Miss Dordyce took 42-42-84.

Miss Collett was one over par on only two holes, and she got three birdies and scored the other 13 holes perfectly.

Mrs. Fraser owed her close victory to two long and lucky putts on the first hole. At the start of her match she sliced out of bounds and then, driving another ball, put her second on the green and sank from 70 feet for an eagle 3 on the 395 yard hole and a real birdie with the out of bounds stroke added. When this hole was played at the 19th, the Canadian repeated the performance, except that she did not lone one out of bounds and the telling putt was 40 feet long.

Slicing beset Mrs. Fraser several times after the first hole, but she made good recoveries in most cases.

The cards:

Par out	543-554-356—40
Mrs. Fraser out	443-555-346—39
Miss Fordyce out	546-455-346—43
Miss Fordyce out	546-456-346—43
Par in	553-655-345—41—81
Mrs. Fraser in	553-546-445—42—82
Miss Doryce in	563-545-454—42—84

Extra Hole:

Mrs. Fraser 5; Miss Fordyce 5.

The other match was even more tight, although it ended without extra holes. Neither ever had a lead of more than one up, and it was a question of which would have the lead when they reached the final hole. Affairs broke so that Miss Collett had the advantage, and she was the winner. Although Miss Cummings, to show her nerve, sank an 8 foot putt at the hole for a half in birdie four, although it could do her no good.

The cards:

Miss Collett out	543-455-356—40
Miss Cummings but	543-655-355—41
Miss Collett in	453-665-344—40—80
Miss Cummings in	463-755-444—41—82

DYKES SETS UNIQUE RECORD AGAINST YANKEES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Philadelphia defeated New York here today, 10 to 0 in a contest requiring but one hour and fifteen minutes to complete. Jimmy Dykes created what is believed to be a major league record when he made five hits off five pitched balls in five times at bat.

Included in Dyke's work for the day was a triple and a home run, the latter being registered with two men aboard. Each time he came to the plate Dykes cut into the first ball delivered four of his hits were made off Braxton and one off Pennock. Baumgartner held the Yanks to six scattered hits. Score:

SECOND GAME OF MOOSUP AND RIVERVIEW SERIES

Sunday afternoon at the Carpets grounds at Moosup the second game of the Moosup-Riverview series will be played. This announcement has been greeted with enthusiasm by fans of eastern Connecticut, especially those who saw last week's extra inning game which was won by Moosup, 4 to 3. Real ball games are being played at Moosup by real ball teams and a better afternoon of baseball would be hard to find. Mgr. Loughran expects that at Sunday's game the largest crowd of the season will assemble and he has made extra accommodations for the people who attend this game.

The Moosup club has been strengthened during the week as Loughran is out to make this game the final one of the series between his club and Riverview. King Bader, who last week spoiled at least a dozen balls for Mgr. Loughran by his roughing the cover, will not be on the mound this week for Moosup. Instead the Moosup manager has secured Charlie Reynolds, of Providence college, to do the mound work. Reynolds gained wide fame last season by pitching 21 innings against the Brown university team. Chick Davis will also be in a Moosup uniform. The remainder of the team is made up largely of Holy Cross players. Eddie Dougherty, of Holy Cross, or Paddy Maroney, of the University of Vermont, will do the catching. Frechette will be on first with Ray Doyle, of Providence college, at second. Shorty McMahon, of Holy Cross, will play short and Walsh, also of Holy Cross, will be at third. In the outfield will be Joe Morrissey of Holy Cross, Buckie Savage, of Holy Cross, and Kendricks, of Moosup.

Riverview will go to Moosup with a strong club, practically the same club that was nosed out last week by the Moosup club. Tony West will be on the mound with Joe Belair behind the plate. Lefty Harrell will be at first with Eddie Burns at second. The short field will oe taken care of by Mondi Normandin and Harry Mills will be at third. In the outfield will be Moore, Stubbs and Clabby.

RIVERVIEW CLASHES WITH TAFTVILLE A. A. TODAY

The baseball season at the State hospital would be incomplete without a game with the Taftville A. A. and Manager Bill Donovan has arranged to bring Trolland's young hustlers to the State hospital this afternoon. There is great rivalry between these two organizations. The Riverview management promised the fans, through this paper, that the winners of the local Twi-league pennant would be given a series, and the Centrals won the pennant with the Taftville lineup that will face the Riverview club today. Therefore today's game should be a thriller Taftville will send the following men after Riverview club's scalp: Eccleston, c; Lefty Dugas, p.; A. Ducas, 1b; Cardle, 2b; Gauthier, ss; Yerrington, 3b; Leo Jarvis, lf; Lloyd Jarvis, cf; Gaudette, rf.

Bill Donovan's Riverview outfit will go to the plate in the following order: Moore, lf; Noell, cf; Mills, 3b; Clabby, rf; Faber, 2b; Normandin, ss; Hamel, 1b; Harrell, p; Belair, c.

Joe Faber has returned from playing minor league baseball and will play second base for the Riverview club. Joe will not accompany the Riverview club to Moosup Sunday as he has signed with Jewett City for the remainder of the season. The Riverview club will present the same lineup in Moosup Sunday with West on the mound and Harrell moving over to first. This afternoon's game will start at 2:30 p. m. Morin and Curran will officiate.

LOCAL BOY WILL PLAY AGAINST YALE TODAY

George Mullen of this city, who is a senior at Middlebury will play against Yale this afternoon in the opening game at New Haven for the Yale varsity football team. Mullen will play left tackle and is expected to be a tower of strength in the Middlebury line. The local boy is rated as one of the best tackles in eastern football and it was his great defensive play during the past two years that enabled Middlebury to make such an excellent fight against Harvard.

The Middlebury team misses the service of Courtland Whitney, another local boy, who is now coaching at the Norwich Academy. Whitney was an exceptional punter and drop kicker and was a real triple threat man.

LARGE SQUAD TURNS OUT FOR YALE SOCCER

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Soccer practice began at Yale this afternoon when, after a meeting attended by 100 men interested in the sport, the varsity squad began work at Yale field under Coach Touchton.

There are eight veterans back for the Yale team this year, including Captain Zantsinger, Douglas, Crevey, Wiley, Wallace, Bullock, Milliken and Lamberti. The schedule calls for games with Princeton, Harvard, Cornell, Pennsylvania and the Navy.

Sachems vs. St. Joseph's

Sunday afternoon on the Duwell field the baseball fans of Norwich, will have a chance to see the fast Sachem baseball team of Norwich. In the final game of the season when they cross bats with St. Joseph's. The Sachems have been playing on the road all season and have a good record of 12 victories and 2 defeats and claim the championship of Norwich, but the manager of the St. Joseph's, claims that the Sachems have been dodging them all summer, having challenged them a number of times and so it has come about, that they will meet Sunday at 2:30 p. m. on the Duwell field. The Sachems this present season, has two no hit, no run games and three 2 hits and no run games to their credit, so the fans of Norwich, are sure to see a snappy game, if the Sachems live up to their past record, and the St. Joseph's play the kind of game that they played in the last half of the twi-league. The Sachems will no doubt use their regular lineup that they used all season, with the exception of H. Couture, who helped the Sachems annex both of their shut-out games this year as he is suffering with burns on the right arm, that will keep him out of the game. The lineup is as follows: P. Tombari c, Jerry Lamphere p, Rogers 1st, Job Burns 2nd, H. Lamphere 3rd, L. Hamil ss, R. McBurney lf, W. Burns cf, and L. McBurney rf.

ACADEMY PLAYS STONINGTON IN LEAGUE GAME TODAY

This Saturday afternoon the N. F. A. squad will journey to Stonington to meet Stonington High in the Academy's second interscholastic game of the season. Last week Westerly High defeated the local team by a 17 to 0 score and the Academy is out to make up for it by taking Stonington into camp. It is something like six years since any N. F. A. team has suffered defeat at the hands of Stonington.

Coach Whitney has drilled and coached his men on an average of about three and a half hours daily all this week and in a statement issued after practice yesterday said that his men were physically in the best of condition. Last week Coach O'Brien's Stonington eleven defeated Bulkeley High to the tune of 7 to 0 and they feel confident that the Academy will be an easy victim. In McCaffery and Duke, Coach O'Brien has two exceptionally fast players around whom he has built a fast, steady team that the local eleven will have to fight hard to defeat.

The N. F. A. squad has had several casualties during the past week. The most important of these are Waters, who received a cut over his left eye which makes it doubtful if he will be in the starting lineup tomorrow, in practice yesterday Connell, the 215 pound guard, suffered the loss of a number of teeth, which will probably necessitate his withdrawal from the squad for the remainder of the season, owing to parental objections.

Coach Whitney gave his men an easy workout Friday afternoon. Practice opened with punting drill which was followed by the usual two lap jog around the track. The first and second teams then had a short practice in the formations for kicking off. Both teams then had about an hour's signal practice and then closed the day's work with their daily grass drill.

Whitney said last night that the team has shown some improvement during the past few days and providing they put up a real, stiff fight the chances for winning are fairly good. The following is the official lineup as given out late last evening by Coach Whitney: Ends, Waters and Sargent; tackles, Mullens and Gilbert; guards, Normas and Golumb; center Murphy. In the backfield will be seen N. Courbois at quarter with Vitagliano and Capt. Jimmy Williams at half back and Radio Ed Brewer at fullback. The team will leave the old Y. M. C. A. Union Square at 12:30 p. m. sharp.

AGGIES EXPECT STIFF BATTLE WITH N. Y. U. TODAY

STORRS, Oct. 2.—Sumner Dole's Connecticut Aggie eleven will meet a rugged opponent tomorrow, when Chick Meehan's New York University eleven is played at Ohio field, New York.

Both teams won their opening encounters, and according to the work shown thus far by the two elevens, tomorrow's game should be a close one.

The Aggies, while having a liberal amount of veteran material in the first string lineup, are not any too well situated for reserve material which will work to their disadvantage if Dole is forced to make many substitutions.

New York university, on the other hand, has a large squad which according to some reports numbers close to a hundred men. How much of this is experienced material is impossible to say, though the team showed it had power against Niagara last Saturday.

Of interest in connection with this contest is the fact that the respective coaches of the two teams played football together at Arms Academy, Shelburne Falls, Mass., in their high school days. Dole played center and Meehan played quarterback.

The Connecticut team has been hard at work this week in preparation for the N. Y. U. game. The work of the team was ragged in the opening game with Wesleyan, and Dole has been driving his men this week to correct the faults in play that cropped out in the first game.

Those making the trip to New York follows: Ends, Captain Brink, Fienneman, Allard; tackles, Nanfeldt, Zollin, Baker, Hohn; guards, Bitgood, McAllister, Giessler, Longo; centers, Daly and Lorentzen; quarterbacks, Schofield and Moreland; backs, Eddy, Donovan, Mafofski, Filmer.

LOUISVILLE TAKES SECOND GAME FROM BALTIMORE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—Hits at opportune times for Louisville mingled with bases on balls at inopportune times for Thomas gave Louisville the second game of the junior world series here today 3 to 1. The Association champions thus became two up on the Baltimore Internationals in their quest for minor league supremacy.

A heavy field handicapped pitchers and fielders alike, although remarkable catches by the two left fielders cut off what would have been extra base blows. Baltimore handled the wet ball faultlessly while Louisville made two errors.

Joe DeBerry kept the Birds' five hits well scattered, their single run in the third inning being the result of a hit and two errors.

Thomas struck out nine batsmen, every Colonel except Guyon, Cotter and Meyer fanning at least one time. He issued five bases on balls, one with the bases full. The score:

WESTERLY HIGH SWAMPS COLT HIGH OF BRISTOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 2.—Westerly High ran rough shod over the football team representing Colt High, of Bristol, here this afternoon, beating the Colts 55 to 0. Westerly piled up 20 points in the first quarter and then used the second and third string men for the remainder of the game. The Colt line was unable to stop the rushes of the heavy Westerly backfield and repeated gains were made through this method of attack. The score by periods:

BROWN WILL FACE COLBY WITH STRONG TEAM

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 2—With the exception of Captain Stiffler who is at present out of the running with a slight attack of tonsilitis, the Brown team will face Colby tomorrow with the same lineup as she did Rhode Island State in her opening game last week. While a stiff contest is expected with the Maine eleven, which will give Coach Robinson an opportunity to test his men for the important Penn game next Saturday, Brown is confident of a victory. It is expected that Stiffler will be back in the lineup in time to start next week's game.

SKETCHES OF SOME OF WORLD'S SERIES STARS

The following pen sketches give a brief history of players who will participate in the world's series next week:

HARRIS HAS CHANCE TO GLORIFY NAME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Stanley Harris, the "boy wonder," has in his grasp the opportunity to prove himself one of the five greatest baseball managers of all time.

In 21 years of world's series history only four men—far-famed for many seasons—have captured the national game's greatest title two years in succession. They were the late Frank Chance with the Chicago Cubs in 1907 and 1908, Connie Mack with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1910 and 1911, Bill Carrigan with the Boston Americans in 1915 and 1916 and John McGraw with the New York Giants in 1921 and 1922.

Today Harris stands with one victory to his credit, the conquest of the Giants a year ago, and another world's series in the offing, this time against Pittsburgh. But regardless of the outcome in the battle at hand the youngster will see many years of service before he attains the record of McGraw the greatest campaigner. Nine times McGraw has taken his warriors into the title fight and has been victorious thrice.

Mack also has gained three conquests in the baseball classic and has lost two, one of them to McGraw. The chief of the Athletics has outwitted the Giants on two occasions.

Hughey Jennings, now Giant coach, and McGraw share the record of losing three world's series in succession. Miller Huggins of the Yankees has figured in three title affairs and won one.

POETRY

THE PSALM OF THE BELLS.

An artist wrought at his loved bell tones
And his heart was burdened with care
For song and laughter and sorrow's moans,
The rush of battle and dying groans,
All must find expression there:
The bells with their daily chime must tell
Of all that lies twixt heaven and hell.

A baby laughed far up in the sky;
It was going back to its home with God;
And a maiden sobbed that she soon must lie—
'Tis the pitiless law Youth too may die—
With her sweet face covered under the sod:
For sorrows and joys akin like these
O bells! are you given your ease

A sinner cursed at his feet the Love
Pleading with him with tears for its fall—
Storm around it and clouds above,
Broken of wing, a beaten dove—
He cursed it and that was all:
For a sin that stands like this sin alone—
O wonderful bells; have you found a tone?

Afar on the heights the great bells tossed.
The people listened with awe below;
Then a tender note from the psalm was lost,
The singer's curse had the babe laugh crossed
And it fell from the light and glow;
And the artist sought through a watching world

—Millie W Carpenter in Springfield Republican.

A PRAYER BY THE SEA

Winds of the surging seas,
Sweep through my soul,
Cleanse all sufficiencies,
Care-creases unroll.

That I may stand selfless,
By the brink of the deep,
And in faith anxiouseless
Serene silence may keep.

For the surge of God's power,
Like the surge of the sea,
In unfathomed dower,
Will then flow in through me.
—Louis J. A. Mercier in Nautilus.

A little country girl went shopping in the city with her mother and saw an elevator for the first time.
"How did you like it?" asked the father on her return.
"Why, it was so funny, papa!" answered the child. "We went into a little house and the upstairs came down."—From Everybody's.

"How can I pay when I have no money? You can't get blood out of a turnip."
"You're not a turnip, you're a beat," was the ready reply of the collector.—The Progressive Grocer.

PLAINFIELD

The Odd Fellows and the Odd Ladies, Manchester Unity, have combined their efforts, and purchased a piece of land, adjoining St. Paul's Episcopal church, and at an early date plan to build, what will be known as Odd Fellows' Hall. The condition which existed at the time of the schools opening, regarding the lack of room for all the pupils, has been remedied, and all children of school age are being taken care of. In the primary room, the children are on half sessions, which enable the teachers more time to give individual attention to the pupils. A petition is in circulation requesting another portable school building, to insure better facilities It is the apparent intention of the petitioners to locate a portable school building in the vicinity of the old village, on the west side of the railroad, eliminating the crossing of the tracks, and to shorten the distance to school. Supt. J. L. Chapman estimates that a building of four or five grade capacity would be needed to take care of the children in that section, and when completely equipped, would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. Besides giving additional schoo lroom, it is considered advisable to set apart an opportunity room, for backwood or delinquent children, who can receive individual attention.

The pastor will preach at the morning service on "The New Citizenship," and the choir will give special music. The first evening service of the season is to be held at 7 in the vestry, and the address will be on "The Hazard of the Path of Duty." Song slides will be shown and Mr and Mrs. Clarence W. 500,000 JOBLESS PLAN TO ORGANIZE IN JAPAN

There is to be organized in Tokio soon a national union of unemployed. The promoters intend to make a national appeal by demonstrations and meetings. With 500,000 in the ranks of the unemployed the movement is becoming serious. Following a meeting in Tokio, country-wide demonstrations will be staged on September 20. The nucleus of the movement is the Japan Federation of Labor, supported by its branches in Osaka, Wobe, Kyoto, Bagoya and Okayama. It is noteworthy that the movement is supported by clerks and officials who are out of employment and the national demonstrations will be serious if unreasonably checked by the police, it is feared. The soaring price of rice is helping the movement.

It is neither healthful nor necessary to go into the water after a heavy meal—there are plenty of restaurants on dry land.

God hath entrusted me with pain,
That I might fully share,
With understanding deep, and true
The pain that others bear,
The privilege of poverty He Graciously hath given
That I may walk with those in need,
And speak to them of Heaven.
And love He oftentimes witholds
Lest I might warm my heart
At fires kindled by human hands
Where He can have no part.
The pain and poverty and loss
My Master knew below
Are gifts His love has granted me
That I His joy might know.

The Cottager's Crime

The cottager called to his children three,
"Come Alice and Beth, and Timothee,
Pack your trunks and grips, make no delay,
For we move to town at noon today,
Come, wife, pull the shades, put the fire out,
Lock the doors, Come, what are you all about?
Bring the clock and the bird and see if you can't,
Store away in some place the rubber plant.

Bring the hammock and lamps and croquet set,
And the sewing machine and the cassinet,
And the scissors and corkscrew and coffee pot,
Here's the ice cream freezer I near forgot.
Now where is that cat? Don't she know enough,
To wait around with the rest of the stuff?
Let her shift for herself, I can tell you that I won't chase all day for an old tabby cat"

The cottager slept in his city home,
But to him it seemed he was destined to roam
Through foot-weary ways and his path was pursued
By flaming eyed monsters a fierce blurry brood.
That bit him and scratched him and tore him away,
From the fresh, cooling draught his hot thirst might allay;
When fainting with hunger, his food they devoured.

When long weary weeks of such wanderings had passed
To a figure that came in the morning he asked,
"Tell me, why of all mortals am I so accursed?
Why destined to suffer of tortures the worst?"
And the vision replied: Ask the cat on the shore
If she hungers and thirsts, are your torments the more.
Her blood of avengers persues for all time
Unless you repent of the cottager's crime.

The cottager rose in the early dawn.
And he called to his family, one by one,
"Come Alice and Beth and Timothee,
Get your hats and your wraps and come with me.
For we go to the shore by the boat at 8,
And there through the hunger and thirst we wait,
Though we freeze or we faint,
I can tell you that we will take back home the old tabby cat.

A Pair of Hands

Baby hands as softly pink as blossoms in the spring,
How the gentle touch of them can make a glad heart sing—
They can reach a mother's soul, though light they are, and weak,
And they, silent, murmur dreams that lips may never speak!
School child hands—not over clean, and more than likely scratched,
Little hands that often look as if they aren't matched
Always up to tricks and pranks—for they have time to burn—
Stubby little school hands, that try so hard to learn!

Teacher hands that seek to guide small fingers in their work,
Friendly hands, and gentle hands, and hands that do not shirk,
Hands that mold the lives and minds, that struggle to be fair,
Hands that meet a sacred trust, and meet it with a prayer.

Wifely hands, that thrill with pride—so beautiful they are—
Hands that guide a lover to the country touch can mar;
To a land of happiness where home fires break the gloom,
Where affection is as sweet as flowers in a room.

Mother hands that pat and pet and smooth all cares away,
Mother hands that fill the world of children every day.
Tender—always like a place of refuge and of light—
That are like a shining star of courage through the night.

Housewife hands that meet their tasks with laughter and with fun,
Hands that hurry from the morn until the day is done,
Hands that leave the fireside to fill a neighbor's need,
Hands that greet the everyday with friendship as their creed!

Wrinkled hands that touch the rim of all that is to be,
Tired hands that strive to touch the Heaven's mystery.
Hands that reach across life's sea—dear hands that once were young—
To that shore of silver sand—and other Hands, outflung!

"The House Where I Was Born

"I remember, I remember," said Alonzo Hiram Lee,
"The house where I was born among the oats and timothy,
The shingle roof that always leaked, the grimy window panes
The crazy steep all mottled green and gray with weather stains.
The oaken bucket in the well—it weighed at least a ton—
The heat and cold in which I toiled, alas! from sun to sun,
The corn cob mattress on my bed that tortured me all night,
The roosters that commenced to crow long hours before 'twas light."

"There wasn't any radio or any phonograph,
Or colored Sunday supplements to make a fellow laugh—
We didn't have a telephone and so we had to bring
Our plays and tea and calico and every little thing.
We didn't have a handy car in which to swiftly go,
But had to hitch old Dobbin up and gee!—but he was slow.
We had no rural mail, nor did we have a parcel post,
And schooling was a theory that few of us could boast."

"I remember, I remember, the house where I was born,
The carpet in the sitting room in holes and tatters worn,
The ancient lounge with broken springs and colonies of moths,
The thick white china cups and plates and greasy tablecloths.
The messes that I had to eat of pork and beans and greens,
The fact I had no second suit or nickel in my jeans.
The straight hard-bottomed kitchen chairs—I ache all over yet.
I remember, I remember, but I wish I could forget."

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

SUGGESTIONS BY STANZA

Dear Members of the Corner: I has been sometime since I have written, but to tell the truth, I didn t have anything interesting to say, and I just hated to send a line or two with the usual, "I'm well and hope you are, etc." So I have just taken a back seat and read the other letters, their revivals of the old days and the trips each one has taken. I haven t taken any trips lately, and I am afraid my school days were nothing but the humdrum sort that would make dreary reading and so I am sure I never could compare with the other clever letters, that appear each week in the Corner. Maybe there are dozens in the Corner who are on the same desert with me, and maybe will like to the suggestions I am going to make. What do you say to a discussion once a month on some given subject? We could ask the editor to help us a bit in choosing which subject to print, each member can send in one or two subjects and the editor can use his own judgment. This is the plan: Subject can be sent in that will be interesting and plain to all, something on the order of the five following:

1. Should we encourage the cross word puzzle?
2. Do our modern girls make good wives?
3. Why do servant girls prefer to work in shops rather than housework?
4. Which make the best chauffeurs men or women?
5. What is the cause of so many vacant farms?

These are only for illustration, but I think such things under discussion are truly interesting. In a separate sheet of paper write your question and send it to the editor, and then be satisfied with the way he will enter them all in time, and the editor can put the subject in the Social Corner events. the first three Saturdays in the month and leave the fourth for the discussion, and the announcement can be something like this:

"The discussion for the last Saturday in the month will be: Are The Railroad's doing All They Can to Avoid Smashups? All members are asked to take part.

All answers must be sent in time to appear in the last Saturday of this month.

Your letter must not be more than 300 words in length and must be written with ink on one side of the paper only."

Of course the editor may be able to polish that a bit or cut it down as he or wou see fit. You see with the short 300 word letters it would give a good chance for all who would want to write. Maybe some member can suggest some addition. Shall we try it?

Sassy: I received your card, so sorry to have kept you waiting for an answer but will write soon. Don't give up.

GREETINGS FROM ROSALIND

Dear Social Corner Friends: Autumn is here with its beautiful coloring of leaves. The summer has seemed short to me. I think we had our hottest weather in June.

Honorary Busqui: I have a name I would like to hear you pronounce at out next social meeting, perhaps you read it in the Bulletin. Here goes: Llerenuasxzuleuzesses Willihiminaxsisterzzli Hurrizzlastelzzli.

It's says to "Find what's in a name?" 1492: Of course your name used to be Columbus. Are you related to Christopher Columbus who discovered America, Oct. 12, 1492? He was an Italian. But it sounds different than Italian names. It seems queer that most of their names end with and I be an O.

You asked me if I tried the creole cream. I intended to but all I did with the corn this year was to eat it from the cob. I didn't even make succotash. When the corn was getting a little hard I put a little baking soda in the water, and a little sugar.

Avon: How is your son's hand getting on? Bruised peach leaves bound round where you have been hurt with a rusty nail, an old lady told me is a sure cure for lockjaw or any soreness that comes from the nail.

Fan Tan: How about that side?

Primrose: Hope you don't get all tired out moving.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Oct. 7—Club No. 2 meets in Odd Fellows' hall, 322 Main street. Each should bring cup, plate, knife and fork.
Oct. 15—Club No. 3 meets at Goshen hill, Lebanon.

POSSIBLY THE OLDEST CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Friends: It is a long time since I wrote you, but I assure you it is not for lack of interest. I have read your nice letters, and thoroughly enjoyed them, and often did one to which I would like to reply immediately. I enjoy perusing those which tell us about the various places and ways in which the vacations were spent. As I am a shutin, I have no opportunity for vacations.

So I try to enjoy the weather and my surrounding, and make the best of what comes. As I have a cheerful disposition and try to keep busy when I am able to be in my chair, I manage to accomplish something and make the time pass pleasantly. I have a small room, but have a few plants in my window, as I am very fond of flowers. My friends enjoy catering to my flower loving tastes, so there is nearly always a vase of bright blossoms to lend their cheering presense to my little room. In the Social Corner of September 13 a letter from Primrose reminded me of my childhood days, when I attended a country school, and the copies in my writing book were set by the teacher, and frequently were a line of poetry or a proverb. One I distinctly remember was the following words:

"A man of words and not deeds,
Is like a garden full of weeds."

I am often reminded of it for the view from my window looks out upon a garden full of weeds which are much higher than my head, and gone to seed ready to start a next years crop.

Perhaps it was 75 years ago that I had that copy, so you see I am an octogenarian.

I wonder if I am the oldest member of the Social Corner family. I shall be 84, the 7th of October. So I will try to imagine Club No. 2 is celebrating my birthday when it meets at Odd Fellow's hall, Oct. 7th.

Delish Deal's letter appeared to me, I think I know who she is and will remember her in her younger days, when she seemed the personification of health and strength. I lived in Jewett City and attended the same church. Her sister was in my Sabath school class, and her father was the teacher for many years. I too, have suffered severely from our common enemy—rheumatism—and she certainly has my sincere sympathy. I am sending a poem which I enjoy.

Love to all.

A DAY IN THE CATSKILL

Dear Corner Friends: It was a perfect day; not a cloud shadowed the sky. The air was clear and had a slight autumn nip to it. So we packed ourselves into what the son calls, "the family barge" and sped off for a trip to the Catskill mountains.

The Catskills are not, of course, mountains in one sense of the word. They are only big hills. The highest peak being, I believe, something like 4220 feet high. But no loftier ranges surpass them in scenic beauty.

The magic of Washington Irving's pen, through his tale of "Rip Van Winkle," has given a poetic charm to the whole region. One almost fancies every glen haunted by "little people."

Driving up one of the steep winding roads, we passed something that looked like the remnants of an old shanty. We asked a native about it.

"That," said that rustic duck" said he, "that be what is left of the tavern, Rip's old hang-out. Least ways I think it be."

Then he told us that near it, high up among the rocks and under-brush, was the spot where old Rip was supposed to have taken his glorious snooze.

At the top of the mountain was an enchanting pine grove. This we chose for our dining-hall.

We were surrounded with the beautiful. In one direction, a lake was visible. Some people, evidently from a nearby hotel, were gliding over the silvery water in picturesque canoes.

After our turfy table had been cleared, we started on a hike. Few things are more enjoyable than wandering over unknown grounds. We climbed steep rocks and tramped through lovely forests. Suddenly we came to an open space. Here was a sight indeed! We were on a ledge about 3,000 feet high, and had an unobstructed view of the Hudson valley for miles and miles, north, south and east. We could see the Berkshires in Massachusetts, and the mountains of Vermont. In fact we were told the view extended into five states. Certainly I never saw one to equal it. Nature, that adept of artists, was already on her autumn job. Here and there, vivid colorings were beginning to blend with many shades of green. All a marvelous setting for the stately river that lay like a band of metalic ribbon in the valley beyond.

Others were standing beside us also admiring the marvelous panoramic. Suddenly we saw something flutter down the ledge. A woman screamed. For a minute my heart stood still. I thought someone had stepped off the edge and was tumbling down the steepness into eternity.

The woman who had screamed started gesticulating.

"Ach Maurice, kvick Maurice, my het! Kvick, get it!"

"Vat, me?" answered Maurice "Krazy you are! You vant me I should kill myself for your het? Vait I get some von."

Away rushed Maurice and returned with one of the hotel attendants. One look at Madame's Paris creation perched on a tree some thousand feet below, and the clerk turned to Maurice:

"So, for 50 cents you want me to be the goat? Nothing doing. I'm a bellhop not a mountain goat! It'll be cheaper for madame to buy a new hat, than for me to break my neck."

On our homeward journey, we drove through a great gorge that seemed to open into the very heart of the mountain. This wild grandeur of the place defies pen and pencil. The ravine has many ledges of bare rock that break the monotony of the steep wooded mountain sides. In one spot, a cleft.

On and on we drove passing one scenic after another. Then the view of the Ashokan dam burst upon us. This dam is indeed one of man's greatest engineering feats. New York city may well feel secure with such an ample water supply. I'm only a woman, so I shall leave statistical data and technicalities to the smarter men folk. But I will say, words can hardly describe the beauty of the place. Aside from the marvelous constructions, there are beautiful drives, miles of them, and beautiful landscaping, all beautifully kept. The aeration of the water is a sight well worth traveling miles to see. It is a veritable fountain display; rivaled only, perhaps, by the fountains of Versailles. Beautiful rainbow colors were visible as the sun shone through the enormous spray.

As we drove toward home, we looked back at the mountains. The western sun still bathed the tops in its light, but the deep valley was dark and tremulous with the shadows of evening.

HOW TO MAKE MINT JELL

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Some one asked for a recipe for mint jell, a friend makes some like this. One bunch fresh mint Chop it and cook it rapidly 20 minutes in 2 1-2 cups of boiling water. Add 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons granulated gelatine (which has been previously soaked in 1-2 cup cold water.) Cool mixture and add 1-2 cup lemon juice. Strain, turn into mould (previously wet with cold water and not dried.) Let stand till stiff.

I make mine like this: One bunch fresh mint, chop or cut fine with scissors, put into 2 1-2 cups boiling water and boil 20 minutes. Add 1-2 cup lemon juice and 3 cups sugar and boil 20 minutes (or until it jells.) Pour into jelly glasses. When cold cover top with melted parifine.

Grape Juice: Grape juice may be canned and used later for making jell or flavoring anything.

Six pounds grapes, 3 cups cold water. Let it 10 minutes, strain and add 2 cups sugar to 4 cups of juice. Boil 5 minutes, bottle and seal while hot.

In looking over some old newspapers I came across the Social Corner page of Aug. 2nd 1924 in which Zany wrote her first letter to the Corner. She sends Rules for Success which I think are well worth printing again.

Attend carefully to the details of your business.
Be prompt in all things.
Consider well, then decide positively.
Dare to do right; fear to do wrong.
Endure trials patiently.
Fight life's battles bravely, manfully.
Go not into the society of the vicious.
Hold integrity sacred.
Injure not another's reputation or business.
Join hands only with the virtuous.
Keep your mind from evil thoughts.
Lie not for any consideration.
Make few acquaintances.
Never try to appear what you are not.
Observe good manners.
Pay your debts promptly.
Question not the sincerity of a friend.
Respect the counsel of your parents.
Sacrifice money rather than principle.
Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drinks.
Use your leisure time for improvement.
Vent spite on no one.
Wash your soul in pure thoughts.
Tend to every one a kindly salutation.
Yield not to discouragement.
Zealously labor for the right, and success is certain.

Best wishes to all from

HISTORY OF CLUB NO. 2

Dear Cornerites: After reading Old Hundred's letter in last week's Social Corner page I would like to give the history of Club No. 2 and how it was organized as one of the old Social Corner writers in the page on the last Saturday of May follow by the first issue of the Social Corner page in March. Something 15 years ago (Theodia knows.)

New members were added to the Corner from time to time and then in Willimantic the writers got together and formed Club No. 1 through Married and Happy, now passed away, and a few others. From reading of "the good times they had Aunt Abby, a long lived sister of the Corner who also has passed away, some 20 of us were invited to her home to organize Club No. 2. I was one of that number I am happy to say." Others at that meeting were Joan, Crimson Rambler, Chrysantheum, Old Glory, Annette, Mayfair, Bumble Bee, Golden Glow, No Name (Aunt Abby's Niece but not the one who writes under that name now), Mandy and Si and some others I don't recall just now. It was voted to call it Club No. 2 and we met through invitation at the homes of the various members. Mandy and I joined together when it came our turn to entertain and did others, who did not have room to do it in their homes. Finally the homes were so crowded I proposed we find a hall where we could have larger quarters and pay for our dinners to meet expenses, etc. It fell to me to find a place and after looking over several the choice fell on the Buckingham Memorial. That has served until the room was so crowded with members seated at the long tables and only a small space to go between the rows of filled chairs for those setting or waiting on the tables (it the question came up of opening the fall meetings with larger quarters and at a small rent. Two of the sisters on the second visit to the trustees of the Odd Fellows' hall had the good fortune to get it for October 7 for the original organizers of Club No. 2 and for all others who joined later on.

As to the resignation of the secretary and treasurer being received and accepted there must be a mistake as we have no officers and are not allowed any in any club, according to the suggestion made by the editor of the Corner at the time of organization, and I believe that holds good today.

I have the books, which are open to the inspection of all members, whether they belong to Club, 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5, if they want to see them at the store where they are kept in the safe together with the sum of money on hand placed in my care by vote of Club No. 2, but only as a holder, and not as an officer as we have none.

There is no trouble and there is going to be none, only a misunderstanding which through the history of the club I am trying to make clear.

To conclude, Club No. 2 meets at Odd Fellows' hall October 7. Any and all are invited. Bring dishes to use at dinner, also articles of food for dinner. With kindest of thoughts and best success for all.

DEATH OF ANNA MELL

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I am down to Pleasure beach for a while will write to you. It is great down here this time of year, warm as if it was summer. How many of the sisters attended the Springfield fair? I did but did not see any of you.

It was some fair and a wonderful day. There were seven of the Social Corner sisters who went in an auto together, Practicable Polly, Wisteria, Sail, Aunt Alice, Theoda, White Clover and myself. We left Willimantic at 8:30 and before we got to Eagleville had a blow out so we were an hour or so late. The fireworks were wonderful. We came home at a late hour.

Before we reached Stafford Springs, Sail began to sing How Dry I Am, and of course it made the rest of us dry, especially me. So we reached Stafford Springs and as luck would have it we found plenty to drink.

Club No. 1 has lost one of its members in the death of Anna Mell, Mrs. Hannah C. Thompson, who you all knew either by sight or her letters. She had not been very well for some years but was able to meet in the hall with us. She was sick abed but a few weeks before she left us. She did think so much of the Corner and Corner friends.

THINKING OF EMIGRATING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What a cold time we have been having! The frost has spoiled nearly everything but I suppose we must expect this at this time of the year although I do not wist for cold weather. Am thinking of migrating to a warmer climate the same as the birds do. Hope to see you all at our next meeting at the Buckingham, Oct. 7 with best wishes for the success of the Social Corner.

PARENTS, CHILDREN AND TEACHERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: The fall is here, and with it, comes to every home where there are younger people, thoughts of school, and its various activities. It is, therefore upon the subject of the parents' relation to school and teacher that I wish to write.

In many, many respects, the teacher's position is not an easy one. There are multitudinous responsibilities that every teacher must accept and carry, which parents may or may not realize exist; and it is for this reason that so few parents seem to take an active interest in the affairs of the school room.

I have a few suggestions, as a teacher to make to parents. In the first place, I think it the duty of every parent to watch the progress his child is making in his grade, and through this interest encourage the child to do his very best work. Ask the child how the school work went during the day, when he comes home at night. Find out what the student is doing in arithmetic, geography and English, and when you have found out, aid the child in choosing outside activities (like reading,) which are related in some way with his school work. You can not know just how much this kind of interest shown by parents will help the teacher, laboring day after day in the class room.

Another thing, I should like to suggest is this: Do you believe too thoroughly everything that the child complains about at school (as unfairness on the part of the teacher, or "teacher's pets"); and sympathize with them. That is one of the worst things fond parents can do. Encourage them to think that every teacher is working for their good welfare, and that everything is being done that they (the pupils) may progress rapidly. The teacher needs the support of the parents in getting the best efforts of the children under his or her care. Are you helping the teacher—and that way, the children

With best wishes for the Corner.

HOW I CAN CORN

Dear Sisters of the Corner: I can my corn different than anyone I ever heard of but have never lost a can.

Husk, cut off corn on cob then put through chopper with coarse knife. That gives you a wonderful amount of milk. Then cut off corn on another 1-2 dozen ears but do not put that through the chopper. Take the two different kinds and mix them together put on the stove and cook 30 minutes. Then if is cooked through so it will keep. Fill jars half full, seal and boil 30 minutes. I put 1-2 teaspoon salt to every two cups of corn and I cook it in the corn. There is always liquid from the corn and it is so milky. To one dozen ears of cut off corn put through the chopper and 1-2 dozen plain corn I put about 1 cup of water.

The corn has a nice flavor and every one who has ever tasted it says, "It is the best ever."

Invert jars when taken out (I clamp them down in the hot water and let stand until cold.)

Fine Muffins: 2 cups of flour, 4 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3-4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 cup raisins, 2 tablespoons shortening. Mix together, roll out to less than 1-4 inch in thickness. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with fruit sugar and cinnamon. Roll like a jelly roll, slice off pieces little less than 3-4 inch in thickness and bake in greased pan in a hot oven about 20 minutes.

Baked Haddock: Clean a five pound haddock, sprinkle with salt inside and out, cook with dressing. Cut several gashes on each side of the back and insert narrow strips of salt pork. I find that to have the gashes on one side come between gashes on the other side seasons it better. Shape with skewers to form the letter S and fasten skewers with small pieces of cord. Place in greased baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, brush over with melted butter, dredge with meal. Bake 40 minutes in a hot oven. Baste often and serve with tomato sauce.

Dressing—One half cup of oatmeal ground fine, 1-2 cup of cracker crumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, a pinch of pepper, a little chopped onion, 1-2 cup of hot milk.

Sour Cream Doughnuts: Take measuring cup, fill one-half full thick sour cream, fill balance with sour milk, into your bowl put 1 cup sugar, pinch salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon nutmeg, a little ginger, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, mix well and add 2 eggs. Stir thoroughly, add sour cream and milk and stir again add three cups flour and stir will. Turn out on board and knead till smooth. Roll out and fry in hot fat. Delicious.

HYGIENIC DIET

Mr. Editor and Members of the Social Corner: Do any of you sisters have to write when you have just a little bit of time and are obliged to hurry? I suppose you are all busy as well as myself and yet we do have such good letters, some with so much helpful information in them that I have hesitated to write unless I too could add something worth while. I have wondered why, with all the other good things, we have not had more on the subject of hygienic food. I have been experimenting for a number of years on this line and can recommend it heartily.

Some of us may remember that our late editor, the promoter of this beautiful social society, was a vegetarian. How shocking that seems to some, but it is wonderful for the health.

When we consider the fact that animals are subject to disease, the same as we are, and that we cannot tell always what meat is sound and fit to eat, why we must know we are putting our lives in danger by eating it.

For the last few years it has been demonstrated times without number that a meatless diet was just as strengthening to the body as a diet of meat, and to one who becomes accustomed to the vegetarian diet it is most delicious.

When one changes to this diet, it is necessary to select the foods with the proper elements to supply the protein which was supplied by the meat. This is supplied by the whole grains, the vegetables and fruit.

The white bread is robbed by the milling process of nearly all its body building qualities and should be replaced by the whole wheat bread. A good proportion of the whole wheat flour is one-half to one-half of the white flour. This made as any bread is made is delicious and very satisfying and palatable, and the growing children should be provided with it. Fearing I may have struck a discordent note I will close with best wishes to all.

YOUR KITCHEN

Dear Sister of the Corner: I will try and make this as plain to you as I can concerning your kitchen. One of the first effects of right thinking is to systematize thoughts and things. The convenient kitchen is the orderly, well planned and well kept kitchen. Either you or your cook must spend a great deal of time in this giant. Important room in the house; most of the household work is done standing and passing back and forth. The perfectly appointed kitchen well equipped with the numerous improvements in modern inventions comes nearer to solving the servant problem, or question; than any other arrangement. If makes a servant contepted to stay where she finds on every hand evidences of thought for her comfort and convenience. It makes the woman who must do her own work more independent and not a slave to the old time drudgery.

Beginning at the foundation if you haven't hard wood floors have the floor covered with linoleum. A washable cotton rug is a comfort. Have your walls smoothly plastered and painted cream color with washable paint. All the windows should be screened and furnished with roller shades and simple white muslin or cheesecloth sash curtains. I have made them out of unbleached muslin with bands of red. The north window offers a place for a built in or rather a built out fresh air cupboard. I find it a great delight as also is the kitchen garden windowbox in the south window. Herbs for seasoning are always at hand. Have a porcelained sink and over it a small bracket cupboard to hold soap, washing powders, ammonia, powders and brushes for polishing, old flannel pieces and chamois skin.

The kitchen table must be strong and large with draws for recipe books, (you would want Don't Worry's recipes I reckon and thos of several other good cooks), memorandum pads and pencils for orders, etc. Another drawer may hold the fresh dish towels, glass towels, hand towels, etc. A built in cupboard with sliding glass doors shows the shelves neatly lined with lace-edge paper and the kitchen china in orderly array. Compartments underneath hold saucepans, pots and cooking utensils. Have a sliding panel window opening into the butler's pantry, low enough to reach through either way to the table each side. On the kitchen side you can have your marble top-table for making pastry. Have several comfortable chairs and a good light, whether it be gas, electricity or alcohol. In your cold pantry have a fresh air window and a built in refrigerator with an outer opening so the iceman can fill it from the outside without interrupting you or turning your food mould down in your storeroom opening from the kitchen also) have great care in the orderly and convenient bestowal of all household tools and supplies. Have a roller on your pantry door with a fresh towel every day on it. A short galvanized wire line across a corner little used may be a convenient way to dry your dish towels but the modern cupboards provide a rack just inside the wooden door for that purpose. Get a good alcohol stove and a steam cooker. You can cook five vegetables and a ham shoulder at once in the very dishes which you may set on your table. No pots and pans to wash, no smoke or ashes.

DRYING PUMPKIN OR SQUASH

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: When I joined the Social Corner I thought that I would at least write once a month. You see it is easier to make a resolution than to keep it.

Black Eyed Susan: I am enclosing one of the poems you asked for, I remember. I Remember the House Where I Was Born.

As the season for pumpkin pies is approaching I will write a successful recipe for drying pumpkin or squash.

I prepare my pumpkin by removing seeds and rind, cut in small pieces and cook the same as though I was making pies only be sure and cook all the water out you can without burning. When cooked, I sift the material and then I butter my granite pie pans the same as I do for candy. I make small cakes about 1-4 inch thick, as big over as a half dollar and place them on my buttered pan. The pans are placed on my water tank attached to my stove hot closet or in oven with door opened. The quicker it dries the better. After dried, I put it in any glass or earthen jar, but do not seal the jar. The dried pumpkin will keep in any dry place, for a year or two if you wish. If I wish for a squash pie in April or May I take some of my dried pumpkin and place it in a granite basin at night covering it with water and put basin and contents on back of stove. Next morning, if too dry I add more water and make my pies the same as I would with fresh cooked squash. Sometimes when I have a pint or so of fresh cooked squash left over after making pies I dry it and in a short time I have enough saved to make several pies.

The next time Alwilda, Esmeralda or any of the sisters come to see me, if they will give me time I will treat them to dried pumpkin pie.

Then how they will be able to sing:

What moistens the lips
What brightens the eye?
What brings back the past?
Like a rich pumpkin pie.

With best wishes to all.

MUST KEEP UP FRIENDSHIP

Dear Social Corner: Shall I lose membership in Social Corner if I don't write soon? It is not loss of interest that keeps me from writing but having company and trying to go around a bit, takes time and I am apt to procrastinate anyway. As people sometimes say, when they give one an extra disagreeable dig, "I mean well."

I am sorry, E. L. M., that you are disappointed in me. I dislike to lose your good opinion. Won't you reconsider?

Had I known Forget-Me-Not that you lived in the big house near Larrabee oak, I should have stared more than I did, but hardly think I'd have made myself known to you, as I'm not courageous when it comes to introducing myself to strangers.

I wish I could do those things more easily, as I believe we should be making new friendships all through life. If not there comes a time in our life when so many of the older friends pass on, or are far away, that we seem rather alone. The letters have all been so good lately and I did enjoy Mothers and Daughters by Doris.

So many times the young folks have everything and the parents go without. It isn't always the fault of the young, for youth is always thoughtless but if they are sometimes reminded that mother needs a new hat or father a pair of shoes, they will laugh and say, "Well! You sure do," and go without willingly. It is a problem though to know how to work out those things without too much self sacrificing for some and too much selfishness for others.

Best wishes to all in the Corner.

O. D.

GREETINGS FROM J. E. T.

Dear Social Corner: Cellar shelves are all full. Berries peek through their glass containers beside the vegetables, fruit, pickles of all kinds, peppers and crab apples done whole in the old fashioned way stems and all in a heavy syrup.

N. O. T.: Perhaps you were the one riding in a fine automobile, two young folks in front seat, gilt on your upper teeth, about 50 years old and looking like a well to do sport. I never knew you, but say your hair was combed as if you had just come from the barber shop. Hold on, I did see an umbrella man and a charcoal man but they wouldn't correspond, of course. Don't think I have all the first mentioned at start, but hope most of Corner ones have. I am going to visit this winter and would like to know all those who can say "I have all of these." Send invitations but not all at once.

Yours for the Corner.

WONDERFUL TIME AT TOO LATE'S

Dear Corner Friends: I will write a few lines to tell you that you missed a good time and wonderful dinner when you did not go to Too Lates' picnic. The weather was not the best for an outdoor picnic, but there was plenty of room inside for all that would have attended. Our hostess left nothing lacking for festive with many flowers, the yellow color being prominent. At the noon hour we were served a delicious beef soup, succotash, corn on the cob, beets, salads, pies, cakes, etc., to which we did full justice sitting down to long tables which were set in two rooms. We were further entertained by music from the victrola. Our sympathy to friends and relatives of Anna Mell. We shall miss her as she dearly loved, when health permitted, to meet and chat with us awhile. She took great interest in the letters and writers, and our conversation always drifted to Social Corner doings whenever I called on her. On my last call at the Card home to see her Aug. 12 she was interested to know where we were to meet this fall but added, "I don't think I will ever meet with you again."

When we met at Ocean Beach I wondered where the Beach club was and thought it a good time to meet and organize. If any of the sisters can would be glad to see you here. Locate me from the Pleasure Beach store, Waterford.

GREETINGS FROM CRIMSON RAMBLER

Dear Cornerites: What is to be done, are there to be two meetings hereafter? The way things look it seems as though one party is to have the Odd Fellows hall while others meet at the Buckingham. I would like to see this thing set straight.

Anastasia: Will try to answer your letter soon.

Stanza: Your wonderfully nice letter received and much pleased with kind sentiments it contained. I thank you. Did you forget to send me your address? I would like to send you a personal answer.

Dom Pedro: How are you? Do you still gain? Hope to hear soon you are able to leave your room.

J. E. T.: Thanks for nice letter. You certainly know how to write one. Did I surprise you that Sunday? Looked for you on my way back but did not see you.

Black Eyed Susie: I am sending in a poem, entitled I remember the house where I was born. I wonder if this is the one you are looking for.

Best wishes to all Corner members.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

WORK TABLE SUGGESTIONS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I will send in a few work table suggestions. Often in padding a button hole edge on a design for solid embroidery the white padding shows through the color that is afterward stitched under it. This is especially noticeable and disagreeable in a dark shade. I solved the problem by doing my padding in cotton as near the shade of the silk as I could get. This result was eminently satisfactory. It may seem extravagant but one cotton was only three cents a spool and the extra expense was worth while. I thought I would pass these suggestions along.

I don't know but every one knows how easy to string beads and what to string them on but I do know the owner of any beads of value for their own worth or their association might well take a lesson from the pearl strings. Their cardinal principle is to tie a firm knot between each two pearls. Then if the string breaks no more than one pearl can be lost. This I think applies just as well, of couse to other beads. I know of one girl who lost nearly all of a valuable string of coral by not taking this precaution. The string broke in the street and most of the beads rolled into the gutter and down the sewer before the owner or the bystanders could get them again.

Neither wire nor cat gut is good for the stringing of any jewels when a stiff appearance is out of place. Instead, use surgeon's silk which is woven like braids instead of twisted and comes in several numbered thicknesses.

Now in these times so many like slippers to match their dresses. It is great economy for ladies who go out a good deal to evening parties, balls, etc. to purchase a pair of black satin slippers, which when worn can be covert at home. I used to have the experience when I had dressmaking so can advise those who wish to do this. First a pattern in paper is taken of the exact shape of the shoe, allowing a very tiny margin for turning in. Then the stuff (to match any dress required) is cut and joined together in a fine seam for the back of the foot. The stuff is then turned wrong side out and run as closely as possible in the crack between the sole and the satin, which need not be removed. A little gather may be required at the toe (to the extreme end.) That done the material is turned over the foot part of the shoe and should fit it perfectly; awaiting only a bordering of tiny braid or ribbon to bind the margin, and a buckle or rosette to ornament the instep. This experiment is worth trying on an old shoe at hand, and a little practice will lead to remunerative perfection.

TWO SUGGESTED CARD SHOWERS

Dear Social Corner, One and All: Just a hurried note to urge all the sisters who can to send a card to Remember Me who is ill in St. Joseph's Hospital, Willimantic. Also Palmleaf, has a birthday on Oct. 7th. I never have met her personally but I hear from a friend she is very frail physically and not able to write often for the Corner but enjoys the letters of all the members. So send her a shower of cards. What a loving thought! Just a card will take to the sick and shutins. I myself have been in a hospital four times and I know what a card means. Palmleaf's address is 99 Washington street, Norwich, Conn.

Neighbor Eveready: Your pickle was great! My tomatoes have all gone that way.

Diamond: What are you doing, still washing cars

Chub: Hope to see you soon.

Merry Farmer's Boy: Why don't you drive down some Sunday? I am always here and glad to see you.

Elizabeth: Hope you had a nice time at the beach. I thought of you.

Chelsea: I hope to get down soon. Busy now canning grapes.

Rural Delivery: Why so silent? Are you out of paper and ink?

Will close now but hope all will try and remember the two sisters?

Sympathy to any who have lost dear ones and love to the shut-ins and sick.

PAPA'S BOY.

SUGGESTS A AND B DIVISIONS

Dear Social Corner: The writer and lone man wish to express thanks to Club No. 1 for the sympathy so beautifully expressed by the flowers.

I want to say that not all will meet in Odd Fellows hall for there is to be a gathering of those who enjoy Buckingham Memorial and I want to suggest that we all are still enrolled in Club No. 2, but that we have A. and B. division and those that want to meet at Odd Fellows hall can do so and the others meet at Buckingham memorial and all "keep sweet and smile as usual."

There are times when the Buckingham is crowded; but I for one want to help the "Boys of '61" by our rent.

CHAUFFEUR.

FINE TIMES BY CLUB NO. 1

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been quite a while since I have written but I am interested just the same and attended most of the meetings.

I wonder if the other clubs have such good times as we do to Club No. 1. Every summer we hire a big bus with driver and fill it with members and go some where. This year we went to Ocean Beach. A lot went in swimming, some went over to New London shopping and we had a lot of fun. Then another time we had a load of 27 and went to Rocky Point, R. I., for a shore dinner which was worth going a long ways for.

We were told the management hired 800 men in Maine to dig clams for them and they were sent down from there fresh every day. It is fun to see them cooked on the hot stoves. Then we went over to Oakland beach where there were lots of amusements and we had a jolly time. I have been to Block Island this summer. That is a wonderful water trip.

I also attended the Eastern States exposition in Springfield. Social Corner Sister.

FRANCES.

PLANNING FOR NEXT MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: It's a long time since I wrote to the Corner. I wish to thank the editor for my pin.

Yes, Old Hundred, we will meet you at the good old Buckingham at our next meeting and all the rest of the sisters will be welcome. It will never be home anywhere else. Hope it will be a nice day for those who have far to go.

WINDHAM BLUE BELL.

O. H. O. IN HOSPITAL

Dear Social Corner Friends: Thank you for the letters which you so kindly wrote to me. I am in the Johnson Memorial hospital, Stafford Springs and sit up long enough to have my bed made, and only walk from bed to chair with help of a nurse. People have been very kind, and send in flowers and fruit and candy. If you are up this way, please call to see me. Best wishes for the Social Corner friends.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the people of Norwich were greatly stirred up over the arrest in Willimantic, of Richard Robinson, murderer of Mrs. Catherine Dixon at Norwich Town. Robinson was brought to Norwich and when reaching the station house here became violently ill, he having taken poison in Willimantic just after his arrest there. Robinson lingered at the jail for a day or two and was then overtaken by death.

The same week the then new Irish-American military company held an organization meeting and chose John F. Murphy as president. Elias H. Beckwith, who for the preceeding twelve and a half years, had been jailer at the local jail, retired from that office, which was taken over by Sheriff Raymond. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of 1875 are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 27, 1875—The Norwich Town Murder—The pursuit of Robinson so tardily begun, has thus far been ineffectual. There were various rumors afloat Saturday of his having been seen in different parts of the town, but on examination they proved to be unreliable. There were not much doubt, however, that he was in Willimantic Friday night, and if the stories are true, was allowed to escape through the almost incredible stupidity of an officer who interrogated him. The house where the murder was committed, which has been unoccupied and locked since Mrs. Farrell's arrest, was broken into sometime after 10 o'clock Saturday night.

We notice by the Buffalo papers that Mrs. Elizabeth S. Chester, wife of the Rev. Albert T. Chester of that city, died on the 22d instant of congestion of the brain. Many of our citizens knew her well and will deeply sympathize with the doctor in his bereavement.

The race at the fairground Saturday between Lonesome Phebe, owned by George Rathbone of Colchester and Lady Brown, owned by Frank Brown of Franklin was won by the latter in three straight heats; time 3.18, 3.09 1-4; 3.09 1-4.

Tuesday, Sept. 28, 1875—A very successful Sunday school concert was given in the Greeneville Baptist church Sunday evening. The subject was the "Fruits of Graces," these being represented by nine young ladies of the school and was developed by recitations, emblems, singing and remarks by the pastor.

The transfer of the Horse Railroad property to George Brastow of Somerville, Mass., was made yesterday. Col. Brastow transferring in turn part of the property to Thomas Cunningham and J. H. Searey of Boston. These gentlemen proposed to put the road in thorough repair and think that it can be made a paying concern.

The game between the Norwich and Royalston croquet clubs for the championship of New England, will be played on the Worcester driving park tomorrow afternoon. It will be a single handed four ball game, W. H. Nash representing the Norwich club and J. P. Morse that of Royalston.

Wednesday, Sept. 29, 1875—The eclipse of the sun today will be annular or ring-like, caused by the shadow of the moon thrown on the sun not being enough to cover the surface of the latter, but leaving at the middle period of the eclipse a ring of light to circle the total shadow.

Alfred Robinson, the murderer of Catherine Dixon, was arrested in Willimantic, and is now at the station house in this city. The news of his arrest did not reach the city until late in the evening, but a crowd of over 500 men and women were at the West Side depot on the arrival of the train. Captain Whaley and four officers was on the platform and met officers Monroe and Robinson at the car door. The frightened wretch was dragged through the crush of excited people to a closed carriage in waiting. As he was carried along there were shouts of "kill him" "string him up here." At the station house he appeared to be so violently ill that physicians were immediately sent for. Drs. Cassidy and Carlton soon arrived and examined him. His pulse was strong, his eye clear, the action of the heart good and after observing him some time they concluded that he was in little danger and that a large part of his apparent suffering was simulated. He had taken poison at Willimantic who prescribed.

Thursday, Sept. 30, 1875—Richard Robinson the murderer of Mrs. Catherine Dixon, at Norwich Town, died in the jail yesterday morning. After his removal he remained without serious change until midnight, when his symptoms became much worse. It being evident that he could live but a short time he was told of his danger, and efforts were made to obtain a confession which would disclose Mrs. Farrell's complicity in the crime, but though fully conscious he could not be persuaded to say anything of importance. He lingered through the morning hours until at a few minutes after 9 o'clock the end came. An inquest was not considered necessary and before noon he was buried in a lot in the City cemetery.

C. Bloomberg, who has been in business in Norwich for the last ten years, leaves tonight for Patterson, N. J., where he intends to reside. Mr. Bloomberg has been an active and upright merchant here and has the best wishes of many friends for his success.

At a meeting of the new Irish-American military company last evening, the name of The Mitchell Independent Volunteers was adopted. John F. Murphy was elected president of the organization. Lieut. Beozan of Company C kindly offered his services as drillmaster.

Friday, Oct. 1, 1875—Changes at the Jail—Elias H. Beckwith retires from the jail today. Sheriff Raymond assumes the duties of jailor himself with Dennison Champlain as deputy. Mr. Beckwith has been in charge of the jail for twelve years and a half and has been an efficient and valuable officer.

At the annual meeting of the Greeneville school district the reports of the school committee and treasurer were read and accepted and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: A. A. Maine, clerk; James Houston, William Ray, B. H. Palmer, school district committee; T. A. Perkins, treasurer; John Wilbur collector; I. W. Carpenter, auditing committee.

The meanest robbery on record is that committed by William Chesebro Brown of Bungoyer beach, who made a friendly visit to O. G. Brown, North Stonington and after being entertained for two days, stole a child's savings bank containing $5 and disappeared.

Saturday, Oct. 2, 1875—J. P. Miller, having engaged Steiner's new hall, will commence his classes in dancing next Saturday, October 9th.

The first of the Winter Night entertainments takes place next Monday evening, opening with the Camilla Urso company. It is hardly necessary to say that a very pleasant evening may be expected.

It is noticeable that most of our weather, rain or shine, comes to us from the south Atlantic coast, though by no means regularly. The "probabilities" for that section one day may therefore be relied upon, to a limited extent, for the next day here. With this view the Bulletin will hereafter give the probabilities for the South Atlantic states on Saturday, as an indication, though imperfect, of Sunday's weather in this vicinity.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

Constance Talmadge plays her most unique role in Her Sister From Paris, the new Joseph M. Schenck production, which First National is offering at the Breed theater, Sun., Mon., Tues., and Wed.

For the first time in her life she acts the part of her own sister!

The story has to do with the exploits of a young and charming—although too thoroughly domesticated—wife who educates her husband into showing his love for her. To do it she impersonates her madcap sister from Paris, who has become nationally noted as a dancer.

Weeks of study preceded the beginning of actual production. It was necessary to evolve for Constance a disguise which would so completely transform her that even her husband wouldn't know her, and at the same time retain enough of her real loveliness so that she looked like herself!

Particular care was taken with her gowns, and dressmakers worked for weeks before Constance and Sidney Franklin, her director, were satisfied. In the early part of the story she appears as a meek little person in housewifely garb, and then suddenly changes into a bizarre, young dancer.

In her first character she is unable to hold her husband's love; in her second character she charms him so completely that he even elopes with her, thinking she is her sister!

In the Lime Light

Paul Specht and his orchestra of 11 men, who scored so successful here last Saturday are to play at the state armory at Danielson, this Saturday by a popular request. This will be the orchestra's last showing for quite some time, as they are booked for the remainder of the season, on B. F. Keith's circuit of theaters. On this occasion they will render a one hour concert following the dance.

Broadway Theater

Another splendid double feature program opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow. This is the biggest show in town, without a doubt.

Eugene O'Brien who is featured with Claire Windsor in the Tiffany Production, Souls for Sables, suggested from Garlen & Co., by David Graham Phillips, makes his first appearance in an independent production. For many years O'Brien was a star in his own right, and then played opposite Norma Talmadge in her most successful pictures.

As Fred Carlan, in Souls for Sables, Mr. O'Brien plays the part of a young business man, and it is said that his portrayal of the character is one of the best he has been seen in. Other names that are popular with every movie goer includes Claire Adams, Anders Randolf, Eileen Percy and George Fawcett.

Fairly throbbing with thrills, Buddy Roosevelt's latest action drama, Gold and Grit, will be the attraction at the Broadway theater Sunday the second picture and admirers of this popular young ridin' star are promised their fill of supreme suspense, spectacular performance and a story that is replete with romance and exciting incident, according to advance reports.

Gold and Grit, is a story of sheer pluck and daring, with plenty of stunts and novel feats thrown in for good measure. How Buddy wins the girl and saves the gold mine all at the same time, after a series of setbacks that would discourage most ordinary mortals, makes a picture of absorbing interest.

An augumented orchestra, comedy, and Kinograms completes this two and a half hour program all for 25 cents.

Next Week at the United Congregational Church.

The executive committee of the Sodalitas will meet in Miss Pullen's study at 7:30, Tuesday evening.

All women of the parish are invited and urged to attend the semi-annual meeting of the Eastern district, Connecticut Home Missionary Union, to be held at Park church on Thursday with sessions at 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. At 1:30 the young women of this church will give a dramatization: "Help Wanted For Miss Liberty."

Thursday evening at 7:30, Arthur C. Adams, one of the young men of the church, is to be ordained to the Christian ministry. The service will be held in the church auditorium and all members of the parish will be welcome.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace, Monday Evening, Oct. 5.

Sousa's band must thrill. Famous bandmaster carries out Fritz Kreisler's dictum that music is good only if it brings a thrill to listener.

Before he sailed on a recent trip to Europe, Fritz Kreisler, the Austrian violinist, in a newspaper interview, struck the keynote of all music with the declration that the test for all music is in the spine, and unless a tune causes the thrills to run up and down the spine of both player and listener, something is wrong with the tune. That has been the lifetime test of music with Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, the famous bandmaster, who is now on his thirty-third annual tour, and perhaps one of the great reasons for his success has been that the Sousa music both his own compositions and his renditions of the works of others has been music of thrills.

"I know a great deal about art, the technical side of it, as well as the interpretive, the mechanics and the artifices, but in the last analysis, we must all fall back on the most primeval thrill, the thrill down the length of the spinal column," Kreisler said. "It is the primitive registering of impressions, and when I get such a thrill, I know what I am listening to or playing is all right. If I don't get it, I know there is something wrong."

For a third of a century, Sousa has asked himself the question, "Will this selection thrill an audience?" and unless he was satisfied that the selection contained thrill, it has been excluded from the programmes. Perhaps one of the reasons for the great popularity of the Sousa marches has been that the march lends itself to a greater coloration than any other form of music, it has the primitive war-appeal which stirs the imaginations, and with a liberal number of march selections in his programmes, no matter what he plays in the way of classical or operatic music, the great thrill of the Sousa programme comes when the band plays his glorious "Stars and Stripes Forever."

This year there will be different thrills and new thrills in the Sousa programmes for the March King has added jazz to his presentations for the first time, and "Music of the Minute" a fantasy of jazz tunes played by one hundred men—the largest organization which ever played jazz music in America—will be a feature of his concerts.

That's the stuff!

"The Lucky Devil," directed for the screen by Frank Tuttle, who made "Too Many Kisses" and "Miss Blueheard," is an original screen story by Byron Morgan, author of all the Wallie Reid auto successes. Esther Ralston is Dix's leading woman.

Dix, as Randy Farman, who demonstrates auto camping outfits in a store, wins at a charity bazaar a specially built roadster around which has revolved a sensational breach of promise suit between the wealthy Rudolphe Franklyne and a notorious show girl, Zola Amber.

Then follows a series of thrill-filled laugh scenes when Randy starts out on his long dreamed of cross-country trip. At a tourist camp he meets and falls in love with Doris McDee (Miss Ralston), journeying with her mother in a battered flivver. The mother suspicious of young men who travel in ten thousand dollar roadsters, identifies Randy's beloved car as the one in the famous Franklyne-Amber case, and takes her daughter and departs, leaving a broken-hearted Randy to pursue in a frantic effort to overtake the girl and explain everything.

From here on the laughs and thrills build up to unbelievable heights, the scenes including a duel between the star and "Gunboat" Smith (himself) and winding up with an automobile road race that'll pull you out of your seat.

Some people achieve fame, others have it thrust upon them. Betty Bronson, the piquant little actress, who made such a triumphant film debut in "Peter Pan," belongs in both classifications.

It was due to her rare ability, elfin charm and sparkling personality that Paramount elevated her to stardom. And on top of that she was signally honored recently by having an entire town named after her!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

At 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon interesting moving pictures will be shown to men and women and boys and girls if accompanied by parents. The pictures will include a reel on "Niagara in Harness," showing the magnitude of the world's greatest cataract, and how some of its vast store of energy is utilized, and converted into that mysterious force we call electricity. Another reel entitled "Verde Canyon and its Cliff Dwellers," will show a number of close-up views of the remarkable cliff dwellings, supposed to be thousands of years old and among the most historic ruins to be found on the North American continent. A reel on "The Navigation of the Yukon" will be of interest, picturing a trip up the Yukon river, with views of icebergs and glaciers and the big canal. "Finger Prints" is the title of another reel which shows the only known means by which humans, dead or alive can be positively identified. Some interesting cases are shown of men so strikingly similar physically that one might be punished for the crimes of the other; their finger prints, however, show a remarkable dissimilarity that absolutely prevents the miscarriage of justice. Hugh Kinder will furnish the music for the pictures and render vocal solos and Secretary Hill will give a brief talk. All adults are cordially invited.

REAL DAUGHTERS' GRAVES MARKED BY D. A. R. CHAPTER

Eleven members of Anne Brewster Funning chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, visited the Pachaug and Ray-Yerrington cemeteries Thursday afternoon, for the purpose of marking the graves of two former members who were Real Daughters. The markers used were the regulation D. A. R. marker made of bronze bearing the insignia of the organization and the words "Real Daughter".

Pachaug cemetery was first visited and at the grave of Eunice Palmer Davis the following exercises took place: Address by the regent, Mrs. Charles E. Spicer; Singing, America; prayer by the chaplain, Miss Ida L. Foster; Placing the Marker, Mrs. Henry E. Olson; Placing the Wreath, Mrs. Ida B. Ladd; Placing the Flag, Mrs. C. T. Armstrong; Biographical Sketch, Mrs. J. H. Tracy. Salute to the Flag.

The members then continued to the Ray-Yerrington cemetery, situated on the Canterbury turnpike where Phoebe Palmer Ray, a sister of Eunice Palmer Davis, is buried. Here the same services with a few changes was followed. America the Beautiful was sung, the Wreath was placed by Mrs. E. F. Burleson, the Flag by Mrs. F. C. Whiting and the Biographical Sketch was read by Mrs. L. A. Faust.

Eunice Palmer Davis and Phoebe Palmer Ray were daughters of Benjamin Palmer, a soldier of the Revolutionary War and his wife, Hannah Woodworth. Mrs. Davis was born May 15, 1819 at Pendleton Hill in the Town of North Stonington, Conn. Mrs. Ray was born in Voluntown in 1825. Mrs. Davis was a charter member of Anne Fanning Brewster Chapter, D. A. R., and had the distinction of serving the chapter at its organization in 1897 as vice regent. Mrs. Ray joined the chapter at a later date. It is interesting to know that these sisters had their father's pension papers to substantiate their claim to membership in the D. A. R. through the Benjamin Palmer line, as there was another soldier bearing the same name in that locality. Mrs. Davis died in 1900 and Mrs. Ray in 1909.

Cloud Turrets

A scientific explanation of the connection between the imposing masses of cumulus clouds, piled up in aspiring white turrets, which are popularly called "thunder heads," are the approach of a thunderstorm is offered in a recent report on cloud studies made by one of the government scientists.

It appears that the form of cloud called turreted cumulo is most common when there is a rapid vertical decrease of temperature in the upper air, combined with heating at the ground, which favors the ascent of columns or air to great heights, and that is, at the same time, a condition favorable to thunderstorms.

Ireland's Big Cavern

One of the largest and most extraordinary of caverns is that at Mitchelstown Ireland. The first man to make an extensive exploration of this celebrated natural features was a Frenchman, one Martel, who is likewise an authority on the caverns of France.

The Irish cavern is formed in limestone and is extraordinary for the number and extent of its connected passages, which, when plotted upon a chart, resemble the streets of a city. The length of the cave is about a mile and a quarter, and it contains some animal inhabitants, including a species of spider, which are peculiar to it and have their entire existence within its recesses.

WESTERLY

In the Friday morning session of Third District court, after an absence of a week, Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr., called the following: Civil docket, New writ entered—Louis Deutsch of Westerly vs. Fannie J. Lockwood of Westfield, Mass., which was answered by Shaw, Hudson and Clifford, and a jury trial was claimed by the plaintiff and it was so marked.

C. E. Brooks vs. Otto Seidner. Continued one week.

Michael H. Scanlon vs. Peter DePerry. Continued one week.

Walter Velick of Hope Valley. Continued one week.

State, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown compl't vs. Frank A. Bestwick of Alton, town of Richmond, R. I., for the operation of a motor vehicle on Broad street, Westerly, recklessly, Sunday evening, Sept. 27th.

Bestwick who is 19, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

Town Solicitor Ferguson, Jr., told the court the defendant was pursued by a Connecticut State policeman, Giles Watson, from Wequetequock, Ct., across Pawcatuck river bridge, into Westerly when the State trooper discharged two shots at him from his revolver, in front of the Westerly Town Hall.

Bestwick came across the bridge about 7 o'clock passing eight cars between the bridge and the Rhode Island Hotel the town solicitor said, and on the crosswalk in front of the hotel several pedestrians escaped death by jumping out of the way.

Solicitor Ferguson told the court that Patrolman George H. Champlin was informed by Bestwick after he had arrested him on Elm street, where he had overtaken him in a commandered automobile, that he "lost his head." This is an unusual case said the attorney and it seemed that there was a deliberate attempt to get away, and that he had been informed that he should not have a license.

Bestwick in his own behalf, testified that he had come from Bridgeport and as one of his auto tires was soft wanted to stop in Pawcatuck and blow it up, saying it was entirely flat from the West Broad street railroad bridge to the stopping place on Elm street. He told the judge that "he didn't remember coming through Westerly, and must have lost his head," so that when the Connecticut state cop overtook him near the Elm Tree Inn in Pawcatuck, he got scared and stepped on the gas.

The town solicitor informed the judge that the defendant was not absolutely frank in his statement, as he had told the officers at the time of his arrest that he thought he would be free from arrest if he got on the Rhode Island side of the Pawcatuck bridge. In imposing the $100 fine Judge Turano said that Rhode Island officers of the law might receive no better heed from him, and that he did not believe the story.

Court adjourned after a very short session.

In anticipation of laying the cement between the freight yard sidings near the Westerly freight house, quantities of chipped stone and gravel together with a quantity of cement have been distributed along the proposed new cement driveways. Much of the form work has been constructed at the east of the freight yard, so that when the cement is poured there will be no delay until the entrance end on the Canal street and of Industrial drive is reached by the form builders.

Will Outline New Peace Plan

Congressman A. P. Andrew, of Gloucester, Mass., who is to submit a peace plan at the Fifth Annual Convention of the Interallied Veterans Federation, to be held in Rome this September. His idea is to have commissions named by institutions of the nations involved in an international controversy, to visit each others country to inspect and study the issue and report their findings to their own people.

Seems a Little Unfair

At the base of objection to jury service is the perhaps selfish feeling that one doesn't want to give up his time because two other persons didn't choose to behave.

LODGE NOTES

ELKS.

A committee consisting of Attorney Charles W. Casaldy, chairman; Felix P. Callahan, secretary; James N. Austin, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Nicholas Doyle, James P. Hayes, James W. Semple, Charles F. Wells, F. Russell Smith, Frank Rinella, Samuel Taylor, and William J. Fitzgerald has been appointed by Norwich lodge of Elks to forward the plan for which the grand lodge of the order is a sponsor of raising a fund to preserve "Old Ironsides," the frigate Constitution, one of the relics of the glorious history of the early American navy. The plan is to raise the money in "Old Ironsides Week," October 19 to 24, through contributions from the school children. Permisson is being sought from the school board and from the state board of education to conduct the campaign. James R. Nicholson, past grand exalted ruler of the Elks, is campaign director.

In accordance with Section 28 of the act of congress of March 4, 1925, the money necessary to repair, equip and restore the frigate Constitution, of which a fund of $500,000 is expected to be raised, is to be donated to the secretary of the navy. All except the actual expenses will be donated to the secretary of the navy for this purpose.

The secretary of the navy believes this campaign offers an unusual opportunity to stress the educational and patriotic lessons to be learned from the early history of the navy in which "Old Ironsides" played so important a part. Accordingly, he asked that the school children of the country be given the opportunity to raise the fund with contributions of their pennies, nickels and dimes.

At the invitation of the secretary of the navy, John G. Price, grand exalted ruler, has pledged the subordinate lodges to the duty of serving as the field agents for the campaign. In this capacity it will be their responsibility to—

Arrange for holding school exercises the week of Oct. 19 24, designated as "Old Ironsides Week." These exercises will give the B. P. O. E. the opportunity to emphasize the thrilling exploits of the famous frigate and the early history of the United States navy.

The navy department is printing a handsome colored reproduction of the famous frigate suitable for framing which the Elks will be asked to present to every school as the key-note of the patriotic exercises.

Buttons are being manufactured so that each school child who makes a contribution can proudly wear the little emblem portraying the sentence "I helped save 'Old Ironsides'!"

A model programme for the school exercises, model speeches designed for the Elks orators at these exercises and various supplementary material is being prepared at the fund headquarters.

An essay contest with appropriate awards based upon a 500-word essay on "Old Ironsides" is being perfected the details to be announced later.

(AP)—One of the five trophies obtained in the Far North by the MacMillan expedition was missing when the steamer Peary, one of the vessels of the expedition, sailed from this port early today for Sydney, N. S., on its homeward journey. The missing exhibit is a rare blue fox captured in North Greenland.

Two of the animals, which were intended for presentation to the New York zoo, escaped while the Peary was here. One of them was recaptured later but the other is still at large.

ATTEMPT TO COMMIT SUICIDE WAS "BURLESQUE"

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 2. (AP)—Edward F. Reilly, Chapel street, Bridgeport, who was held suspected by physicians at St. Vincent's hospital where he was removed three weeks ago as one who had attempted to commit suicide by taking poison, will not have to pay alimony to his wife, Lillian Courtney Reilly, Fairfield, pending trial of an action for a divorce brought by her, it was declared in superior court this afternoon by Judge John R. Booth.

Reilly, who was last employed as a cigar salesman, testified he was out of work, could not find a job and lived through the last week only because he was able to borrow $10.

A "fake" and a "burlesque" was Attorney Lawrence Finklestone's characterization of Reilly's purported efforts to die by poison.

CHANGE IN VALVE SYSTEM OF SHENANDOAH AUTHORIZED

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 2. (AP)—Authorization for the change in the gas valve system in the airship Shenandoah was given by the navy department bureau of aeronautics with some reluctance and by way of experiment and was accompanied by warnings that the innovation would furnish an added reason for cautious operation of the vessel.

This is shown by official correspondence on the subject passing between the bureau and Commander Zachary Lansdowne, captain of the Shenandoah, which was read into the record of the naval court of inquiry here today by Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, senior surviving officer, at the direction of Judge Advocate Foley.

Writing at the direction of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau, Captain E. S. Land, of the construction corps, warned Commander Lansdowne on last May 28 that the modified arrangement of the automatic safety valves "is not as foolproof as the original installation." He added that the proposed arrangement "imposes an added reason for cautious operation of the ship near pressure height."

OFFICERS OF STEAMER MACKINAC INDICTED

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 2. (AP)—Capt. George W. McVay and Chief Engineer John A. Grant of the excursion steamer Mackinac on which a boiler explosion Aug. 18 in Newport harbor cost 55 lives were indicted by the Providence and Bristol counties grand jury here today for manslaughter. George J. Kelley, general manager of the Blackstone Valley Transportation company, operator of the steamer, was charged with being an accessory before the fact.

Nine indictments were returned, the grand jury acting on evidence presented by Assistant Attorney General Oscar L. Heltzen who based his case on three of the 55 deaths. Three of the indictments charged McVay and Grant jointly with manslaughter and Kelley with being an accessory before the fact. Three indictments charged McVay with manslaughter and the remaining three charged Grant with the same offense.

Capiasca were ordered issued for the three defendants, who will appear in court Monday or Tuesday to answer to the charges, according to John J. Fitzgerald, their counsel.

The scale formerly in force was $3 for a ten-hour working day without overtime pay.

WEATHER CONDITIONS HALT COMMERCIAL AIRPLANES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 2. (AP)—Delayed by adverse weather conditions, fourteen of the fifteen commercial airplanes in the Ford reliability flight remained here tonight instead of continuing on to Columbus, Ohio, designated night stopping point.

E. A. Goff, Jr., was forced down at Jewell, Ill., on the flight from St. Louis because of a broken water line.

The planes probably will take off tomorrow morning for Columbus.

Scheduled to reach here before noon, the first plane, a travel air machine, piloted by Walter Beach, Wichita, Kansas, did not land until 1:46 p. m. Beach had taken off from Lambert field, St. Louis, at 11:02 a. m. Rain and fog delayed the trip. An eight-passenger Fokker, with Anthony Fokker aboard, landed three seconds later. A German-made Junker with a young Swedish pilot, Frederick Meichler, was the third to land. The thirteenth plane, a Yackey Sport, piloted by Walter J. Addems, landed an hour later.

The best flying time today was made by the Ford-Stout machine, which covered the distance from St. Louis in two hours, twenty-five minutes and nineteen seconds. The Fokmer's time was 2:26:36.

STOLEN CAR LOCATED AT NEW LONDON BEFORE OWNER REPORTS ITS LOSS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3.—The New London police today recovered an automobile, a Ford owned by Harold Crocker, Westfield, Mass., employed by the Prudential Life Insurance company, which was stolen in Springfield, Mass., last Wednesday. Crocker came to New London late this afternoon and took charge of the car.

This forenoon a resident of Connecticut avenue reported to the police that the automobile had been parked in front of 185 two days. Sergeant John Cavanaugh went to where the automobile was parked and in the machine was a brief case showing that the property was owned by Crocker. A telephone message to the Westfield police resulted in Crocker being located and it was revealed that the car had been stolen, although Crocker had not reported the theft to the Westfield police.

Peter Sablowski, an employe of the United States Finishing company, whose home is on Central avenue, Norwich, did not have a word to say this morning when he was in the police court charged with a violation of the laws governing the operation of automobiles in being intoxicated. He was represented by Judge John T. Barry, of Griswold, who pleaded guilty for his client and asked for what leniency the court might see fit to exercise in the case. Judge Barry represented to the court that the defendant was employed by a corporation that made it a rule to discharge any persons engaged in the plant who was convicted of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He said his client came within the rule and might lose his work. It was represented that the damage to both cars in a collision for which the accused was responsible would be nearly $1,000. The fact that a woman occupant of the Sablowski car lost two teeth when the car crashed into a telephone pole was known. On the matter of whether the defendant carried insurance will depend the settlement for the damages occasioned. This may be one of the cases that emphasizes what the state motor department has advocated, viz., that every operator of an automobile shall carry insurance. Sablowski got out of his trouble so far as the court was connected with the matter by paying a fine of $100 and the costs of his arrest and presentation in court.

William H. Burdick a driver for Ahmour in this city was fined $10 for stopping his horse and beef truck in Main street, while he delivered goods to a store. Burdick pleaded not guilty when arranged and then went on the witness stand and admitted all that was charged against him. His horse and truck stopped on the track of the trolley company while Burdick was in the bakery some five minutes or more, during which time the street cars were held up.

John Gormley, a coast guard sailor, stationed at the state pier, was too drunk at the railway station that he could not navigate. Indeed he didn't know a dry glass from a beer bottle. Railroad Officer Kelly took charge of the sailor and gave him a cell in the lockup. Today Judge Prince ordered the sailor delivered to the state pier that he may be put under the discipline due him.

Bill Kovitski was arrested, intoxicated last evening and gave a bond of $25 to insure his liberty and his appearance in court today. He didn't appear when his case was called three times, so he forfeited the bond he gave when arrested. A good price to pay for a drunk added to the expense of liquor at 50 cents a drink.

Dianne Gaylor, a girl in her teens, was charged with having avoided the payment of her fare from Providence to New London. She was not arraigned in court, but she was where she could be brought in as if she was wanted. She has been residing with an aunt in Brooklyn, but she had some ideas as to privileges and liberties that her relatives did not entertain. Her aunt was disposed to be particular about the associates of Dianne and as to the hours during which she should be away from home. This chafed the girl so she arranged to go to Providence with a woman acquaintance. They got into the city that includes part of what used to be called Roger Williams Plantation, where the pair became destitute of funds. Dianne then concluded she would go back home and got on a train that brought her to New London. Her ticket was demanded but she could not produce it. When she was handed over to the authorities here. She is now in the custody of Policewoman Jane Cassidy, who awaits a remittance from Dianne's home.

An automobile owned and operated by P. T. Radikr, 60 Mott avenue, and a machine operated by John Karnbach, College Point, N. Y., were in collision this afternoon on Bank street, between Golden and Pearl streets. Both cars were damaged.

Greiner, wife of Gilbert Greiner, 216 Pequot avenue, visited the dance hall in the Lawrence building, Bank street, last night and while enjoying the diversion was robbed of a diamond ring, a baby's ring, valuable papers and $2. Mrs. Greiner reported her loss to the police but no trace of the thief was obtained.

Before Mrs. Rathbun could bring the automobile to a stop, the boy, who had gotten in front of the machine, was struck and knocked down. Mrs. Rathbun had the boy conveyed to the police station, where she made a report of the accident, but the youngster refused to go to the office of a physician and be examined, although he complained that his arm hurt him. BISHOP SLATTERY TO OFFER AMENDMENTS TO THE CANONS

BOSTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Rt. Rev. Charles L. Slattery, Bishop Coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, announced tonight that he hoped to introduce into the house of bishops at the coming Episcopal convention in New Orleans amendments to the canons which would make thoroughly effective the so-called concordat permitting the ordination by an Episcopal bishop of minister of another denomination.

If these amendments are adopted, he said, "the Episcopal church will have kept its word and will have taken its first real step toward the unity of the church."

"During the year," said Bishop Slattery, "Dr. Newman Smyth, the distinguished Congregationalist, had asked if a way could not be found by which Congregational chaplains might, by Episcopal ordination, be made available in a ministry to both Congregational and Episcopal soldiers. When the war was over a layman of the Episcopal church asked Dr. Smyth if he did not think that his plan ought to be carried into times of peace.

"Thereupon a committee of clergy and laity of various schools of churchmanship in the Episcopal church met repeatedly with a group of eminent Congregationalists. The great desire on the part of all these men was a real step toward church unity. The outcome of their discussions was the canon which came to be called the concordat."

MARKET WAS BULLISH.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. (AP)—A wave of bullish enthusiasm, engendered by the maintenance of the New York Federal Reserve rate at 3 1-2 per cent., swept over the stock market today, bringing about a general recovery of prices. More than a score issues were elevated to new 1925 high levels on total sales of 2,268,000 shares, a volume exceeded only twice before this year.

Buying orders began pouring into the market early in the day, with speculative sentiment encouraged not only by the federal reserve directors' action, but also by intiations from high banking quarters that the soundness of the country's credit position would warrant no early readjustment of the re-discount rate. Money rates themselves furnished no direct stimulus to buying since call loans held firm at 5 per cent.

The solid foundation which existed for the day's advance was emphasized by the fact that U. S. Steel regained its leadership of the industrial shares with a broad public buying movement developing for the other representative issues. The recent violent fluctuations in purely speculative stocks were lacking, although gains of 3 to 11 points were registered by some of the prominent baking issues in response to merger developments. Advances in most of the standard industrials ranged from 1 to 4 points.

Indications of steady expansion in incoming business and the growing belief that unfilled orders for September will show the first increase in many months furnished the background for U. S. Steel's impressive exhibition of strength. The stock reached a new high on the current move at 123 3-8, 5 points above the week's low level, and closed 1 3-4 points net higher at 122 1-2. American Can, General Electric, American Telephone, Mack Trucks, Baldwin, Sloss-Sheffield Steel and other leaders followed with advances of 1 to 4 points.

Outlining terms of the new baking merger which Wall street has been expecting was the signal for another upward swing in these shares. General Baking moved up 4 points to around 225, the price offered for the shares under the consolidation plan, and Ward Baking "B" was rushed up more than 8 points to a new top at 84 3-4. Fleischmann indulged in an even more spectacular performance, soaring 13 points to a record high at 141 1-4 and closing only about a point under the level. Buying was promoted by the company's acquisition of valuable yeast plants. Oil and motor shares gave good demonstrations of group strength, with active accumulation also proceeding in the chemical, food, public utility and mercantile issues. Pierce-Arrow, White Motors, Studebaker, Mack Trucks, Dodge and Chrysler resumed their upward movements but General Motors and Hudson lost their early gains in a last minute rush to take profit. Hiking Steward-Warner led the accessories with a 3 1-2 point advance.

Oil stocks were benefited by indications that the industry position was being steadily improved by curtailment of crude production.

Marland, Mid-Continental, Pan-American "B" and the General Asphalt issues were in brisk demand throughout the day. Other issues which were prominent in the day's advance were Texas Gulf Sulphur, Woolworth, American Linseed, American Agricultural Chemical, Havana Electric, Loose Wiles Biscuit and U. S. Realty.

Call money rates remained firm, the renewal rate of 5 per cent. being maintained throughout the day. Time loans remained unchanged at 4 1-2 to 4 3-4 per cent, and prime commercial paper continued to hold at 4 1-4.

Although the outcome of the French debt funding negotiations was ignored as a stock market factor, it caused a break of about 10 points in French francs to below 4.65 cents and a sympathetic reaction in Belgian francs and Italian lire. Demand sterling hovered around $4.83 11-16, the lowest level since Great Britain's return to the gold standard.

FAVORABLE SENTIMENT SHOWN AT HEARING ON PETITION FOR BUSSES

The public utilities commission held a public hearing Friday morning at 10.30 in the council chamber at the court house, on the application of the Connecticut Company to substitute busses for trolley service over railroad tracks between Taftville and Central Village, Central Village and North Grosvenordale, Central Village and Moosup and Elmville and Killingly. R. T. Higgins, chairman, C. C. Elwell, Lewis Isaacson, superintendent of the jitney department, and R. C. Sneider, stenographer of the public utilities commission, were present.

A number of Connecticut company and N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad officials attended the hearing. They included Samuel Anderson, local manager of the Connecticut company, R. T. Flickinger, and Joseph Berry, attorneys for the trolley company, W. L. Barrett, of the New Haven road, and C. J. Reagan of the New Haven road.

Chairman Higgins opened the hearing and Attorney Berry explained that the trolley service between Grosvenordale and Norwich has been operated for the past 18 years with accident, hazards and that the proposed bus service can give adequate accommodations

It was explained by Attorney Flickinger that in June 1907, the Connecticut company started the trolley service between Norwich and Central Village, over the New Haven tracks, a distance of approximately 15 miles. A bus service between Norwich and Central Village would be to the material advantage of the Connecticut company and the residents of that locality. The routes from Central Village to Moosup and Central Village to North Grosvenordale now require a considerable additional expense for repairs of the tracks and bridges over the route. The chairman asked if the petition of the Connecticut company in substance was to discontinue trolley service between Norwich and Central Village and substitute bus service over this line and to discontinue absolutely the trolley service between Central Village and Moosup and Almeyville and North Grosvenordale. The attorney assured that in substance those were in the petitions.

John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce inquired as to the Saturday service, and was informed that the bus service would work jointly with the railroad. Herbert R. Branche, executive secretary of the Norwich Council, No. 309 U. C. T., inquired as to the rates to be charged. He was informed that this matter had not been arranged. When the time comes the rates will be regulated by the public utility commission.

Mr. Bennett of the Connecticut company stated it was the company's intention to operate a two hour service between Norwich and Central Village and hourly between Central Village and North Grosvenordale. Mr. O'Rourke, Mr. Branche and C. I. Smith expressed the opinion that hourly service would better serve the public.

It was stated by Attorney Flickinger that in order to care for the some 180 patrons on one trip on Saturday afternoon between Central Village and Norwich five busses, an investment of $50,000 would be necessary. Mr. Branche said that if the service was hourly he did not believe there would be as many as 180 patrons on one trip.

Resolutions adopted by the Putnam Chamber of Commerce, favoring the petition of the Connecticut company were read by Attorney Berry. Mr. O'Rourke announced that the Norwich Chamber of Commerce had gone on record as favoring the petition. Mr. Branche also stated that the United Commercial Travelers favored the same N. C. Weymouth, as an individual was in favor of an hourly bus service. Mr. Kinder superintendent of the Attawaugan company, was in favor of the bus service. Mr. Carpenter of the Jewett City Chamber of Commerce and of the interests of the manufacturers in Jewett City, favored the petitions. Mayor Milo R. Waters representing the city administration, favored the petition.

Chairman Higgins inquired as to the type of busses planned to be used on the lines. Attorney Flickinger stated that the bus is of the city type, seating 29 passengers. He stated that the same type bus is now being used between New London, Norwich and Willimantic.

Superintendent Reagan, of the New Haven road's local division, stated that he would be glad to do away with the trolley service on the railroad tracks. Mr. Reagan offered to put on a train from Putnam to Norwich Saturday afternoon, stopping at all stations en route and arriving in Norwich at 1:30 p. m. The return trip could be made at 6 p. m.

Attorney Flickinger said that if permission is granted immediately, the bus service could possibly be started within five or six weeks.

A petition was entered by the Yellow Cab company to operate a bus line between Central Village and Norwich but no one appeared to be heard on the application and the hearing proceeded to hear the petition of the Blue Ribbon Lane for a bus line between Oneco and Sterling to Norwich. Mr. Back, of the Blue Ribbon Line, outlined their plans for service between these towns.

It was stated by the officials of the Connecticut company that the necessary equipment, some 13 to 15 busses, would be ordered at once and that probably in the course of six weeks, or sooner if possible, the change would be made. Relative to a schedule the question of hourly or two-hourly service could not yet be decided upon, but whatever schedule was adopted it would be changed as the public demanded.

After the dinner hour Dr. Spaulding will again lead the assembly in worship and then Rev. William E. Plaxton will bring Some Echoes from the Lectures Given by Dr. Raymond C. Brooks, professor at Pomona college, Claremont, Cal., Under the Hartford Seminary Foundation, Sept. 14-15, 1925. JUDGMENT ON NOTE GIVEN FOR $5,438.97

Judgment in the sum of $5,438.97 on a promissory note was given in favor of the Fidelity & Deposit company of Maryland against Joseph and Ruth Soltz, of New London, by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court short calendar session at New London Friday morning. The case came up on a motion for judgment by default for failure to plead. A motion for hearing in damages was granted. On April 15, 1924, the defendants, Joseph Soltz and Ruth Soltz, and the Soltz company, executed the demand note for $5,000, which has not been paid.

The same Maryland company in its case against Ruth Soltz had a continuance until next Friday by which time the defendant must pay up a mortgage of $3,500 and interest of $207.27 and taxes of $692.82. There are two mortgages on the house and land owned by Ruth Soltz in Huntington street and Thomas S. McGinley and Ambrose Cassara, local realtors, testified that its value was $7,000. If the defendant does not pay the above sums by next Friday, Judge Brown announced that judgment of mortgage and limitation of time would be ordered. Attorney Morris Lubchansky appeared for the plaintiff.

Allmony pendente lite in the sum of $15 per week commencing Oct. 3, was ordered in Ethel P. Biesecker vs. Milton D. Biesecker.

Judgment in favor of Olive H. Thayer, of Putnam, against Dorothy M. Lyon, of Lyme, was granted for $956.33. The plaintiff's claim was for $200, loaned March 5, 1920, with interest of $63.33, and for services as a nurse for two periods at $18 per week from May 1 to Aug. 1, 1917, $234, and from Jan. 20 to July 20, 1920, $468.

Authority to sell accounts; authority to pay accountants; payment of expenses of counsel and dividend were all granted by Judge Brown in the case of the Hygienic Fibre company against the Versailles Sanitary Fibre Mills Inc.

The judge took the papers in the case of Annie Weiner, of Hartford and Ocean Beach, against Harry Brightman, of the same address, for a hearing on plea to the jurisdiction.

The cases of Richards against the Connecticut Silica corporation for disclosure of defense and the P. Schwartz Co., Inc., against the Griswold Co., Inc., both went off the calendar.

POULTRYMEN'S AUTO TOUR TAUGHT MANY LESSONS

The Connecticut poultry association's annual automobile tour ended at noon at the farm of H. D. Harley in Lunenburg, Mass., on Friday, Sept. 4. This terminated a very successful trip of 150 poultrymen representing eight northeastern states. The Connecticut and visiting poultrymen are grateful to Prof. William C. Monahan of Massachusetts Aggie, Prof. A. W. Richardson of New Hampshire Aggie; and to Connecticut's extension poultry specialist, Roy E. Jones, who planned the entire trip in all its details and led the large party safely and enjoyably on its 675-mile journey. That there was no accident or mishap of any nature testifies to the smoothness of the system with which the tour was conducted.

The Connecticut people found in practice many ideas similar to their own, as well as suggested improvements which the Connecticut extension service has recently been boosting. Some of these modern managerial methods were witnessed for the first time by at least a part of the vacationists. The poultry specialist said today, "We can find many of these approved modern practices successfully working out here in our home state." At the conclusion of the trip, our poultrymen returned well satisfied with what they had seen but feeling that they are not the worst managers possible. Poultrymen in this state can copy some worthwhile plans from the up-to-date customs of care and management which have been successfully adopted by our northern neighbors. Hence we are outlining the outstanding features in the management of the largest Massachusetts and New Hampshire commercial poultry plants.

First of these is winter broiler production; secondly breeding from pullets; thirdly, the fact that R. I. Reds are the predominating breed; fourthly, the continuous type of poultry houses; fifth, the fact that breeders are kept but one year; sixthly, the pedigreeing of breeders as practiced on a small scale by several of the leading poultrymen; seventhly, the practice of running a combination of orcharding and poultry raising, which has proved very profitable; eighthly, the production of early chicks, which was emphasized by all the breeders—in fact, a few are producing hatching eggs the year around, the earliest ones going to the winter broiler raisers; ninthly, the wise practice of slanting a piece of wire netting from the edge of the roosting platform out onto the floor seems to be a labor-saving device to quickly teach the heavy breeds to roost—also it prevents the pullets from crowding during the first few nights in new laying quarters; tenthly, the practice of buying feed in carload lots for from 25 to 50 cents per cwt. below local dealers' prices was described by Louis Hoyt of Goffstown, N. H., as being particularly advantageous; eleventhly, the growing of young stock on well-sodded but low soil has been proven by Mr. Hoyt to be fully as satisfactory as sandy soil where the chickens soon kill off the grass; twelfthly, some of these poultrymen saturate bags with a reliable disinfectant which are placed several feet in extent across the entrance to the poultry houses—thus forming an effective check on disease spread that Connecticut could well adopt; and lastly, numerous labor-saving devices such as watering utensils made from butter tubs, also special handy window and door fixtures too numerous to mention here, were closely observed.

Prof. Richardson of New Hampshire believes that the ambitious winter broiler man who knows how, can easily supply the increasing market demand for early broilers. He also is convinced that breeding from early-hatched pullets—a practice which they have followed for 16 years, has proven advantageous for the New Hampshire climate.

Should you be considering building plans, do not fail to talk with some one who took this trip, or else write to the poultry specialist of the Connecticut extension service for detailed information.

Points such as, depth of colony brooder houses, open front houses, box nests, dark nests, litter carriers, concrete floors, water systems, and special door fastening devices, together with several types of screens and window frames, and summer roosting shelters on range, are notable features that Connecticut poultrymen saw much value in.

A mixture of shavings and straw is proving more practical than either of these litters used alone. Another outstanding factor arousing intense interest was the discovery that the birds had no yards at all—neither the layers nor the breeders.

It developed that the Massachusetts and New Hampshire feeding practices are somewhat similar to ours, except that in one case the custom of mixing together a week's supply of 300 parts grain with 200 parts dry mash, fed in hoppers on free range, seemed to be the biggest labor saving method for feeding young stock that the writer has ever witnessed. All throughout New Hampshire the feeding of growing stock on range in troughs is customary.

From these points alone, the reader will readily appreciate that the trip was of the practical sort which furnished workable modern ideas of management and building practices that are going to become of direct financial value to the people in our state.

READY TO ISSUE 1926 AUTO REGISTRATIONS

Application blanks for 1926 motor vehicle registrations were mailed from the state motor vehicle department this week to owners of cars registered this year. At the same time the department at the capital, and its branch offices in Waterbury, Bridgeport, New Haven and New London were prepared to begin issuing the registrations for the coming year, this work being started twenty days earlier this year than last with the view to distributing the issuance of registrations over a longer period and encouraging early applications to avoid the annual eleventh hour rush of applicants at the close of the year.

Applicants for car registrations are requested by the department to be particular to enter on their application forms both the maker's factory number and the engine number in each case. Sometimes applicants do not supply this information and assume that it will be supplied by the department from former records. This cannot be done because it causes needless delay and because the information for identification purposes should be ascertained at the time of registration and be accurate. Applications which are not complete in these respects upon presentation, will not be accepted for registration until corrected.

The time limit for reservation of the same registration numbers as have been held this year has been shortened half a month and will expire November 15, instead of December 1. Notices enclosed with the registration blanks bear the following with respect to reservations: "The department will endeavor to reserve for any applicant the number assigned to him in 1925, provided a complete 1926 application, accompanied by the necessary fee and a written request for that particular number is received at the Hartford office of any of the branch offices on or before November 15, 1925." All applications received after that date will be assigned numbers in the order most convenient for the department.

Number plates for 1926 are of chrome orange background with black figures. They are manufactured for the department at the Connecticut Reformatory at Cheshire. Under the new law it will be legal to use the new registration markers on the last week-day of December, 1925. Operators licenses do not expire until February 28, 1925.

Nearly 250,000 application blanks—about the number of 1925 registrations — are being mailed out at a postage cost to the department approaching $5,000. The department encourages applications by mail, which it tries to fill promptly. It is expected that approximately 300,000 cars will be registered in Connecticut next year.

NOTED SPEAKERS COMING FOR MISSIONARY MEETING

The women of Norwich are specially favored in having the semi annual meeting for the eastern district, of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary Union of Connecticut, to be held at Park church on Thursday, October 8th. The National Council of Congregational Churches to be held at Washington later in October brings within reach of this meeting Dr. Geo. M. Hinsman, secretary of the A. M. A. for the Pacific coast and Richard R. Shoemaker of Phoenix, Arizona, superintendent of the southwest. It is a rare opportunity to hear these speakers who come from so great a distance.

Mrs. Samuel Lane Loomis, who speaks on Porto Rico, is the wife of Dr. Loomis of the A. M. A. Miss Miriam L. Woodberry of the Congregational Home Missionary society is always welcomed here.

The semi annual meeting is held in three parts of the state with practically the same programme given at each. Thus more women are able to put themselves in touch with the work they support. The central district meets at New Britain and the western district at Milford later in the month.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS BURTON

Mrs. Burton was assisted by her daughter, Dixie, and Mrs. Francis Fletcher in the arrangements for the evening. The bride-to-be received many lovely and useful gifts.

STOLE WRIST WATCH FROM HOSPITAL NURSE

Pleading guilty to theft of a gold wrist watch from a bathroom at the W. W. Backus hospital, William LaRue, 19, of Jewett City, was sentenced to jail for 20 days and assessed costs amounting to $10.09, by Judge H. H. Fettis in the city court, Friday morning.

LaRue went to the hospital Thursday to visit a sick friend and while at the institution went into a bathroom and took a gold wrist watch from a wash stand. He took the watch to Jewett City with him. Miss Marion Dodge, the owner of the watch, a student nurse, found the watch gone when she went to the bath room for it. An investigation of the theft of the watch was immediately started and suspicion pointed to LaRue as the guilty party.

At the request of the local police, Sheriff John T. Nolan, of Jewett City, arrested LaRue there, found the watch and obtained a confession from LaRue. He was brought to this city by Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer Patrick Murphy, who went after him, armed with a warrant.

In court Friday morning LaRue entered a plea of guilty. He claimed he took the watch as a joke, thinking it belonged to another nurse at the hospital and said he intended to return it to her when she went to a dance in Jewett City Friday night. The watch was returned to Miss Dodge by the court authorities.

RUNAWAY MOTOR TRUCK BROKE BATH ST. HYDRANT

A motor truck of the state highway department, which was left standing on a slope on Bath street Friday morning about 7 o'clock, while the driver was away from it, started down hill of its own accord, broke off a hydrant, mounted onto the sidewalk and ran back into the street before it came to a stop.

The driver, Gregory Muckenstrum, was subsequently summoned into the city court on the charge of operation with defective brakes. At the request of Henry T. Gorman, district supervisor of the state department, the case was continued to Oct. 10.

Gallons of water were lost before the hydrant could be shut off. Friday afternoon a new hydrant was put in by Foreman William Bilicq and Dennis Donovan, of the water department.

NORWICH TOWN

At the home of the president, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, Peck's Corner, Friday afternoon at 3:30, twenty or more members of the Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church, assembled for the first fall meeting.

Mrs. Yerrington opened the meeting with Scripture reading and prayer, also read interesting extracts from the October Home Missionary Bulletin, as well as a very interesting letter from Miss Ruth Beebe. Miss Beebe, a member of the faculty at Trinity school, Athens, Ala., having taught there for the past three or four years, sent the local society an interesting letter for the opening meeting last year also. During the hour devoted to business, the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Chapin, collected the mite boxes. All boxes not having been turned in, a correct amount as the result of the summer's savings, could not be given out.

Mention was made by Mrs. Yerrington of a brief personal call from Frederick J. Working, a former Taftville resident, now located at Atlanta, Ga., who stopped to acknowledge barrels of clothing, etc., which had been contributed by the Home Missionary society.

When returning south to resume her teaching this fall, Miss Beebe spent two days in Atlanta, part of which time she passed at Principal Working's school, where she was a supper guest.

At the close of the meeting Friday afternoon, a social hour was spent, when the hostess, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Coffee, Miss Jennie M. Case and Miss Louise Hyde, served tea, fancy wafers and dainty cakes.

SERVICES AT SUB. BASE FOR VICTIMS OF THE SUB. S-51

More Than 600 Officers and Enlisted Men Stood in the Base Theatre With Bowed Heads Until the Bugle Call Died Away—The Services Were Simple But Impressive—Heavy Weather Forced Ships Away From the Scene of the Disaster—They Took Refuge in the Lee of Block Island.

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 4—The solemn notes of "taps," today rang through the submarine base as a farewell by the navy to the dead comrades of the S-51.

As the bugle call died away more than two officers and enlisted men stood in the base theatre with bowed heads. With them were friends of the 33 dead men of the S-51, officials of New London and civilians who had joined in the memorial services this morning. Every man attached to the base, not detained by official duties, was present.

During the services, other navy men were toiling at the scene of the sinking of the submarine Sept. 25 by the City of Rome, to recover the bodies of their comrades. Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of operations, sent a message from the Camden to be read at the memorial exercises. It said:

"Rear Admiral Christy and staff, and the officers and men of the U. S. S. Camden, deeply regret that on account of the duty in which the flagship is engaged, they are denied the privilege of attending the memorial services at the submarine base this morning and there paying their homage to the memory of the gallant officers and men of the U. S. S. S-51 who lost their lives in the services of their country."

The services opened with a reading of the order issued by Captain Ernest J. King, commanding officer of the base, under which they were held. In this order, Captain King reiterated his contention that the S-51 was sunk without any blame whatever attaching to her officers.

Then came the roll call by Lieut. Commander W. S. Snyder, commanding the S-49, a sister ship of the S-51. As the 33 names of the stricken crew were read for the last time there was complete quiet and a moment later the strains of "Lead Kindly Light" broke the silence.

The services, arranged by the Episcopalian chaplain of the base, the Rev. A. R. Parker, were simple but impressive. After reading the lesson from St. John 14, Chaplain Parker delivered a brief address of comfort to the relatives and friends of the dead men. His address was followed by the hymn "Abide With Me" an the singing of Gounod's "Ave Maria by a soloist.

Expressing inability to convey adequately his sympathy for the bereaved families of the dead, Chaplain Parker read the letter of Abraham Lincoln to Mrs. Bixby of Boston, expressing his consolation on the loss of her sons during the Civil war.

A special hymn for the safety of those who follow the sea was sung and the services were concluded with a benediction, saying:

"Unto God's gracious mercy and protection, we commit our shipmates, loved and lost. The Lord bless them, and keep them; the Lord make his face to shine upon them and be gracious unto them; the Lord life up his countenance upon them and give them peace, both now and evermore."

The platform upon which the service choir sat was banked with roses and flowers, and was draped with the American, the Red Cross and the church flags. In front was a huge wreach bearing a ribbon reading: "S-51".

This afternoon services were held in Groton, for Walter E. Lawton, one of the five men whose bodies have been recovered. Full military honors were him and officers of the base, including Captain King, were present. Lawton enlisted from Somerville, Mass., but lived in Groton with his nineteen year old bride.

The Camden, the mine sweeper Falcon and the diving vessel Chittenden returned to the S-51 early today to resume operations to recover the 28 bodies still unaccounted for.

DIVERS CUTTING WAY INTO THE TORPEDO ROOM

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 4—Divers this afternoon nearly finished cutting their way into the torpedo room of the submarine S-51 sunk September 25 in collision with the City of Rome, where 2 bodies of men lost with the ship are believed to be.

Three descents were made by six divers, two at a time, from the diving tender Chittenden.

"The navy tug Sagamore returned to the submarine base tonight from the scene of operations where it had been all day. With it returned Walter Davis, wrecking master of the Merritt, Chapman & Scott company who had been assisting in the attempted rescue work. He left immediately for New York where it was said he went to confer with officials of his firm. Just before he left he spent some time in conference with Rear Admiral Christie in charge of operations.

Heavy ground swells caused postponement of all diving operations this morning but the seas subsided after dinner and operations were immediately resumed.

SHIPS SEEK SHELTER IN THE LEE OF BLOCK ISLAND

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 4—Heavy ground swells over the grave of the S-51, which sank September 25 after a collision with the City of Rome, caused the navy rescue fleet today to abondon all diving operations and seek safety in the lee of Block Island, fourteen miles away.

A message received from Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of operations, at the United States submarine base said, "heavy ground swells will prevent diving today."

The Camden, the mine-sweeper Falcon and the diving tender Chittenden, will return from Block Island to resume attempts to recover the missing 28 bodies of members of the submarine as soon as the weather permits.

DIVERS TO ENTER HULL OF SUBMARINE S-51 TODAY

ON BOARD U. S. S. CAMDEN, Oct. 4.(A. P.)—In spite of hazardous working conditions in a heavy swell, Divers Wilson, Reed and Reinhartsen worked until dark today cutting the hatch of the torpero compartment of the sunken submarine S-51 so that they could enter that section of the hull tomorrow in search of bodies. They will wear diving suits of a special type with laced canvas corsets to enable them to pass through the hatch which is only 23 inches in diameter.

The divers took their lives in their hands in pursuing their explorations today, and there were several tense moments for them. Wilson became entangled in the radio antenna of the wreck and Reed went down to free him. Later in the afternoon Reed was rushed to the surface with a leak in his diving suit where a jagged piece of metal had punctured it. He was saved from an attack of "bends" the dread malady to which divers aas exposhed—by means of a decompressor tank.

Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of rescue operations, has declared he does not intend to risk the lives of divers, and the work now in progress is regarded by diving experts as extremely hazardous. The expectation tonight was that the work of recovery would be discontinued tomorrow after the torpedo room has been explored.

The tugs Lark and Millord left for Boston tonight and the Falcon went back to New London. The latter vessel will return to the scene of the disaster tomorrow.

TREND OF BUSINESS IS REPORTED SATISFACTORY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP) — The current expansion of autumn business was supplemented last week by the formal recognition of the country's sound credit position when the directors of the New York Federal Reserve bank voted to retain the present rediscount rate of 3 1-2 per cent.

Stiffening money rates and fears that speculation in certain sections of the stock market was getting out bounds, had led Wall street to prepare for an increase in the local bank rate. Not until the Bank of England had announced a reduction in its rate to 4 per cent was this belief abandoned. And while a desire to co-operate with London unquestionably inuenced the New York bank in leaving its rate unchanged, the determining factor appeared to be the satisfaction of the reserve authorities with present credit conditions despite the growing demand for funds from trade channels.

Indications that there has been no great speculative increase in borrowing for ordinary business purposes are seen in the fact that commercial loan figures of the Federal Reserve system's member banks for the past year show an increase of only about $275,000,000 in this class of borrowing which is considered a normal expansion. On the other hand, member banks loung on stocks and bonds increased $768,000,000 in the same period, a development which is not viewed with favor in conservative banking quarters.

Additional evidences of business gains came to light last week with constructive factors again outnumbering adverse influences. Further expansion was reported in the steel industry, operations of the U. S. Steel Corporation increasing to about 80 per cent of capacity. The company's unified tonnage figures at the end of September, to be made public this week are expected to reveal the first increase in many months.

Railroad car loadings for the week ended September 16, again jumped above the million car mark, the ninth week this year that they have crossed this figure. With no anthracite coal moving from the mines this achievement represented a heavier movement of other classes of freight. Other measures of trade, such as bank clearings, quarterly dividend and interest disbursements, reports of business failures and commercial collections, all testified to the satisfactory state of business.

A representative view of the general situation came from the National City Bank of New York, which found that "the trend of business during the past month has been very satisfactory, justifying the expectation that the volume of trade this fall will be the largest the country has ever experienced. The reason for it is that the industries of the country have reached a better state of price relations than has prevailed since this country entered the war. The rise of prices of agricultural products which has occurred in the last year, and which is generally maintained upon this year's production, is the principal factor in this readjustment."

TWO DETROIT BALLOONISTS RESCUED ON LAKE ERIE

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 4—Exhausted and made ill by a perilous, all-night battle with a terrific rain, thunder and windstorm and violent seas that swept Lake Erie early today two Detroit balloonists were sighted and rescued at 7:30 a. m., two miles northwest of Middle Sister Island by the lake freighter, A. M. Byers.

They were engaged in a frantic struggle to keep afloat the small, airfilled fabric craft for which they had abandoned their balloon, the "Skylark" four hours earlier when they decided there was more chance of weathering the perils of the sea than those of the air.

The men are: W. C. Naylor, 25, pilot of the balloon and his aide, W. K. Warren, 23, both of Detroit, where they are connected with an aircraft development company in the General Motors building. They were brought to Toledo on the freighter.

Their balloon which they constructed themselves was entered in the distance race for $2500 prize money and a trophy supplied by the Detroit News in connection with the Aircraft Manufacturers exposition conducted by the Detroit Aviation society.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

French Soldiers Chosen by Lot

PARIS, Oct. 4—French soldiers in future will be chosen by lot for service in Morocco. A decree to this effect has just been issued by M. Painleve, premier and minister of war, with the explanation that he considers this method of selection as the one most in accord with the spirit of justice.

BUSY TIME AHEAD FOR THE FRENCH FINANCE MINISTER

PARIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Joseph Caillaux, the French finance minister, will have little time to rest up after his return from Washington before he must grapple with what is considered in parliamentary circles as the most difficult task of his political career. He is expected to appear before the national convention of the radical party at Nice, October 15, to defend the policies he has followed as the minister of finance.

M. Caillaux's hold on his portfolio and the life of the whole government depend on the issue of the battle he will wage against opposition in his own party. The promoters of the coalition of radicals and socialists declare they cannot support the present government unless it returns to the policies accepted by M. Herriot. Their aim is to force the resignation of the Painleve cabinet and pave the way for the return of M. Herriot to power.

The pure radicals will ask M. Caillaux whether he intends permanently to abandon the idea of a capital levy, and whether the government proposes to accept a majority recruited in greater part from the opposition. The minister of finance, it is understood, will stick to his policy, refusing to accept responsibility for any revolutionary methods of finance. He will refuse to outline the majority the government proposes to rely upon, referring the convention to Premier Painleve, who is not a member of the radical party and not subject to its discipline.

A GROWTH IN FOREIGN TRADE OF THE UNITED STATES

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(A. P.)—Foreign trade of the United States is growing twice as rapidly as that of the rest of the world, although steady progress is being made by all countries in the re-establishment of international commerce, James A. Farrell president of the United States Steel Corporation, said today in a survey of world business conditions made public by the national foreign trade council. Mr. Farrell's review of the situation was incorporated in an address at the recent annual meeting of the council, of which he is chairman.

"No other European country makes a showing in real increase of foreign trade since 1913 equal to that of France," Mr. Farrell declared. "Since 1313, France has not only turned an adverse export balance of nearly $300,000,000 into a favorable export balance of $1,2,000,000, according to figures of the present fiscal year, but she has also increased the real value of her exports by fully 25 per cent., allowing for all deflation in present day prices."

Mr. Farrell estimated that the United States had increased its trade within this period about 30 per cent., in values similarly readjusted to 1913 prices, while Great Britain was still 5 per cent. in arrears as compared with 1913 and German had recovered a little less than half its pre-war trade.

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION OPENS IN ATLANTIC CITY TODAY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 4.—(A. P.)—The American Federation of Labor opens its 45 annual convention on Steeplechase pier tomorrow morning with all surface indications pointing to a harmonious session.

For the first time in more than a quarter of a century another hand will wield the gavel, that of William Green—who was chosen to preside over the destinies of nearly 3,000,000 trade unionists after the death of labor's "Grand Old Man," Samuel Gompers, last winter.

Mr. Green formerly was secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers. Already he has established a reputation among his fellow unionists as a peace-maker, for last week he guided the settlement of the long, bitter jurisdictional dispute between the bricklayers and plasterers' unions.

Tonight, the only difference of moment that had not been adjudicated was the ancient, almost dormant, dispute between the carpenters and sheet metal workers, but officials generally expressed the opinion that the situation would not be brought before the delegates. It was pointed out that Mr. Green had taken preliminary steps looking to a settlement outside of the convention. The trouble arose many years ago over division of work, but the problem has never reached an annual convention.

The Curtiss carrier pigeon plane, piloted by C. S. (Casey) Jones, which was wrecked when it struck a motorcycle at Omaha during the race, arrived fourth, seven minutes behind the Junker. Mercury, Jr., which was delayed by heavy weather was the last to arrive, landing at 5.58 p. m.

The Fokker plane narrowly escaped being wrecked 15 miles from Detroit when, flying at an altitude of 500 feet because of clouds, it struck an air pocket. The craft dropped 300 feet before it righted itself. In the drop, Fokker was thrown back against the craft and slightly injured when he struck the back of his head against the plane.

COMPLICATIONS OVER THE CZECHO-SLAVAKIAN WAR DEBT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—A phase hitherto absent from America's international debt funding negotiations—a sharp controversy over the amount of the obligation—stands out as the chief problem confronting the American debt commission and representatives of the Czecho-Slovakian government in their forthcoming funding discussions.

The conference begins Tuesday, and some observers believed tonight that, once a determination as to the amount of the debt has been reached, agreement on methods of payment will be comparatively easy.

The foreign mission will make the first move of the conference tomorrow when its members will make official calls on Secretary Kellogg at the state department, and on Secretary Mellon at the treasury, who is chairman of the American commission.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

OMAHA, Nebr., Oct. 4—(A. P.)—The attitude of the American Legion toward Colonel William Mitchell, critic of the navy, was foremost in the gossip of members of the legion arriving here for the seventh annual convention tomorrow.

Friends of the colonel, chagrined because he was not invited to attend as a distinguished guest, were mollified by the announcement that Captain Junius Peyser, would read a personal message to the legion from Colonel Mitchell when he arrives tomorrow. While officials explained only combat generals and admirals are invited as distinguished guests, Mitchell's friends believe the omission was designed to keep him from expounding his criticisms on the convention floor.

Alvin Owsley of Texas, former national commander, was a leader in the movement for a convention fight for endorsement of Mitchell's recommendations to congress for a separte department of the air service.

Reports that communism is making rapid progress and that the legion would continue strenuously to oppose it were heard at a pre-convention session today of the Americanism commission.

The streets of Omaha were gaily decked with flags, bunting and posters of greeting to the "doddies."

The convention will formally open tomorrow morning with address, invocations and committee organization. Tuesday will be the red letter day however, with President Coolidge's address. Plans call for the president's address at 10:30 before he reviews the huge parade and for his departure early in the evening for Washington.

WATCHMAN WAS SHOT AND CLUBBED TO DEATH

WALTHAM, Mass., Oct. 4—(A. P.)—James Fernau, a night watchman at the car barns of the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway here, was shot and clubbed to death early today by a band of masked robbers who invaded the barns and escaped with $1,500, a part of Saturday's receipts of the company.

Five men drove up to the car barns in an automobile, and two went up a flight of stairs to the office, leaving the others posed on guard. Two employes were counting the day's takings in the office, and these were held up at gun point while the cash was transferred to the robbers' pocket. The two gunmen then bucked out. Two other men whom they met as they returned to their car were forced to lie face downward on the ground.

It was while the gunmen were making their escape from the building that a single shot was fired. Later Fernau's body was found between two cars in the shed. A bullet had passed through his leg, but medical examiner found that death had resulted from blows on the head, probably from a pistol butt. The telephone wires leading to the building had been cut before the robbery.

IMPORTANT POINTS OF RUSSO-GERMAN TRADE NEGOTIATIONS

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—(A. P.)—One of the most important points of the Russo trade negotiations, which are on the eve of completion, is the question of credits. Neither the German government, nor M. Tchitcherin, the soviet foreign minister, who is visiting Germany, is willing to divulge information, but it is learned the German government plans to extend credit accommodations to a number of concerns. These companies will be chiefly those dealing in agricultural machinery, who will thus be aided in selling to Russia on a long term payment basis.

This reported government action is exciting curiosity here, as the question naturally asked is: "How can Germany, overburdened with reparations obligations and herself a huge borrower, afford virtually to help finance Russia, even indirectly."

SIX BANDITS HELD UP RESTAURANT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—Six bandits early today held up Preffer's restaurant on the East Side, a favorite rendezvous of night workers, and robbed its sixty patrons of $4,000 in cash and jewelry valued at $8,000. Obtaining an additional $200 from the cash register, the robbers escaped in an automobile before the astonished victims could notify the police.

Individual losses reported to the management ranged from a few dollars to as high as $1,000. Dave Kranz, one of the diners, with rare presence of mind, dropped diamond rings worth $1,000 into a cup of coffee and recovered them after the bandits had fled.

WORKING ON INVENTION OF KETTLE-DRUM PLAYER

VIENNA, Oct. 4—A "kettle-drum piano" may make its appearance in orchestras in the near future if the experiments of Professor Schneller, noted kettle-drum player of the Vienna Philharmonic orchestra, proved successful. He is working assiduously to invent such an instrument, having been inspired by Richard Strauss, who is writing special music for it.

Preliminary descriptions show the completed "piano" will have eight drums of varying pitch, to be played by the same musician. Thus far even the most modern orchestras have only three or four kettle drums.

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Oct. 4— Supreme interest centers in the great political conference which will begin tomorrow in Locarno.

Concretely, this is the object of the conference: Germany, France, Belgium and Great Britain hope to fashion a mutual guarantee pact, whereby the Rhine will in the future be held inviolable and any invasion of that territory by one party to the pact will be deemed an act of war and bring automatically against him the armed force of the three other parties.

In addition, the agenda of the conference includes arbitration agreements between France and Germany and between Belgium and Germany, and on the eastern front between Germany and Poland and Czecho-Slovakia. HEARING ON SHENANDOAH DISASTER RESUMES TODAY

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 4—(A. P.)—The naval court inquiring into the disaster to the airship Shenandoah will hold a single session here tomorrow to conclude the first phase of its investigation before proceeding to Washington where the other phases will be taken up beginning probably Thursday.

This inquiry has ben unique in more ways than one but not the least unique part of it has been the vast volume of expert testimony that has and will be heard. This is the first airship disaster a naval court ever has investigated and since there are not sufficient facts upon which conclusions can be based the deduction of experts from the limited amount of facts must be relied upon in large measure.

The real task for the officers composing the court, Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, Captain Lewis B. McBride and Commander John S. Towers will be that of fitting fact and theory and making opinions and deductions as given by the experts and specialists fit with the eye witnesses accounts of survivors.

FRENCH TROOPS MAKE ADVANCE IN MOROCCO

FEZ, French Morocco, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—Along the entire Moroccan front the French troops have carried out local advances, attaining important new positions and gradually tightening the semi-circle about Abd-El-Krim's tribesmen.

In their march toward Ajdir, now occupied by the Spanish, the French have taken Djebel Sudor, 13 miles north of Kifane, and the main column has in control Ihamoutine, in the Valley of Chouia, ten miles from Kifane.

Further east, in the Mediane region, another local operation has served to enlarge the French position securing the height of Djebel Mediam, two miles north of the post. Northeast of Kifane the troops have occupied the Ouizert valley.

A movement has begun in the direction of the Massif of Senhadja and Ain Mediouna, both considered most important in the conquest of the upper reaches of the Ouergha country.

Another success in the western sector was the occupation on a three mile front of the summit of Saf-Dehar Elar, overlooking the river Loukkos, to the southward of the Spanish positions.

Some of the tribesmen burned a village but were later driven off. Airplanes played an important part in the operations.

The men drove up to the New England Motor Sales company garage at an early hour while Joseph Dorsey, the night man, was filling their gasoline tank, they were alleged to have stolen a coat owned by George Merritt, together with a blanket, a rubber coat and a package containing another coat.

One of the men then pointed a revolver at Dorsey but when he grappled with the gunman, the five dashed off in their machine without paying for the gasoline.

The car had gone but a quarter of a mile when the operator lost control and the machine crashed into a telegraph pole, breaking it off near the bottom and bringing down the wires. The men then disappeared.

WILLIMANTIC

The Verdun of the ballots will open at 6 o'clock this (Monday) morning. The final gun will be fired at 5 o'clock this afternoon when the polls will be officially closed. The salute is not expected to be heard until late evening, when the official returns will be announced. All indications have been holding true up to the last minute that the voting at the four districts will be usually heavy. George E. Clifford, republican, will be chief moderator of the election, also preside at the first district voting place in the town building on High street. Michael E. Sullivan, democrat, will be moderator of the second district in the old town building on Church street; Eden Cook, republican, will be moderator of the third district, in the voting booth on Milk street; and Edmund R. Portelance, democrat, moderator of the fourth district in the voting booth on Pleasant street, opposite the entrance to South street.

In addition to voting for town officers the electors will be asked to vote yes or no on special act No. 210 of the General Assembly which reads: "An act repealing an act concerning town meetings in the town of Windham, which if adopted will make it unnecessary to have two town meetings on all appropriations in excess of $1,000 as is the case at present." Acceptance of this act by voting yes is the general sentiment. Windham is now the only town in the state having this law which was not passed at the request of the town and which up to now the town has had no opportunity to vote upon. As the situation stands, the town of Windham, since the passing of the act in 1895, finds its necessary to have two town meetings on all appropriations in excess of $1,000. As more than one town meeting can be called at any time under the statute by petition, this act is unnecessary and its operation makes an additional expense to the town.

A fine of $100 and costs was imposed on George W. Wheeler of 1166 Main street in police court Saturday morning when he pleaded not guilty to possessing intoxicating liquor with intent to sell. Half a dozen cases of beer testing over 6 per cent. were taken from Wheeler's home and he admitted possession but refused to plead guilty to the second part of the charge and a plea of not guilty was entered for him. Wheeler said that he had worked whenever he could as a weaver but at present had only $8 to his name, a family to support, including one of his brother's children and no friends. The case constituted Wheeler's second offense. County Investigator William E. Jackson and Federal Prohibition Officer William S. Congdon testified to the raid on Wheeler's place Saturday October 24, when they were accompanied by Federal Officer Joseph Fitzpatrick and Captain of Police Thomas F. Grady. The beer seized was analyzed by Professor Newton of the Connecticut Agricultural college. Both officers stated that complaints received by them made charges that Wheeler was selling home brew with a kick. The fine and costs amounted to $127.15.

A sweeping majority for the republican town ticket was the result of a straw vote taken in the history classes of J. Salmon S. Hunt at the Windham High school Friday. Seventy-four ballots were cast and every G. O. P. candidate was elected. Whether or not this result can be used as a reliable forecast fo rtoday's elections is conjectural, but the sentiment of these pupils is expressed in the fact that the majority was two-to-one all through the ticket.

Only fifty miles apart and yet thirty years separated was the unusual situation of this are of speed and travel which ended last week when Lochie Cushman of 318 Windsor avenue, Hartford visited his brother Merrill Cushman of Willimnton. The meeting was the first since 1895. Merill Cushman has remained in his native Willington all his life and is a prosperous merchant and farmer. Lochis was the wanderer. He is 68 and his brother is 78. There was no ill-feeling between them but Lochis merely neglected to write as the years slipped by and he plied his trade as a painter and paperhanger. He has now settled definitely in Hartford where he has a wife and two children, a boy and girl, well grown. The brothers plan to keep in closer touch in the future.

When the vote at the first district voting place in the town building has been compiled this (Monday) evening the annual town meeting which calls for casting ballots for the various officers and on the referendum to repeal an act pertaining to town meetings, will be adjourned to next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock where the various other clauses of the warning will be acted upon. Inclusive of this business are the following items in the warning: To receive the reports of the various officers of the town; to authorize the board of selectmen and town treasurer to borrow specific amounts of money to meet the current expenses of the town for the ensuing year; to make the necessary appropriations for the public school of the town and determine if the electors will agree to the following sums of money: $60 to the Willimantic Welfare Bureau; $350 to St. Joseph's Hospital and $100 to the Windham Public Library.

At 3 o'clock, following the adjourned town meeting Saturday afternoon, a special town meeting will be held to determine if the electors will vote to pay one-third of the cost of the erection of a school building in the first district as authorized by a special act No. 423, of the General Assembly at the January session, and approved on June 25, 1925, in connection with this, the electors will be asked to authorize the town to pay $100,000, which is one third of the cost of the proposed new school, the purchase of adequate land and furnishings for the structure. Favorable sentiment has been expressed on all sides that the town accept this opportunity offered by the state to secure a $300,000 school by payment of $100,000, which is but a small portion of what the town would be bound to spend of necessity with the increase in school registrations, unless the offer is accepted.

Voters of the town of Windham residing out of town will be amply accommodated today (Monday) as both the democratic and republican parties have chartered several large coach busses to bring in electors from wherever they may be.

WILLIMANTIC, Oct 4—Insufficient evidence failed to bring about a conviction in the police court Saturday morning of Herbert O. Ladd, of Potter street, charged with maliciously making derogatory statements against the Willimantic Trust company which caused a run on the bank, September 21 and 22. On the grounds that the evidence was weak, Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher asked that the case be nolled and this was agreed to by Judge Frank H. Foss. Attorney S. B. Harvey, representing the defendant, held out for a discharge so that the case could not be reopened. Judge Foss stated that he considered a nolle as fair, but extenuating circumstances led him to order the case continued until October 17 when he will entertain a motion for a discharge, unless stronger evidence for the state is introduced. This temporary disposition was agreeable to all parties.

Ladd was arrested Friday afternoon, September 25, by State Policemen Paul Lavin and O'Keefe of the Hartford barracks, at the request of the state bank commissioners. The case came up on Saturday, September 26 and was continued to Saturday, last. Ladd pleaded not guilty and established that he had taken time off from his employment as a carpenter on the afternoon of September 21 to go to the bank and arrange his account before it was overdrawn by his wife.

The witnesses for the state were heard in their order of importance to the case.

John Korba, an employee of the Rossie Velvet company, testified that he had heard fellow employes make remarks which led him to believe that the Trust company was in bad condition. He did not know just who had made the statements.

Henry Rioux, another employe of the Rossie Velvet company, said he had overheard talk of the same nature at the plant, but thought little of it until when he arrived home his wife and mother-in-law said they had been informed the bank was about to fail. He dre whis money out the next morning, September 22.

Hellodore Trudeau, timekeeper for O. L. Willard, contractor, engaged in building an addition to the Rossie Velvet company plant, testified that Ladd was also an employe for the same contractor. About 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of September 21, Ladd asked for half an hour leave of absence from the foreman and Trudeau checked off the time. He presented a time sheet in court to certify to this. About eight or ten men, besides Ladd, were standing in the vicinity at the time. According to Trudeau, one of them said, "Well, what do you know about that bank going up in smoke?" Trudeau then turned to Ladd and asked what bank. Ladd answered "The Willimantic Trust company and that is where I am going." The witness said that up to that time he had not heard any rumors concerning the bank, until it became common to hear such stories later in the week. Trudeau added that Ladd had later told him that he had withdrawn his money from the bank for fear his wife might overdraw the account in making a payment for installing electric wiring at their home. Trudeau said that he had no occasion to worry or draw money out of the bank, as his account there did not exceed $2.00. Diodore Delage, retired ice dealer, testified that he had heard about the bank He was pressed for a description and name of his informant, but said he did not know who the man was. He remembered that he had a dark complexion and was of medium height.

After a short recess Trudeau was questioned regarding a statement he had signed for State Policemen O'Keefe and Lavin. Attorney Harvey objected to this questioning, stating that too frequently alleged signed statements had been written by the officers and signed by witnesses before they had grasped the full significance of writing. Trudeau said that he had only glanced at the statement and affixed his signature hurriedly, as he was nervous upon being approached by the officers. In reply to a question by Attorney Harvey, Trudeau asserted that Ladd had not told him outright that the bank was in bad shape. Prosecuting Attorney Gaucher then halted the session abruptly, by asking that the case be nolled for lack of sufficient evidence.

TWO RUM-RUNNING CARS YIELD $824 FINES AND COSTS

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—Lieutenant Frank McLean of the police department, and Federal Prohibition Officer Stanton L. Briggs played fine game in due style, in the pelting rain, during the small hours of Saturday morning and were rewarded with two liquor hauls, the largest taken from rum-runners in the city for some time. Incidentally, the fines imposed in police court Saturday morning against the two runners were the heaviest in combination ever imposed there, summing up $824.60. This substantial contribution to the local court coffers came about when Ralph Ashworth of 122 Dacia street, Boston and John Francis Meldon of 52 Warren street, Roxbury, Mass., pleaded guilty to transporting liquor without a government permit and having liquor in their possession with intent to sell. They were fined $200 each on the separate counts, plus the costs. The officers had kept close tabs for some time on Massachusetts cars which had been coming through the city early in the morning. They arrived at the conclusion that Saturday morning was the time to strike. One car got by shortly after midnight and word was sent to Danielson to be on the lock out for it. Undaunted by this loss the officers braved a driving rainstorm. At 3:15 o'clock in the morning they hailed a Buick roadster driven by Ashworth and owned by Michael J. O'Hara of 5 Bailey street, Dorchester, Mass. Over ninety gallon cans filled with pure grain alcohol were dug out from the rear compartment. Ashworth was locked up and the watch was resumed. At 4:45, Meldon, driving a new Nash roadster which he claimed as his property, was held up Over one hundred gallons of alcohol were packed in the rear of this machine. Questioned by Judge Foss, the men made no response, other than that they were new hands at the rum-running game. Ashworth later said that the liquor source was not confined to any place in this state.

CLARK'S CORNER MAN BRAVE IN TRYING ACCIDENT

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—Alfred Anderson, 88, of Clark's Corner displayed remarkable fortitude Friday afternoon, when the index finger of his right hand was pulled entirely off along with a number of cords that reach to the elbow, when the member became wedged in the driving belt of a gasoline wood sawing machine. The machine was in operation in the yard of Harry Bates, at Clark's Corner. Mr. Anderson reached out to adjust the belt while it was in motion with the result that the finger became caught on the pulley. Mr. Anderson without a sound watched a physician dress the wound.

SATURDAY EVENING RAIDS WITH RESULTS IN ONE

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—In a pre-election program to rid the city of booze joints, Chief Allan McArthur led a rubbing squad to two places, early Saturday evening. In one instance, at the shoemaker shop conducted by Alexander Barnofsky, 75 Chapman street, they secured one quart of moonshine from the cellar and fifteen bottles of homebrew. Barnofsky was arrested for violation of the liquor law and notified to appear in police court Monday morning.

The officers also searched the home of Andrew Ogaiuzek, 133 Main street but failed to locate contraband. There was evidence that the liquor had been emptied into the sink as they arrived. The raiding crew consisted of Chief McArthur, Captain Thomas F. Grady, Lieutenant Frank McLean, Patrolman Roderick Lariviere and Motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley, and Federal Prohibition Officers William S. Congdon and Stanton L. Briggs.

Flute Tooted for Nile Noble

A flute which made music on the Nile in the balmy air of Egypt 3,000 years ago, certenly played an encore in the University of Pennsylvania's museum, says the Capper's Weekly. Unlike our flutes, the wind enters through slits in the side of the reeds instead of the ends, and each note and its octave are sounded at the same time, as if two flutes were playing. The notes have a soft and mellow sound. The flute wa found in the tomb of a noble of the time of the Pharaohs. If somebody could find a way to make it reproduce the tunes he played on it the twentieth century might hear some new and interesting

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This is election day in the town of Killingly. Electors will be concerned with selection of town officers for the ensuing year, for one thing. Little has been said about the campaigning this year. Generally, there has not been a great deal of interest, excepting among the candidates.

But all has not been as quiet as has appeared on the surface. An element that fizzled in its plan to dominate both the republican and democratic caucuses because of an advance expose of their plans is at work on a plan to split tickets today and carry out the purposes at the polls that were frustrated at the caucuses by telling the world about they intended to do.

Republican leaders of the town sensed at the week end that this ticket splitting deal might be dangerous to the chances of some of their candidates. However, the democrats are equally concerned. There is a drive on against Patrick Riley, democratic candidate for selectman, and in favor of Alcott D. Sayles of East Killingly, also a democratic candidate for selectman, in drawing strength from the republican ranks in the supposedly secret deal to aid the candidacy of Mr. Sayles, party leaders appreciate the danger to the candidacy of John A. Gilbert republican first selectman and candidate for re-election.

It was indicated Sunday by republican leaders that they would use their utmost efforts today to keep the rank and file of the party voting a straight ticket. They are alive to the fact that an apparently innocent and subtle appeal for a vote from a republican for a democratic candidate for selectman might, and easily can, injure the republican candidatse for first place as a member of the board of selectman. The word is being passed out to the republicans to "vote straight," lest they weep at the results when the votes are counted tonight.

The democrats will have it out amongst themselves—and as things stand, about all of them who are politically wise will know what this means.

The polls open at 6 o'clock kthis morning.

Five hundred members of Union St. John Baptist as representatives of District No. 8 (eastern Connecticut) will be in a parade of the organization to be held at Holyoke Monday of next week, October 12, as a feature of the silver anniversary of the founding of the organization, now numbering more than 50,000 members.

The parade will be a feature of the quadrennial general convention of the order. The convention proper will open Tuesday morning, October 13. But next Sunday and next Monday will be featured by imposing ceremonies. Thousands of members of the order will be in attendance from many cities in Union and thousands of their relatives and friends from the French-Canadian populations of New England and other sections will be on hand.

There is widespread local and sub-local interest in the events planned to be held at Holyoke. About every community in eastern Connecticut will be represented in the parade of next Monday. This eastern Connecticut section—District No. 8—will be escorted by a Willimantic band, by dean d'Arc guard of Taftville, will have a float and other special features. Danielson, Goodyear and other parts of the town of Killingly will send delegations, as will Putnam, the Grosvenordales, Wauregan, Moosup, Jewett City and many other communities.

Next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock a monument will be unveiled at Holyoke in memory of the French-Canadian soldiers of that city who gave their lives in the World war and while in the service of the United States. Of special interest to Danielson is the act that those who assist in this dedication have been invited to participate, after the monument dedication is completed, to participate in the ceremonies incident to the laying of the cornerstone of the new Immaculate Conception church, which is being erected in the parish where Rev. M. J. Ginet, A. S., formerly pastor of St. James' church, Danielson, is in charge Father Ginet has extended a special invitation to his Danielson and other eastern Connecticut friends to be present at this ceremony.

The name of Max Silverman, 244 Prairie avenue, Providence, may be added to the long list of motorists who have come to grief on the steep and dangerous hills on the Providence highway in the eastern part of the town of Killingly. A big roadster that Silverman was driving and in which he was riding alone, went out of control on the wet highway surface during the rain storm of Saturday morning and ploughed into a fence on the south side of the highway at the foot of Little Rest hill, just inside the Connecticut border. Silverman was cut about the head and later received attention at the office of a local physician. The car, considerably damaged through its contact with the fence, later was towed to Danielson.

TWO FAKE REVENUE AGENTS SENT TO JAIL FROM NORWICH

DANIELSON, Oct. 4—Two more or less nifty youths hailing from Boston and counting this as "chick" territory apparently are in a position wherein they will have ample time to think it all over. It is because their plan to fleece N. A. Jordan by representing themselves as agents of the United State Internal revenue department did not work out xactly right.

George Gould, 23, alias F. D. Lane, and David Shulman, 27, both of Boston were engaged in elaborate camouflage intended to make him believe they were agents of the government

PUTNAM

Putnam is a republican town and the only contest that is looked for today (Monday) in the election is for the choice of selectman. There are three to be chosen and the republicans have two nominees and the democrats two. Both republicans, Clarence E. Pierce and William F. Warren are now holding the office. Of the democrats, Edward Girard, is the present member of the board. The other democratic nominee is A. Bonneville, a former occupant of the office. The polls will open at 6:30.

"Mercenary Mary" drew a fair sized audience at the Bradley theatre Friday night. Fresh from a long run on Broadway, the popular musical comedy was presented here by a cast which contained many members of the original company as regards both principals and chorus. An excellent orchestra of nine pieces added to the success of the performance.

There is to be a meeting of the General Citizens' committee that has the dedicatory exercises of the Memorial bridge in charge at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. T. H. deCoudres is chairman.

The Putnam Light and Power company's baseball team won from the Danielson Gas and Electric Light team on the Mechanicsville grounds, 8 to 5. Joe Crandell was umpire. The game was a play-off as it was to have been played at the recent outing of the Connecticut Power company but was called off in the fourth inning because of rain. This is the second year that Putnam has won the cup and next year it will become the property of the Putnam team, if it should win again.

About thiryt-five members of the Northeastern Connecticut Fish and Game club were present at the meeting of the club at Grange hall in Abington. The meeting developed into an informal talk among the members and fishing and hunting stories were told. It is expected that the season on game birds which is soon to open will furnish some good sport as partridge and pheasants are said to be plentiful. The next meeting will be held early in January at North Grosvenordale.

Putnam automobile owners and drivers are particularly interested in the movement which was begun at a meeting in Hartford Friday to curb the speed and otherwise regulate passenger motor busses. There are three separate lines operating in and out of Putnam. The Acme company run a bus hourly between Worcester and Putnam, one every two hours between Putnam and New London and the interstate runs through Putnam on its way to and from Providence and Springfield. There have been numerous complaints that some of the drivers are reckless as well as indifferent to the rights of others as to the use of the highway. A law that will permit state jurisdiction over and regulation of them, no difference what companies operate, will be welcomed by everybody.

SEEKS TO NULLIFY USE OF ANIMAL STEEL TRAP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The general public and organizations of sportsmen, as well as some officials of the U. S. Biological Survey, are charged by the newly-organized Anti-Steel Trap league with adopting an improper attitude toward the use of steel traps in the capture of animals.

Officials of the league are preparing a pamphlet written by Edward Breck, writer, lecturer and former navy officer, who is president of the organization. It will contain an appeal for general support of the league's program, which covers both the United States and Canada. This program the organization's officials summarize as follows:

"We propose to bring about the passage of a law by all the state and provincial legislatures making illegal all use of the torturing steel trap and other non-killing devices for taking fur, except by the authorities in the case of vermin.

"Propaganda against wearing fur is helpful of course, but the above is the only way to win within reasonable period of time, say a few years in some states and a few more in others."

Every woman who ever wore fur will be asked to contribute one dollar.

GEMS MINED IN MONTANA INCREASE FAME OF STATE

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 4 (AP)—Widely known for its mineral resources its immense grain fields, its wool and ore, Montana is acquiring additional fame for its gem deposits.

Charles B. Hubbschmidt of Lynbrook, N. Y., a recent visitor, said that in his travels he had found Montnan famous for its sapphires among New York jewelers, Antwerp lapidaries and European aristocracy.

Records of the state board of equalization show that two sapphire mines in the state produced gems valued at nearly $100,000 during the last seven months of 1924. One of these produces the Yogo stones and, according to the state department of agriculture, is said to be the most valuable of its kind in the world. It is worked in the manner of a quarts mine.

The other deposit produces industrial stones. There are two other known sapphire beds in the state, which are not being worked. The output is shipped to London and most of the cutting is done in Switzerland.

Other gems and stones listed by the department of agriculture as native to Montana are octahedral diamonds, moss agates, and mocha stones of fine quality, black tourmaline, yellow and smoky topaz, rhodonite, azurmalachite, jasper and garnets.

CANADA NETS BIG RETURN FROM AMERICAN TOURISTS

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 4 (AP)—Tourists from the United States brought $130,000,000 in revenue to Canada in 1925, according to estimates of government officials. This sum is equal to a quarter of the value of the Dominion's wheat crop and approximates the values of the annual mining output of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia combined.

More than 2,000,000 American automobiles, it is estimated, have crossed into Canada already this year. They carried approximately 5,000,000 tourists, or one tourist for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. Every province shared in the tourist business. Ontario received the larger traffic. Last year 1,376,955 cars from the United States entered Ontario 163,878 of which stayed from two to 30 days, 1,645 from one to six months and the remainder shorter periods.

ANNUAL SUBSIDY GRANTED TO THEATER BY FREE STATE

DUBLIN, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Free State possesses in the Abbey theater the first and only state endowed theater in any English speaking country. The Free State has granted it an annual subsidy of £1,750.

Senator William Butler Yeats, the poet and Nobel prize winner, hopes that America will follow the example thus imitated in the free states, since theaters are an important part of national education and where not endowed may have to lower their quality through the struggle for existence. Senator Yeats says there is no European country where the plays produced in the Abbey theater have not been performed, and some of them have even been translated into Oriental languages.

Finance Minister Blythe, acknowledging the thinks of the Abbey theater for the subsidy he granted, said he had been a regular attender at the Abbey for the past 20 years, and considered that it was doing a work of national importance.

Irish Fishing Industry on Wane

DUBLIN, Oct. 4 (AP)—A gloomy view of prospects of the Irish fisheries industry is held by Father White, chairman of the Flax men's association, who declares that "in five or six years, at the present rate of decay, there will be no fishing in Ireland."

The Ministry of Fisheries said the industry could never be developed by state loans, and that progress must be made, as in Great Britain, by private endeavor.

Some men avoid a disagreeable task by persuading themselves that its accomplishment is an impossibility.

SHOCKING IMMORALITY OF HOPKINTON YOUTHS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 4.—John W. Lewis and George Thayer, each 18, of the town of Hopkinton, near the Richmond town line, and residents of Washington county all their lives, were taken into custody by Rhode Island State Troopers R. S. White and James Norton of the Wakefield barracks Saturday morning, on the charge of being lewd and wanton persons of lacivious carriage and conduct. They were brought to Westerly and lodged in the lockup by the state troopers. Saturday afternoon they pleaded guilty before Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn, Jr., in a special session of this district court and were sentenced to six months each in the Rhode Island state house of correction., with bonds set at $1,000 each in case of an appeal. Hopkinton Police Officer William Kay of Hope Valley took them to the Cranston institution on Saturday afternoon.

It is stated that these are the first of several cases to be taken up in an attempt to clean up the community in which work State Agent Henry Proctor, state and town officers are co-opertaing. Much immorality and many acts of indiscretion are reported. The young men told the court that since early youth they have had no mother's care, in one case the boy's mother lived in Massachusetts and only wrote occasionally to the father, at whose house the boy only slept. In the other the young man's mother had married again and he lived with his grandmother. The young man told the court of visiting Rice City on the road to Norwich from that section, going up state to "Lone Star" roadhouse, Flanegan's" and to Oakland Beach and other houses in the vicinity and of trips to Carolina. It is reported that young women of that section came to Hope Valley, where at least one of the girls was sent by her father for immoral purposes. The section which the state troopers report to was being investigated further.

SO. MANCHESTER SILK MAN INJURED AS CAR OVERTURNS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 4.—Gustave A. Spanknebel, 52, of 5 Chestnut street, South Manchester, a foreman at the Cheney Brothers silk plant at that place sustained numerous injuries in Westerly Saturday afternoon shortly before 4 o'clock, when the Nash coupe 74-252 Conn. operated by him skidded and dashed off the Watch Hill road and overturned in the front yard of the residence of J. B. Thompson. Charles Wordland also of South Manchester, who was seated beside Spanknebel, was thrown clear of the wreckage to the lawn at the left of the automobile, uninjured, but the overturned automobile pinned Spanknebel by the neck and side of his face beneath the wreckage with the broken side support of the right door. He was taken out in an unconscious condition by Oscar Chapman and Charles B. Andrews, assisted by Douglas Clark passing autoists, who pried up the wrecked top of the automobile to secure the man's release in time to prevent his strangling. He was revived by water taken from a well and was carried by Ed Gavitt in his automobile to the Westerly hospital. Dr. J. Gordon Anderson of the hospital staff found that the man had sustained multiple contusions and abrasions with deep lacerations on face and scalp and a fracture of the nose. An X-ray picture of the patient was taken later. Sunday Spanknebel was reported as still confined to his room at the hospital with symptoms of nausea and a noticeable depression in the side of his head, which may indicate a slight concussion of the brain with a possibility of internal injuries. Where at first it was said his stay at the hospital would be for hours, it is now reported to be as many days.

The Nash coupe was the last of three automobiles carrying a party of nine of the foremen of the Cheney works to the Pleasant View cottage of William Walsh. When on the cemetery stretch, so called, of the Watch Hill road, the automobile, operated by Charles B. Andrews was passed, both going in the same direction, and it was seen to cross the highway at right angles, possibly as the brakes were applied, jump a ditch smash through fifty feet of picket fencing, reducing the woodwork to kindling, breaking off two stone posts and overturning a third. Bringing up against a substantial ash tree, the top of the machine struck the lower branches, ripping off the bark, and as if poised there for a moment slid off and overturned with the wind wheels high in the air, while the forward end ploughed into the ground, striking the side line picket fence. As the automobile fell on its top, which was ripped off, all the glass was broken and scattered around.

The forward right wire wheel snapped off at the axle and went burling through the next lot of Stanton Thompson, finally came to a stop in a brook a hundred and thirty yards from the wrecked automobile. Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Police Patrolman Robert Kessel, receiving notice, investigated. Many passing automobilists paused to marvel at the spectacle of the capsized automobile with the rear wheels intact while the tires of all remained solid. The wrecked automobile was removed to the rear of a local garage.

QUIET OF LISBON JARRED BY JEALOUSY AND JOY-RIDES

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 4—Saturday night about midnight, there was another crash of automobile at Lisbon Bend. The driver of the Chevrolet car which ran into one or two cars beat it, abandoning his machine. Officer Vegiard was notified and found the other machines not much damaged, but a smashed door and a revolver in the Chevrolet. He turned over the case to Deputy Sheriff Dolan. He found registration papers in the Chevrolet bearing the name of Kos Lagoda, of Versailles, and he took charge of the car. Possibly one reason why the driver disappeared was because he has tried several times to get a driver's license and has been unable to do so, and still owned and was driving the machine when the accident occurred.

About ten o'clock Friday night there was a bad mixup of automobile in Lisbon, at the town house, on the state road. The story goes that a Ford coupe went to The Elms at Willimantic and two young women from Goodyear, who are boarding at the Elms, went to Danielson for a ride. While in a drug store, a young man in a Buick caught sight of his best girl enjoying another swain's company. About the same time she saw him. Whereupon the Ford coupe party left in a hurry. They started to make Willimantic by way of Jewett City, hoping to evade the enraged suitor. But he chased them regardless of traffic laws, trying to wreck the machine from Bishop's Crossing to Lisbon, going through Jewett City on the left instead of the right. At the turn at the Pilgrim Dahlia gardens, he hit the Ford and went through a fence himself. Just at this psychological moment along came an automobile with two New London young men as passengers. They were forced to either crash into the two machines or take the fence, and they chose the latter.

The Buick lover picked up the two girls, his particular sweetheart moaning and screaming, whether with fright or because she was injured could not be determined, for he bundled them into his faithful machine and carried them off like a regular caveman. The rest of this movie picture setting disentangled themselves and proceeded cautiously on their way, keeping a wary eye out for more crazy lovers. When the Buick driver's brainstorm is over, he is likely to learn what traffic laws mean.

MYSTIC

At the Baptist church Friday evening, delegates to the annual Connecticut Baptist state convention were selected, as follows: Rev. E. E. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Batty, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall. Five alternates were named. Deacon Elias F. Wilcox has been a trustee for twenty-one years and a regular attendant every year at the meetings, also a generous contributor. The remodeling of the church will be completed by spring and it was voted to invite the convention to meet here in October 1926. They met here in 1867 and again in 1909. The enrolled membership at the last meeting here was 547. Now it is one hundred less, death having taken one hundred and twenty-three members from 1909 to 1924. The year of the greatest loss was 1923 when 14 passed away. The church people feel that they can entertain the convention as so many have automobiles and can return home at night, and the sister churches offer to assist in the entertainment. Another item of business was the giving of $75 to the war memorial that is to be erected when sufficient money has been raised. The remainder of the time was devoted to Miss Isabel Crawford, who has been a missionary to the Indians since 1893. She spoke for an hour in a narrative no one can forget. She gave facts from the time Indians inhabited America, before it was discovered by a white man, up to the present time. Those inclined to dislike the Indians can realize after hearing her talk how they have been treated by the white race and some tribes exterminated, to give the land to the whites. She was the only white person among the tribe she worked with for years and was never molested, but received kindness from them. Her stories are a delight to hear and her work has been most successful.

TOWN ELECTION DAY

This is the day when most of the towns throughout the state will elect their officials for one or two years. It is the time when the townspeople have the chance to say who shall serve them in offices of trust and responsibility, and it is therefore the day when special efforts should be made on the part of all voters to get to the polls that there may be as representative an expression from the people as possible. It is not the time for a few to be heard from but the many.

Today Norwich is called upon to elect a full list of town officials. The past two years have been highly satisfactory ones. Norwich has had excellent business administration. The welfare of the townspeople has been given consideration, departments have been carefully looked after and the financial showing at the close of the term is pleasing to the taxpayer.

It is an old and recognized fact that those who have served faithfully and efficiently and are willing to serve again should be returned to office. Norwich voters, irrespective of party, have the best of reasons for going to the polls today and pulling the republican lever which will insure the selection of Selectmen Murray and Bushnell for another two year term. By the records they have established they deserve it.

For the member of the board of assessors to be chosen this year Arad R. Manning has proved his worth to the town. His experience is needed at this time when the board is to assume new responsibilities and with the support of the seekers of good government there should be no question of the result.

Messrs. Fitzpatrick and Beique have had experience on the board of relief which should be recognized by the voters and their services continued while for the rest of the offices, in most of which there will be no contest, the republican nominations have been made upon merit.

It is an election where the women as well as the men voters should respond to their duty and it is always well to vote as early as possible.

LEAVING SHIPPING BOARD

More attention will be directed to the shipping board and the inquiry which the president has set in motion, by the resignation of Commissioner Thompson which the president has accepted. Commissioner Thompson is the representative from the gulf states who has several more years to serve, who made the motion for the removal of authority granted to the head of the Fleet corporation, who supported that action and who is strong for the resumption of the work which the board formerly did prior to placing greater authority with President Palmer head of the fleet.

Commissioner Thompson is strong for the return of those conditions in the shipping board which were so unsatisfactory and which it had been hoped were partially ended, at least, by the conference of part of their duties on the Fleet corporation's president. He sees the probability of a strong effort being made for the ending of the existence of the shipping board and the placing of its duties under a government department. He is opposed to such a step and plans to lend his influence in opposition and he is to be commended when he resigns in order to do so.

But the activities of the shipping board, of which he has been a member under three presidents are not such as to impress the country with the desirability of maintaining the commission indefinitely. It has been apparent that the board was not functioning for the best interests of the country. It still balked after efforts were made to relieve the situation and now when it seeks to knock in the head some of the remedies applied, balks at the idea of economy and threatens to resume its old practices there can be no wonder that there is a cry for the termination of such a condition by abolishing the board.

The desire is to get the merchant fleet into the hands of private enterprise for operation and away from government ownership and control. The quicker it can be done the better. The board has made slow progress, and as long as the government must direct such affairs it is believed that much better results can be obtained by having them conducted by a government department. There are others on the board who might follow the Thompson example with good results.

COMMANDER RODGERS HEARD

Ever since he had an opportunity to express himself upon the criticisms and charges made by Colonel Mitchell concerning the Hawaiian flight, Commander Rodgers, who was in charge of that effort and the PN-9 No. 1, has been outspoken in his denunciation of such charges and what he had to say in previous statements was repeated before the air board.

In connection with the experience of himself and crew on the airplane that was lost there is probably no better judge than himself. He had charge of the preparations and the actual flight. He knew what took place before and after and he indulges in no guesswork when he absolves the navy of all blame.

As to whose testimony is going to receive the greater weight from the air board, Commander Rodger's or Colonel Mitchell's, relative to the Hawaiian flight there seems to be no question. One is in a position to know and deals with the facts while the other is not in touch with the matter and at the time of his statement admitted that he did not know the facts. He was dragging the experience of the PN-9 No. 1 in by the heels for the purpose of lending support to certain wild claims that he was making. He was seeking publicity for his pet idea and he grabbed the matters that were in the public eye and attempted to use them in support of his claims, being so indiscreet as to admit at the time of making them that he was not in touch with the facts concerning the Shenandoah or the PN-9 No. 1.

Commander Rodgers cannot fail to impress others as well as the air board by his statements. He also has given some thought to betterments for the air service and he has made recommendations to the board concerning them. As might be expected they do not jibe with the Mitchell recommendations, but if one was to judge from the manner in which they were given there is a much better chance of their adoption than are those launched by Colonel Mitchell during his grandstand play.

PENALIZING ROBBERS

While it may be expected that the sentencing of a convicted payroll robber to life imprisonment will have a salutary effect upon others who are engaged in that business or who may be inclined to enter it, it is apparent that the Cambridge case where such a penalty was applied last Thursday had not reached or did not bother those who took part in the Lawrence holdup on Saturday.

Eastern Massachusetts has been having too many of these cases of late and it is only natural that the manner in which those involved have been treated, the leniency which has been displayed or the inability to round them up has enticed others to that field. In each and every instance there is a careful, studied plan. They know the conditions, the time to strike and have made thorough preparations both as to getting into position and getting away.

Whether the Lawrence participants knew of what had been done with the Cambridge highwayman, there can be no question but what it is just such a firm hand in dealing with cases of that character that is going to strike terror to such gangs. Just as long as they are given to understand there is small chance of getting caught and if caught that they can depend upon friends, their own ability at whittling, writing, or whittling to get them a light sentence or a suspended sentence, it can be expected that such crimes will multiply.

The fact that he had a bad record weighed against the Cambridge robber. His sentence is unusual and severe, but despite the epidemic of such crimes and his record it would not be surprised if he was even now banking upon the possibilities of early release through a pardon or parole.

The ease with which those having the authority yield to pleas for leniency indicates that they are prone to give more consideration to the criminal than they are to the protection of the public. If the courts of eastern Massachusetts are convinced of the need of stiffer penalties, however, they can no doubt wield an important influence in clearing up deplorable conditions. A slap on the wrist will never do it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is a good time of year to make sure that there are no defective flues.

These are the days when only a few are enjoying the delights of the seashore.

Further evidence that the summer has gone may be obtained from the closed tea rooms.

Any plans which summer may have had to linger in the lap of autumn have been rudely upset.

Remember today is town election day and your vote should be cast in the interest of good government.

The man on the corner says: Sympathize with the fellow who can't decide whether it's time to put 'em on.

Recently we have had a sufficient warning that those who have snow shovels that need mending should delay the operation no longer.

Probably the coal miners are surprised that the consumers haven't been turning their pockets wrong side out in their endeavors to get them back to work.

Those who have read the town report cannot fail to be impressed by the necessity of going to the polls today and seeing that such a businesslike town administration is retained for two more years.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Use a funnel for filling hot water bags if you would save the rubber.

To make boots and shoes waterproof in damp weather rub a little mutton tallow around the edges of the soles. Beeswax is just as efficacious.

Scorched fabric can be restored if the threads are not injured. Wet the spots and expose the material to the sun. Repeat until spots disappear.

When purchasing eggplant select one heavy for its size and be careful that the outer skin is not broken, as this impairs the flavor.

To keep parsley fresh, put the stems in a glass of water to which a slice of lemon or one teaspoon of vinegar has been added.

To prevent a scum from forming on cocoa beat the beverage with the egg-beater until a foam forms on top, when it is finished.

When making gelatin, use a pitcher of mix the powder and water; then when the ingredients are ready to put into the mold it is an easy matter to pour the liquid in.

When baking stuffed peppers, place them in muffin-pans. The peppers will keep their shape much better than when cooking in an ordinary baking-dish.

When making French dressing, put the ingredients in a small clean jar and shake it vigorously. You will find this much easier than stirring the dressing with a fork.

Instead of chopping cabbage for slaw, use a large meat-grinder. You will find it much easier and the work is done just as well.

Keep the vinegar from sweet pickles and put it into a bottle or glass, leaving the spices in it. When making salad dressings, strain out the spices and use the vinegar. It gives a delicious flavor.

When using lemon-juice, be sure to measure the amount, as lemons vary as to juice content. Three tablespoons should be used where a recipe calls for the juice of one lemon.

UNDERNEATH THE GAS STOVE

The shelf underneath the gas stove seems always to need new paper covers. Next time you clean it, fold several sheets of paper and place on top of each other. Then if you want to change the paper in a hurry you have only to remove the top layer and you have your fresh cover.

SAVES WASHING PANS

Most of us look upon the tin can as merely a container for cooked food. It is more—it is a little boiler built to withstand pressure; in fact, a pressure cooker.

Take a can of beets, one of spaghetti and one of corn. Strip off the labels and put them in a pot of boiling water. Put potatoes in the same pot and when they are cooked the meal is ready.

A word of caution—when a can is heated pressure is generated, the ends of the can are distended and piercing the can means a momentary spurt of hot contents. To overcome this, place the dish cloth between the point of contact of the can opener and the hand.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

For flabby under-arms: Stand between two sturdy tables with one palm on each. Support your weight on the hands. Now slowly bend both elbows; straighten them slowly. Repeat.

As a contribution to the diet of the convalescent, fish is available food. It is a relatively cheap source of the protein so necessary to the maintenance of health and while meat contains a larger percentage of nutriment than fish, the latter has its place when feeding the invalid. It is more easily digested than meat.

Keep all oils, such as castor oil, olive oil, camphorated oil and cod-liver oil preparations in the ice-box. They should always be kept cool. If possible have a glass spoon to give oils with. Dipping it in water or lemon juice will help to make the most unpleasant dose of oil at least bearable.

The old prejudice against powder, rouge and lipstick has largely passed away but their use now is more difficult than ever. For nowadays a woman must know something of the blending of color in order to present the proper complexion. The summer tan of the beaches forms a background far different from the whiter epidermic of the winter months and many blondes are now using brunette cosmetics for the first time.

WASH CLOTHS FOR BABY

An inexpensive and very welcome gift for the new baby are wash cloths made from several thicknesses of gauze, either blanket-stitched together in pink or blue, or having a tiny crocheted edge in color holding the edges together.

ECONOMICAL DRAPERIES

Unbleached muslin can be made into very attractive curtains by dying it to any desired shade. The cheapest quality may be used as the dye seems to thicken up the material considerably.

RUBBER BAGS

The boarding-school girl and the traveler as well will find bags of rubberized silk a necessary part of their equipment. These bags, which come in several sizes, are particularly pretty when made of pink and gray plaided silk.

BEADED BAGS RETURN

Beaded bags are revived. They are carried now in almost any size, ranging from the smart little folded case for evening wear to the long, tapestry headed bag one carries on the street. Leather purses too, are popular, and are seen in very bright shades such as red, green, violet, and blue.

SUIT FOR SMALL BOY

Quite the nicest little suits for the small boy are copies of English models. They are made of the fine colored linen and have short well-tailored coats, brief little trousers and white linen waistcoats that have round eton collars attached.

NIGHT LIGHT

The darkest night will lose its terror for the littlest boy or girl if the bedside table is equipped with a small wooden pierrot painted black and white and holding a small electric-light bulb.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Black velvet is used most successfully on white and pastel colored hats.

Ribbed silks are very much liked for separate coats, particularly in black and they are usually relieved by light fur.

The fob, either jeweled or of gallilth suspended on a strip of the dress fabric, is a favored accessory.

Now that the flared hemline has become generally established, the flare is manifesting itself in sleeves, always fitted into a close, narrow shoulder line.

Some of the new evening kowns are made of shaded velvet. The gowns are exceedingly simple and depend for their chic upon their color combinations.

Very new and chic are narrow scarfs of beige crepe de chine embroidered with modernistic motifs in colored silks. Gloves and bag of the same color are carried with these scarfs.

A new silk known as "Nimon," which is a domestic triple voile, is the coming material for underwear. It will appear only in the higher priced garments.—Dry Goods Economist.

The newest version of the shawl, which still remains one of the most popular types of evening wraps, is embroidered in only one corner. The design, however, is unusually striking in outline and very colorful.

Due to the vogue for light weight fabrics wedding ring velvets, that is to say, weights that can be drawn through a wedding ring, are preferred to heavier weights by the exclusives, although chiffon velvets are accepted by those who are less critical.

Many of the New York specialty shops are showing both large and smaller hats in hatter's plush and trimmed with coque feathers, the edges of which have been brushed with gold.

KNITTED ENSEMBLE

A bride's hand-knitted outfit, consisting of skirt and blouse and long, straight coat, combined with flannel, shows just how delightful dawn pink yarn can be worked in the simplest stitch and outlined faintly with two rows of angora in white. In the costume there is the personification of delicate sweetness and charm which any bride must unconsciously simulate when she wears such a fortunately lovely ensemble.

COLORFUL LININGS FOR FUR WRAPS

Many of the newest evening capes of fur are lined with gorgeous brocades or velvets. One particularly handsome model of ermine is lined with cream-colored velvet with large roses scattered over its surface.

PLAID COATS IN AUTUMN COLORS

Very beautiful are coats of plain wool or velveteen in exquisite color combinations of blue and red and green, navy and yellow, and two shades of gray or brown combined with soft fluffy furs.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To wash the blue marks or stamping from a piece of sheeting or other white goods use cold water; hot water sets the design.

To take the color entirely out of a cotton dress after it has become somewhat faded, boil the dress in cream of tartar water.

Angora sweaters may be washed in lukewarm water, with white soap. Rinse in clear water of the same temperature. Wring in a Turkish towel and spread on a dry towel in the shade to dry.

When ironing lace, embroidered garments or bedding, or any kind of initialed hand work have a piece of an old Turkish towel fastened to one end of the ironing board to lay these pieces on.

Iron rust may be removed from delicate fabrics by covering spot thickly with cream of tartar, then twisting cloth to keep cream of tartar over spot, put in dish of cold water and heat water gradually to boiling point.

White materials that are yellow with age may be restored by soaking them in buttermilk. If only slightly yellowed a few days are sufficient to render the material perfectly white, but in severe cases more time is required. Change the milk occasionally.

REPAIR YOUR LINOLEUM

A little hole in the linoleum of the kitchen floor often causes a great deal of chagrin. New housewives care to buy an entire new piece, for usually the remainder of the linoleum is in good shape.

A little patch is the answer. With a sharp knife cut out a square or rectangular piece of the linoleum containing the hole. Take this piece to the store where your linoleum was purchased and match it as nearly as possible.

Using your knife again, cut a square or rectangular the exact size of the piece you cut out. Put the patch in the hole and tack it in place. Fasten the edges so they will not stick up. Varnish it carefully and the patch will be almost invisable.

POINTS ABOUT DUSTERS

A duster should be soft and should not shed lint or ravelings. It holds the dust better if dampened or oiled. Chamois skins are excellent for use on highly polished surfaces. A duster may be moistened by passing it through steam; by wetting one corner of the cloth, rolling it up, and letting it stand for a short time; or by wringing together one dry cloth and one that has been wrung out of water. A dust cloth may be oiled by applying a few drops of kerosene or light lubricating oil on one corner, rolling the cloth, and letting it stand until the oil has spread evenly. Cotton waste and paper are good substitutes for dust cloths in cleaning dirty, greasy surfaces. Feather dusters should not be used, except perhaps just before sweeping. They scatter but do not remove dust.

Dust cloths should be washed frequently, both because a little dirt comes out more easily and because dirty ones often leave as much dirt as they take up and may scratch highly polished surfaces.

The oil is "dustless" cloths may be restored as directed above or a little oil may be added to the rinsing water, one tablespoon of kerosene or one-half tablespoon light lubricating oil being used to a quart of water.

CONCERNING WOMEN

At the age of 81 years, Ruby Lafayette is still acting for the films.

The legislative door has not yet opened to any woman in Australasia.

Queen Mary never refuses to do a little crochet work for a charitable cause.

Women are now eligible for the highest positions in the French postal and telegraph service.

All women entering the employ of the City Government in Vienna are given the title of "Frau."

New South Wales has appointed a woman as envoy to the League of Nations Assembly to be held in Geneva.

There are over 2,000 women doctors in England and Wales alone, many of whom graduate and practice with great extinction.

Mrs. Roy Trickler, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the National Letter Carriers Association, holds three executive positions.

PRUNES LIKED

Adding pitted prunes to gingerbread batter improves the gingerbread. Pitted prunes cut in small pieces and added to the last kneading of bread instead of raisins, make a very delicious bread.

PRESERVING HINT

When making marmalade, grease the preserving pans well with butter and the marmalade will never burn; also skim well. This makes preserve beautifully clear.

RECIPES

Savory Soup: Take one cup of chopped carrot, one cup of chopped turnip, one cup of chopped celery, one cup chopped tomatoes, one-half a cup of butter, two cups of chopped potato, one cup of chopped onion, four cups of milk and salt and pepper to taste. Parboil the potatoes for 10 minutes. Melt the butter, add the vegetables and cook for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the milk and cook in a double boiler until the vegetables are tender. One-half pint of fresh beans and eight tablespoons of rice may be added if desired. Season, strain, garnish with parsley and and serve.

Corn Meal Rolls: Sift together one and one-fourth cups of wheat flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, and one teaspoon of salt, then mix with three-fourths cups of corn meal. Rub two tablespoons of butter into the dry ingredients. Beat one egg, add one-half a cup of milk, then add this mixture to the dry ingredients. Add more milk if necessary to make a soft dough. Roll out on a floured board, handling lightly. Cut with a round biscuit cutter, fold like Parker House rolls, and bake in a quick oven. This makes 14 small rolls.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Sad, Glad Time

Sorrow not at summer's end;
Joy fulfillment should attend.
—Old Mother Nature.

The leaves on the maple trees were gold and red. The leaves on the beach trees and the birch trees were yellow. The leaves on the sumacs were brilliant red. Brown leaves there were on the ground, and each day and all day and all night there was the gentle whisper of leaves falling everywhere. The nights were cold but the days were beautiful. Summer was over, and now had come the beautiful fall season to prepare the little people of the Green Forest, the Green Meadows, the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool for the coming of rough Brother North Wind and Jack Frost for the long winter months.

Peter Rabbit loved this season. In the first palace the clear, sharp air made him feel good all over. In the second place it was such a lovely season. In the third place there was so much to see. At the same time everywhere he went Peter had a feeling of sadness. There wasn't a day that he didn't say goodbye to some one, for every day feathered friends were leaving for the Sunny South. Other feathered friends were arriving from the North, but these, too, would say good by after a very brief stay.

But it was great fun to hurry about watching other folk preparing for winter. Some of them were so very happy. There were the Squirrels' cousins, for instance. This year there were splendid crops of hickory nuts and acorns and beechnuts. Happy Jack the Gray squirrel, Rusty the Fox Squirrel, Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Striped Chipmunk were busy from dawn to dark. And because they are never so happy as when they are busy, they were happy all day long. They actually got along without quarreling, for, you see, there was plenty for all. Every once in a while they would have to stop and shout their happiness aloud.

Where the beech trees grew thickest there was a feast every day. Buster Bear was there. So was Lightfoot the Deer. Thunderer the Grouse and Mrs. Grouse were stuffing themselves. They too, were happy.

Over in the Green Forest Paddy the Beaver and Mrs. Beaver had begun early to cut and pile in their pond a supply of poplar logs. Already they had a great pile there, and with every log they added they had so much less cause for worry over their winter food. They had been working long and hard, for they had added to their dam and they had enlarged their house. Now they were looking forward to the time when they would have nothing to do but eat and rest, and because that time was drawing near they were happy and made happy little sounds as they worked.

Seeing so many of his friends happy, Peter was happy

Johnny Chuck was happy. Yes, indeed, Johnny was happy and so was Polly Chuck. All summer and all through the early fall there had been plenty of sweet clover and grass. Now they were so fat that it was all they could do to waddle a short distance from their doorsten. It didn't seem as if any more fat could be tucked away under their skins. Peter couldn't remember ever having seen them quite so fat. But it seemed that the fatter they were the happier they were.

So, seeing so many of his friends happy, Peter was happy. He would kick up his long heels and jump about in the funniest way from sheer happiness and joy in being alive. And then perhaps along would come one of his feathered friends and cry, "Goodbye, Peter! I hope I'll see you again next summer." Then Peter's gladness would be touched with a little sadness. So altogether it was as a sad, glad time and Peter loved it. But from it he drew no lessons whatever. He saw some of his friends leaving for the Sunny South so that they might be sure of having plenty of food. He saw others of his friends making the most of good times sure to come. But Peter didn't store up anything. No, sir, not so much as a mouthful. He was too busy watching others work or hurrying about to say goodbye to those who were leaving, to think anything about winter and the hard times it was sure to bring.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Walter Edward Foster, who has been appointed Secretary of State in the Dominion Government in succession to Arthur B. Copp, is a resident of New Brunswick, of which Province he served as premier for several years, beginning with 1917. Previous to entering public life Mr. Foster had a wide reputation as a business man, with most of his interests centered in St. John, where he had been president of the Board of Trade. He also has held the presidency of the St. Martin's Bay Railway company. One of his hobbies as a statesman is a reunion of the three Maritime Provinces. He some years ago identified himself with the Liberal Party, and has worked loyally for it. As Premier of New Brunswick he added to his reputation as an industrious worker and an able administrator. He is a native of St. Martins, and his first renumerated labor was as a bank clerk.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

Stories That Recall Others

Plain English

"Where's the sheriff? I want to arrange about that execution," said a lawyer as he appealed to another concerning the whereabouts of the sheriff.

A youth standing in the office started nervously, turned pale and, gulping several times, finally asked where and when the hanging would take place.

The lawyer, however, used the word "execution" in its civil sense, and meant merely an enforcement of a judgment against property.

Homes of the Brave

The other day a woman was inquiring about a boy she had tutored before the World war. In speaking of him she said she would never forget one day when they were discussing "The Star Spangled Banner," they came to what was the meaning of "the land of the free and the home of the brave," her pupil said "Well, the United States is probably the land of the free, but the soldiers' homes are the homes of the brave, because there was where the Civil war veter-

From Small Beginnings

Henry Gassaway Davis, the Plantation Boy Candidate for Vice President

In 1904, when Theodore Roosevelt was swept so triumphantly into the presidential chair, his defeated democratic opponents were Alton B. Parker, candidate for the presidency, and Henry Gassaway Davis, candidate for the vice presidency. The career of the latter is one of the many American careers that illustrate what ability, energy and will power can do in the United States.

Henry Gassaway Davis was born in a little hamlet in Maryland in 1823. In the entire place there were fewer people than live in even a small apartment house in a great city. Henry Davis was born in a family where the inheritance was energy and character rather than money. Nevertheless, that is an inheritance that has brought into the world more blessings than money can possibly bring. From his earliest days the boys knew to the full the meaning of economy and of work. As soon as he gained sufficient strength he had to set out to earn money for himself. He was neither large nor strong, and he was only a child in years. For all that, he had to go to work on a plantation of the kind that is so well described in many stories of life in the south before the Civil war. In that work he first gained knowledge of the value and the importance of what can be grown from the soil. He learned too, the importance of quick means of transportation to a market. Later in life, when by economy as well as hard labor, he had saved money and when he had gained opportunity to do something more than the hard work on a plantation, he utilized the knowledge that he had gained.

He became interested in the development of the lumber and the coal regions of the mountainous state of West Virginia. With others he aided in bringing about the opening up of undeveloped land and the building of railroad systems. At the time the venture seemed almost foolish, but the result proved its wisdom. The man who had seen the vision and dreamed the dream reaped the reward and became a man of wealth. At the age of 42 he was sent to the legislature of his state, and six years later he was sent to the senate of the United States. For many years Mr. Davis had been a daring leader in developing coal, lumber and coke industries. Now he became a democratic leader. In 1904 his party made him its candidate for the vice presidency. He lived to the advanced age of 93.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

Miss Beattie came down the stairway with her stepfather, Franklin Dundore, into the reception room of the Beattie home, where she was met in front of the flower-filled fireplace by Mr. Congdon and his son, Thomas Boss Congdon, his best man. The beautiful floral decorations were in autumn flowers.

MAKE EIGHT MONTHS TRIP FOR SHORT LOOK AT SUN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—An eight months' trip half way around the world for two minutes of actual work will be the experience of a party from the Naval Observatory that has left to observe the total eclipse of the sun in January 1926 at Sumatra in the Dutch East Indies.

British, German and French parties also will be at Sumatra, as well as a party from Swarthmore college. The Italians will have an observation party in eastern Africa.

The American naval group will endeavor to observe phenomena in connection with the upward curve of the sunspot cycle, and will study the sun's corona as well. Motion pictures and color plates of the eclipse will be made. Special attention will be given to the sun's gases, which scientists say extend as far as two million miles from the sun's rim when the noon blots out its face.

The party will travel on the naval minesweeper Bittern from Manila to Sumatra. It expects to reach its destination in October and the three months' interim before the eclipse occurs on January 14—visible only from Africa to the Indian ocean—will be spent in erecting housing and telescope tower.

Lieutenant Henry C. Kellers, a naval doctor, has been detailed to the expedition at the request of the Smithsonian Institution, to collect specimens of birds, mammals, and insects. The others in the party are Captain Frank B. Littell, Professor of Mathematics; George H. Peters, associate astronomer; G. M. Raynsford, junior astronomer; and Dr. John A. Anderson of Mt. Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Calif. physicist.

INVENTION OF BLACK OPAQUE GLASS, CLAIM OF JAPANESE

TOKYO, Oct 4 (AP)—After several years' investigation, Jusei Sugiye, a scientist of the Industrial Experimental station of Osaka, is reported to have invented a black glass of a special kind which is expected to prove of great military value. It is said the black glass is opaque to all but ultra-violet rays and, by its use, battle formations or the movements of an enemy can be easily photographed in darkness without detection. Moving pictures, it is claimed, can also be taken in the dark by the use of the black glass.

Experiments with the new glass made recently in the presence of Rear Admiral Muto are said to have proved a complete success. The inventor declares the black glass will not only be important for military purposes, but that it will be found valuable in medical treatment.

LEBANON CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH TO OBSERVE 225TH ANNIVERSARY

Historic old Lebanon is all astir these days over another pilgrimage which is to be made to the little old town on Sunday, October 18. This one is to the First Congregation church which is just completing 225 years of honorable history. The pastor, Rev. Stanley Sellick, with the various committees, is bending every effort to make the anniversary a success.

Invitations are being sent to the pastors of the neighboring churches and their congregations to spend the day about the old place which has been the centre of religious and educational activity since the town was formally organized in 1700. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions at which speakers of prominence will address those who gather on subjects suitable to the occasion. At the morning worship, at 10.45 one of the world's greatest scholars and educators, Dr. Benjamin Wisner Bacon of Yale Divinity school, will deliver the principal address. Dr. Bacon has close family connections with some of the former residents of Lebanon. One of them is the Buckingham family. Governor Buckingham was a member of this church and in 1865 endowed a library for the use of the pastor and all succeeding pastors. This library is without doubt the best of its kind in the state.

Special guests and speakers will be entertained at dinner by the church in the church dining room. The congregations of the daughter churches, of which there are four, will join with the members of the home church in a basket dinner on the church grounds.

The afternoon meeting will be given over to a program of historical interest. At this meeting at 2.30 the ministers of the daughter churches, and the former ministers of the mother church will bring greetings. After this a special address will be given by George S. Godard, state librarian. Much interest is expressed in this meeting.

In the evening session, at 7.30, Dr. J. Beveridge Lee of the Second Congregational church of New London will deliver the sermon. Dr. Lee is one of the outstanding leaders of the Congregational church. The day will close with a communion service in which all of the visiting ministers and their congregations will join with the home church.

The first church of Lebanon was organized by council November 27, 1700, the same year when the town was formally organized, and upon the same date the first clergyman was ordained pastor of the church and minister of the town.

In 1701 the town built a barn 20x24 feet, in which the congregation worshiped till the first edifice was completed in 1706, which stood on the common somewhere near the present site. In 1712 it was enlarged and materially improved. In 1735 the second church was erected where the present one now stands, and this was torn down in 1804. The present brick building was erected soon after and was publicly dedicated January 21, 1807. This building still stands. In 1875 the interior was changed and made "more modern." The steeple on this church is the work of the famous artist John Trumbull, son of Governor Jonathan Trumbull. John Trumbull was a student under the famous Englishman, Sir Christopher Wren, and it is said that this steeple is the only Wren steeple in the country. It is Trumbull's famous paintings which adorn the rotunda of the capitol at Washington.

Although the church is 225 years old it has not had very many pastors. In the early days, especially, the pastorates were long. Lebanon was then more of a business and manufacturing centre than it is now. A complete list of the ministers who have occupied this grand old pulpit shows:

Joseph Parsons, 1700-1708.
Solomon Williams, D. D., 1722-1776. Father of the "signer" of the declaration of Independence.
Zebulon Ely, 1782-1824.
Edward Bull, 1825-1837.
John C. Nicols, 1840-1854.
Orlo D. Hine, 1856-1886.
H. Martin Kellogg, 1886-1892.
William S. Palmer, D. D., 1892-1897.
Stephen Smith, 1898-1909.
Eugene Smith, 1909-1911.
Hollis A. Campbell, 1912-1921.
Wilson Stewart (Temporary pastor part of 1921).
William O. Foster, 1921-1923.
Stanley Sellick, 1923-

The present pastor, Rev. Stanley Sellick, is a graduate of Butler University, Indianapolis, Indiana, and Yale Divinity school. The church has a good attendance, a loyal group of young people, many of whom attend the Lyman Memorial high school which stands opposite the church on the green.

The public of any of the neighboring towns is cordially invited to attend the Anniversary services. Should the weather be unfavorable for a basket dinner outside for the church groups arrangements have been made to accommodate the people in adjoining buildings to the church.

WILL RESTORE LOG CABIN BIRTHPLACE OF BUCHANAN

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP)—The weather worn old log cabin in which James Buchanan, fifteenth president of the United States, was born on April 23, 1791, is to be restored and preserved as a memorial to Pennsylvania's only president.

Built originally by the president's father in the mountains of southern Pennsylvania, the cabin was moved nearly a century ago to Mercersburg, where it has since stood, used much of the time as a tenant house. Now it is being torn down and moved again: this time to Chambersburg, where it will be rebuilt on a lot near the center of the town.

The elder Buchanan was an Irishman who came to America soon after the Revolution, and set out to make a living as a trader among the Indians and frontiersmen. Choosing a lonely spot in the hills north of the Maryland border he built two log cabins, one for a home and the other a store. In time his place becam known to the traders and trappers as "Stony Batter." Here the son "Jamie" was born.

His trading operations proved so profitable that Buchanan finally moved to Mercersburg and from there he sent his son to school and later to college. The younger man became a leader in local affairs and represented his district in the state legislature and in congress. In 1856 he was elected president. He died in Lancaster in 1868 and was buried there.

ICE CREAM BROUGHT CHILDREN'S WEIGHT UP

Included with the annual report of the selectmen this year is the report of the school nursing work, among which it is interesting to note that 1,243 out of 1,570 underweight children to whom ice cream was fed for six weeks in the past year had their weight brought up to normal thereby.

The following is the report by Miss Rose K. Durr, supervisor:

The school nursing work in the schools of Norwich has continued during the year as before and is steadily growing and enlarging.

The requirements of the State Department of Health and Education have been filed, the children having been examined by physicians appointed by the School Nursing committee. Parents have been notified of all defects found and each year more are corrected, not only with help from this department but largely by the follow-up visits from the nurse explaining the defects to parents.

Due to the enlarging of the health appropriation last year we were able to add another nurse to our staff making four nurses.

More attention has been given to the underweight child.

Milk has been served at more schools where it was given to children or sold for a small sum. Through the courtesy of two ice cream companies, ice cream as well as milk was served to 1,570 underweight children for six weeks, 1,243 of these children being brought up to normal weight.

Pediculosis and impetigo have nearly disappeared, except for the cases found at the opening of the school year or new children entering from out of town.

Particularly noteworthy is the fact that during the year 120 children had tonsils and adenoids removed with financial help and care from this department. This is a much better result than ever before secured. This was made possible by the United Workers allowing us the use of their rooms and cot beds, also by special prices given us by the operating specialists and the school nurse giving all the care both night and day.

During the summer children have been helped with dental work in the same way. Little Mother's League classes have been held, and calls answered from the play grounds.

The nurses appreciate the ever increasing co-operation given them by the teachers, and the health agencies of the town.

Radio Craze Sweeps Japan

TOKYO, Oct. 4 (AP)—The radio craze has grown to such an extent in Japan that some of the middle school authorities in Tokyo have issued orders that students shall not "listen in" during certain hours of the evening, but shall devote these hours to their studies. The school heads found upon investigation that the youngsters were neglecting their school work in the evening to listen to the radio.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. for the town election.

OBITUARY
Leonard Owen Smith

The death of Leonard Owen Smith at his home in Norwich marks the passing from this life of one of those rare characters outstanding in its service in many lines of activity.

He was born in Franklin, Conn., Jan. 18, 1843, the son of Prentice Orrin and Eliza Jane King Smith and was a lineal descendant in the eighth generation of John and Priscilla Alden.

He was educated at Norwich Free academy.

In the Civil war, Mr. Smith enlisted in Company F, 26th Regiment, Conn. Volunteers, from the Norwich Free academy, in 1862. He was promoted in turn to corporal, second sergeant and sergeant-major. He was in General Banks' expedition to New Orleans, fought in all the charges on Port Hudson and was present at its capture, in 1863. He was honorably mustered out, August 19, 1863.

He was active in the securing of funds and the erection of the monument in Norwich to the men of the 26th Regiment, Conn., Volunteers that stands on the Little Plain. Mr. Smith took no uncertain stand in religious life and in church work. He was always an active leader in church affairs. In the prime of his life he gave freely of his time and energy as a member of the Central Congregational church of Philadelphia. For many years he was a deacon in the church, a member of the quartet in the church choir and beloved teacher of a Sunday school class of one hundred young women, also leading in the Sunday school singing.

On his retirement from active business and the removal of his home to Norwich he transferred his religious affiliations to the Park Congregational church, being active in Sunday school work and an honorary deacon of that church.

In his business life Mr. Smith, in 1870, opened the Philadelphia office and salesroom for the Brainard and Armstrong Co. silk manufacturers and was made vice president and manager for the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and adjoining states. His administration was one of marked success, and his work and influence in that field are still effective. He was in active scervice with the Brainard and Armstrong Co., for 28 years, retiring in 1898, but retaining his office as vice president until 1913. He was an incorporator of Chelsea Savings bank, a director of Norwich Free academy, honorary deacon of Park Congregational church, a director of the Young Men's Christian association and a member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Until ill health made his resignation necessary, he was also a director of the Thames National bank.

Mr. Smith married Miss Eva J. Crowell, of Philadelphia, Oct. 1st, 1901. He leaves his wife and two daughters Miss Eloise Crowell Smith, a senior at Wellesley college and Miss Eva Virginia Smith, a student in Norwich Free academy. He is survived also by his sister, Mrs. Benjamin A. Armstrong, of New London.

His public benefaction's were well many individuals, unostentatiously known, but his help was given to and liberally, as a manifestation of his sympathetic nature.

Mr. Smith showed his public spirited activities in various lines. The removal of the family from Philadelphia to Norwich was always regarded as a matter of great satisfaction to the citizens, as Mr. Smith at once set to work to improve and beautify an already beautiful property, the original Gardiner Greene house, on Washington street, which he had purchased as their home. Here, Mr. and Mrs. Smith dispensed dignified and liberal hospitality, always with great simplicity and charm.

Particularly was he active when, in 1914 the town and city of Norwich formally celebrated, on June 7th, "Benefactors' Day" recalling the beneficent deeds of all those who by works and words had ever aided the town, or advanced its interests. Mr. Smith served on the committee, devoting time, energy, talent and private means to the forwarding of the project, his able counsel and ripe judgment proving of great value to the promoters of the celebration.

Personally, he was of courtly appearance, distinguished and polished, most interesting in conversation and especially well informed. In the years when his war-time experiences were recalled by his frequent appearance in the streets of the city on horseback, he was a notable figure and impressed all who saw him as a man of unusual characteristics, leadership and ability.

Mrs. John Potignen

The death of Mrs. John Potignon, a former resident of Taftville, occurred Thursday in Providence after a brief illness. She was born in France, but came to Taftville a number of years ago and was employed there in the velvet mill for a number of years before removing to Providence.

She is survived by her husband, who is employed in a mill in Mexico, and by her son Pierre who is attending a textile school in Providence. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Antone Durand of New Haven and relatives in France.

KAMCHATKA LIKE MODERN METROPOLIS, SAYS SAILOR

SEATTLE, Oct. 4 (AP)—The impressions that Kamchatka, Siberia, is a land of desolation, inhabited only by Eskimos and bears, is far from the truth, Captain Albert Grove, commander of a fishing schooner recently returned from the region, declared here.

"I was very much surprised at the conditions existing in Petropaviosk," Captain Grove said, "for I had an entirely different idea of the place before we arrived there last May. They have fine schools, splendid sanitary conditions, well paved streets, modern machinery, radio, motion pictures and practically everything any metropolis enjoys.

"Their schools are particularly efficient. I was told that nine years ago only 30 per cent of the population could read and write, whereas now over 90 per cent of them, both adults and children, are well advanced in the rudiments of schooling.

"So efficient were the schools there that Kenneth Price, a Seattle high school boy in my crew, requested permission to remain in Petropaviosk for a year to study special branches, and I allowed him to do it.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. for the town election.

Connecticut College

(Special to The Bulletin)

On Saturday evening, Oct. 3, the Juniors of Connecticut college entertained their freshmen sisters with a fashion show in the gymnasium of the college. The entertainment opened with the fashion show in which the very latest models of afternoon frocks, coats, hats, sport wear and evening dress were displayed. The typical college girl displayed the mode of dress on campus, yellow slickers and oil-skin hats, sailor attire, knickers and blazers, huge coon coats and rakish hats. Those who took the part of models were the misses:

Francis Jones of Hartford, Elizabeth Fowler of West Roxbury, Mass.; Sarah Pitthouse of Philadelphia, Pa.; Ruth Batty of Haverford, Pa.; Mary Storer of Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.; akTherine Sembrada of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Theodosia Sanford of Redding, Conn.; Dorothy Harris of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Lyda Chatfield of Waterbury.

The next number was a scarf dance by the Misses Celeste Denison of West Hartford and Ruth Hitchcock of West Hartford. Miss Margaret Elliott of Upper Montclair, N. J., gave several delightful whistling selections. Miss Edith Clark of Montclair, N. J., and Miss Margaret Battles of New London did a charming wooden soldier and wooden doll dance. Miss Louise Wall of Cleveland, O., and Miss Katherine Foster of Boston interpreted Pierrot and Pierette. A chorus sang selections from "The Bells of Beaujolais," the musical comedy of last year. Informal dancing followed the entertainment. Dainty refreshments were served by junior waitresses. Dancing closed the evening.

At about eleven o'clock the junior class went from house to house serenading the class of '28, and only soft calls of "Thank you so much" broke the silence after their voices had died away.

On Sunday afternoon President and Mrs. Benjamin T. Marshall were at home from four to six to the class of 1929. Those in the receiving line were: Dean Mary M. Benedict, Dr. Charles F. E. Morris, Miss Theodosia Hewlitt, president of the student government. At the tea table were Dean Irene Nye and Professor Caroline Ernst, and assisting in the dining room were the following members of the junior class: the Misses Sarah Carslake, Ruth D. Battey, Mary E. Storer, Lois Perry, Emily Warner, graduate secretary and Miss Elizabeth Marshall daughter of President and Mrs. Marshall.

This (Monday) morning Reverend Brewster Eddy will speak at chapel services.

A PRETTY THROAT IS MOST DESIRABLE

Old-time Recipe of Buttermilk and Cream Best; Preserves Whiteness Youthfulness and Beauty

One of the woes of the middle aged woman nowadays is that her throat looks lined and old when she puts on a waist with a comfortable and fashionably open neck.

The old-time recipe and still the best to keep youthful looks and ensure a clear, creamy complexion is common everyday buttermilk and cream. The simply wonderful complexions of the English is solely owing to its constant use and while the preparation of this mixture at home is mussy and troublesom every woman will be glad to know that she can now obtain the ready-to-use product called "Howard's" Buttermilk at any good drug store.

Few women realize that the throat is one of the greatest telltale marks of age since it very readily shows advancing years or the marks of neglect. If they would only accept these toilet hints in their helpful true light they would not hesitate to cut this out and remember to give Buttermilk Cream a trial. Lee & Osgood Co. guarantees it to give complete satisfaction or money back.

BASEBALL TAKES CENTER OF SPORT STAGE IN FINAL BOW OF 1925

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—Somber October, with its cloud of bewildering world series figures and its thundering gridiron host, had taken full possession of the athletic stage tonight without a thrill.

Deep in the wilderness of post season baseball mathematics, the sunburned bleacherite today peered through the screen of series dope to view as drab a major league finish as he could remember in years. Overwhelming victories by football favorites, anticipated success by Glenna Collett and Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser in reaching the women's golf title final, and an atmosphere of doubt which trailed Dempsey-Willis fight maneuvres, left fandom with little to discuss besides the chances of Washington against Pittsburgh and of many a series vest button to survive the burlesque of Nick Altrock.

A dramatic coup to halt the heavyweight negotiations, expected from Promotor Tex Rickard of from Dempsey's repudiated manager, Jack Kearns, sputtered but finally went out. Rickard was even quoted as saying he would be satisfied to wash his hands of a troublesome bout. When the dope-juggling fan then looked to the major leagues for a possible thrilling finish to some battle for a coveted post in the standings, he again was disappointed. All the clubs closed without a revolt—many of them satisfied in positions they had occupied for many weeks.

Finally sportdom turned to its widely acclaimed gridiron hero to open a rift in the monotonous adherence to form throughout the week, but Nebraska and a wet field demurred. Fully 25 times Red Grange answered the call of Illinois to charge the cornhuskers and usually he was hurled to the ground almost before he could reach the line of scrimmage. It was the final thrust of fate in a week which matched drab October skies with drab October returns.

"Money talks," the time-honored saying goes, and Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Willis, endeavored to make it do so for him after his return here from his conference with Dempsey's representatives and backers of Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons. A sum of $25,000 to cover Willis' winter training expenses for his proposed championship battle next summer was considered by Mullins as sufficient indication of good faith by the matchmakers.

The East declined, however, to become enthusiastic. Unfriendly provisions in the Indiana law, possibility of interference from either Rickard or Kearns, the need of a clever hand to thwart threatened counter-attacks by reformers, the Shelby fiasco and the determination of the promoters to stage the fight many miles from the Metropolitan area—scene of all the conflicts which have drawn gate receipts of more than seven figures—loomed threateningly in the viewpoint of the eastern ring follower. Critics went even further and drew the conclusion that Dempsey, having been apprised of these things, had merely prepared a suitable excuse for retirement if the promotion of the fight is blocked.

Emerging from the siege of colonel mathematics, armed with Pirate averages and Senator percentages, sportdom tonight had brief opportunity for meditation on the results of the major league races and their bearing on the future. On many sides the confident prediction was advanced that baseball next year would return to the status it occupied before the advent of the "rabbit ball," even as the removal of the lively sphere in the latter stages of the 1925 races was blamed for the decline of the Athletics and the increased effectiveness of the Pittsburgh offensive.

Dove-tailing other events in ringing down the summer sports curtain without friction, Brooklyn National fans last week melted in their attitude toward firstbaseman Jacques Fournier and submerged his resentment of their earlier abuse under a tidal wave of spontaneous applause. King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, likewise joined the harmony movement by foregoing a herculean attempt to reduce to 175 pounds for his 15-round fight here tomorrow night wit hPaul Berlenbach and thus gave over his hope of compelling the champion to defend his title.

Berlenbach's plea that he had signed for the fight with the understanding that the light-heavyweight crown should be left in the locker room switched Solomon off the title track and reduced the event to another mere heavyweight contest.

A Walter Johnson mound classic, a winnnig Hazen Cuyler homer in the ninth, a touchdown in the last minute of play by Grange—A thrill or a spill from anywhere—will therefore come to fandom this week as a welcome ripple on the placid sport seas.

ASHLAND LOSES CLOSE GAME TO ATTLEBORO

Sunday afternoon at Ashland park the Ashland A. A. lost a hard-fought battle to Roy Rock's crack Attleboro, Mass. team, 5-4.

McCarthy, former Sub Base pitcher, on the mound for Attleboro, pitched fine ball, allowing seven hits, fanning nine and walking one man.

Spike Liberty allowed nine hits, fanned eight men.

Included in Rock's lineup were Forsylie, formerly with Milwaukee, playing shortstop, and "Packey" Noonan of the Boston Red Sox at first.

The game was witnessed by the largest crowd of the season, about 200 fans who were kept on an edge at all times.

Next Sunday the famous Town Talks of Worcester play a return game at Ashland park. The score.

COLLEGE ELEVENS SWEEP TO IMPRESSIVE VICTORIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—Swept to impressive victories by towering scores in the season's second round of testing tilts, many of the leading college elevens of the east tonight pointed for their first major gridiron battles on Saturday with proved offensive strength of unusual power.

There were few exceptions, notably University of Pittsburgh and Rutgers. The Panthers went down to unexpected and staggering defeat at the hands of Lafayette, 20 to 9, while the scarlet ranks of Jack Wallace were rent by the backs of Villanova in an equally surprising upset, 20-0.

The army warriors, in spite of the fact that they uncovered a whirlwind attack and a sturdy defense against University of Detroit, werep ushed back in their inaugural contest for a touchdown by the westerners as a result of two long aerial tosses. The cadets brought out a powerful set of backs, most of whom have had one or two years behind army lines of the past, and their new forward row knifed the Detroit defense for a clean-cut 31-6 triumph indicating trouble for the flying Notre Dame cohorts when the two elevens clash here Oct. 17.

Navy players likewise flashed an attack greatly improved over their initial showing of a year ago, trouncing William and Mary by 25-0 where last fall the midshipmen had barely pulled through a victory at 14-7, in view of the fact that the naval academy cohorts are called upon to face this week the golden avalanche from Marquette, a team defeated but twice in the last three years and conqueror of the middies a year ago by 21-3, the powerful offensive loosed by the Annapolis men was particularly gratifying to Coach Owsley.

Members of the "big three" passed their opening trials with customary success, the driving Yale machine measuring up to expectations in stampeding Middlebury, 53-0.

Harvard, scored upon by Rensselaer Poly, 18-6, will provide the season's first opportunity for a comparison of the trio on Saturday when her crimson gridders oppose Middlebury, Coach Roper's Tigers, hurdling Amherst more easily than had been expected, 20-0, providing subject matter for eastern comment in adopting the Notre Dame plan of starting the game with second string players and then trotting out the regulars later. The scheme worked, for Princeton won, but it remained for the "varsity" to do all the scoring.

Focusing interest on their clash at the Yankee Stadium next Saturday, Penn State and Georgia Tech, both of whom will play Notre Dame later in the season, galloped through light opposition yesterday, the Nittany Lions downing Franklin and Marshall, 18 to 0, and the Atlantans smothering Virginia Military Institute, 33 to 0.

Pennsylvania, scored upon twice by Swarthmore, 26 to 13, saw trouble ahead at Providence, R. I., next Saturday, when the Quaker eleven will tackle Brown's well-knit outfit, victor over its second foe in Colby yesterday, 33-0.

Columbia, Syracuse, Cornell, Colgate and Dartmouth all romped to easy victories again yesterday with no serious obstances in their march until Oct. 17, but the "little three" ran into difficulties, Wesleyan scoring over St. Stephens by a single point, 7-6, Williams being tied by Bowdoin, 6-6, and Amherst losing to Princeton.

TRYON LEADS GRIDSTERS IN TOUCHDOWNS SCORED

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(By the Associated Press)—Eddie Tryon of Colgate, football's original ice man, is the leading scorer on the eastern intercollegiate gridiron. In gaining 102 yards against Clarkson Tech, Saturday, Tryon scored five touchdowns in addition to booting the ball through the crossbars four times for points after touchdown.

Second to the college ace is Oberlander, Dartmouth halfback, who is one touchdown behind Tryon. Tryon also leads the field in the matter of gaining extra points after touchdown with eight goals.

NEW YORK GIANTS DOWN NEW BRITAIN 26 TO 0

NEW BRITAIN, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—The New York Giants, Metropolitan representatives in the national football league, swept to a 26 to 0 victory over the All-New Britain eleven here this afternoon. The visitors had too much power, both in running attack and in passing, for the New Britain team to cope with.

RIVERVIEW LOSES SERIES TO EAST MOOSUP TEAM

MOOSUP, Oct. 4—Moosup took the second straight victory from the Riverview club here today winning by a score of 7 to 4. The victory gives the Moosup team the series and also the title of Eastern Conn. baseball champions. The game was not a tight battle like the first game played a week ago and several costly errors marred the playing of the Riverview club. Moosup hit at opportune times and Tony West was unable to stem the tide. Chick Davis pitched well for Moosup and although touched for 16 hits kept them well scattered and was effective in the pinches.

LAST OUTDOOR BOUTS AT NEW YORK TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—The outdoor boxing season will close tomorrow night at the Polo grounds with Paul Berlenbach, light-heavyweight champion of the world, opposing King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, in the main event of the National Sports Alliance card.

Despite the commission's official elimination tournament which was won by Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., Jimmy Kelly, manager of Herman, plans to claim the title if his boxer wins. The bout will be over the title distance and both fighters expect to weigh in at the 126-poundage tomorrow afternoon.

The Berlenbach-Solomon contest will be 10 rounds.

Sid Terris, east side contender for the lightweight crown, will meet Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, N. Y., former holder of the 135-pound title, in another 10 rounder.

GLENNA COLLETT WINS NATIONAL GOLF TITLE BY BEATING MRS. FRASER 9 UP

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Glenna Collett of Providence today won the women's national golf championship for the second time by defeating Mrs. Alex Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, also a former champion by a wide margin of nine up and eight to play in the 36 hole finals over the links of the St. Louis Country club. Miss Collette scored remerkably well during the 28 holes played, scoring 76 actual strokes for the morning round and taking only 36 strokes for the first nine in the afternoon, while Mrs. Fraser played the poorest golf she had exhibited during the tournament.

Mrs. Fraser became four down in the first 16 holes, as she was missing shots with both wood and iron and even failed to get down a three-foot putt on the 17th. That was not so bad, considering that Miss Collett scored virtually a medal 76, a stymie at the tenth making her score 37-40-77 as compared with par 40-41—81. The Canadian in spite of her poor shots scored exact par on both nines.

At the 150 yard seventh, Mrs. Fraser muffed her tee shot and it fell short below the table green, but she clipped dead with a ash of her usual brilliancy and won the hole when Miss Collett took three putts from 25 feet. Mrs Fraser returned the compliment at the boomerang eighth by taking three putts from 20 feet and was two down again, as Miss Collett had a birdie four.

The American gained another hole at the 518 yard ninth by pitching dead from 50 yards in three and holing an eagle four, while Mrs. Fraser was five feet short on the like.

Turning home three down, Mrs. Fraser got the tenth by means of rare luck. She pulled her drive through a tree, jumped her second through a trap on the steep hill and laid her second putt on the edge of the cup. Miss Collett after a fine drive, pushed her second to the verge of a trap and on her third putt for a half in five having laid herself a gymnic knocked the Canadian's ball in for a birdie four, while she had to take six and was three up.

The Canadian sliced to deep rough on the 17th, but hit a good iron to the green and was three feet from the cup in three, as was her opponent. Mrs Fraser missed the short putt and was three down for the third time.

Miss Collett's drive found the rough behind several tall trees as the 18th, while the Canadian's ball was on a steep side hill. The latter prepared to go after the green, nearly 200 yards away, uphill and over a yawning trap right in front of the green. The stump was too steep and she chanced to an iron only to hit it too well and roll into the deep pit. Miss Collett hit a whale of an iron over the trees, over the gulf and onto the green, holing for a birdie four to be four up when Mrs. Fraser was just out of the trap in three and took three putts.

The morning card:

Mrs. Fraser out 444-654-355—40.
Miss Collett out 443-554-441—37.

Both made wonderful recoveries for a pair of birdie fours on the eleventh where Mrs. Fraser shanked her second to rough and Miss Collett pushed her approach to a trap. They chipped up dead from the bad lies and sank in one putt. The Canadian laid her tee shot 17 free from the pin on the 182 yard twelfth, while the American was short and just missed a trap. She ran up dead, however, and halved in par.

The 576 yard hole was played erratically by both. They sliced into the sag trap, but got out well in two. The American dubbed her brassie, while the Canadian hit the best one she had all forenoon. Then Miss Collett hammered her brassie fourth 226 yards to within eight feet of the cup on the hillside green, where it stuck without moving and she got a par six to win and be three up again as her opponent's ball got a bad kick, overran the green and forced her to take the only seven of the round.

The American took three putts on the next green and lost the hole to Mrs. Fraser's birdie four, leaving her two up. The Canadian was going like herself now, and outdrove her opponent on the long fifteenth. Miss Collett got a good spoon shot from the rough, but was short in three, only to halve in par when Mrs. Fraser missed for a birdie from 13 feet. The American managed to halve the short 16th can from the rough below the tabled green. Mrs. Fraser having dropped splendid iron shot on the carpet 15 feet from the flag.

NUTMEGS SMOTHER CRESCENTS IN 42 TO 0 VICTORY

The Norwich Nutmegs continued their whirlwind sweep through this season's football schedule when they ran rough-shod over the Crescent A. C. for a 42 to 0 whitewash. The Crescents were unable to score a single first down and at no time threatened the Nutmegs. On the other hand the Nutmegs ran wild through their opponent's defense, garnering fifteen first downs for a total distance of 320 yards.

For the Nutmegs, their well executed forward pass attack was their chief ground gainer; completing six out of seven passes attempted. The work of Seymour ang Vitilano was especially noticeable in this department, the former making two gains of 20 yards each, while the latter made a 40 yards run through a broken field after repeiving one of the passes for a touchdown. Capt. F. McGrath and Herberts were on the throwing end of the passes.

For the losers, Ludlow, Williams and Capt. Burdick were the shining lights while for the Nutmegs the work of Vitilano, Grover, Herberts and F. McGrath was outstanding.

First Quarter

The Nutmegs won the toss and chose to receive at the fourth goal. O'Niel kicked off to Herberts who ran the ball forward twenty yards, to the middle of the field. On the first eight plays the Nutmegs made two first downs, among which was a forward Vitilano to Seymour which netted 20 yards, after which they were held for downs on their opponents 5-yard line. The Crescents after three tried to dent their opponents line were forced to kick. Burdick punted to Herberts who was downed in his tracks on the Crescents 15 yard line as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

After three plays in this period Vitilano went over for a touchdown making a beautiful 10 yard dash around left end. O'Niel of the Crescents kicked off to Herberts who ran the ball back 15 yards. First C. McGrath ripped off ten thru tackle, Vitilano went around end for eighteen and Herberts hit center for twelve, bringing the ball to the Crescents 14 line. C. McGrath hit center for seven and on the next play Herberts went around end for the Nutmeg's second touchdown as the half ended.

Third Quarter

MacLaren kicked off for the Nutmegs to Hofman of the Crescents who ran the ball back 5 yards before being downed by Boldrighine. The Crescents after four down failed to gain and the ball went back to the Nutmegs. On the first play G. McGrath went around right end for 30 yards and off, this time to Ludlow, who gained a touchdown. MacLaren again kicked five yards before being thrown by Pekowski. On the first play the Crescents tried a forward which was intercepted on their own 30 yard line. Herberts threw a forward to F. McGrath which netted 10 yards. C. McGrath made eight through center and Herberts twelve through guard. On the next play F. McGrath threw a long forward to Seymour for 20 yards bringing the ball to the Crescents five yard line from where MacLaren went over for the Nutmeg's fourth touchdown. Nutmegs kicked off to Crescents who on four downs were unable to gain the necessary yardage, and the ball went to the Nutmegs. F. McGrath threw a pretty forward to Vitilano for 20 yards and on the next play C. McGrath ran 25 yards around left end for a touchdown as the third quarter ended.

Fourth Quarter

Nutmegs kicked off to Crescents, who were unable to gain after four trys at the line and it was the Nutmegs ball on their opponents 40 yard line. Herberts made nine yards through center, F. McGrath made eleven yards through tackle and on the next play MacLaren went around end for twenty yards and another touchdown. Again the Nutmegs kicked off to the Crescents and they were unable to gain, Vitilano intercepted a forward and ran forty yar's for the Nutmeg's seventh and last touchdown. Herberts kicked off to Williams who ran the ball back fifteen yards. The Crescents were again unable to gain at the Nutmeg's line and it was the latter's ball on their opponent's thirty yard line. As MacLaren went off tackle for eight yards the whistle blew and another shutout victory was chalked up for the Norwich Nutmegs. The lineup:

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4—Pittsburgh won 4 to 2 and lost 4 to 1 in the last games of the season with the Reds today. The champions hit Marvin Goodwin hard in the first game and gathered 14 hits while the Reds also hit Kremer and Morrison hard but failed to take advantage of their opportunities. Pete Donohue held the Pirates well in hand in the second game and but for an error by Schultz would have shut them out. The scores:

SACHEMS AND ST. JOSEPH BATTLE TO 3 TO 3 TIE

Sunday afternoon on the Duwell field the Sachems and St. Josephs played a 3 to 3 tie, in a seven inning game which was halted by rain Jerry Lamphere, pitching for the Sachems, deserved a much better fate, for in the seven innings he did not allow a single hit, and struck out 12 men. The Sachems were handicapped in the first part of the game, only having 5 regular men, but when the men they picked up got a little practice, the St. Josephs never had a show. Tombari, catcher for the Sachems was in his old time forme behind the bat, and with the willow he only had one chance and he got a two base hit on that, which would be good for a home run on any other diamond. He also walked two other times as Kozolowski gave him 4 balls each time and tried to the last time, but it didn't work. The score:

RAIN HALTS FINAL GAME FOR SENATORS AND ATHLETICS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—After three and a half innings of play today between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators, rain ended the game with the home team leading two to one. Since it has no bearing on the final result in the league race, the game will not be played.

DETROIT WINDS UP SEASON WITH DOUBLE VICTORY

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4—St. Louis wound up its 1925 American league season today by losing a double header to Detroit. The scores were 10 to 4 and 11 to 6, a terrific barrage of 21 base hits, including two homers, gave the Tigers their first victory while Brownie errors paved the way for the second. BASEBALL TAKES CENTER OF SPORT STAGE IN FINAL BOW OF 1925

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—Somber October, with its cloud of bewildering world series figures and its thundering gridiron host, had taken full possession of the athletic stage tonight without a thrill.

Deep in the wilderness of post season baseball mathematics, the sunburned bleacherite today peered through the screen of series dope to view as drab a major league finish as he could remember in years. Overwhelming victories by football favorites, anticipated success by Glenna Collett and Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser in reaching the women's golf title final, and an atmosphere of doubt which trailed Dempsey-Willis fight maneuvres, left fandom with little to discuss besides the chances of Washington against Pittsburgh and of many a series vest button to survive the burlesque of Nick Altrock.

A dramatic coup to halt the heavyweight negotiations, expected from Promotor Tex Rickard or from Dempsey's repudiated manager, Jack Kearns, sputtered but finally went out. Rickard was even quoted as saying he would be satisfied to wash his hands of a troublesome bout. When the dope-juggling fan then looked to the major leagues for a possible thrilling finish to some battle for a coveted post in the standings, he again was disappointed. All the clubs closed without a revolt—many of them satisfied in positions they had occupied for many weeks.

Finally sportdom turned to its widely acclaimed gridiron hero to open a rift in the monotonous adherence to form throughout the week, but Nebraska and a wet field demurred. Fully 25 times Red Grange answered the call of Illinois to charge the cornhuskers and usually he was hurled to the ground almost before he could reach the line of scrimmage. It was the final thrust of fate in a week which matched drab October skies with drab October returns.

"Money talks," the time-honored saying goes, and Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, endeavored to make it do so for him after his return here from his conference with Dempsey's representatives and backers of Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons. A sum of $25,000 to cover Wills' winter training expenses for his proposed championship battle next summer was considered by Mullins as sufficient indication of good faith by the matchmakers.

The East declined, however, to become enthusiastic. Unfriendly provisions in the Indiana law, possibility of interference from either Rickard or Kearns, the need of a clever hand to thwart threatened counter-attacks by reformers, the Shelby fiasco and the determination of the promoters to stage the fight many miles from the Metropolitan area—scene of all the conflicts which have drawn gate receipts of more than seven figures—loomed threateningly in the viewpoint of the eastern ring follower. Critics went even further and drew the conclusion that Dempsey, having been apprised of these things, had merely prepared a suitable excuse for retirement if the promotion of the fight is blocked.

Emerging from the siege of colonel mathematics, armed with Pirate averages and Senator percentages, sportdom tonight had brief opportunity for meditation on the results of the major league races and their bearing on the future. On many sides the confident prediction was advanced that baseball next year would return to the status it occupied before the advent of the "rabbit ball," even as the removal of the lively sphere in the latter stages of the 1925 races was blamed for the decline of the Athletics and the increased effectiveness of the Pittsburgh offensive.

Dove-tailing other events in ringing down the summer sports curtain without friction, Brooklyn National fans last week melted in their attitude toward firstbaseman Jacques Fournier and submerged his resentment of their earlier abuse under a tidal wave of spontaneous applause. King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, likewise joined the harmony movement by foregoing a herculean attempt to reduce to 175 pounds for his 15-round fight here tomorrow night wit hPaul Berlenbach and thus gave over his hope of compelling the champion to defend his title.

Berlenbach's plea that he had signed for the fight with the understanding that the light-heavyweight crown should be left in the locker room switched Solomon off the title track and reduced the event to another mere heavyweight contest.

A Walter Johnson mound classic, a winnnig Hazen Cuyler homer in the ninth, a touchdown in the last minute of play by Grange—A thrill or a spill from anywhere—will therefore come to fandom this week as a welcome ripple on the placid sport seas.

COLLEGE ELEVENS SWEEP TO IMPRESSIVE VICTORIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—Swept to impressive victories by towering scores in the season's second round of leading tilts, many of the leading college elevens of the east tonight pointed for their first major gridiron battles on Saturday with proved offensive strength of unusual power.

There were few exceptions, notably University of Pittsburgh and Rutgers. The Panthers went down to unexpected and staggering defeat at the hands of Lafayette, 20 to 9, while the scarlet ranks of Jack Wallace were rent by the backs of Villanova in an equally surprising upset, 20-0.

The army warriors, in spite of the fact that they uncovered a whirlwind attack and a sturdy defense against University of Detroit, werep ushed back in their inaugural contest for a touchdown by the westerners as a result of two long aerial losses. The cadets brought out a powerful set of backs, most of whom have had one or two years behind army lines of the past, and their new forward row knifed the Detroit defense for a clean-cut 21-6 triumph indicating trouble for the flying Notre Dame cohorts when the two elevens clash here Oct. 17.

Navy players likewise flashed an attack greatly improved over their initial showing of a year ago, trouncing William and Mary by 25-0 where last fall the midshipmen had barely pulled through a victory at 14-7, in view of the fact that the naval academy cohorts are called upon to face this week the golden avalanche from Marquette, a team defeated but twice in the last three years and conqueror of the middies a year ago by 21-3, the powerful offensive loosed by the Annapolis men was particularly gratifying to Coach Owsley.

Members of the "big three" passed their opening trials with customary success, the driving Yale machine measuring up to expectations in stampeding Middlebury, 53-0.

Harvard, scored upon by Rensselaer Poly, 13-6, will provide the season's first opportunity for a comparison of the trio on Saturday when her crimson gridders oppose Middlebury. Coach Roper's Tigers, hurdling Amherst more easily than had been expected, 20-0, providing subject matter for eastern comment in adopting the Notre Dame plan of starting the game with second string players and then trotting out the regulars later. The scheme worked, for Princeton won, but it remained for the "varsity" to do all the scoring.

Focusing interest on their clash at the Yankee Stadium next Saturday, Penn State and Georgia Tech, both of whom will play Notre Dame later in the season, galloped through light opposition yesterday, the Nittany Lions downing Franklin and Marshall, 13 to 0, and the Atlantans smothering Virginia Military Institute, 33 to 0.

Pennsylvania, scored upon twice by Swarthmore, 26 to 12, saw trouble ahead at Providence, R. I., next Saturday, when the Quaker eleven will tackle Brown's well-knit outfit, victor over its second foe in Colby yesterday, 33-0.

Columbia, Syracuse, Cornell, Colgate and Dartmouth all romped to easy victories again yesterday with no serious obstacles in their march until Oct. 17, but the "little three" ran into difficulties, Wesleyan scoring over St. Stephens by a single point, 7-6, Williams being tied by Bowdoin, 6-6, and Amherst losing to Princeton.

TRYON LEADS GRIDSTERS IN TOUCHDOWNS SCORED

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(By the Associated Press)—Eddie Tryon of Colgate, football's original ice man, is the leading scorer on the eastern intercollegiate gridiron. In gains 102 yards against Clarkson Tech, Saturday, Tryon scored five touchdowns in addition to booting the ball through the crossbars four times for points after touchdown.

Second to the college ace is Oberlander, Dartmouth halfback, who is one touchdown behind Tryon. Tryon also leads the field in the matter of gaining extra points after touchdown with eight goals.

NEW BRITAIN, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—The New York Giants, Metropolitan representatives in the national football league, swept to a 26 to 0 victory over the All-New Britain eleven here this afternoon. The visitors had too much power, both in running attack and in passing, for the New Britain team to cope with.

RIVERVIEW LOSES SERIES TO FAST MOOSUP TEAM

MOOSUP, Oct. 4—Moosup took the second straight victory from the Riverview club here today winning by a score of 7 to 4. The victory gives the Moosup team the series and also the title of Eastern Conn. baseball champions. The game was not a tight battle like the first game played a week ago and several costly errors marred the playing of the Riverview club. Moosup hit at opportune times and Tony West was unable to stem the tide. Chick Davis pitched well for Moosup and although touched for 16 hits kept them well scattered and was effective in the pinches.

LAST OUTDOOR BOUTS AT NEW YORK TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—The outdoor boxing season will close tomorrow night at the Polo grounds with Paul Berlenbach, light-heavyweight champion of the world, opposing King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, in the main event of the National Sports Alliance card.

Despite the commission's official elimination tournament which was won by Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., Jimmy Kelly, manager of Herman, plans to claim the title if his boxer wins. The bout will be over the title distance and both fighters expect to weigh in at the 126-poundage tomorrow afternoon.

The Berlenbach-Solomon contest will be 10 rounds.

Sid Terris, east side contender for the lightweight crown, will meet Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, N. Y., former holder of the 130-pound title in another 10 rounder.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Glenna Collett of Providence today won the women's national golf championship for the second time by defeating Mrs. Alex Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, also a former champion by a wide margin of nine up and eight to play in the 36 hole finals over the links of the St. Louis Country club. Miss Collette scored remerkably well during the 28 holes played, scoring 76 actual strokes for the morning round and taking only 36 strokes for the first nine in the afternoon, while Mrs. Fraser played the poorest golf she had exhibited during the tournament.

Mrs. Fraser became four down in the first 18 holes, as she was missing shots with both wood and iron and even failed to get down a three-foot putt on the 17th. That was not so bad, considering that Miss Collett scored virtually a medal 76, a stymie at the tenth making her score 37-40-77 as compared with par 40-41—81. The Canadian in spite of her poor shots scored exact par on both nines.

At the 150 yard seventh, Mrs. Fraser muffed her tee shot and it fell short below the table green, but she clipped dead with a ash of her usual brilliancy and won the hole when Miss Collett took three putts from 25 feet. Mrs Fraser returned the compliment at the boomerang eighth by taking three putts from 20 feet and was two down again, as Miss Collett had a birdie four.

The American gained another hole at the 518 yard ninth by pitching dead from 50 yards in three and holing an eagle four, while Mrs. Fraser was five feet short on the like.

Turning home three down, Mrs. Fraser got the tenth by means of rare luck. She pulled her drive through a tree, bumped her second through a trap on the steep hill and laid her second putt on the edge of the cup. Miss Collett after a fine drive, pushed her second to the verge of a trap and on her third putt for a half in five having laid herself a stymie knocked the Canadian's ball in for a birdie four, while she had to take six and was three up.

The Canadian sliced to deep rough on the 17th, but hit a good iron to the green and was three feet from the cup in three, as was her opponent. Mrs Fraser missed the short putt and was three down for the third time.

Miss Collett's drive found the rough behind severa tall trees as the 18th, while the Canadian's ball was on a steep side hill. The latter prepared to go after the green, nearly 200 yards away, uphill and over a yawning trap right in front of the green. The stance was too steep and she changed to an iron only to hit it too well and roll into the deep pit. Miss Collett hit a while of an iron over the trees, over the gulf and onto the green, holing for a birdie four to be four up when Mrs. Fraser was just out of the trap in three and took three putts.

The morning card:

Mrs. Fraser out 444-654-353—40.
Miss Collett out 443-554-444—37.

Both made wonderful recoveries for a pair of birdie fours on the eleventh where Mrs. Fraser shanked her second to rough and Miss Collett punched her approach to a trap. They chipped up dead from the bad lies and sank in one putt. The Canadian laid her tee shot 17 free from the pin on the 182 yard twelfth, while the American was short and just missed a trap. She ran up dead, however, and halved in par.

The 576 yard hole was played erratically by both. They sliced into the sae trap, but got out well in two. The American dubbed her brassie, while the Canadian hit the best one she had all forenoon. Then Miss Collett slammed her brassie fourth 226 yards to within eight feet of the cup on the hillside green, where it stuck without moving and she got a par six to win and be three up again as her opponent's ball got a bad kick, overran the green and forced her to take the only seven of the round.

The American took three putts on the next green and lost the hole to Mrs. Fraser's birdie four, leaving her two up. The Canadian was going like herself now, and outdrove her opponent on the long fifteenth. Miss Collett got a good spoon shot from the rough, but was short in three, only to have it in par when Mrs. Fraser missed for a birdie from 12 feet. The American managed to halve the short 16th in par by recovering brilliantly from the rough below the tabled green. Mrs. Fraser having dropped splendid iron shot on the carpet 15 feet from the flag.

ORIOLES EVEN UP SERIES WITH LOUISVILLE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 4—(AP)—Baltimore won the fourth game of the junior world series with Louisville today 7 to 5, and tied the American association club with two games won and two lost.

Ogden failed in his attempt to subdue the Colonels but Thomas stepped to the box at the start of the fourth inning and stopped the Louisville sluggers in their tracks.

Three Louisville pitchers toiled against the International leagues, but Tincup was the victim in one big inning which gave the birds five runs.

NUTMEGS SMOTHER CRESCENTS IN 42 TO 0 VICTORY

The Norwich Nutmegs continued their whirlwind sweep through this season's football schedule when they ran rough-shod over the Crescent A. C. for a 42 to 0 whitewash. The Crescents were unable to score a single first down and at no time threatened the Nutmegs. On the other hand the Nutmegs ran wild through their opponent's defense, garnering fifteten first downs for a total distance of 320 yards.

For the Nutmegs, their well executed forward pass attack was their chief ground gainer; completing six out of seven passes attempted. The work of Seymour and Villiano was especially noticeable in this department, the former making two gains of 20 yards each, while the latter made a 40 yards run through a broken field after receiving one of the passes for a touchdown. Capt. F. McGrath and Herberts were on the throwing end of the passes.

For the losers, Ludlow, Williams and Capt. Burdick were the shining lights while for the Nutmegs the work of Vitliano, Grover, Herberts and F. McGrath was outstanding.

First Quarter

The Nutmegs won the toss and chose to receive at the north goal. O'Niel kicked off to Herberts who ran the ball forward twenty yards, to the middle of the field. On the first eight plays the Nutmegs made two first downs, among which was a forward Vitliano to Seymour which netted 20 yards, after which they were held for downs on their opponents 5-yard line. The Crescents after three tries to dent their oppenents line were forced to kick. Burdick punted to Herberts who was downed in his tracks on the Crescents 15 yard line as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

After three plays in this period Vitliano went over for a touchdown making a beautiful 10 yard dash around left end. O'Niel of the Crescents kicked off to Herberts who ran the ball back 15 yards. First C. McGrath ripped off ten thru tackle, Vitliano went around end for eighteen and Herberts hit cented for twelve, bringing the ball to the Crescents 15 yard line. C. McGrath hit center for seven and on the next play Herberts went around end for the Nutmeg's second touchdown as the half ended.

Third Quarter

MacLaren kicked off for the Nutmegs to Hofgnan of the Crescents who ran the ball back 6 yards before being downed by Boldrighiue. The Crescents after four down failed to gain and the ball went back to the Nutmegs. On the first play G. McGrath went around right end for 30 yards and off, this time to Ludlow, who gained a touchdown. MacLaren again kicked five yards before being thrown by Pekowski. On the first play the Crescents tried a forward which was intercepted on their own 30 yard line. Herberts threw a forward to F. McGrath which netted 10 yards. C. McGrath made eight through center and Herberts twelve through guard. On the next play F. McGrath threw a long forward to Seymour for 20 yards bringing the ball to the Crescents five yard line from where MacLaren went over for the Nutmeg's fourth touchdown. Nutmegs kicked off to Crescents who on four downs were unable to gain the necessary yardage, and the ball went to the Nutmegs. F. McGrath threw a pretty forward to Vitliano for 20 yards and on the next play C. McGrath ran 25 yards around left end for a touchdown as the third quarter ended.

Fourth Quarter

Nutmegs kicked off to Crescentts, who were unable to gain after four trys at the line and it was the Nutmegs ball on their opponents 40 yard line. Herberts made nine yards through center, F. McGrath made eleven yards through tackle and on the next play MacLaren went around end for twenty yards and another touchdown. Again the Nutmegs kicked off to the Crescents and they were unable to gain, Vitliano intercepted a forward and ran forty yard's for the Nutmeg's seventh and last touchdown. Herberts kicked off to Williams who ran the ball back fifteen yards. The Crescents were again unable to gain at the Nutmeg's line and it was the latter's ball on their opponent's thirty yard line. As MacLaren went off tackle for eight yards the whistle blew and another shutout victory was chalked up for the Norwich Nutmegs. The lineup:

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4—Pittsburgh won 4 to 2 and lost 4 to 1 in the last games of the season with the Reds today. The champions hit Marvin Goodwin hard in the first game and gathered 14 hits while the Reds also hit Kremer and Morrison hard but failed to take advantage of their opportunities. Pete Donohue held the Pirates well in hand in the second game and but for an error by Schultz would have shut them out. The scores:

SACHEMS AND ST. JOSEPH BATTLE TO 3 TO 3 TIE

Sunday afternoon on the Duwell field the Sachems and St. Josephs played a 3 to 3 tie, in a seven inning game which was halted by rain Jerry Lamphere, pitching for the Sachems; deserved a much better fate, for in the seven innings he did not allow a single hit, and struck out 12 men. The Sachems were handicapped in the first part of the game, only having 5 regular men, but when the men they picked-up got a little practice, the St. Josephs never had a show. Tombari, catcher for the Sachems was in his old line, forme behind the bat, and with the willow he only had one chance and he got a two base hit on that, which would be good for a home run on any other diamond. He also walked two other times as Kozolowski gave him 4 balls each time and tried to the last time, but it didn't work. The score:

NEW LONDON'S CITY COUNCIL HEAD WILL BE DECIDED THIS EVENING

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—The council elected at the September balloting will assemble and organize Monday night. There is but one change in the membership, that being that James A. May succeeds Waldo E. Clarke, who was the presiding officer of the council. Mr. Clarke is a busy man with a variety of interests, including the management of the estate of the late Charles H. Klinck, which has just erected a business block on Bank street. The estate has other property that needs the attention of the manager of it. Mr. Clarke is also employed at the state pier and there he has business affairs that will claim his attention closely. So he is, no doubt, retiring with a feeling that he is laying down duties that should devolve upon others. Mr. Clarke has interested himself in city affairs with the energy of youth and with a determination to make good. He has some modern ideas that he will introduce in the management of city affairs as opportunity presents itself. The council is to elect a presiding officer, who, under the new form of government, has come to be called "Mayor" though he is not the choice of the people, but of three men beside himself. That so-called mayor is the presiding officer of the council meetings. Of the present membership of the council four of the seven have already had the honor of the Mayor designation, Malcolm M. Scott, John F. Murray, Waldo E. Clarke and Lucius E. Whiton. William C. Fox, who has not been thus honored, has been in the council since it was formed, and he is now conceded to be the heir to the place. His ability is recognized, but he has not been of the element in the council in the council in the past that would elevate him. Mr. Fox has his ideas and the courage to state them, some has been kept back. He was not wanted at the head of the city government as "mayor." He can now have it if he will say the word. Whether he will consent to accept the office remains to be seen. He has not said he will accept it, nor has he said he will decline it. That he has cast the matter over his mind is reasonable to believe. The remaining members of the council who are eligible to the position are Messrs. Woodruff, Streeter and May. The council of 1924-25 will close up its business on meeting at 7:30 Monday evening, and then the new member will be sworn in and the council of 1925-26 will organize. It will have the zoning law to tackle as soon as it gets started, and that is some problem for a contemplates the restriction of sections of the city within which no industrial or business places shall be established or operated. The extension of Green and Washington streets is also likely to come up for consideration during the ensuing year, that traffic may be relieved on State and Bank streets. The extension of North Bank street to Main street is also to come up for decision, as is the widening of Bank street by taking a portion of the sidewalks on either side of the highway. This latter undertaking will be the most expensive the city has ever tackled to get a wider roadway for vehicles on Bank street. There are those who hold that it will never be attempted, while others claim such a task is one that should be carried out. So the coming year is likely to be one of "big things" for the city council. The organization of that body is a matter of importance to the people, as well as to the members of the council itself.

Madrick Roberts, 52, residing at 88 Tenth street, was taken into custody Saturday night by Patrolmen Edward Daniels and Ernest Opperman, charged with breach of the peace and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Roberts went to his home about 9:45 o'clock and created such a disturbance by his conduct toward his wife that the latter sought the arrest of her husband.

Patrolman George McCaskey, who was suspended a week ago for violation of police rules and regulations which he refused to take an order from Acting Desk Sergeant William Babcock and then used threatening language to his superior officer, returned to duty Saturday night and was assigned to patrol with the 11 o'clock shift.

Willia mRobare, proprietor of a service station, 510 Bank street, complained to the police Saturday evening that the driver of a car bearing registration, 155-361, Tampa, Fla., purchased a battery earlier in the day and when Robare's attention was called away the driver operated the car away without paying for the purchase.

The police are determined to clean up the Fishers Island Navigation company's pier of the gang of drunks who make a loitering place of the pier Saturday and Sunday, every week. As a result of the efforts of the police three of the gang were taken into custody Saturday afternoon and this afternoon, Saturday two of the drunks were boisterous about the wharf and near the office of the special agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. Captain John Kelley, of the special agents, started to arrest the drunks, but they put up a fight. Patrolmen Edward Riordan and Frank Philopena went to the assistance of Capt. Kelley and the pair of drunks was quickly landed in a cell. This afternoon Patrolman Braxton Hill found Michael Cahill about the wharf and much the worse for too much drink, with the result that Cahill was locked up. The drunks are employed from time to time as laborers at Fishers Island, but make a practice of coming to New London Saturdays and after getting drunk, loiter about the pier.

An automobile owned and driven by Rosario Locascio, 520 Thames street, Groton, in passing through Main street, near Douglass street, Saturday evening, struck John Sullivan, 28 Winthrop street. Sullivan was hurled to the pavements, sustaining lacerations of the face and head. He was taken to the Lena hospital, where the injuries were dressed, after which Sullivan was taken to his abode.

Walter Pasqualini, in a Davis touring car drove up State street, and disregarded the signals of Traffic Officer Sheehan, directing traffic at State and Main streets. Pasqualini was in a line of traffic and sped along as if he was on an unobstructed road. He was ordered into court and appeared Saturday where he was fined, but the execution of judgment was suspended. He said he didn't see the officer, but that was not accepted as a correct statement.

Two drunks were in court. They deserved some sympathy as one of them has four children and the other had not taken a drink in two years.

George Bates and his wife, Effie, both colored, and residing at 25 Douglass street and both with a long police court record, were arrested again Saturday evening, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. Bates was locked up to await presentation in the police court Monday morning, but his wife was liberated when Edward Jones qualified on her bond of $200 for the woman's appearance in court. Bates and his wife were taken into custody by Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Officer Clyde Murphy when Andrew Smith appeared at the police station and complained that the Bates woman held him in her home while her husband administered a beating to the complainant. When taken into custody Bates had a half pint of hooch in his possession.

The police were notified nearly a fortnight ago that a man employed in a Bank street store had disappeared. His wife made the complaint and asked the police to aid in locating him. Publicity was given to the information, but since then no tidings have been received that would locate the absent one. Now it turns out that a female clerk in a State street store is also among those who were present and who is are not now here. It is said that the missing pair were friendly, very friendly. The woman has been married, but it is said she has been divorced. The missing pair are reported to have gone to the south where they will join fortunes for better or worse.

There are more vacant stores on Bank street at present than in years. The number of the tenements is on the increase throughout the city, also.

Charles Vose began a vacation of ten days this morning, and will spend it in Boston and vicinity.

Complaint came to the police last evening that there were immoral practices indulged in on a houseboat in Shaw's cove, but an investigation did not disclose that the complaint was well founded. The woman who made the charge was decided to be a person who could not be relied upon.

Boys annoyed Nicholas Haddad of Main street, Saturday night, to the extent that he lost patience with them and shook one of the youngsters whom he pursued and caught. This brought the matter to the fore to the police station where some good advice was given all concerned in the matter.

James R. Maxton, division chief of the Internal Revenue department Saturday communicated with the local police in further reference to the operations about the state of two men, who represented themselves as being revenue agents and collected various sums of money from members of concerns they visited. Friday William H. Farrell connected with the revenue department at Hartford notified the police that the two fraudulent operations had been apprehended.

An automobile owned by Michael Schwartz, Peary street, and a machine owned and driven by Ralph H. Smith, a sailor stationed at the submarine base, were in collision Saturday afternoon on Bank street. Both cars were damaged.

Felix Mandler of 15 Briggs street, Eyner Jolmes, Chief Petty Officer of the Coast Guard patrol boat, CG 241 Bateman Hinckley, United States Coast Guard academy; Mrs. Alberta Galbraith, Wakefield, R. I.; Miss Helen Mullen, 26 Newton avenue, Westerly; Master John Cini, Mystic; Mrs. Harry Smith, Broad street, Groton; Mrs. Peter Peterson and infant daughter, 18 Cutler street, Groton; Miss Ella Loch Ingolden, Ogo Nanatic and Edward and Doris Bouthillier of Poquonoc Bridge, patients at Lawrence Memorial association hospital, were dismissed Saturday.

Frederick Kushman, a sailor, stationed at the local section base at the state pier, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that his locker in the Haddad tailoring establishment, Main street, had been forced open and that articles of apparel had been stolen.

A bakery on Main street, had a large quantity of pies and cake taken to the public landing this afternoon for delivery aboard U. S. S. Camden, but because of the absence of the steamer from port and the bad weather, the police caused the pastry to be taken away by the bakery late this afternoon.

It is predicted by circulators of the petition to cause a special election to take place that the voters can decide whether the City's affairs shall be continued under the present form of government or whether the former municipal form of charter shall guide the destinies of the city will be handed to City Clerk Julian D. Moran during the next week or ten days. The circulators assert that the necessary number of signatures has been obtained and that the only procedure necessary prior to the submission of the petition being made to the council is the final checking of the names to determine their legality as voters. This, it is claimed, will be done during the present week.

When the police court convenes on Monday morning Judge Victor Prince will have at least 15 cases to claim his attention for tonight there was that number of men and women booked for court appearance on various charges. The last one to fall into the clutches of the law was N. F. Victor Hagstrom, 34 Grove avenue, Larchmont, N. Y., who was taken into custody tonight by Traffic Officer George Perkins charged with reckless driving and operating an automobile without a certificate of registration. Hagstrom was driving his car on Bank street and at the corner of Howard street he nearly ran down Officer Perkins, the officer being compelled to jump from in front of the automobile to avoid being struck. Hagstrom was unable to furnish a bond for his court appearance, so his machine was stored in a garage as surety for Hagstrom being in court when his case is called.

Broadway Theatre

The Broadway theatre is celebrating a monster jubilee program the first half of this week, with an exceptional program of B. F. Keith vaudeville and a very good photoplay with a real star cast.

The extraordinary feature is Dixie Mason of musical comedy fame and her Hearts and Spades. Six people are in this de luxe attraction, which is rightly called "A Winning Hand in Song and Dance."

Ed Hill, the well known cartoonist, offers something new and novel on the stage, first time ever in Norwich.

Hugh Wilson and Charlotte Dobson in "Two and One" has a comedy offering that is a decided departure from the rest.

Hal Holly and Ada Lee who made such a decided hit here four seasons ago, are back now stronger than ever in "The New Floor Walker."

Featured in this picture of modern life is the beautiful Claire Windsor and Eugene O'Brien. The former never looked better than she did in this, her latest, screen appearance, and the gorgeous array of clothes worn by her must have cost a fortune.

YANTIC MAN IN FIGHT WITH TWO NEW LONDONERS

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—A three-cornered fight occurred on North Bank street late Saturday afternoon when Irving Larkin, 36, a chauffeur residing at 12 Union street; Edward Regean Jr., a shoemaker, and Robert Sword, 23, a laborer residing at Yantic, engaged in a free-for-all combat. The battle was waged several minutes when Patrolman Frank Philopena and Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy appeared and put an end to the fight by taking the three into custody. On the way to the police station Larkin, who is well known to the police, requested permission to walk to the police station unaccompanied and the request was granted. While Officer Murphy had charge of Sword and Patrolman Philopena led Reagan, Larkin suddenly ran through North Bank street and through John street, in an effort to make his escape. Officer Murphy turned his prisoner over to a civilian and put chase after Larkin, overtaking the fleeing prisoner on Main street. All three prisoners had been drinking and after leaving a resort in the former tenderloin district they started the fight which resulted in the arrest of the gang. All showed unmistakable signs of having been engaged in combat, for Larkin, Sword and Reagen were besmeared with blood.

NAVY MAY TURN OVER S-51 RAISING TO LOCAL WRECKERS

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—It is among the probabilities that the Chapman-Merritt-Scott company may be called upon to raise the sunken submarine S-51 at Block Island. The navy department is understood to have given up the task. Both the Chapman-Merritt company and the Scott company, when they were separate organizations did some remarkably good work in the salvaging of wrecked vessels and such work was regarded as of the sort that could not be accomplished. Yet it was completed and the vessels hauled to safety were and are put into use again. The rescue of the steamer City of Boston of the Norwich line from Bartlett's reef was a task that won for the Scott company the applause of success as wreckers. But that company did other jobs that were equally commendable, and until the outbreak of the world war and the abolition of much of the work that was done by coastwise vessels, that company was very busy. The record of the Chapman-Merritt company was equally commendable.

It is held that of late years the wrecking companies have been largely put out of business by the radio and the coast guard vessels, which give alarm of disasters.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

An intimate picture of life behind the scenes in romantic old Vienna is given in Her Sister From Paris, Constance Talmadge's new starring picture, produced by Joseph M. Schenck for First National, now showing at the Breed.

Constance plays two distinctively different roles, one a lively but timid young housewife and the other a brazen, boisterous Parisian dancer. The two characters are twin sisters.

The story is laid in romantic Vienna, and has to do with a wife who thinks her husband doesn't love her because he consists daily fails to demonstrate his affection. So she leaves him and assumes the character of her stage-dancer sister.

In this disguise she charms him so completely that he even elopes with her, but awakens from his fascination in time to realize that he loves, after all, none but his own wife.

As the story unfolds, entrancing glimpses are shown of life in the homes of Vienna, and behind the scenes of the theaters. The concluding sequence takes place in a lonely old tavern in the forest, relic of the merriest days of old Viennese gaiety.

Constance is supported by a noteworthy cast headed by Ronald Colman, George K. Arthur and Gertrude Claire. Sidney Franklin, who has directed some of her greatest successes, directed this new starring vehicle.

The story is an original by Hans Kraly.

French Novels to Cost More

PARIS, Oct. 4 (AP)—By a decision of the French Publishers' Union the popular price for novels has been fixed at nine francs. The pre-war price was three to three and one-half francs which in recent years had been increased to seven and one-half francs.

The new price was fixed to meet the increased cost of materials and productions. Authors will benefit by the new figure, which will be used as the basis for their percentage.

KANSAS WASTE LANDS NOW DIVERSIFIED WIT'I CROPS

DODGE CITY, Kan., Oct. 4 (AP)—A waste of sand hills and rain-washed gulleys, covered with tumble weeds scrub brush and buffalo grass—such is he picture oft-drawn of western Kansas, that section of the Sunflower state that lies west of the 100th meridian.

But how different is the western Kansas of today. True, there may still be found abode houses here and there; the fast-fading tracks made by the ox-drawn wagons of the pioneers pushing westward over the San.i Fe trail may still be discerned at several places; the jack rabbit rushes like the wind over the prairie; the grasshopper nibbles at vegetation; there are the great open, rolling prairies the stark sand hills and the dry, sandy washes that over night may run deep with flood water from a sudden cloudburst.

Over all this western country, however, has come a gradual change as the cold steel of the plow share, pushing ever westward, has turned under the buffalo sod and fitted the soil for diversified agriculture. Last year the 24 counties comprising this domain west of the meridian produced field crops and livestock products worth more than $56,000,000, or $350 per capita. The land yielded 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, worth nearly $28,000,000, a greater yield than in any one of 35 states.

Lead Now Being Tempered

Lead is now being tempered and hardened by a new process worked out by scientists of the Western Electric company. It is done chiefly by a special heating process and the addition of a very small amount of alloy. The experiments have been highly successful and have achieved what scientists have been working toward for centuries.

Synthetic Alcohol as Fuel

Wood alcohol, made synthetically from water gas by a German formula, may take the place of gasoline as motor fuel, according to John Collins, who has written about the new product in a magazine. This synthetic wood alcohol is not poisonous, and it will be relatively cheap.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(A. P.)—Marked expansion in the volume of stock trading reminiscent of last year's post-election boom, a resumption of the upward movement in the bond market and the development of a reactionary trend in the principal foreign exchanges were the outstanding features of this week's financial markets.

Speculative enthusiasm ran high in the stock market following retention of the local federal reserve bank rate at 3 1-2 per cent, reflecting a general feeling of relief in the financial district at the prospect of no immediate change. Sustained strength of the motor shares, which seemed invulnerable to attacks of profit taking and bear selling, distinguished trading. General Motors, Hudson and Chrysler which had been speculative favorites yielded their leadership late in the week to Dodge.

Many other standard industrial shares participated in the upward movement under the leadership of U. S. Steel, but that week was noteworthy mainly for the broadening of buying interest. Daily transactions twice exceeded two million shares, bringing the total number of two million share days so far this year to fifteen.

Although the failure to reach a definite settlement of the French debt was disregarded in the stock market, it caused a sharp reaction in French bonds and francs. Sterling exchange also sagged to the lowest level since Great Britain's return to the gold standard following the lowering of the London bank rate.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Kean of South Second avenue have returned to their home in town after spending the past week motoring to New York and to Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears of Providence street have returned from a stay of several days in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crowe and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew White of South A street, have returned from a motor trip to Canada.

George W. Meyer and Miss Flossie Meyer of Lisbon, William C. Kendall of Norwich and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burdick of New Bedford, left Saturday afternoon for a motor trip to Niagara Falls and Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Burdick have been guests for a short time last week of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Meyer of Lisbon.

The mission being conducted by Father Norton and Father McLaughlin of the Congregation of the Holy Ghost fathers of Philadelphia at the Sacred Heart church came to an end Sunday evening. At this service the members of the congregation renewed their baptismal vows. The generous offering goes to further the missionary interests of the Holy Ghost fathers, especially in Nigeria where the order supports schools in which 100,000 pupils are enrolled. These schools are taught by the monks themselves and by an order of teaching nuns, and they are under the direct supervision of the superior general of the order with headquarters in Paris, France. Throughout the mission there has been a large attendance at the church, both at the masses read each morning, and at the evening services. These services consisted of the recitation of the rosary, a short instruction by one of the mission fathers, a sermon and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Miss Mathilde Stanfer has returned to her apartment in the Ponemah house after spending the past four months in Switzerland and European travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Poloquin and children have moved from Lorenzo street to a house on Norwich avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George G. Grant of Providence street are on a motor trip to Canada.

The Ocowasin camp fire group, in charge of the guardian, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, held a weenie roast at Scout's nest on Occum road Friday evening.

In anticipation of the coming World's series most of the local radio fans are overhauling their sets and getting them into condition.

Although the rain Saturday had a great deal to do with spoiling the weekend, most everyone found it welcome. Brooks, rivers and reservoirs were all below their normal level, and the storm did a great deal toward increasing their supply of water. Leaves, which have already begun to turn color, were brought down in large quantities during the rain, and automobile traffic had to proceed with care on Postoffice hill and Providence street throughout the day.

PHILATHEA CLASS WILL SERVE BROTHERHOOD SUPPER

On Friday evening the Philathea class of the United church met at the home of Miss Martha Reynolds with Miss Reynolds and Mrs. Warren W Church as hostesses.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. May Young, and much business was transacted. It was decided to take charge of the next Brotherhood supper and Mrs. Alfred B. Bliven was appointed chairman of the committee.

After the business meeting adjourned, a social time was spent, refreshments of fruit salad, sandwiches, coffee, salted nuts and peppermint patties being served by the hostess.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER WILL ATTEND CENTRAL VILLAGE HEARING

The public hearing on the proposed relocation of the Norwich-Danielson trunk highway to be held at Central Village Wednesday afternoon has every appearance of being well attended. The following letter has been received by Herbert R. Branche, executive secretary of Norwich council, No. 309 U. C. T., from State Highway Commissioner J. A. Macdonald:

Mr. H. R. Branche,
Norwich Conn.

Dear Sir:

Referring to your letter of September 19th, I will be at the town hall in Central Village, Town of Plainfield, on October 7th at 2.30 p. m., as per your letter.

Yours Truly,
John A. Macdonald,
State Highway Commissioner.

Since the civic organizations of Eastern Connecticut have passed resolutions in support of the re-location plan, the Connecticut Co. has petitioned the public utilities commission for permission to abandon all its trolley lines between Norwich and Putnam and operate buses in their place. Hearings have been held in Putnam and Norwich by the commissioners and the sentiment was unanimous in favor of buses instead of the trolleys. It will be about six weeks before this change can be brought about. A fleet of some 20 buses, it is estimated, will be necessary to meet the requirements of the traveling public. A regular hourly schedule will, it is expected, be necessary to care for traffic between Norwich and Putnam.

More than ever will this call for safe guarding of motorists say those who are advocating the re-location plan. There are already some seven different interstate bus lines operating over this trunk road to say nothing about down the line. Just where the breaking point will be under present conditions is hard to forecast.

With regard to the traffic problem the New York Times of Sunday said editorially, as was pointed out by an advocate of the new location for the road:

Competition between the railroad and the motor truck presents a problem that is not disposed of by saying that on short hauls truck operation is profitable at the expense of the railroad, but that the latter on long hauls takes practically all the business. The short haul by motor vehicles is beckoning longer. No one can set bounds to it. So rapidly is truck transportation growing that Elihu Church, engineer of the Port of New York Authority, does not hesitate to say:

I expect that motor-truck trunk lines will be built between cities, with banked curves and grade crossings eliminated, with grades cut down as they are on railroads, so that gears will not be shifted so often. It will be done within 10 years, and then over these specially constructed roads we shall see fast tractors hauling long lines of trailers. * * * When the trunk line comes to a city it will go round it, and if the city is large enough to justify it there will be a belt around it, and the trailers will be dropped off and handled by a small tractor.

Such trunk-line roads for motor traffic will cost a great deal of money.

William F. Williams, Massachusetts commissioner of public works, adds to it the statement, as he did at a recent Port Authority meeting, that most of the wool now coming into Boston from Lawrence and Lowell is shipped by motor trucks and that they carry nearly every bale of cotton sent from Boston to New Bedford. These are not the short hauls usually spoken of. Long haul or short haul, it is significant that the railroads are organizing to meet the competition of freight trucks and passenger buses. One method proposed is to use motor trains with a few cars for short hauls, which can be operated at lower cost. Another is the acquisition of motor vehicles to compete with the independents on the highways. The Pennsylvania is planning a "door-to-door delivery" to serve 500 stations. The New York Central in January was running 400 motor trucks in 69 different operations between New York and Chicago.

Comparative costs of the two services Victor W. Knauth deals with in the October World's Work. "Truck transportation is increasing," he says, to the direct loss of the steam lines, yet the easy assumption of truck superiority is not so simple as it seems." He declares that in wages, fuel and "in all the other costs of turning the wheels" the freight train has the advantage of the motor truck. According to a report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the average freight train carried last year 450 tons with a crew of six men, whereas the average motor truck on runs of more than 30 miles carried five tons and two men. "Railroads and trucking concerns," says Mr Knauth "pay practically similar wages, but the steam railroad gets 30 times as great a return for the money so spent."

So far the case looks bleak for motor-vehicle transportation, concludes the editorial, but the pendulum swings, the other way when other expenses of operation are compared and when the truck's facilities for handling its load are considered. It is handled only twice, and quickly from door to door. There are unavoidable delays in reshipment on railroads and in the sorting of cars at switching points. Goods must be taken to the railroad and moved again at destination. The railroad company is heavily taxed and expenses of maintenance are great, while the motor truck travels on highways built and kept up by State and town. In many cases the truck pays a comparatively light charge for using these roads. There is a tendency, however, to raise the tax. Ohio levies $200 a year on the larger trucks. Some states have a sliding scale of fees based on tonmiles. The trucks pay only to the state, as a rule, and the damage they do the highways is often out of proportion. Moreover, a part of the tax the railroads pay is used to build and maintain highways on which trucks run. In the summing up, which is so difficult to calculate that it is left at loose ends by writers on the subject, they seem to agree that the motor vehicles more than hold their own on short hauls, but are threatened with extra taxation that may cancel their advantage.

The traffic problem also comes in for considerable attention in The Highway Builder. Under the caption Highway Cutoff Costs this magazine says:

"Five years ago the highway commissioner of Connecticut addressing a convention of road builders, asserted that the elemination of 'bottle-necks' in main roads was an imminent problem whose solution would soon call for large expenditurgs. The statement failed to register strongly for then, as is the case yet in many states, official concern was directed chiefly to the problem of obtaining mileage of improved road rather than to problems of speeding traffic on main routes of travel. Conditions have altered greatly in half a decade. Today highway engineers in all sections where traffic is accumulating are making and planning large expenditures to do away with constrictions in highways. A typical example is furnished by the building in New Jersey of the cut-off in the seashore road, at Morgan: Here a 'bottle-neck' formed by sharp curves, a steep hill and a railway crossing has been eliminated by a new 'cut-off,' just over a half mile long. Traffic capacity has been increased over 25 per cent. It is an expensive half-mile of road building and so must be all of scores of similar improvements required in every state where highway development is great. This is a lesson which road officials must find means to teach the public."

SOLEMNITY OF ROSARY NOTED AT ST. PATRICK'S

Those portions of the Bible relating to the earthly life of the Saviour as associated with His mother, the Blessed Virgin Mary, summed up in the devotion popularly called "The Rosary" were recalled at St. Patrick's church Sunday, the day set apart as Rosary Sunday. The devotion is divided into three parts, each of five decades, designated as joyful, sorrowful and glorious mysteries. Meditating on the joyful mysteries, the person praying considers the announciation, the visitation of Mary to St. Elizabeth, the nativity of our Lord, His presentation in the temple and the naming of the Child Jesus. The five sorrowful mysteries deal with the Saviour's condemnation to death, scourging at the pillar, crowning with thorns, nailing to the cross and death. In the five glorious mysteries there is meditation on the resurrection, the ascension, the descent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles ,the assumption of the Blessed Virgin and her crowning as queen of Heaven. After the recitation of the creed there is the repetition of the Lord's prayer, then ten times the salutation of the Angel Gabriel, beginning "Hail Mary, full of grace" (Luke I. 26-38) and the prayer which the church has added, "Holy Mary, mother of God, pray for us sinners —now, and at the hour of our death. Amen."

Preaching at the 7.30 mass Sunday morning, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, traced the origin of the Rosary to that ern when St. Dominic put into form the prayers which Christians had always been accustomed to repeat in commemoration of the Mother of Christ counting such prayers that they might be said with regularity. Early piety had devised the beads as a system of regulating or counting these prayers. Those who in ignorance of its origin or meaning, refer to the Rosary as superstitious, idle repetition, forget that the prayers being said during the meditation on the events in the life of Christ are, first of all the Lord's prayer, which He Himself taught; "thus, therefore, shall ye pray," while the second portion is the salutation which fell from the lips of the angel sent from God to notify the woman chosen from among all the women of Israel of the honor which was to be conferred upon her in being thought worthy to bear the long-desired Messiah. The efficacy of these prayers from the very first, in their influence upon the heretical Albigences was referred to by the preacher.

So numerous had been the confessions in this parish Saturday that scores of men, women and elder children went to the altar to receive communion from Monsignor May and Rev. John J. Reilly, who assisted him. The communicants included members of the Rosary Society, Children of Mary and Immaculate Conception Sodality. It was the 18th Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle of all the masses being 4. Corinthians, I. 4-3 and the gospel Matthew 9. 1-8.

Following vespers Sunday afternoon, there was the annual reception of the new members into the Rosary society.

The more than 200 members in the procession were led by 15 little girls in white, representing the decades of the Rosary. The children had different colored hair bows to indicate which mystery they represented, the colors being red,white and gold. They had been beautifully trained by their instructors, the Sisters of Mercy.

At the exercises in the church Rev. Myles P. Galvin led in the recitation of the Rosary prayers, also gave Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The 16 new members joining the society were received by Monsignor May, who delivered a sermon on the Rosary. Members of the society, of which Miss Annie J. Stanton is president, joined the others in the church in congregational singing of the "Hymn to the Blessed Virgin." Mrs. Thomas J. Mealey was at the organ.

FOUND GOOD FISH IN FAIRVIEW RESERVOIR

The work of cleaning the reservoir bed at Fairview reservoir of fish has been completed by the Connecticut board of Fisheries and game commission. The crew, working at the reservoir through permission of the board of water commissioners and Superintendent William H. Callahan of the water department, completed their catch Saturday afternoon. Eben Cobb was in direct charge of the crew.

The reservoir was 87 inches down, making conditions there ideal for taking out fish. Last year when the crew was at work the reservoir was too high for good fishing. Officials stated that the crew procured from the reservoir some of the finest small mouth black bass of anywhere in the state.

One of the bass measured 21 inches and weighed close to six pounds. Others weighed three pounds, while the perch, pickerel and bull heads were all of good size. The crew secured some 400 fish which were distributed in various ponds and lakes in this vicinity. The fish were caught in trap nets.

LEDYARD CEMETERY ASSCN. ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

The following officers were elected Saturday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Ledyard Cemetery association: President, W. I. Allyn; vice-president, Charles B. Allyn; secretary, Mrs. Charles B. Allyn; treasurer, James A. Stoddard; directors, Herbert W. Gallup; Amos G. Gallup and James A. Stoddard. The meeting was held at the Ledyard Center church house.

STORRS LAYING CONTEST IS NEARING ITS END

The Storrs laying contest will close on October 23rd, a week earlier than in former years. In discussing this matter, Professor Wm. F. Kirkpatrick who supervises the Storrs contest, explained that there had been a meeting in Manhattan, Kansas, of contest managers from Washington, Utah, Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri, Michigan, Alabama, New Jersey and Connecticut. At this meeting it was unanimously agreed that contests could be better conducted if they were run for only fifty-one weeks instead of a full year. There is such a small percentage of the year's total eggs laid during the last week in October that this gain is amply offset by the extra time allowed the management for cleaning and renovating the houses, and putting the plant generally in ship shape. Furthermore, the incoming pullets that are, of course, strange and in consequence a little timid can be handled in better fashion when the coops can be prepared beforehand. A week's leeway between the termination of one contest and the beginning of another also enables the management to largely eliminate the confusion incident to having on the plant at the same time two entirely different sets of birds with 1400 in each group. This plan will be generally adopted next year by practically every American laying contest. Meanwhile, however, the scheme seemed so admirable that the college at Storrs, with the consent of the contestants, concluded to make it immediately effective.

The total eggs laid in the forty-eighth week of the contest was 3,166 or a yield of over thirty-two per cent. The four high pens for the week were equally divided between Barred Rocks and White Leghorns, the Barred Rocks taking the first two places. R. W. Davis & Sons' pen of Rocks from Rockland, Me., laid 47 eggs for the week and Merritt M. Clark's pen of Rocks made second place with a lay of 45 eggs. J. followed closely with 44 eggs and C. Patton's pen of White Leghorns Hanson's Leghorn Farm from Corvallis, Oregon, was fourth with 43 eggs.

NORWICH WOMEN PREPARING FOR MISSIONARY MEETING

Great preparations have been made for the meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Union of Connecticut to be held in Park church on Thursday of this week.

The members of the local committee are:

General chairman, Mrs. Allen Latham; church arrangement, Miss A. N. Trumbull; information, Mrs. A. N. Haughn; music, Mrs. George L. Ingalls; entertainment, Mrs. O. L. Johnson; luncheon, Mrs. H. R. Branche, Mrs. Edward J. Graham; publicity, Miss Alice W. Cogswell, Mrs. Frank Hempstead; transportation, Miss Edith M. Bliss.

In addition to the noted speakers on the program, a play entitled "Help for Miss Liberty" will be given by the women of the United church.

The occasion will be a noteworthy one for the women of eastern Connecticut.

UNIVERSALIST LAYMEN TO MEET IN SYRACUSE

Universalist laymen from thirty-two states and Canada will attend the biennial convention of the Universalist church which meets at Syracuse, New York, from October 17 to 25. The record laymen attendance which is expected this year is due to the formation of the National Laymen's committee, organized last fall by Judge Robert W. Hill, of Salem, Mass. While this committee was primarily formed for the purpose of raising two one-million-dollar funds, one for denominational work, the other for welfare work regardless of race or creed, the National Laymen's committee of the Universalist church has grown to such proportions as to justify something more than a temporary organization.

It is expected that action will be taken at the National convention to make the National Laymen's committee a permanent organization.

Talented Skaters Appeared

Norwich citizens were given a rare treat at the Palace this week by the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Frick, considered the world's finest skaters.

High prices are usually charged at the Boston arena and elsewhere to see them in their figure work and interpretive dancing on skates.

Mr. Frick is instructor during the winter at the Brookline Country and Cambridge skating clubs where he prepares pupils for membership in the International figure skating association where Master George C. Butts, Jr., of this city was a pupil during the last three years.

Given Surprise Shower

A miscellaneous surprise shower was held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Everett Peckham of 6 Phillips avenue in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Elizabeth Peckham.

Those present were Girl Scouts, Laurel Hill Troop, No. 1 of which Miss Peckham is captain also guests from Willimantic, Mansfield, Norwich Town.

The evening was enjoyably spent by music and singing after which refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Donald Crane, Miss Mary Walz and Miss Mabel Hagberg.

The features of the evening were saxophone selections by Miss Ruth Parker.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation —send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

PASTOR PREACHES ON THE CLUTCH OF DOGMA

At the Sunday morning service at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, the pastor, Rev. A. N. Foster, preached from the text Matt. 13 46: Who when he had found one pearl of great price went and sold all that he had and bought it. In his sermon upon the theme the pearl of great price and the clutch of dogma he said in part:

The mind and heart of Jesus are so filled with interest and enthusiasm for the ideal, the Kingdom of God, that he finds illustrations at every turn. Even the merchant whose common motive and daily habits train him to seek money profit, is made to exemplify certain traits of the kingdom. The mind accustomed to estimating values sees in the ideal of the kingdom something of such supreme worth to the individual and to society as to justify the judgment in sacrificing all else for sake of its attainment. The preaching of this gospel made a marked impression on the people of his day, affecting the merchants, the scholars, the fishermen and all classes. And yet his ministry was overwhelmed by the betrayal of Gethsemane and the tragedy of Calvary. The years of later Christian history show unnumbered thousands of would be disciples willing to sacrifice their all if only the vision of Jesus could be realized. We are prone to characterize our day as commercial in its motives and worldly in its ambition and yet we are not without the message of the prophet; not without the testimony of the men of vision who would sanctify the ideals of the kingdom of righteousness. Men, of whom President Faunce of Brown university is a type, are ever showing the need and opportunity of adjustment of our educational, social and political systems to the very principles whose teaching Jesus held to be so precious. And such leaders command a response on the part of men accustomed to the commercial appeal of the world. Now and then we find a man who has been successful in making money and who is interested in the larger and more difficult problem of spending money wisely. Such men realize that if with all their getting they have failed of wisdom and have ignored the human soul they have, after all, missed the best part of life.

When the simple and beautiful gospel of Jesus—not the doctrinal theology about Christ—is presented to their thought they recognize it as the pearl of great price and would gladly give of their all for sake of its realization.

What then has hindered the realization of the ideal of persuasive beauty and such persistent power?

In answer it must be said that wickedness and sin are commonly entrenched behind custom and tradition, and that habit is a most effective barrier to reform. Furthermore the church itself is not free to obey the simple gospel of Jesus because so many creeds and doctrines have been interposed between the Master and the would be disciple. Men, 500 or 1,000 years ago, believed that the world was flat; they had scant knowledge of the larger relationships and they postulated human depravity as a prelude to history. They believed in a final dramatic judgement day and the inherent wickedness of the human soul and the resurrection of the body. Believing such, it was natural for them to say so before the altar of religion. We do not thus believe and yet we insist on saying in sacred places that we do believe the things which we don't believe. Such custom engenders insincerity and insincerity breeds hypocrisy.

In his most interesting recent autobiography, Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon, for 40 years distinguished minister of the historic "Old South" at Boston, marks the contrast between the Congregationalists who were discussing the objections to the Westminister Confession forty years ago and the Presbyterians who are vigorously discussing those self same objections today. It is pertinent to add that pretty much the same objections adhere to the Apostles Creed and it is a bit difficult to see how a person professing the same Apostles Creed may yet claim to be "liberal." So many times the injection of these archaic and bickering doctrinal distinctions have amazed and bewildered the practical man who was ready to sacrifice of his all for the pearl of great price of the gospel of Jesus.

SIX FROM THIS COUNTY APPEAL FOR PARDONS

The division of those who have been sentenced to life imprisonment is New Haven, 13; Hartford and New London four each; Fairfield, three; Litchfield and Tolland one each.

The appeals from New London county are the following: Joseph Toscano, New London, life, second degree murder, 12th appeal.

When the case against Louis A. Paquette of 64 Merchants avenue, Taftville, came up in the city court Saturday morning it was continued until October 6. Paquette was arrested Friday night on the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. The machine he was operating ran into the rear of that owned and driven by Joseph Steina of 147 Sachem street when the two cars were on North Main street near the car barn.

The polls will be open today in all six districts from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the town election.

MOTOR VEHICLE DEPARTMENT LOCATES STAMFORD OFFICE

Decision to establish a fifth branch of the state motor vehicle department at Stamford, has been made by Commissioner Stoeckel, following approval of the plan by State Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon. A location has already been made so that the Stamford office may be ready to participate in the distribution of 1926 registrations. The other branch offices of the department are at New Haven and Bridgeport, both of which were established in 1917 soon after the department itself was set off from the secretary of state's office, and New London and Waterbury which opened in 1925.

It is estimated that the new Stamford office, serving a population area of about 125,000, including Stamford, Norwalk, New Canaan, Darien and Greenwich, and a part of Danbury, Ridgefield and Redding will issue about 20,000 registration certificates for 1926, or approximately one-tenth of the number of motor vehicles expected to be registered in the entire state.

Many prominent people of Stamford and vicinity, including Senator Matthew H. Kenealy and ex-Representative Daniel F. B. Hickey of Stamford, have urged upon the motor vehicle department the desirability of locating a branch office there for the convenience of car owners in that vicinity.

Next to the Hartford office, the Bridgeport branch has had the largest receipts, followed by New Haven, Waterbury and New London in the order given. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924, the receipts at Hartford reached $3,209,869; Bridgeport $676,743, New Haven $629,017, Waterbury $314,589 and New London $228,688.

This announcement would apparently dispose of the probability of having a branch office located in Norwich, for which Norwich interests asked early this season, but were told there was no money available to locate one in Norwich, and that this city had been deficient in the political influence that would secure the location.

GAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MRS. J. M. ANDREWS

FALL FROM SECOND STORY RESULTED IN DEATH

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 4.—(A. P.)—James White, negro, 77, of 56 Gregory street, fell from the second story of his home tonight shortly after 7 o'clock, sustained a fracture of the skull and died at St. Vincent's hospital an hour and a half later. It is thought by the police that the aged man may have committed suicide, as he was alone in the house at the time and it is improbable that he could have fallen from the porch or rear window over a number of boards to the paved walk in the yard.

BURGLARY IN OFFICE BUILDING IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 4.—(A. P.)—The offices of I. L. Stiles and Sons, brick manufacturers, and the Pictorial Review in the office building at 207 Orange street, were entered sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning. A small amount of money was taken from the Pictorial Review office, but after spending some time in opening the safe in the Stiles office, it is believed that the intruders met disappointment when they found nothing but checks.

PROGRESS BY GERMANY AND ALLIES ON SECURITY PACT

Encouraging Start Made at Conference at Locarno, Switzerland—Germans and the Allies at the Opening Session Agreed to a Considerable Number of Articles of the Draft Pact Designed to Ensure the Permanent Peace of Europe.

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—(AP—Europe today made what looks like an encouraging start on political reconstruction based on burial of the past and of all hatreds engendered by the great war and a determination to build anew on a footing of absolute equality and right.

For the first time since the war Germany sat at the council table free and untrammeled. With amazing speed the Germans and the allies at the opening of the security conference agreed to a considerable number of the articles of the draft pact, which is designed to insure the permanent peace of Europe by the arbitration of disputes arising between Germany and her western neighbors and setting up military guarantees for the maintenance of peace in the event of military aggression by any of the signatories.

By unanimous consent those articles in the pact to which Germany is opposed or desires to discuss in detail were postponed for later consideration. It would, therefore, be unduly optimistic to proclaim today's favorable development as a certain indication of the successful issue of the negotiations. Indeed, the German spokesmen frankly admitted tonight that serious difficulties remain on the horizon.

Article XVI of the league covenant to which Germany has not yet subscribed, provides a system of penalties against any aggressor, and presumably Germany will resist any attempt to put in the proposed Rhine pact a clause which would permit France to cross the Rhine to give aid to Poland. This point looms up as the gravest obstacle to the success of the conference.

It was learned that the danger may be circumvented by France making a special accord with Poland as a kind of complement to the proposed arbitration treaty between Germany and Poland.

Austen Chamberlain, British secretary of foreign affairs, tactfully helped today in casting down and keeping down any mental barrier between France, Belgium and Germany. After pointing out at the opening of the conference that it was not chance which led them to meet in peaceful, beautiful Switzerland to carry on discussions "which are of such importance to the destinies of Europe," he recommended that they choose no president whatsoever.

"Just let us have friendly, informal talks," he said to his fellow statesmen. This put everybody at his ease and the session immediately became an old fashioned "shirt-sleeve" gathering, with each delegate putting in a word at a favorable moment.

Great Britain, France, Belgium Germany and Italy participated in the meeting, but as the flags of Poland and Czechoslovakia also fly over the conference hall it is certain that those countries, too, will negotiate with Germany their arbitration agreements here, and they may be called in, as well, to presen their views on the Rhine pact.

GUSTAV STRESEMANN TAKEN SUDDENLY ILL

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Oct. 5—Gustav Stresemann, the German foreign minister and head of the German delegation to the security conference, was taken suddenly ill today, and the plenary session of the conference, fixed for tomorrow, has been postponed.

Because of the reported plot against the life of Dr. Stresemann and Chancellor Luther, the announcement that the foreign minister was confined to bed aroused fears that some such attempt had actually been made.

The German spokesmen repudiated such rumors and explained that the Locarno climate had affected Dr Stresemann's throat, and caused a slight fever.

The Germans denied that additional threatening letters had been received from German Nationalists and added that Chancellor Luther felt so safe he had taken a two hours walk today alone on the Locarno hillside.

TWO MURDERS DUE TO NEW YORK GANG WARFARE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—Two murders, another probably fatal shooting, and a running gun battle between detectives and gunmen, in which one of the latter was seriously wounded, was the toll today of gang warfare which marked the first day of District Attorney Banton's new drive against crime.

Police reported that at least two of the shootings were the result of a feud between two rival east side gangs during the past few months which resulted in four murders.

Early this morning Irving Madonic, a taxicab driver, ran into the Roumanian tea and coffee house in Eldridge street, beseeching the proprietress to hide him. At his heels came two gunmen, who fired at him. Madonic fell behind the counter where he had taken refuge. He was dead before an ambulance could be called.

At the same hour, Ignozio Pucio was shot down on First avenue near Thirteenth street. He was rushed to Bellevue hospital and died there a few minutes later. His slayer calmly walked away, disappearing down the street.

With his young wife and his nine-year old son watching him from the window of his Suffolk street home, Meyer Lewis, a glazier, started down the street for work. Two men jumped from a nearby doorway and fired six shots. As Lewis fell to the pavement, they ran and lost themselves in the traffic.

Mrs. Lewis ran to her husband, screaming out the names of the men she said had shot him. One of the names, the police said was that of a man who appeared at the coffee house to view the body of Madonic. Lewis was rushed to Gouveneur hospital where it was believed he was dying. Mrs. Lewis declared that her husband had not been away from home during the early morning hours when Madonic and Pucio were slain.

In the afternoon, three detectives driving on the lower west side were fired upon by five men in an automobile who refused to stop at the detectives' command. The officers returned the fire, wounding Michael Purezzo, driver of the fugitive car. He was taken to St. Vincent's hospital suffering from three bullet wounds. His condition was said to be serious. The other four men were caught after they abandoned their car and ran. They were charged with felonious assault.

Sphinx of Giza Having Trouble.

CARIO, Oct. 5 (AP)—The celebrated Sphinx of Giza, who, historians believe, is between 5,000 and 6,000 years old, is having trouble with her—or his—back in her—or his—old age The back of the giant fogure which has withstood the wear of several millenniums is showing signs of cracking, and the antiquities department of the Egyptian government is taking measures to strengthen it.

BARGE WAS LOADED WITH LIQUOR VALUED AT $300,000

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 5—Announcement that the tugboat that on Saturday pulled a barge loaded with liquor valued at $300,000 up Rancocas Creek, Burlington county, had been identified and the arrest of its owner expected, was made by federal authorities in charge of the case today.

Agitation for a grand jury investigation of the Burlington case, where fifty five alleged rum runners were released on the nominal cash bail of from $200 to $400 each, continued to gain headway during the day.

Charles Carslake, special detective who assisted the state police in the raid, today expressed the opinion that not less than seven similar cargoes had been unloaded at the spot where the men and barge were captured. He thinks that the smugglers had removed not less than 1,000 cases before they were raided Saturday.

The six trucks and four automobiles taken in the raid were still being held by the authorities. Bail has not been fixed, but the leaders of the gang are said to be trying to get it placed at $6,800. Automobile dealers in Burlington fix the value of the outfit at $15,000.

Supreme Court Commissioner Claud Palmer, who fixed the bail and released the men, when today asked if bond had been given for the motor equipment answered "I don't know and I don't care." Ministers of Burlington county have filed a protest against the release of the men. Date for the convening of the grand jury has not been fixed.

NO TIDINGS OF THE MISSING AIR MAIL PILOT

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—Hope that Charles H. Ames, air-mail pilot missing since last Thursday night, would be found alive, began to wane tonight when darkness brought to an end another day's fruitless search.

That hope was not entirely abandoned, however, was seen in the announcement by Carl F. Egge, general superintendent of the air mail service, that four veteran flyers who are familiar with the mountainous country in which Ames is believed to have been lost, have been ordered here from Chicago to join the big squad of planes that has been vainly hunting for the missing pilot for four days. They will arrive tomorrow.

Ten planes today flew a total of 6,000 miles over the mountain peaks and ravines of Clarion and Venango counties without finding a trace of Ames or his machine. The theory that he was forced down between Harleton, 20 miles east of here, and the loacl landing field practicall has been abandoned, although some volunteers on foot and in motor cars, continued to comb that section today. Air mail service officials believe he lost his bearings before passing here, missed the Bellefont landing field and later was forced to land because of fuel shortage.

Mr. Egge has sent a man to Huntington to investigate the report that coon hunters had heard a terrific crash on Stone mountain Thursday night which Huntington officials believe may have been Ames' plane.

ROUGH WEATHER HALTS WORK ON THE SUB S-51

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 5—The naval tug Sagamore, returning tonight from the scene of the submarine disaster off Block Island, reported that the rescue fleet was standing by in anticipation of better weather. Although divers were in their undersea outfits ready to continue their labors on the sunken S-51, no work was possible today because of high seas.

One good day for work will allow for the exploration of the torpedo room of the submarine, officers of the Sagamore predicted, and the recovery of any bodies of the disaster victims remaining in the wreckage.

CHANGE IN TREATMENT OF LABOR PROBLEMS IN ITALY

ROME, Oct. 5—(A. P.)—The most revolutionary step in the treatment of labor problems in Italy in the present generation has been taken with the adoption of an accord between the General Confederation of Industry and the Confederation of Fascist Labor unions.

Under the agreement each of these organizations, representing respectively the employers and workers, recognizes the other as the sole body with which it is to deal in all questions affecting wages, general labor and employment.

Under it also a serious attempt will be made, backed by all the forces of the fascist government, to return the principles, that have governed the relations between capital and labor in Italy for more than thirt yyears.

The actual negotiations were brought to a fruition by Deputy Farinacci, secretary of the fascist party, but the principles motivating them have been espoused for many months by such experts as Minister of Justice Rocco, in accord with general lines laid down by Premier Mussolini.

The kernel of these principles is that the old idea of socialist labor unionism has proved a failure because it was based on the theory of a class struggle to obtain the rights of working en, whereas the fascist principle, its exponents say, is that the best results can be obtained by class co-operation. In other words the fascist idea is that class struggle amounts to cutting off the nose to spite the face, whereas class co-operation means proper recognition not only of the rights of manual labor but also those of capital, invention, direction and administration.

The fascist holds that the state has an indisputable right of tutelage over both capital and labor, to see that both get a square deal. This, they believe, will result in greater and more economical production from which the whole nation, including the workmen, will benefit.

The tangible result of the accord will be that workers may belong to whatever organizations they chose, but if they wish to be represented effectively in matters concerning their wages and working conditions they must belong to the fascist unions, through which all demands to the employers must pass. Another important point is the abolition of the internal shop committees, which hitherto have been elected by secret vote of the workers in each factory. This is the last remnant of the organization created by the workers during Giovanni Giolitti's premiership, when bolshevik workers invaded the factories and dictated terms to the managements.

The new accord substitutes for these organizations committees appointed by fascist union heads instead of elected directly by the workmen.

Coolidge Eschews Talks From Train

President Coolidg's Train En Route to Omaha, St. Louis, Oct. 5—President Coolidge enjoyed a day of rest traveling today through the central west en route to Omaha where tomorrow he will address the American Legion convention.

During most of the ride through southern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois he read, going to the observation platform with Mrs. Coolidge to greet crowds which appeared at the few stops made by the train.

To the many requests for speeches the executive shook his head and smiled and shook his head.

This program was broken at Flora, Illinois, where he thanked the citizens in a few words for a bouquet presented to himself and Mrs. Coolidge in remembrance of their twentieth wedding anniversary which they celebrated yesterday.

"We are exceedingly grateful for your remembrance," he said to Mrs. K. S. Priethard, who presented the bouquet. It will cheer us on our journey and its memory will go with us in years to come."

The train reached St. Louis about dust and tonight was headed northwest through Missouri toward Omaha which will be reached early in the morning. Special arrangements were made for the showing of moving pictures tonight in the dining car for the presidential party. The film "The Vanishing American," was on the program.

Both the President and Mrs. Coolidge enjoyed their visits with the crowds at the stations. At North Vernon, Ind., Mrs. Coolidge noticed the large number of children present and asked one of the boys if school was out.

"Yes," the youth replied, "we are let out to see the president."

"I guess you wished he came through every day," Mrs. Coolidge said.

"You bet," came back the chorus from the crowd of children

The president reached over the platform at Vincinnes Ind., to grasp the hand of four year old Ellen Emison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Emison of that city. Mr. Emison was campaign manager for the president in Indiana.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the trip and the executive took full advantage of the opportunity to rest in preparation for a busy schedule outlined for him in Omaha tomorrow. On arrival after breakfast, he will go to the home of Walter Head and then to the convention where he will speak at 10.30 o'clock. He will be a guest of the Omaha club at lunch and in the afternoon will review the legion parade, going to the train for dinner. An early departure will be made and Mr. Coolidge plans to be at his desk again Thursday morning.

The army blimp "C-7 from Scott field, Ills., picked the train up going through Illinois and escorted it to St. Louis. The train remained in the yard here about an hour while a new diner and engine were put on for the haul over the Wabash railroad. Only a few newspapermen, railroad officials, policemen and marines were allowed to approach the train.

NAVAL OFFICERS OPPOSE CHANGE IN AIR SERVICE

Commanders Kenneth and Bellinger, Before the President's Air Board, Combat Suggestion Made by Major General Hines That All Costal Defense Work Be Transferred to the Army—Both Contended That Such a Change Would Violate the Principles of Good Judgment.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(A. P.)—Six naval air officers today opposed before the president's air board Colonel William Mitchell's plan for reorganization of the national defense, while the colonel himself was called to the war department where disciplinary proceedings against him are under consideration as a result of his criticisms of existing policies.

The naval pilots solidly lined up against the colonel's proposed department of national defense, but differed among themselves as to a remedy for dissatisfaction, which they freely admitted was prevalent among the nation's air personnel because of the present organization.

One of the naval officers, Lieutenant Byron J. Connell, pilot of the Hawaiian flight plane PN-9 No. 1, also took exceptions to Colonel Mitchell's charge that "amateur bungling" by non-flying naval officers was responsible for failure on the flight. He asserted all arrangements were entrusted to Commander John Rodgers, flight leader, whom he described as a "very, very good flier."

Two of the other naval pilots also opposed a suggestion made to the board by Major General John L. Hines, army chief of staff, that the coastal defense be turned over entirely to the army, declaring such an arrangement would violate good judgment. They were Commanders Kenneth Whiting and Patrick Bellinger.

Colonel Mitchell after appearing at the army inspector general's office at the war department, went to the capitol where he called a conference of press representatives and announced that if disciplinary proceedings were initiated, Representative Frank Reid, of Illinois, a member of the house aircraft committee of the last congress, would represent him as civilian counsel. The colonel also reiterated that the fight for a national defense department "had just begun."

While he was talking with the correspondents, a black kitten strolled into the room, jumped on a table in front of him and began chasing a fly on a window pane. The two immediately became friends, the colonel stroking the kitten's back as he continued talking.

The war department case against Colonel Mitchell at this stage is in the hands of Colonel George A. Nugent, of the inspector general's office. No definite action toward beginning court martial proceedings is expected until the return to the city the latter part of the week of Acting Secretary of War Davis.

The court martial would sit in Washington, and indications are that Major General Summerall, commanding the second corps area, New York, would be senior officer and president of the court.

Among other naval officers appearing before the board today were Captain E. S. Land, head of the materials division of the bureau of aeronautics; Lieutenant C. C. Champion, of the bureau of aeronautics, and Lieutenant F. P. Sherman, of the naval air station at Pensacola, Florida.

Captain Land urged that naval air officers be selected for "ability and not availability," and declared that the "stunt of today is the practice of tomorrow" in aviation. He urged greater attention to aviation needs and favored a reorganization of the air service to give its personnel greater assurance of future advancement.

Lieutenant Champion opposed a separate air corps in the navy, holding that to remove the air service from the bureau of navigation would destroy "unity of control."

Establishment of a definite aviation program was advocated by Commander Bellinger, who urged that the air service be recognized as a "combatant arm" of the navy. He also proposed a plan to give air officers a system of promotion commensurate with their work, which also would qualify them to command naval vessels.

"Self-interest," was declared by Lieutenant Sherman to be the cause of much dissatisfaction in the naval air service. He opposed a separate air corps, declaring it was urged by flight officers who were "trying to find a way to beat the game" so far as obtaining promotion was concerned.

He urged that all naval officers be given training in the air so that the navy would be "air going as well as sea-going" asserting this would prevent air forces from being commanded by officers unfamiliar with aviation.

DEBATE IN PARLIAMENTARY UNION CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Various remedies for economic, commercial and other world worries, including limitation of armaments on a universal scale, were presented today to the Interparliamentary Union in conference here.

Debate began with the opening of the morning session and continued without break late into the night. It centered in the main upon resolutions calling for abolition of economic customs barriers, creation of demilitarized zones for prevention of wars and limitation of armament, and upon amendments offered from the floor.

The resolutions were presented to the conference by its official reporters on the questions concerned, Adolf Braun of Germany and Brig.-General Emi Spears of Great Britain.

The Braun motion declared economic barriers now divided the peoples of Europe, obstructed prosperity and constituted a permanent threat of conflicts. To remedy this situation, he proposed a customs understanding among European nations aimed at existing barriers in trade affairs, relief from unemployment, reduction of production costs and general freedom in trade.

General Spears wanted the world powers to agree upon system of demilitarized zones that would reduce armaments, protect exposed frontiers and make contacts between opposed military forces impossible. He moved that his resolution be adopted and transmitted to the various governments with a view to the conclusion of treaties between them providing for the establishment of demilitarized zones along their borders.

TO FIGHT FOR PASSAGE OF CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 5 (AP) — Organized Labor's determination to fight for passage of the child labor amendment to the constitution was the high note of the maiden address of President William Green before the American Federation of Labor at the opening of the 45th annual convention today.

It was the first time in more than a quarter of a century that a person other than the late Samuel Gompers had presided over a national convention and the delegates eagerly awaited the words of the new head of nearly 3,000,000 trade unionists.

The audience found much to applaud in time honored policies of the federation as enunciated by Mr. Green such as opposition to court injunctions in labor cases, but when he shouted "We have just commenced to fight for the children of America," there was an enthusiastic demonstration.

Here and there, he said, men and women may be found who have become fight weary and believe that we are laying down our arms. "At this moment," he added, "may I with all the earnestness of my soul correct that erroneous impression."

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(A. P.)—A proposal to purchase, as a memorial to Jewish freedom the ancient fortifications and the ground on which they stand at Beit-ther, where the Jews under Bar Cuchva and Rabbi Akiba made their last stand against the invading Roman legions under the Emperor Hadrian, is advocated by Dr. Max L. Margolis, before the Institute of Jewish Religion. Dr. Margolis recently returned from Palestine where he served last year as director of the American School of Archaeology. He is professor of biblical philosophy at Dropsie college.

The site of Bittir, the first station on the railway line from Jerusalem to Jaffa, is rich in archaelogical relics, Dr. Margolis said, and should appeal to Jewish historical pride. It could be purchased for $20,000, he said.

The annual business meeting of the town of Ashford held at Knowlton Memorial hall, was a lively session. The principal topic of discussion was the deplorable road situations in Ashford. About one hundred voters were present. On the recommendation of the selectmen it was voted to appropriate $5,000 for highway improvements. This sum is an increase of $1,500 over the appropriation for last year. In the general discussion, voters expressed themselves as favorable to adopting a definite policy of highway improvement and to expend the extra appropriation where most needed, even to the neglect or abandonment of roads little used. In order to carry out this work the selectmen were authorized to purchase a truck of the dumping cart style.

It was voted that each and every organization of the town making use of the Knowlton Memorial building for any other but a town purpose be required to pay a nominal rent fee, as fixed by the selectmen.

The selectmen were instructed to have their annual reports, beginning next year, printed and ready for distribution no later than the 25th of September. The reports are to be distributed in the four sections of the town, so that the voters can familiarize themselves throughly with the past year's business and be enabled to vote intelligently at the annual town meeting. In line with this vote it was decided that the fiscal year reports be closed September 1st. The report of the selectmen was read by First Selectman Nathan Armitage. Town Clerk and Treasurer James E. Spontaneous Combustion

In discussing the subject of spontaneous conbustion in The Scientific Monthly, Dr. Charles S. Munroe, the leading authority on explosives says: "You have noticed, particularly on dry, cold days in winter, that, as you walked across the rug, when you were wearing carpet slippers, or in your stockinged feet, you acquired on your body an electric charge and that as you touched a radiator, or faucet, a spark was emitted from your finger. Some persons have acquired, in this way, so considerable a static charge to be able to light the gas by a spark from their finger. Moving belts, driving machinery, and other parts of the mechanism acquire quite considerable static charges and these have often caused serious fires in grain elevators, rubber mills, explosive factories, cereal works and other industrial establishments where inflammable materials and especially dusts and vapors existed. To play safe electrically, ground the machinery and keep the place free from combustible dusts, vapors and gases."

"—the same good flavor he loved as a kid—peppermint"

When grandfather comes

Wise old granddad—he knows what candy is good for little folks. And when he comes visiting he brings his own favorite flavor—peppermint—dressed up in its modern new clothes—Pep-o-mint Life Savers. The kids love them.

Every growing child craves sweets. Active little bodies demand sugar. But children's candy must be pure—and they should not overeat.

Life Savers, the little candy mints with the hole (life saver shape), answer this problem in just the right way. They are china-hard and deliciously flavored.

This means that Life Savers are eaten slowly. Children suck them to make those wonderful flavors last longer. Little tummies are not upset. And Life Savers are kind to tiny teeth.

They're safe and wholesome. You may conscientiously be generous with Life Savers for they are the ideal candy for little folks.

Six flavors are displayed at all good stores so you may help yourself: Pep-o-mint, Wint-o-green, Cinn-o-mon, Lic-o-rice, Cl-o-ve and Vi-o-let. Five cents a package.—Life Savers, Inc., Port Chester, N. Y.

Sassafras in Medicine

The roots of sassafras very early in American history became an important article of medicine. It is sometimes called the "ague tree" as a decoction of its bark was supposed to cure that disease. Sassafras tea, an infusion of the young shoots and roots, has long been a favorite remedy for colds and a tonic, being a sudorific and a stimulant.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

EPSOM SALT DEPOSIT IS DISCOVERED IN OREGON

The largest epsom salts deposit in the world and the only one containing chemically pure crystals found in the free state in the United States has been uncovered recently at Oroville, Wash., near Wenatchee, according to E. A. Sherwood, chemist, in Portland, Ore., the other days, says "The Oregonian." Experts who have examined the deposit declare that it contains great quantities of the commercial product. The company has unk a shaft and will commence extensive mining operations in the near future.

The development of the epsom salts mine means the promotion of a big industrial enterprise Mr. Sherwood believes. He declared that wholesale drug companies including several local firms, have contracted their supplies from the mine. Most epsom salts produced in the United States is a synthetic product manufactured from sulphuric acid and magnesite. The salts in the Washington mine are exceptionally pure and free from disagreeable tastes, Mr. Sherwood declared.

The company has also acquired holdings on an old lake bottom above the mine, where other deposits of the salt to the depth of 18 feet over 15 acres have been found. Buildings for the refining of the salts are being erected at Oroville and will soon be put into operation.

Backache Slowing You Up?

ALWAYS tired—stiff and achy? A dull ache in the small of your back wearing you out? Sharp twinges torturing you at almost every step?

Too often this condition is due to sluggish kidneys. Blood and nerves are upset by poisons and impurities, and many aches and ills result. One is apt to suffer backache, lameness and stiffness—headaches, dizziness and distressing bladder irregularities.

If your kidneys are inactive, don't risk serious kidney sickness. Help them with a tested diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

HERE IS NORWICH PROOF:

C. I. ALLEN, Stationary Engineer, 595 East Main Street, says: "I was bothered with my kidneys for four months and the doctor told me they were causing the severe lameness in my back. When I bent over it would be quite a few minutes before I could straighten again. Doan's Pills regulated the passages of the secretions and did away with the lameness in my back. The cure Doan's gave me has lasted."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Robert Morin is in St. Vincent's hospital, Putnam, receiving treatment for gun powder wounds in the throat as the result of an accidental discharge of a .32 calibre revolver that he has been in the habit of keeping under his pillow at night in the apartment the family occupies in the Cyr building, Main street. Dreaming, the young man pulled the revolver out and discharged it. He was wounded. Hurriedly realizing what had happened to him, he sought medical attention and then was hurried to the Worcester hospital. He is not dangerously injured and unless blood poisoning sets in, will be able to return to his home here within a few days. Robert Morin is the son of the late L. J. Morin and Mrs. L. J. Morin. He is a graduate of Killingly High school. It is fortunate for him that the revolver was loaded with blank cartridges, otherwise his difficulties might have been more complicated.

Recently in this column something was said about the town court showing a profit during the town's fiscal year of 1924 and exhibiting a loss on account during the year 1925. Some explanations as to this were offered Monday. The state of Connecticut has an ace in the hole, if one considers town court costs.

Take the case of a violator of the automobile laws. If he is fined, the fine goes to the state. If a violator of the liquor laws comes in and is fined, half the fine goes to the state. Motor vehicle law and liquor law violations now constitute the majority of business before the town court. If the state wins, the state takes either all or half the fine. If the state loses, the town pays all the attendant costs. A wonderful arrangement, but nevertheless the law. This is mentioned to indicate, in a certain instance, how complicated modern judicial methods, based on the state law, have become.

George Massey of Ballouville was one of those who were before the town court Monday morning. He was charged with violation of the motor vehicle laws. It was related in the complaint that he had passed a standing trolley car while passengers were being discharged in the car which he was driving. It was found that he was without an operator's license. Tough situation in these days when every motorist knows the laws of his own state, or is supposed to, as regards motor vehicle operation, and still disregards them. He was fined $25 and costs, $20 of the fine being remitted by Judge W. Fenner Woodward.

Another man who was fined in the town court Monday for an automobile law violation was Charles Bonin of Attawaugan. He was fined $25 and costs, a total of $37.84 for reckless driving. A collision with another machine figured in the troubles that landed him in court.

One man charged with having been intoxicated also was presented at the morning session of the town court on Monday.

Admittedly, there was a drive on in Monday's election that gives concern to the real honest-to-goodness electors of the town of Killingly, regardless whence they came, as to how many hours, or days, or months, or years their ancestors' boat beat that of the opposition's boat to these shores, and as to what all of them have since accomplished as real advantage to this great nation. Some people play with fire to achieve a possible hope of victory in such an election as that of Monday. It is a dangerous game. Anyone knows that who knows his Killingly. One man may bait a lion and live to boast about it. Twelve others may die trying the same stunt. It is better, from every viewpoint, to leave all lion baiting out of the game. When that game is played, there always are attendant injuries—and that isn't pleasant for winners or losers.

Any candidate who appeals to the prejudices of the electorate, stressing the important ones, may win this year, but he has a wonderful beating coming to him when he again appears. It will evident in Killingly Monday evening that the man who plays with prejudice and narrowmindness has not long to stay in the political field of Killingly. He is doomed!

Joseph Grohawalski, 56, is dead at his home in Goodyear, where he had been a resident and a mill employe but a short time, comparatively. Grohawalski is said to have a wife resident in Webster. The dead man was a native of Poland and had been in this country for a number of years.

Funeral services for Lewis Mendor were held at St. Joseph's church in Dayville Monday morning, Rev. Ignatius Kost, pastor, being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Eli Dion, Alexander Baribeau, Henry Couillard, Napoleon Savoie, Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Mendor had been a resident of the northern part of the town for years. He is survived by his wife and a number of children.

The road builders who are concerned with putting in a little more than a mile of concrete highway between Morin avenue, at the northern line of the borough, and Elmville, have hit upon hard days. Rain has fallen copiously of late in this area. That stops road building operations. Nothing could be done Saturday, most people call Sunday a day of rest, this group including the roadmen, and it rained again Monday—and rained hard. That is not so good when fall is creeping on toward winter and the days when road building has to be called off until real spring comes again.

Seven persons—four men and three women—received the rite of confirmation at St. Alban's church Sunday, when Rt. Rev. Edward Campion Acheson came here for a special visitation. Bishop Acheson's sermon at the confirmation service is mentioned as one of the most impressive delivered at the church in years.

Sister Mary Anna and Sister Mary John, of the Franciscan order of nuns stationed at Worcester, visited with Sister Mary Anna's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Bouthillier, over the week end, at the Bouthillier farms, on Allen hill.

Rain—heavy rain—on Monday did not halt in any great degree the activities of those concerned with getting out the voters in the town of Killingly and bringing them to the polling place in the town hall. For a wet day, the vote might be considered quite heavy.

Making it three—and possibly out— another car, the property of William Steinbough of Killingly, was stolen from near the Orpheum theatre, which is becoming an area where any man who wants a car and hasn't the money to pay for one can steal one of an evening and get away with it—if he is lucky. For all of which the theatre, furnishing entertainment only, is not to blame. Some motorists put their car in a garage or lock it up when they leave it for any length of time.

REPUBLICANS WIN OUT— SAYLES DEFEATS RILEY

DANIELSON, Oct. 5—Republicans won everything possible for them to win in Killingly, in Monday's annual town election. Sayles, democrat, for many years previously a selectman of the town.

KILLINGLY VOTES $150,000 FOR HIGH SCHOOL ADDITIONS

DANIELSON, Oct. 5—Killingly, never failing in this respect, ranged itself on the side of education, Monday afternoon at the annual business meeting of the town, when the matter of appropriating money for additions and equipment necessary thereto to Killingly High school came up for decision—this a paramount decision of all of those that have come before the town in the past score of years.

By acclamation, and disdaining to vote by ballot, a meeting that crowded the town hall beyond its seating capacity voted overwhelmingly to appropriate not to exceed $150,000, to be used according to plans submitted by a special committee of the town for additions to the present high school building that will give Killingly one of the finest, most modern and best appointed high schools in eastern Connecticut—a high school of which any Connecticut town might be proud. The opposition to this course was so meagre that a proposal that a vote be taken by ballot was promptly squelched.

The meeting named a building committee composed of F. E. Bitgood, F. A. Jacobs, Damase Boulais, William Kinder, N. Lorne Greog, Alma Forcier, James N. Tucker, F. E. Harrington and John Gilbert, who will have in charge the matter of obtaining bids, arranging for the bond issue and other essentials incident to the carrying into execution of the town's wishes. Mr. Boulais, a contractor and builder, withdrew from a place on the committee, that he might not ethically be denied the right to bid for the work of constructing the addition and Charles S. Franics was substituted in his place. Opposition that was forecasted to building the high school additions fizzled in the meeting and amounted to nothing at all.

F. A. Jacobs, discussing the bond issues, told the meeting that in all probability the bonds could be placed at 4 1-4 per cent. The bonds are to run for 30 years, with a yearly retirement provision.

Necessary preparations, awaiting bids and other details of the plan to give Killingly such a splendid high school will take time, and it is not likely that construction will be undertaken before the spring of 1926. It is understood that bonds will be issued as of date of July 1, 1926.

The High School Alumni association membership was jubilant Monday evening over the results of the town meeting on the proposal for the development of Killingly High school, now overcrowded and likely to be more so, no changes being made, within the next two or three years.

The business meeting of the town accepted reports of officials and transacted the usual business.

Got "Fools' Gold"

Sir Martin Frobisher, the English navigator, although a gallant sailor, was no judge of gold. He was sent on two expeditions in 1577 and 1578, to find gold, and on each occasion brought back worthless ore.

PUTNAM

The annual town meeting Monday appropriated $141,125 for expenses for the coming year. Of this amount $73,500 is for the upkeep of schools. The sum allotted to different purposes is as follows:

Assessors $650, auditor $200, board of relief $225, bonds $125, bridges $1,000, cutting brush $500, culverts $250, doctor for poor $400, hospital, D. K. H. $1,200, hospital, woman's board $100, highways $5,000, interest $10,000, insane poor $4,000 insurance $6,000, Memorial day $300, military tax $950, Mansfield Training school $300, miscellaneous $2,000, outside poor $10,000, old cemetery $50, personal tax expense $275, printing $700, public library $1,500, rents $400, repairs state road $150, registrar of voters $150, railing $200, registrar $250, red cross $750, sealer weights and measures $250, selectmen's services $1,150, snow $1,000, schools $73,500, state tax $7,000, town farm $7500, town clerk $100, town treasurer $500, town hall $1,000, tax collector $1,200, total $141,125.

A very large force of carpenters is at work making the forms for the concrete arch for the new Memorial bridge over the Quinebaug. A large amount of lumber has been used in making the forms. All of it is new and because of the enormous weight that the arch will have to bear while the concrete solidifies, the carpentry work seems to be almost as substantial as if it were destined to be permanent. The contractor has had favorable weather since construction work began as not more than two or three days have been lost by reason of rain or storms.

While excavating for the foundation on the west side of the river, a huge stone was unearthed, cylindrical in form as it was half of one of the old mill stones used in the grist mill which formerly stood where the Kent Woodworking shop now is. This stone several feet below the present level of the street, had been taken from the mill when it was razed and was used as a door step for a house which stood on the site of the warehouse of the Putnam Woolen company at that time the street level was several feet lower than at present. It would seem that a stone like this with a double historical interest ought to be preserved. If this is done action will have to be taken soon or the stone will be imbedded under ten feet of earth.

In spite of rainy weather there was a large attendance at the annual convention of the Windham County Council of Religious Education held at the Methodist Episcopal church in this city Monday. Lunch and supper was served in the church at a nominal sum. The program follows:

BIG GROSVENORDALE MILLS START WORKING NIGHTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Oct. 5—Beginning this week the Grosvenordale Company is working nights as well as days. This company has mills at Grosvenordale and North Grosvenordale the largest cotton manufacturies remaining in this section. The carding, spooling, spinning and twisting departments have started on night work in addition to full capacity days. It is expected that the number of operatives will be increased twenty-five per cent.

The mills manufacture a general line of sheetings, fine grade sateens, pongees, fine cotton twills and broadcloth well known to the trade and in good demand. The increase in help and longer hours is made necessary by a large orders being received.

These mill villages have always been prosperous, although from time to time depressions have been felt but have always been among the first to respond to a general return in the manufacturing business. Putnam will benefit from this, as it is a general trading center for the Grosvenordales.

Indolence too often assumes the mask of patience and gathers in her rewards.

DR. EMILIEN ROCH DIES AT NO. GROSVENORDALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 5—Dr. Emilien Roch, 61, died at North Grosvenordale this morning after an illness of several weeks. He had been a practicing physician there for 22 years. He was born in Canada in 1864 and was graduated from Montreal college in 1890, in 1903 he located in North Grosvenordale. He was a member of the Windham county and the state medical societies and was also prominent in French-Canadian societies.

SEGREGATION OF WOMEN IN TURKEY IS AT END

Those high partitions that divided the deck of the little ferry boats on the Golden Horn into separate portions for men and women have been taken down. Not so long ago that would have evoked anathemas from every mosque. Turkish street cars no longer have separate compartments for the sexes. The women now battle for standing room. This year for the first time at the beaches on the placid Marmara and the cold, swift-running Bosphorus, mixed bathing is permitted, though portions are reserved for men and women separately. When the Turkish republic separated church and state it took away the religious significance with which certain forms of daily life had been invested for 1,341 years, the present Mohammedan era. Fezzes for men and kerchiefs around the heads of women are no longer accepted as evidence of religious devotion.

Mars' Temperature High

Dr. V. M. Slipher of the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., says that with his recently perfected instruments to measure the heat of heavenly bodies he has determined that the temperature on the planet Mars is much higher than was formerly supposed. The atmosphere, he says, is also denser and he adds that what appear to be canals on the planet are of artificials construction, thus confirming that the planet is inhabited.

A Region of Calms

In sailing in certain parts of the oceanic area near the equator, sailors speak of the region as the doldrums, or "region of calms." The area is usually characterized by absence of wind, but may be visited intermittently by baffling winds and local thunderstorms. The doldrums shift their position with the season. In July, August and September thew are farthest north, and in January, February and March farthest south.

Within these areas the temperature is higher and the humidity greater than anywhere else on the ocean, and the surface of the water is smooth like glass, with a thin layer or scum or oily waste, such as is seen on stagnant water.

Before the accurate charting of these areas the doldrums were the dread of sailing vessels, which in earlier times were frequently becalmed there for weeks at a time. The position of the doldrums between the regions of the northeast and southeast trade winds had led to the belief that the upper currens which move with the atmosphere in its general circulation from the equatorial regions to the poles have their starting point there.

Rabbit Skin Trade Grows

Since the war Belgium has developed her exporting trade in rabbit skins. Notwithstanding that thousands of rabbits are slain yearly in the prairie states of the United States, this country is one of Belgium's best customers for the skins which are used in making felt hats and in the fur-trimming industries. From the Ghent district alone the United States took nearly $3,500,000 worth of natural and dyed skins in 1924.

THE ELECTION RESULT

By the vote of the townspeople Norwich is to have for the next two years the continuance of that high grade administration of town affairs that were received in the two just completed. That at least is what they call for by their votes and knowing what they have received they have the best of reasons for believing that it will continue to be on the same satisfactory plane.

The result is a pleasing endorsement of the manner in which the town business has been conducted and is just what conditions called for. Although there was a small vote, open now to the interpretation that it was desired to let well enough alone, there was no special contest except for assessor when Arad R. Manning, present incumbent won over M. J. Curran by a majority of 13, making him the runaway leader of his ticket.

No better testimonial of the manner in which he has conducted his office could be given than the piling up of a majority of 367 for First Selectman Murray and a vote which led the entire ticket where the normal majority as indicated by the vote for registrars was 232.

Having shown what could be done as the result of devoting careful attention to the various departments, and that he was at all times working for the best interests of the townspeople, there was no other logical outcome for the election. Good government is what is desired and good government having been provided due recognition was given to the wisdom of keeping in office those who have applied the right kind of ability and attention to their positions of responsibility and trust. We can look forward to the coming two years in town affairs with satisfaction.

NEW ENGLAND APPLE WEEK

For a week commencing October 29 plans have been made with the commissioners of agriculture in the six states to observe New England Apple week. This is not a new thought but an old one which cannot be kept too prominent in the minds of the people of this part of the country because New England apples are highly desirable and because every increase in apple production in New England means just that much additional benefit to the growers of such fruit in Connecticut, Rhode Island and the other New England states.

By the forecast New England will produce a million and three quarter barrels of apples this year, and there are evidences that this isn't much of an apple year, but it isn't to be supposed that such a crop represents all the apples that New England people will use for the next eight or nine months. It is a well known fact that the native apples are soon exhausted and those who seek to purchase them find that it is impossible to obtain New England grown fruit after the season has been on a few weeks. There are apples to be had but they come from afar off. We are providing a market for other parts of the country when we have the land and the ability to at least supply our own requirements here in New England.

With apples it is not much different than it is with other products. We pay millions in freight rates alone for the lumber which comes from other states. We display astonishment at the prices that are exacted for apples grown in the west but we fail to appreciate the opportunity of supplying the market right about home.

If it is so that New England apple growers are not abreast of the times in comparison with those of other sections it is time that they were awakened, and if a New England Apple week will serve to direct greater attention to the possibilities, to the betterment of distribution and packing, and to the development of greater interest in New England products it should get the support to which it is entitled. We have failed to hear opposing knock for too long a period already.

"PAY BY CHECK

When there comes an epidemic of holdups and robberies involving those who are carrying large sums of money such as payrolls, or making collections for banking institutions, the first demand is that those who participate in such affairs should be apprehended and properly penalized. This becomes even more emphatic when the highwaymen maim and kill in carrying out their purposes.

But isn't it only right that some thought should be devoted to the better protection of such funds than has been done in the past? Instead of subjecting the paymaster or some messenger to the danger of being a target, isn't there reason in overcoming so far as possible to transportation of payrolls?

Again and about Boston there have been a number of such holdups within a comparatively short time. Two at least have been foully murdered and one other shot by the robbers in their successful quest for loot, and a writer to the Boston Transcript asks why it is that employes cannot be paid by check instead of cash, as one of the means of removing that powerful enticement of having a man carry large sums of money with him through the streets.

Paying by check might mean a little more inconvenience for the employes, but it would of course overcome that regular visit of the paymaster to the bank for funds and the placing of temptation in the way of those who think they are more clever than others and are ready to take all kinds of chances to get rich at the expense of the other fellow.

What is sought is something that would lend less encouragement to a career of crime. Much is to be expected from the apprehension of the holdup men and the imposition of an adequate sentence. But as an additional means of safeguarding funds and lives not all employes would object to the receipt of their weekly pay in the form of a check, cash for which could be obtained from many sources without great delay or inconvenience. Whatever would aid in balking the robbers ought to be acceptable.

STOPPING THE FIRES

In connection with Fire Prevention week, there is urged, among other things that buildings be constructed so they will not burn. It is good advice. Fireproof structures are becoming more numerous and the wisdom of getting protection against carelessness by such a means is easily understood.

Where buildings are used as institutions for the aged, for children, for the sick or for the housing of humanity when there is more or less dependence upon others there can be no questioning the need of fireproof structures.

When it comes to erecting buildings for the preservation of books, records and valuable papers which cannot be replaced there is nothing which can approach the fireproof building from the standpoints of economy and safety.

We are a long way from the day when all buildings will be fireproof but we have reached the stage where large public structures, schoolhouses, banking institutions, homes and the like are being constructed of fire resisting material. It is a source of protection that justifies the outlay and its permanency makes it cheaper in the end.

"Build So It Won't Burn" is one of the good slogans put forth in connection with the fire prevention movement. That doesn't necessarily mean that that is the only way in which the large losses from fires can be stopped, for it is to be realized that carelessness is responsible for more than a majority of them, and it is carelessness of a character which ought not to be allowed to go unchecked. There lies therein a tendency in the wrong direction for it can and does quickly spread in other directions.

Let there by all means be an effort made to decrease carelessness instead of devoting all attention to trying to dodge the effects of it. Through such a course not only can there be many fires prevented but there can be a great reduction in losses and expenditures which accompany fires. Thus while thought is being given to the importance of building so there will be no fires sight cannot be lost of the importance of also using sufficient care so that the destruction of burnable buildings is not fostered.

WORKING THROUGH

A report that always makes a good impression is the earnings of the students at an institution of learning as a means of getting their education. It goes to prove the old saying that "Where there's the will there's a way."

For the school year of 1924-25 at Yale figures have just been made public showing that a total of $417,193 was earned by students. This represents a new record and one of which the students as well as the institution may be proud. Three fourths of this sum was earned from term and summer work which had been obtained through the bureau maintained by the university for such a purpose, with the other quarter earned by employment obtained by the students themselves, there being 34 per cent. of the student body registering for such jobs as might be available.

This reveals a situation which is not peculiar to Yale. Many other institutions encourage the student body to accept employment while going through college with highly commendable results. Many would not be able to get the education they desire without such opportunities and none is in a position to better appreciate his education than the fellow who has worked for the money that has been required to feed, clothe and educate him.

With a third of the Yale students paying all or part of their way through college it clearly shows that it is not solely the children of the rich who can get the advantages of higher education and it seems highly probable that those who have had to struggle for what they have got will be best prepared to make the most of what they got from their university years.

BELINDA'S NEIGHBORS

"What's the grand idea, sis?" asked Miss Belinda's brother, "of having the letters 'M. B. H.' burned all over the planks at the pier? What do the mysterious letters mean?"

"They're not so cryptic as you may fancy, Ben," replied Miss Belinda, laughing. "They stand for 'Mr. Ben Hilltop,' or 'Miss Belinda Hilltop.' They're Tim's idea of our initials."

"But why emblazon them from one end of the dock to the other? Those crude letters burned in every which way certainly look crazy?"

"Yes, I know they do, Ben, but there's a reason. At least, Tim declares there is. Do you remember three years ago how bereaved I felt when I found only a hole in the ground where one of my handsomest clumps of festiva maxima peonies had been?"

"Yes, but what's that got to do with the pier planks?"

"Listen, and you will see the connection, Ben; corroborative evidence.

Peonies usually sulk a season or two after transplanting," explained Miss Belinda, and it is only this year that I have noticed a gorgeous festiva maxima blooming in a near neighbor's yard. You know the crimson splotches on the pure white blossoms distinguish that particular beautiful peony from any other variety."

"But, Belinda, you haven't a monopoly on it. Any one with the price can buy a festiva maxima."

"That's just what I told Tim," agreed Miss Belinda, "but he inquired if those 'Eyetalian enemies,' as he calls the Italian anemones, could be bought in this here country. I had to admit that I had never seen either the seeds or plants offered in any domestic catalogues. He ha-ha-ed and said he guessed he'd learn me a lesson yit."

"Do you mean that some of those scarlet anemones are blooming in a neighbor's garden Didn't you ever give any away, sis?"

"No, I've been selfish with them. They're so striking that I thought it fun to have them an exclusive feature in our garden. I observed that my precious border of them was depleted this spring, but I naturally thought some had winter-killed, although we covered them carefully last autumn."

"And then, by jingo, you saw them next door. Well, that's a little bit thick, I should say. Haven't you made any remarks about them?" asked Ben, indignantly.

"Of course not. I'm not going to disturb the comity of this shore for a few blossoms. Besides, Ben, they look lovely growing along our neighbor's brick walk. They remind me of those which first captivated me in the narrow streets of Fiesole."

"Belinda," exclaimed Ben in exasperation, "I'd certainly let them know, all right, that we are aware of their depredations."

"I fancy they know," Miss Belinda smiled. "Our faithful Tim has been on the job. Nearly every spring when we are ready to build our pier, we find some of the planks gone. You know they're expensive nowadays. This year they were all on the shore where they were piled in the autumn.

"'Cause why?" asked Tim, and he answered himself, 'Cause I marked 'em for you and Mr. Ben, so them busy friends of your'n, you know who, Miss Belinda, wouldn't have the nerve to push 'em into the lake and aim 'em down to their place. I seen your boards down to their place plenty o' times, but I couldn't prove nothing before. That's what's been going on for some time, I guess.' Tim grinned. 'That's what you call 'oats 'em and gets 'em, ain't it?' "

Ben laughed. "That man is an unconscious wit, but he's surely a good watchdog. I wish he could mark your plants for identification likewise."

"That's what Tim wishes, too, but really, Ben, you know the true way to enjoy one's blessings is to share them, and if our neighbors do help themselves to a few plants it's a rebuke to me for not offering them myself. I ought to be more generous."

"Belinda," Ben looked at his sister accusingly, "you're—well, there's nobody like you, that's all!"—Chicago News.

Had Enough

Albert, age three, went with his mother to a family reunion. Music and speeches occupied the morning, and then, as the program drew to a satisfactory close, an old uncle rose to pronounce the benediction. Albert looked around inquiringly, then seeing that his mother's head was bowed, lowered his own with a sigh and an air of forced resignation.

The benediction, characterized by faltering speech and many pauses, was long drawn out. That fact with certain mysterious sounds issuing from the direction of the dinner table within sight a growing restlessness in the crowd was not lost on Albert. As the uncle reached the point of making his most touching appeal, and absolute silence prevailed, Albert slid from his seat, clapping his hands loudly and shouting:

"I've had enough of that. Come on, mother, dinner's ready!"

A Purpose

Seven year old George went visiting recently with his grandfather. There were no children to play with and George soon grew restless. Their host, noticing this, held out a nickle, saying, "Here, sonny, is a nickel. Go and get an ice cream cone."

Looking skeptically at the nickel, George said, "What are you giving me that for—to get rid of me for a little while?"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Evolution vs. the Bible

Mr. Editor: Our theistic evolutionist (who admits that he is no evolutionist at all, all) is slithering round to his clearer word of testimony" again My statements in one letter of the Bible are not directly contradicted. I wrote "Its statements in regard to the origin and nature of the world the universe and mankind, are known now, by intelligent people to be wrong."

The Bible teaches that God, by word of mouth, in six days made the earth, sun, moon, stars and all the life upon the earth, the waters beneath and the air above.

The earth was supposed to be "four square" flat, with heaven above and —— beneath. Science by use of the telescope has discovered that the sun, moon and earth are round bodies; the earth one of eight revolving about the sun, the moon revolves about the earth once in about 28 days. There is no heaven above, but illimitable space. The stars are other worlds or suns. The telescope shows us worlds in all stages of development from nebulae, or gaseous mists, through partly cooled worlds like Jupiter and Saturn to the dead moon. The more powerful the telescope the more stars or constellations are to be seen. There seems to be no end to space. The spectroscope shows that all these different bodies are composed of the same substance matter as our earth. At one time they thought there was an element in the sun not on our earth which they named helium. It has since been found here.

No beginning, no end to space matter everywhere. Matter cannot be created, cannot be destroyed, but is constantly changing form. Nature knows no beginning and no end, but constant change.

Geologists estimate that it is from three to 300,000,000 of years since the earth's surface cooled enough to allow water to form upon it. Then life could begin. The essentials of life are air, water and a certain limited temperature. All animal and vegetable life are made up of the elements which are found in inorganic or dead matter (mud). These earliest forms of life were doubtless very minute single cell animals forming a sort of rust or scum on the water. It is difficult today to decide among the minute forms of life whether they are animal or vegetable. The general rule being that if they absorb oxygen and exude carbon dioxide they are animal and if the opposite vegetable.

Geologists' study of the earth show that at different stages or ages of the earth's history, very different forms of life have existed. The earliest forms were doubtless sea animals. At one time shell fish predominated and some of them grew to an enormous size. Probably due to the warmth of the water. Thousands of hundreds of thousands of years later vertebrate or backbone animals were found in the seas. Then the land began to appear and animal and vegetable life adapted itself to this new world. Fins became feet or wings and gills became lungs. The first vegetable life was mosses and lichens, later ferns, and much later evergreen and deciduous trees.

When the great reptiles roamed the earth, man's ancestor was some insignificant creature. What is to succeed man, insects or microbes?

Nature knows neither time nor space limit, beginning nor end, nothing but constant change.

Man is not particularly different from other animals except in intelligence. Will he acquire enough knowledge of nature and nature's laws to enable him to continue under changes which will, doubtless take place, in time or will he become a dodo?

Embryology shows that all life begins as a single cell and passes through an epitome of the race's history from a single cell animal to whatever it is to be; if a vetebrate it develops an internal skeleton, if a man a place for brains.

In my review of "The Case Against Evolution" I have shown that a scientific Catholic theologian does not ask for an act of creation or a miracle, but just a little outside interference at one point. I also quoted the scientist, August Weismann," spontaneous generation in spite of all the vain attempts to demonstrate it remains for me a logical necessity."

From Small Beginnings

Nicolas Conte, the Farm Boy, Napoleon's Man of Genius

One of the first men whom Napoleon Bonaparte enrolled in the Legion of Honor was Nicholas Conte, a man of 44 years of age. Well might Napoleon, who was then rapidly rising to master Europe, recognize the genius of the almost miracle working Nicholas Conte. It was to Nicholas Conte that Napoleon and his generals turned for almost everything that the army needed. Napoleon had gone far from home and had overwhelmed Egypt, hoping to clear a path to India and weaken the English. In those days, as now, it was far from easy to maintain an army in the field. Napoleon was far from home, in a tropical region, remote from all sources of supplies. There were many things that he must have, or he would meet with utter defeat. In those dark days Nicholas Conte appeared to have superhuman power. He could make anything, invent anything, find anything, do anything, contrive anything that Napoleon and his generals needed. He was the Thomas A. Edison of Napoleon's army.

Nicholas Conte was not the son of aristocratic parents; he was the son of ordinary French farmers. He had been brought up to do farm work, but he delighted most in things mechanical. For the most part, he was self taught, studying, experimenting, planning and inventing by himself, but he did attend lectures whenever he had the opportunity.

At first it seemed that the farmer's boy was to become an artist, for he showed the most precocious ability in painting, and while he was still a mere boy developed into a fashionable portrait painter. Nothing, however, could keep his able fingers from doing mechanical work, nor his active brain from devising things that men had never had before.

Even in those remote days he became an expert in developing air attacks in war. Of course he had no airplanes, and did not think of making any but he did have balloons, and he developed the use of the balloon in war as it had never been developed before. This meant that he must become a chemist, and he so educated himself that he could teach others how to make hydrogen and how to use it. During his life time he made almost everything that could be useful to the French armies, from baking apparatus, explosives, uniforms, barometers, mathematical instruments to delicate scientific instruments for surveying or for making estimates of distance for the use of those in charge of artillery. He even found time to continue artistic work. He died at 50, while Napoleon, his master, was at the height of his power.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Old Mr. Toad Says Good By

My ways are mine; my neighbor's his.
'Tis just as well that so it is.
—Old Mr. Toad.

It happened that jolly round, bright Mr. Sun, beginning his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, caught Peter Rabbit over in Farmer Brown's garden. Peter should have been at home. However, he had been tempted by some cabbage leaves and there he was. He decided it wouldn't be safe to go back to the Dear Old Briar-patch in broad daylight, so he would stay until he had filled that big stomach of his and then he would spend the day in a certain favorite hiding-place under the Old Stone Wall along the Old Orchard. So Peter remained where he was, munching on a cabbage leaf. When he felt that he had enough he turned to hop over to the old stonewall. He had taken perhaps half a dozen hops when a thin, high voice cried angrily:

"Why don't you watch where you're going, Peter Rabbit? A little more and you would have trodden right on me. I never did see such carelessness."

Peter paused abruptly and looked down with such a funny expression on his face. He had known that voice instantly. It was the voice of Old Mr. Toad. There, almost under his feet, was Old Mr. Toad, with only a little more than his head above ground.

"Excuse me, Old Mr. Toad," said Peter. "I'm sorry I startled you. I guess I would have seen you if you had been right out in plain sight. But as it is I didn't see you at all. You know me well enough to know that I wouldn't hurt you for the world. What are you doing here?"

"What do I look as if I were doing?" Old Mr. Toad asked crossly.

Peter chuckled. "You don't look to me as if you were doing anything at all," said he.

"Well I am," snapped Old Mr. Toad. "What?" demanded Peter.

'Going to bed for the winter," replied Old Mr. Toad. "I ought to have gone before. I really couldn't stand another night like last night. I don't know what possessed me not to go to bed before."

While he was talking Mr. Toad had seemed to Peter to be squirming about and now Peter noticed that there wasn't as much of him to be seen as there had been at first. Of course you know what Old Mr. Toad had been doing. All the time he had been talking he had been using his hindfeet to dig with. That is what had made him seem to be squirming. He had been digging a hole and at the same time he was backing down into it.

"But where are you going to spend the winter?" asked Peter.

"Down," replied Old Mr. Toad.

"Down where?" insisted Peter.

'Down here in the ground," retorted Old Mrd Toad.

'Do you mean that you're going to spend the winter right there?" cried Peter.

"That's just what I mean," replied Old Mr. Toad. "Do you know of any better place?"

As Peter didn't know of any better place he didn't try to suggest one. Instead he cried, "But Jack Frost will freeze the ground solid and you with it!"

"Not unless he comes sooner than I think he will and works faster than I think he can," replied Old Mr. Toad. "Jack Frost will never get down into the ground deep enough to get me. My goodness, if I weren't so sleepy I could work faster. Good by, Peter. I'll see you in the spring."

When Old Mr. Toad said this only his nose was sticking out of the ground. Hardly had Peter said good bye when old Mr. Toad's nose disappeared and the earth fell in and covered him up. Peter simply sat there and stared at the place where Old Mr. Toad had been and where now there was nothing to be seen but a little loose earth. Somewhere under it was Old Mr. Toad and he was still going down. He was still digging a hole and backing into it as he dug. It was hard work for Peter to believe that Old Mr. Toad was down there and still harder to believe that he would stay down there until spring. But it was so, and Peter knew that it was so.

"Won't it be funny," thought Peter, "to come over and sit down here next winter and think that he doesn't know it."

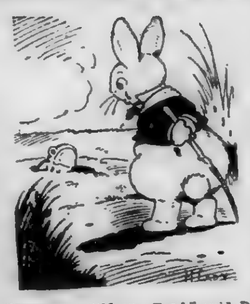
The next story—A Rumor of a Cold Winter.



"Excuse me, Old Mr. Toad," said Peter. "I am sorry I startled you"

Suicide Curb Sought

In Berlin the number of suicides has become so alarming that a proposal has been made to create special relief stations where persons contemplating self-destruction might go and recieve the help they need. The causes of suicide are most often lack of money, illness, neurasthenia and unrequited or obstructed love. Could the sufferers receive good advice, a little money or the intervention of the proper person, it is thought their intention might be shaken and their lives saved. Pastors, lay confessors, psychoanalysts and regular physicians might be drafted into service. The question remains whether intending suicides could be induced to have recourse to such life-saving stations.

MRS. WM. BUTTS WAS VERY SICK

Gives Full Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

Wellston, O. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, where before I did not feel like doing anything or going around. After my first child was born about four years ago I saw an advertisement in the paper about the Vegetable Compound. I knew it would help me, but I was afraid to try it because people said it would help you to have children and I knew I was having children fast enough. But I thought if it would help me it would be better to have a whole house full of children and have good health. I became stronger from taking it and my husband says I look like a live woman instead of a dead one. When Spring comes I am going to take your Blood Medicine as I am very thin. I will answer letters from any woman who wishes to ask about your medicine." — Mrs. WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

GIRL GAINED 7 POUNDS NINE YEARS AN INVALID

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co., or any real druggist anywhere in America.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength.

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why, get your money back.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 229 M Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

SELECTMAN MURRAY LEADS TICKET IN REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN TOWN

WILLIAM S. MURRAY
Relected Selectman

First Selectman William S. Murray, running for re-election Monday, led the ticket in the republican victory at the polls, running about 75 ahead of the general republican majority of about 225 to 230, which made the day a clean republican victory. Selectman Murray led his democratic opponent in every one of the six districts and recorded the total vote of 2,952. Re-elected with him on the board of selectmen were Charles P. Bushnell, republican, with 2,873 votes, and Patrick T. Connell, democrat, with 2,647 votes.

The only contest of the day was for the office of assessor, where Michael J. Curran, a former member of the board, was running against Arad R. Manning, republican, who had been nominated for re-election. Mr. Curran made the race a hot one that left the result uncertain until the last district had been heard from and he lost out by only 13 votes, receiving 2,756 to his opponent's 2,769. Three districts, the second, the fourth and the sixth, gave majorities for Mr. Manning, while the other three went for Mr. Curran. The re-election of Mr. Manning retains the membership of the board of assessors as it is at present.

The election was the quietest in years, resulting in little more than a 50 per cent. vote being cast. Two years ago in the town election the total vote was 6,350, but this year it went even below that as the total was 5,578 out of a qualified registration, men and women, of 10,033.

The following was the registration and the vote cast in the six districts of the town:

Dist.	Men Regstrd	Men Voting	Women Regstrd	Women Voting
1	2,411	1,232	1,953	850
2	1,162	496	740	313
3	885	590	660	417
4	573	334	505	212
5	809	493	320	175
6	434	232	377	144
	6,268	3,367	3,765	2,211
Total registered				10,033
Total voting				5,578

The day started in with what was ordinarily called democratic weather, a rain which is supposed to keep republicans away from the polls, but closed with a burst of sunshine in the last two hours for the polls to be open. Observers at the central district voting place in the court house declared that it was in the last two hours of the day that the democratic party workers did their most effective work, and that the flood of voters who poured in from 3 to 5 o'clock were decidedly of democratic leanings. In the first two hours in this district only 15 women and 125 men had voted. The first woman to vote in this district was Nellie V. Mills, the second Gladys E. Thorne, the third Ethel I. MacDougall, and the last Josephine Rinella. The last man to vote in the district, just as the polls were declared closed by Moderator M. E. Jensen was Israel Roucher. The first man to vote in the district, when the polls opened at 6 o'clock was Richard T. Mills with James McCahey second.

In the second district during the first three hours 142 had voted while at 11 o'clock only 363 had cast their choice. Henry C. Peale was the first man voter and Elizabeth Hoagland the first woman voter.

In the third district 92 had voted during the first hour while at 10.30 a total of 330 had been registered. Fitch Dolbeare was the first man to vote in this district, while Mrs. William S. Murray, wife of the first selectman of the town, was the first woman.

At 9.30 o'clock 166 voters had passed the checkers at the fourth district, while during the first hour only 96 men and women had voted. John Banning was the first man voter and Maude Dawley the first woman.

Used New Voting Place

Shortly after arriving at the plant he complained of feeling ill and was taken home where he expired shortly afterwards.

When he was a young man the family moved to Montville, where Mr. Johnson received his education. He was a papermaker by trade and for several years had been employed by the Robert Gair company.

OUR TRADE WITH OUR ISLANDS

Trade of the United States with its non-contiguous territories in the fiscal year 1925 was approximately 600 million dollars or one-half as much as the trade with the entire world a half century ago.

This term, "our non-contiguous territories" includes, says the Trade Record of the National City bank of New York, Porto Rico; the Virgin Islands; and our more distant associates in the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, Guam, Tutuila, and Alaska. Our total trade with all of them in the fiscal year 1925 was $591,358,000 against approximately $256,000,000 in 1905 and was in 1925, as above indicated, more than half as much as our trade with the entire world in 1875.

Porto Rico, which lies much nearer to our great industrial and commercial centers than do the Pacific areas in question, has shown a remarkable growth in her contributions to the requirements of the United States and her takings of our merchandise have also shown corresponding gains. The total shipments of merchandise from Porto Rico to the United States in the fiscal year 1925 were 81 million dollars against 2 1-2 millions in 1898, the year preceding the transfer of Porto Rico to the United States. The shipments of merchandise from the United States to Porto Rico in 1925 were 79 million dollars against 1 1-2 millions in 1898, illustrating the big increase which has come in its producing and consuming power, for about 90 per cent of the merchandise entering Porto Rico is drawn from continental United States is now about 40 times as much as in 1898.

The total trade with the Hawaiian islands in 1925 was 173 million dollars, of which 100 millions was merchandise sent from that island to continental United States and 73 millions merchandise sent in exchange, chiefly manufactures and limited quantities of foodstuffs. Our trade with the Hawaiian islands in the fiscal year 1898, which immediately preceded their annexation, was 26 million dollars, and is now about seven times as much as in 1898.

The Philippines sent us in the fiscal year 1925 about 100 million dollars' worth of our own products in exchange. Our trade with the islands in 1898, the year preceding annexation, was about 4 million dollars, practically all of it imports, for our exports to the islands in the year preceding annexation were but $128,000 jumping to 2 1-2 millions in 1900, 11

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac," is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

"Tanlac came to her aid at once brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation. Made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

1-2 millions in 1908 and 61 millions in 1925.

Shipments of tobacco in various forms from Porto Rico to the United States in the fiscal year 1925 were 17 million dollars in value against approximately 9 millions in 1913; fruits and nuts nearly 5 million dollars against 3 1-2 millions in 1913; cotton manufactures, chiefly laces and other hand-made goods, approximately 6 million dollars with no record of this class of material in the 1913 statement of shipments to the United States; cocoanuts nearly a million dollars in 1925 against a half million in 1913. Canned pineapples are now an important factor in the shipments from the Hawaiian islands to us, totaling 30 million dollars in value in the fiscal year 1925 against 4 millions in 1913 and coffee in 1925 nearly one million dollars against approximately a half million in 1913. Copra, the dried meat of cocoanut, shows big increases, the shipments from the Philippines to us having been over 12 million dollars value in 1925 while there are also large increases in the quantities of cocoanut oil sent from the islands in recent years. Manila hemp from the Philippines totaled 17 million dollars in 1925 against approximately 11 millions in 1913.

NATIONAL FOREST TIMBER RECEIPTS SOAR

Breaking all records in the history of the United States forest service receipts from the sale of national forest timber for the first quarter of this fiscal year amounted to $1,055,165, according to telegraphic dispatches received by the chief forester at Washington.

This is the first time forest officials point out, that timber sale receipts for any quarter year have ever topped a million dollars.

It is not expected that any of the remaining three-quarters of the fiscal year will touch this high level, since the summer is the longer's busy season in the western mountains. Timber sales on the National Forests have been increasing and now bring to the federal treasury over $3,000,000 yearly.

Milk Versus Water

That milk is not equal to water as a steam-producing agent was once demonstrated in a railway in New York state. The chief figure in the story was passenger train No. 10. This train left Cincinnati at 7:30 one morning, and was due in Syracuse an hour and a half later. It stopped at the water pump in Cincinnatus for a supply of water.

The water was pumped from a creek through a milk depot by the same pump, it seems, that was used to force milk into the large vats.

The fireman, a new employe, set the pump going, and, after taking aboard what he deemed a sufficient quantity of water, stopped the pump and the train started.

The steam dropped rapidly, and such a sputtering began about the gage that the engineer became alarmed, and at Freetown telegraphed to the train dispatcher at Syracuse that his engine had gone wrong and requested that an extra be sent to haul his train to the end of the run.

This was done, and the rejected engine was sent to the yards for inspection. There it was discovered that the boiler was filled with milk instead of water. The fireman supposed that he must have "connected up wrong" somehow, and pumped milk instead of water into the boiler.

OPPOSING CLANS OF BASEBALL GATHER FOR COMING CONFLICT

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 (AP)—Back in the baseball sun after a lapse of 16 years, Pittsburgh fandom stirred itself today to a feverish pitch of excitement as their favorites and brilliant National league championship crew of Pirates prepared to meet the invasion of Washington's title-holding forces in the first battle of the annual World's series war Wednesday.

The threatening confidence of this Pirates' den, however, seemed to hold no terrors for Bucky Harris and his band of Senators, who arrived shortly after 6 o'clock tonight and went to their quarters in a secluded apartment to rest in preparation for a final tuning up tomorrow on Forbes field, scene of the first two conflicts of the series, and also the sixth and seventh if hostilities last that long.

Johnson to Pitch Opener.

Harris lost no time in announcing, as he stepped off the train, that Walter Johnson would pitch the opening game and that he would have his full strength on the field at the start, thus belying definitely the prospect that the Senators might be handicapped by disabilities which have hit Harris himself, Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran shortstop, and Stanley Coveleskie, right-handed pitching veteran, who is counted upon to share the twirling burden with Johnson. Coveleskie will take the mound for the second game, Harris intimated.

While Harris and his men were confident they will successfully defend their championship crown, the 28-year-old pilot of the Senators does not underestimate his rivals.

"Any team good enough to win the National league pennant is as good as ours," Harris commented critically when asked his opinion of the Pirates.

Senators Will Use Full Strength

While their full strength will take the field, the Senators, it was indicated, may be somewhat handicapped in the way of injuries. Harris himself displayed a badly swollen middle finger on his throwing hand, the result of a spike gash.

Coveleskie has suffered from a back strain which may effect his staying qualities, while Peckinpaugh's ankle again has shown signs of weakness that forced him out of the series twice last year.

Harris surprised his listeners, incidentally, with the assertion that he banks upon Dutch Ruether, seasoned southpaw, to share the mound burden with Johnson and Coveleskie, in spite of general belief that the Pirates are "sure death" against portsiders.

The arrival of the Senators and disclosure of their opening of battle followed a brisk workout for the Pirates who, in spic and span new uniforms, went through a sparkling drill at Forbes Field under the watchful eye of Manager Bill McKechnie.

Meadows is McKechnie's Choice

"Meadows is my logical choice," McKechnie admitted. "He is in good condition and the most experienced of my best bets. But the weather conditions Wednesday will have something to do my final choice."

The Pirate manager intimated that Meadows will draw the assignment if the prediction of clear and warm weather is fulfilled. If it is overcast, however, Vic Aldridge, another seasoned right hander, obtained from the Cubs this year, may be the opening selection.

Grantham to Replace McInnis

McKechnie settled definitely, however, the only other mooted question about his line-up by asserting Eddie Moore would be at second base and George Grantham at first, in preference to Stuffy McInnis, veteran who is entering his sixth series.

"That was our strongest combination during the season," said McKechnie, "and that's how we'll start against the Senators."

These developments among the rival contenders furnished chief topics of interest as Pittsburgh's fandom, already whipped to a high-pitch, discussed the series "dope" with an ever-increasing host of enthusiasts from all parts of the country, treking to this great industrial center for a battle that promises to rival any that have gone before in interest and calibre of play.

As preparations went forward for the opening spectacle the barometer of home-town excitement mounted steadily. It was evident on every street corner, where old-timers who recalled the Pirate championship glory of 1909 mingled with the new generations of followers; it was manifest in the hotels, where a seemingly endless stream of visitors sought, often in vain, for accommodations; and at various centers where the slim and coveted supply of tickets in speculators' or brokers' hands found a demand far exceeding the number available.

The tension even found its way to Forbes field, where newly elected additions to the stands glistened in the sun, and displayed itself in the action of the Pirates as they cavorted in practice.

Pirates Keyed to High Pitch

There is no doubt that the Pirates are keyed to a high pitch as a new experience and a new test approaches for nearly all of them. It is so even with the ordinarily mild-mannered McKechnie, who showed the nervous strain of his responsibilities as he snapped out his practice orders.

It is a typically bold band of Buccaneers, on the whole, that carries the golden jubilee year's banner of the National league into action but there is a question in the minds of many observers whether this confidence also will be tempered with the element of steadiness so essential to gaining the baseball heights.

The contest here between the fiery young Pirates and their older, more seasoned rivals is the basis for much of the hopes of Washington followers. In a struggle which seems to find the contending teams unusually well matched, it is generally conceded that steadiness may be the deciding factor, with the Pirates' brilliant attack pitted against remarkable defense of the Senators.

MORE THAN 100 OUT FOR TRACK AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5.—(AP)—More than 100 candidates attended the meet tonight opening officially the 1925 track season at Yale. Captain B. M. Norton, Coach George Conners, M. S. Smith, captain of cross country, and Al McCall, cross country coach, spoke to the men and outlined plans for the coming year. Practice will begin tomorrow.

The cross country schedule, announced at the meeting, includes four big meets: Springfield college in New Haven, October 24; Columbia in New York, November 7; Yale-Harvard-Princeton triangular meet in Cambridge, November 18, and the I. The freshmman schedule includes meets with Princeton, November 7 at Princeton and the Harvard freshmen on November 14 at New Haven, with the team entered in the intercollegiates at New York, November 23.

PLAYERS' SHARE IN WORLD SERIES MONEY

The share of each player on the winning team in the world series has increased from $1,182, which was the amount received by the Boston players who were victorious in the first of the modern series in 1903, to $5,730, the amount pulled down by each of the Washington Senators in the series last year. The highest figures recorded were in 1922, when each of the New York Yankees received $6,160 as his share for winning the series from the Giants.

In 1922 the entire receipts of the second game, which had resulted in a tie, were donated to charity. In 1903 the losing players fared better than the winners, as President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club gave his share of the receipts to his players.

RECORD DEMAND MADE FOR WORLD'S SERIES TICKETS

Pittsburgh, Penna., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh club disclosed today that the unprecedented demand for world's series reserved seat tickets had so far exceeded the supply that $500,000 had been returned on orders which it was impossible to fill for the first, second and sixth games scheduled here. More than 200,000 ticket applications altogether were received, five times the seating capacity of Forbes field.

At the same time club revealed that the receipts for filled orders represented approximately an equal amount, thus giving prospect that the 1925 baseballes will mark the third successive million-dollar baseball classic if the issue is fought out of six or seven games.

This high total is possible because of the big proportion of higher priced seats, although the capacity of neither Forbes field nor Griffith stadium in Washington is as great as the parks in New York where the first million-dollar series was fought out in 1923.

The record receipts of $1,093,104 were collected for the seven game struggle last year between the Senators and Giants as compared with six-game aggregate of $1,063,815 for the Giants-Yankees battle of two years ago.

BERLENBACH-SOLOMON BOUT POSTPONED FOR A WEEK

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The program of boxing exhibitions scheduled for the Polo Grounds tonight in which Paul Berlenbach, world's light heavyweight champion, was matched to fight King Solomon of Panama in the 15-round headliner, was postponed until next Monday afternoon, Columbus Day, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The New York State Athletic Commission sanctioned the postponed date at a special meeting today after it was assured that the field was in no condition for the match.

Promoter James J. Johnston announced that the car das originally arranged would be retained next Monday. Weather permitting, Berlenbach will meet Solomon in the main go while Johnny Dundee and Babe Herman will clash in the semi-final, and Jack Bernstein and Sid Terris in one of the preliminaries.

The commission today also denied the application of Geneseo A. C., of Rochester for a match between Gene Tunny and Dan O'Dowd of Boston next Monday. The commission contended that O'Dowd was overmatched.

COBB HITS FOR .300 MARK FOR HIS TWENTIETH TIME

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(A. P.)—Finishing the 1925 baseball season with a mark of .380, Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, equalled one of the few major league batting records that he had not previously held or shared. The Georgian's mark this year made the twentieth season in which he has batted better than .300, the only other player in the major leagues to have accomplished that being the late Adrian C. Anson.

Cobb began his .300 hitting in 1906 with a mark of .320. Anson began in 1876, ten years before Cobb was born, and continued as a .300 hitter for 18 years or through the 1890 season. He dropped out of the so-called heavy hitting class in 1891 and 1892 and then resumed in 1893, ending his string in 1897 with a mark of .302.

Winner of First Game Has Edge

Winning the first game of the world series is in itself no surety that the victorious team will be the ultimate winner, but in most of the world series already played the first game has shown how the series would result. Of the 22 series between the pennant winners of the National and American leagues, the team winning the first game has been the winner 15 times.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PLAYED WELL-BALANCED BALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Final standings of the teams in the two major baseball leagues today indicated a well-balanced race in the National sharply contrasted with an unexpected American league contest which ended with the last place Boston Red Sox 227 points behind the champion Washington Senators.

Chicago Cubs, slipping to last place in the senior circuit during the closing scamble of three teams to dodge the cellar, nevertheless finished less than 200 points from the top and only 31 points from third place. Not in many years has the National race brought out a keener fight among the second division nines, Brooklyn, Chicago and Philadelphia all having been tied for the bottom rung on the day before the campaign closed. The Braves, heading the second section, were only sixteen points from the cellar.

Even more convincing proof of the balance of National league teams was seen today in the record of the Cubs against the champion Pirates, the windy city entry having won its season's series with McKechnie's men. The Boston Braves, for a long time in the basement and at the top of the second division finally by reason of a sensational finish, broke even with the runner-up Giants.

YALE BEGINS WEEK OF STRENUOUS PRACTICE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Yale football squad began a strenuous week of practice today to eliminate the defects in the gridiron machine exposed in the one-sided battle with Middlebury Saturday. Larry Noble, the only man injured Saturday, was back in uniform and took part in the dummy scrimmage which followed the individual work. Yale meets the University of Georgia next Saturday and the southern machine has many veterans in its lineup who undoubtedly will be seeking revenge for last year's 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Bulldog.

A greater part of the practice today was taken up in individual coaching, the various position coaches showing the men how their work could be improved. With it generally agreed that Bradley has earned his place at left end, the other wing will now receive attention. Fishwick, substitute quarterback, showed good leadership while he was in the game and has justified his grooming for Bunnell's relief man. Backfield candidates devoted considerable time today to kicking.

It became known tonight that even if Captain Joss recovers from his sinus trouble in the near future, the coaches are so well satisfied with the combination in the game Saturday that they will probably not change it after the Pennsylvania game on October 17.

FISHERMAN'S RACES MAY BE SAILED IN NOVEMBER

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 5 (AP)—The possibility that an international fishermen's race may be sailed in November was indicated today when the trustees of the Fishermen's trophy addressed a telegram to the American Fishermen's Race committee outlining atentative arrangement. The message was in reply to a challenge to Canadian fishermen recently issued by the owners of the schooner Columbia, through the race committee which has its headquarters at Gloucester, Mass. It was suggested today that a race might be arranged to be held off this coast, combining elimination and final races.

"Owing to season being so far advanced will be difficult to arrange race this year and even if difficulties overcome, race could not be sailed until between fifth and fifteenth November. Would you agree these dates

"It would facilitate matters if we could combine elimination and international races here. There would probably be two or three competing from here and we would not object to your entering other vessels with Columbia. Cannot guarantee that cvn will see what can be done. Wire."

A Challenge

The Go-Get-Ems of Jewett City will challenge any football team at the age of 15. This team is under a new management and new name. They played 21 games last year and never lost one. If there is any team in Jewett City or out of Jewett City that would like to play phone Charles Maynard, 163-5.

Nutmegs Notice

The Jewett City Speedboys accept the challenge of the Norwich Nutmegs for a game to be played at Slater, park, Jewett City on October 18. Please let us know soon whether or not this is satisfactory.

THREE HURLERS HAVE CHANCE AT COOMBS' RECORD

PITTSBURGH, October 5—(A. P.)—Three pitchers this year, have an opportunity to equal the world's series record of Jack Coombs, the mound marvel who came out of Colby college to aid materially in lifting Connie Mack's mighty Athletics to the highest plane in baseball over a decade ago. Two of them may surpass it.

Coombs participated in three world's series, two as a Mack moundsman and one as a Brooklyn hurler in the series of 1915 against the Boston Red Sox. He won five games and lost none to establish his record. Babe Adams of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Stanley Coveleskie of the Washington Senators each has won three games in a series without defeat and Tom Zachary of the Senators two.

Adams gained his honors when the Pirates conquered the Detroit Tigers in 1909. He is now 44 years old. Coveleskie won three while pitching for Cleveland against Brooklyn in 1920 and Zachary captured two for Washington from the Giants last season.

But matching of the record established by Christy (Big Six) Mathewson, pitching for the New York Giants in 1905 against the Philadelphia Americans, is another matter indeed, for the great Matty, now president of the Boston Braves, scored three shutouts that year.

Outstanding facts on world's series pitching follow:

Ed Reulbach of the Chcago Cubs allowed the "hitless wonders," the White Sox of 1906, only one hit.

There have ben five two-hit games, pitched by Ed Walsh of the White Sox, Mordecai Brown of the Cubs, Eddie Plank of the Athletics, Bill James of the Braves and Waite Hoyt of the Yankees.

Chief Bender holds the mark for most victories—six. And the famous Athletics moundman of the past struck out 50 men in five series. But the famous Indian also tasted several defeats.

Walter Johnson of the Senators in 1924 equalled Ed Walsh's 1906 record for strikeouts in one game, with twelve on the opening day of the Giants-Senators series, a 12-inning battle.

Jack Coombs issued fourteen passes in the 1910 series, nine of them in one game.

Art Nehf of the Giants has allowed 31 bases on balls in the four series in which he has appeared.

The late Wild Bill Donovon hit three batsmen in the series of 1907 between the Tigers and Cubs.

Four pitchers have suffered five defeats in the baseball classics, Plank, Mathewson, Rube Marquard and Joe Bush.

Charles Phillippe of the old Pirates pitched the largest number of innings in a series—44, against the Boston Americans, led by Jimmy Collins, in 1903. Johnson pitched 24 for Washington last year.

Mathewson holds the record for all-time world's series mound work—103 2-3 innings in four series.

Babe Ruth, home run slugger of the Yankees, has a world's series record aside from his efforts as a batsman. He lefthanded through 29 scoreless inning for the Red Sox in 1916 and 1918.

FOUR VARSITY CREWS REPORT TO LEADER

The 150-pound crews started work on the harbor today under the direction of Coach Don Grant. Coach George Murphy also received candidates for the freshman crew at the harbor. The class crews, to be coached by Sam Shaw, will be called out a week from today.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR YALE-BROWN GAME

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Yale's allotment of tickets for the Brown-Yale game to be played in Providence on October 24 will be larger than expected, according to an announcement by the Yale Athletic association tonight. It is probable that all applications from Yale men will be filled but applicants will be limited to two tickets each.

This announcement was made following word received from Fred W Marvel, supervisor of athletics at Brown, subscribers had expressed a willingness to accept fewer tickets than they originally subscribed for.

Blanks will be sent out by the Yale ticket department on request but as the closing date is near at hand —Friday, October 9, at 5 p. m.—the athletic association will honor requests for tickets for this game not made on the regular application blanks.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

In 1907 the Chicago Cubs set up a record of 16 stolen bases in a World series.

Nick Altrock, the Washington comedian, probably has some new stunts to draw laughs from the fans attending the World series.

A six-club winter baseball league is planned for Florida, the season to begin December 1 and continue until the middle of February.

Everett Scott, shortstop of the Washington Senators, this year ties the major league record by playing in as many as six World series.

Two Texas golfers, each of whom has lost an arm, recently competed in a 36-hole match to decide the "one-arm championship" of the Lone Star state.

Expert trainers say an athlete in good condition cannot exhaust himself in a 100-yards race, however fast he covers the ground; but in a quarter-mile he can.

With Carey, Cuyler, Grantham, Bigbee, Wright and Traynor in the play, it would not be surprising to see some new base-running records set up before the World series is ended.

Parry O'Brien, the sensational young outfielder bought by the Philadelphia Athletics, batted for .347 in 116 games while playing with the Dallas Texas league pennant race this year, when the first, third and fifth places in the club standing were not decided until the final day of the season.

In the first World series, played by the Pittsburgh Nationals and the Boston Americans in 1903, Tommy Leach of the first-named team made four base hits in one game, a record that never has been eclipsed in the big series.

Before the war football was almost unknown in Spain. The recent progress of the sport in the land of the Dons is illustrate dby the fact that a Madrid football club is now touring England and holding its own against Britain's best.

The 1925 baseball season appears to have produced a new "miracle man" in the person of "Butch" Wetzel, who piloted Topeka to the Southwestern league pennant. When Wetzel took charge of the Senators only a month or so before the season closed they were in last place.

Mike Sexton, of Rock Island, Ill., the veteran president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, first became interested in the national pastime many years ago when he was chief of police in his home town and was given free admission to the games.

Dried rabbit skins are used for the manufacture of felt hats. No part of the skin is wasted—the fur goes to the hat factories, while the skins reduced to shreds by the furclipping process are made into glue, and the overhair, and waste underfur are disposed of to manufacturers of fertilizer.

A letter under date of Sept. 25th was read from R. G. If the town council is to take action on the matter the time limit for such action, in writing, to be filed is the 25th of October. In this connection, the council will hold its next meeting, as by the Westerly caucus act 27 days before election, on next Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, at which time it will canvass the Westerly voting list for use at the election for town officers Tuesday, Nov. 3rd, the statute requirement being the Tuesday after the first Monday in November biennially, in the odd year.

A committee on the Columbus day observance, Monday, Oct. 12th, consisting of Joseph Ruisi, Joseph Grilis and Michael D. G. Papalia, appeared before the council and requested that some action be taken by the council looking to make Monday a half or partial holiday. Joseph S. Grilis, in behalf of the committee said he had interviewed the managements of the Westerly Textile and American Thread mills and had their assurance that a 3.30 p. m. closing would be agreeable to them and if necessary for their workmen to get ready for a parade they could get away at 3 o'clock. In the discussion it developed that other manufacturing plants were willing to fall in line as to the time of closing. The motion by Councilman Fowler seconded by Councilman Utter was to the effect that the council suggested or recommended that places of business be closed at 3.30 to permit a general participation in the day's observance.

The committee had withdrawn but a few minutes when the members returned, to state that an important part of their visit had been overlooked—the invitation for the councilmen to honor Columbus day observers by attending. It was then voted that the council was pleased to accept the invitation of the committee to review the parade, preferably from the town hall steps.

President Campbell, in considering the complaint received from officials of the George C. Moore company at a previous session, relative to the holding of fairs or carnivals near their plant off Beach street, told the other members of the council that he had been consulted by George C. Moore and Thomas F. Moore, and that it was requested that not only fairs be restricted there, but also the filling in there of material be stopped. He said that he had told them to appear before the council and then to state their complaints for action and that he was in favor of passing the matter until later in the session. Just before the council closed, when no one appeared from the Moore plant, on motion of councilman second by Councilman Fowler, it was voted that no permit be issued by the town of Westerly for the purpose of the holding of fairs in that vicinity. At a previous council session it was represented that fire risks from activities of the kind referred to constituted a menace to the manufacturing plant.

Louis Panciera and James Ladonio were voted milk permits.

The action of the police committee relative to granting permits to Joseph F. Grilis for boxing exhibitions was approved.

Town of Westerly bills for September were presented and voted paid with the exception of those of the miscellaneous account, from which fund there remained no balance and the current month showed "no funds available" amount due $86.65; other payments voted were water works bills, $3272.99; sewer bills, $5471.49 and hospital bills $3. Printing and advertising $12.25; town hall bills $291.17; street lights $1401.19 and new schools $650.

The police bills voted paid were special officer $4.50; auto hire, $10.25; police auto $10.25; traffic $22.50; flash light .55 and telephone and telegraph $83.55.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown's report for the month showed one person taken into custody, two liquor raids and twenty-two arrests, as follows: passing to the left of a traffic sign, feeble minded, disobeying command of an officer; driving autos, under the influence of liquor, without operator's license, with registration; three cases of intoxication, four peddling without license, seven playing cards on the first day of the week and one unlawful possession of liquor.

Sewer assessment apportionments were voted to T. A. and H. L. Wallace, Spruce and Granite streets for $225.48; Allen C. Whitford, Park avenue and Summer street, for $228.01 and Daisy Peabody Hirschfield, Spruce street for $151.95 or a total of $605.41.

The action of Town Treasurer James Pendleton for the issue of $100,000 of town notes as of Nov. 1, 1925 and due May 1, 1926, was voted approved.

Councilman Louis Rossi brought up the matter of the purchase of the lot of Michael Rosso in the Pierce street right of way of the old Westerly-Norwich electric railroad layout, for which a building permit has been held up. He reported that Mr. Rosso would sell the lot for what he paid for it, plus counsel fees of about $50. As the proposed building would be in the way of the town using the right of way for a street and as the town council had no authority to purchase land, it was decided to recommend to the Westerly highway commission that the lot be purchased, the matter could be brought before a financial town meeting.

Councilman G. Benjamin Utter presented in printed booklet form the first and last report of the town of Westerly planning committee, consisting of Arthur L. Perry, chairman, G. E. Utter, clerk, Charles J. Butler, Clifford W. Campbell, Thomas McKenzie and Louis J. Rossi, for which he said that $1500 had been spent. On motion of Councilman Fowler the committee was discharged with "regret and thanks."

When it came to discharging a committee which had been appointed for the purpose of having the town ordinances printed, Councilman Utter said that although some notes were burned in the fire which destroyed the home of Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., yet the greater part had been put in type and that R. I. State Librarian Brigham of Providence was going over them to check out all obsolete and for the purpose of adding such as the Westerly Caucus act and state legislation of a like nature which concerned Westerly.

It was stated that the carrying out of the form of town report for the year had been contracted for and was along similar lines as those used in Massachusetts, where Councilman Utter said discrepencies of Massachusetts town treasurers had been discovered from the use of the form of report and that legislation was forthcoming in Rhode Island where there would be a state audit of town accounts, which would put Westerly accounts in the form for this inspection.

Council President Campbell asked what the opinion of the councilmen was relative to the consideration of the investigation of telephone charges of the Westerly Automatic Telephone company, which had been voted by the council. The expense of having the investigator in Westerly for the purpose of looking into the charges was declared to be an expensive one, as was that of systematizing Westerly town accounts and the cost would total at least between $300 and $500 for which there were no funds available as the matter had progressed to the point where someone would have to be paid. Councilman Fowler asked if the present council could not incur the expense and have the next council when elected pay for it and it was also brought out that the condition could not be considered an emergency not like fire, disease, sickness, etc., on which the town treasurer could be allowed to pay. Further consideration it was stated would probably be given the matter at the next session of the council, next Thursday morning, to which date the council adjourned.

Capotosto Monday morning at 11 o'clock, when the Westerly trial calendar was taken up, in the first jury day of the September term of superior court for Washington county. The $50,000 damage suit of Edwin D. Vennard, vs Harold H. Lihme was the first taken up for jury trial.

The suit was brought by Vennard, a member of the U. S. coast guard, to recover damages alleged to have been sustained by him Sept. 23, 1924, when a motorcycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile operated by defendant, at the junction of Elm and School streets. The following jury was impaneled: Frank L. Crandall, South Kingstown Harold K. Jencks, Elmer L. Tucker and Carlor B. Hamilton, North Kingstown; Walter H. Greene, Ernest W. Crowthers, Arthur E. Trotman and Charles H. Cushman, Westerly; Alexander W. Lewis and George W. Jordon, Hopkinton; Charles Burdick, Charlestown; Joseph H. Brown, Exeter. Charles Burdick was appointed foreman.

At 11:30 o'clock the members of the jury went to inspect the site of the accident. Attorney John Ferguson, Jr., stated that there will be no claim made for damage to the motorcycle. Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun is counsel for Lihme.

Officer Michael Curtin testified that he went to the location of the accident and after he arrived Vennard was placed on the lawn of the Elm street school property. He stated that he and Officer George Madison

In opening his case, Attorney Ferguson stated that the plaintiff would show that Lihme who was operating a Packard automobile at the time of the accident, did not exercise reasonable care in management, operation and control of the machine.

Curious Fish Nets

It appears that fish nets cost nothing at all at Waley, New Guinea. In the forests nearby, spiders about the size of a small hazel nut weave them, and as soon as they are finished the native fishermen go in and take them away. The webs are as large as 6 feet in diameter and are woven in a mesh that varies from 1 inch square at the edges to an eighth of an inch at the center. The webs are exceeding strong and, moreover, are waterproof.

At the place where they are most abundant the natives set up long bamboos bent over to a loop at the end. In a short time the spider weaves a web in a convenient frame and the native has his fish net ready.

He goes down to the stream and uses it with great dexterity to catch fish of about a pound weight; neither the water nor fish can break the mesh. The usual practice is to stand on a rock in back water and when a fish appears dip it up and throw it on the bank.

Walrus Tusks Prized

Ivory carving is becoming a lost art among the Eskimos of Alaska, and the ornately carved walrus tusks are much prized by collectors. A generation or so back the artisans who did this work were quite numerous, but they have gradually passed away, and the young men have not learned to do it.

Economic Bureau Head Resigns

Dr. Henry C. Taylor, Chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the Department of Agriculture since 1919, has been forced to resign his post, due to differences with Secretary Jardine, of the Department. Their differences date from the time of the Coolidge Farm Commission, on which Mr. Jardine served. Dr. Taylor will be succeeded by Thomas P. Cooper, Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week good progress was made on buildings now under construction although the wet weather of Saturday held up the outside construction for half a day. The reports from local contractors regarding the building situation in Norwich is very favorable and they say that the present year has been a busy one.

At the office of Fire Marshall Howard L. Stanton a number of building applications were filed and several permits were granted. Entering upon the last quarter of the year there is every indication that th year will show an increase in the number of building permits issued. The total valuation may not exceed other years but it will not fall short by so much as the the Bishop school and the New Sheltering Arms will be including in this years building.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were eleven sales of real estate as compared to nineteen sales for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $79,500 and $4,500.

There were 12 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, a decrease of seven sales as compared to the same week in 1924. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $84,550 and $70,050.

Building Permits in State

Building permits were issued this week in the towns reported in these columns to the number of 443, for new construction work to cost $1,283,110. A year ago in the like week 257 permits were issued for ne wbuildings to cost $1,018,061, while in the corresponding week of 1923, 326 permits for new buildings to cost $713,466 were issued.

Building Review

Further evidence of the enormous volume of building construction now under way is contained in a review published by the First National Bank of Boston, which is as follows:

"Building operations throughout the country continue with but slight abatement from the unprecedented levels established at the first of the year. Contracts awarded for the first of the year. Contracts awarded for the first seven months of this yea- were $3,189,000,000, an increase of about 19.5 per cent over the corresponding period of a year ago. Contemplated building continues in heavy volume. Building costs have remained firm for the past two months, following a slight recession during the second quarter. Present cost indices are about 4 per cent below a year ago, although over 100 per cent above 1913. A recent survey shows a decline in rentals in 179 cities of the United States. This decline, in the face of hi-h construction costs, will naturally lead to lessened returns on invested capital, which in turn will serve as a check, especially to speculative building.

The labor supply is ample in most districts. Wages are maintained at high levels, but there is lattle disposition to pay bonuses, as was a common practice some time ago. Building labor relations in general are reported quite satisfactory.

New London

Extensive alterations have been started at the former residence of the late Chester H. Bliss on Pequot avenue, for Dennis Heffernan, Ocean Beach. Cannon-Ball Trees

In tropical America, even so far north as the Canal Zone, there flourishes a curious tree, correctly enough it would appear, known as the cannon-ball tree. In French Guiana particularly in thrives in the greatest profusion.

The cannon-ball tree flourishes best in low, moist soil near streams. The public park in Port of Spain, Trinidad, and the botanical gardens in Georgetown, British Guiana, contain fine specimens that never fail to attract the attention of the tourist.

The cannon-ball tree springs up quickly and in the forest attains heights between 60 and 90 feet, but in the open it spreads out more and does not reach such heights. In March this tree drops its leaves with great suddenness, but its new foliage comes out with equal speed in a few days. The pink, curiously formed flowers, with their strong, penetrating perfume, are most abundant, and during heir bloom make the tree a beautiful sight.

The fruit, however, is the chief curiosity. It is a woody, globular pod from six to eight inches in diameter, and its grows on long stems that hang in a tangled mass from the trunk and from the base of the large branches. The fruit is grayish-brown or rusty in color, and about the size of the cannon balls that decorate so many squares throughout the world. The people of French Guiana, whose imagination seems to be most active, noticing the shape of the fruit, its horse-hide-like texture and especially the seamlike scar where the flower detaches itself from the fruit, have nicknamed the tree the "base ball tree."

Physical Test Idea Is Old

Although health examinations are more numerous today than ever, especially on the part of adults, it is not a new idea, for, according to Dr. Alec Thomson of the American Medical association, the idea was brought up in France in 1870. There is a growing interest in the United States which first received the idea about 1900, but according to Dr. Thomson, it will be many years yet before the good results can actually be tabulated.

Why does a man who pats you on the back always turn his own back to be patted?

Sleep Adds Years to Your Life

New Preparation Gives It to You

The most wearing-out process which could afflict a person is that which is caused by lack of sleep. Fitful, insufficient slumber tears the nervous system to pieces and causes much of the weakness, irritability and susceptibility to disease which is often blamed on other causes.

Lack of sleep ages one, destroys beauty and certainly shortens your life. And yet it is so easy to have the sleep refreshing slumber of childhood.

A sleep that will make you feel like a new person and add five years to your life—a slumber that will banish the "blues" and give you the strong, healthy nerves which mean a sunshiny, cheerful outlook on life. And you can get all these benefits from a new, harmless, easy-to-take preparation called Neura.

Neura contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs. The results from the use of Neura have been so remarkable, however, that it is now dispensed by Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere with a guarantee to return the small cost if you are not amazed and delighted with the results from the use of the very first package. Get a good night's sleep tonight by taking Neura today.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

SPEED

NOT AN HOUR'S SPURT BUT A THRILLING 19-HOUR STRETCH

HUPMOBILE EIGHT

Spectacular and convincing proof of the super-ability of the Hupmobile Eight was recorded in the thrilling dash of Major T. W. Campbell and C. E. Emery from Hartford, Conn., to Windsor, Ont., Sept. 20—21.

The car, a standard Sedan owned by Major Campbell, was driven 866 miles in the elapsed time of 19 hours, 20 minutes.

Its road speed was continuously from 50 to 65 miles an hour.

Its average speed, on the basis of elapsed time, was 44.79 miles an hour.

This is three miles an hour faster than the swiftest limited train from Boston to Windsor and Detroit. The distance covered by the car is 120 miles farther than the train's route.

Schedule your run at any speed you like—all day long, if you like—and make your schedule with an ease and comfort you've never known before. Speed sustained mile after mile like a swift express train.

—From recent Hupmobile Eight Advertisements

For eight hours, the run was made in the night; and for six of those eight hours, through blinding, pouring, rain.

The schedule, laid out in advance, called for 170 miles every four hours. In spite of rain and slippery roads—in spite of towing a chance tourist's disabled car for 20 miles on a detour—this schedule was exceeded in the entire distance.

Though the speed was terrific, the car averaged 14.7 miles per gallon of gasoline; 288.66 miles per quart of oil—this from an eight.

The car already had more than 18,000 miles on its speedometer before this run was begun. The valves were ground—for the first time—and it was ready to go.

Not one car in ten thousand is ever subjected to such punishment. But in this magnificent performance is food for much thought.

To owners of the Hupmobile Eight, satisfying assurance that their car is superbly equal to even the most extraordinary demands of speed and distance.

To all others, equally satisfying assurance of what they will acquire when finally they come to the Hupmobile Eight.

For it demonstrates an endurance and a reliability which are peculiarly Hupmobile, and which translate themselves into long years of splendid service.

MARKED BILLS FOUND ON WOMAN IN RAID ON A NEW LONDON HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 5—Using a stool pigeon by the police today resulted in another of the city's numerous "speak easies" being raided for following the conviction of John McLean, a Fishers Island laborer, in the police court this forenoon, the home of Frank Gunther, 37 John street was raided and Gunther and his wife arrested, charged with violation of the prohibition law. Both were held for trial in the police court tomorrow morning, in bail of $1,000 each.

At the conclusion of court, McLean declared that he purchased his liquor at the Gunther residence. McLean was given two bills, each of the denomination of $1, which were marked. He went to the Gunther home where he purchased drinks. A raiding force consisting of Sergeants Nelson Cavanaugh and John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Augustus Ray and William Graham then swooped down on the place and seized a quantity of home-made gin. Upon Mrs. Gunther the two marked bills were found.

October is starting in with a prospect of producing more business for the police than has been their portion in any month during 1925. There were fifteen cases this morning. Most of them grew out of indulgence in liquor, but there were a few attributable to other causes. The Fishers Island wharf furnished its share to the quota of cases. Mike Cahill was found drunk there as he has been found many times before. He was fined $5 for his fun.

Henry Bennett, a sailor from the submarine base, who has not yet attained his majority, was picked up on State street where he was navigating not according to compass. He explained that he met some acquaintances and that the couple of drinks he consumed made him dizzy. As he was likely to be disciplined when he returned to the base, Judge Prince decided that he should not be penalized twice for his indiscretion, and he was turned over to the base authorities.

Edward Reagan, an old offender, was picked up with a bucketful on North Bank street. He was in court last week, but he showed such penitence that judgment was suspended that he might get to work.

Robert Swords was fighting drunk on North Bank street. He said he had been at work in Norwich as a laborer, but that he came to New London and drank some awful stuff that put him out. Sworan gave himself the reputation of being of quiet disposition ordinarily. He drew a suspension of judgment.

John McCarthy was rambling about the railroad property when Officer Kelly picked him up. He showed that he had been at work at Fishers Island and that he had made good use of his earnings by sending $25 a week to his mother. He had the receipts to show that he was telling the truth. That earned him the leniency of the court, but John was told that if he appeared again he would have to go to jail.

Tom Carroll, claiming Montville as his abiding place, was also a victim of liquor. He was accused in similar language on the 27th of September, and said he had now decided to stop drinking. He drew a fine, just to remind him that he would be wise to stop.

George Russell was accused of intoxication and breach of the peace, in that he went to the Learned Mission and there became intolerably abusive. He got into an argument with the janitor, James Brown and finally beat him. Brown is 68 while Russell is a robust young man. Still Brown was not disposed to make complaint to the police, but Supt. Mansfield took a differing view of the matter and secured Russell's arrest. Russell attempted to disclose that Brown called him a vile name, but that attempt did not carry to secure his release unpunished. He was fined $10. He said he had been employed on the lighthouse supply ship Hawthorn and there he will get the money to pay his fine and avoid a term in jail.

George and Effie Bates, husband and wife, were charged with a breach of the peace in getting into a row with Andrew Smith. George and Effie had been at work cleaning a tenement which Smith had hired, paid the rent for and had a receipt. He put a new lock on the door, but he and George regarded that as an assumption of authority and that brought on a row of a serious nature. Effie held Smith and George laid on blows. It was largely a misunderstanding that created the row, so the court nolled the complaint, upon the payment of $5 by Effie and George.

Medrick Roberts abused his wife at their home at 68 Tenth street. She complained to the police and Medrick, drunk at the time, was arrested. He is the second husband of the woman and they do not agree and cannot live together in peace. There are seven children, all born to Mrs. Roberts before she married the man she complained of today. She only asked that he should quit the home and stay away and the court allowed him to do that. He is a weaver, but his occupation of late has been weaving a net of trouble for himself and his wife and family. He was fined $10 and sentenced to jail for ten days, but on his promise to let his former haunts know him no more, execution of judgment was suspended.

John R. McLean, who, it may be said, is not a relative of the Cincinnati publisher, made his fifth appearance in court this year, when the session opened today. He was drunk at the Fishers Island dock and there he was ordered to get away by Railroad Policeman Kelly. He did not seem inclined to obey him. Then McLean became solicitous for McCarthy and sought to make the officer release him. Both were arrested. McLean said he had been at work on that state pier and pleaded so vigorously to get away that he was shown leniency as a trial of his reliability.

N. F. Victor Hagstrom, chauffuer for a broker named O'Connor, with a summer place at Larchmont, drove his employer to New London and then to Providence and was on the way back to Larchmont when he was stopped as he drove his car so close to Policeman George Perkins, on traffic duty at Bank and Howard streets that the policeman got a fright. He stopped the chauffeur and demanded to see the registration of the car and the license of Hagstrom to operate it. The chauffeur did not have registration saying that his employer thought the registration should be kept by the owner of the car. Hagstrom was fined $5 for his carelessness in not conforming to the recognized rules of the road.

Mrs. Charles Stanton, of 176 Garfield avenue; Miss Marguerite McCarthy, 28 Steward street; Mrs. Jeanette Paradise, New Haven; Miss Marjorie Booth, 42 Jay street; Walter Carmichael, United States Coast Guard service; Mrs. James Armstrong, 104 Howard street and Mrs. David Hayes and infant son, Quaker Hill, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

William T. Neilan, well known employee of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, died Sunday at his residence, 21 Squire street after a lingering illness. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Mary Shea; two sons, William and Edward Neilan and a daughter, Miss Eleanor Neilan, besides three brothers, Edward J., James H., and Thomas L. Neilan. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Ancient Order of Hibernians and Knights of Columbus. Mr. Neilan entered the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad 43 years ago, starting as a waterboy. At the time of his death Mr Neilan was employed as a yard conductor in the union station railroad yard.

George Perry Finch, a well known resident of Groton, died this morning at his home, 65 Meridian street. He had been in ill health a long time, but his condition had not been of a serious nature until a short time ago. He is survived by his wife and several children.

Mrs. Edith Dennis of Colman street, stenographer in the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran, has resumed her duties following her vacation of two weeks.

Stephen H. and Claire E. Avery have sold a house and lot on Darrow street to Eva Marie Paquette.

Theodore Bodenwein has sold a house and lot on Vauxhall street to Edmund H. Childsey.

Matthew R. Mollnarski, of New Britain, has sold a cottage and small parcel of land on Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach to Esther Shapiro.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sheffiott, Jr., after their wedding trip are residing on Maple avenue. Mrs. Sheffiott is employed as clerk in the office of City Treasurer Herbert G. Huntley.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayer H. Hollandersky, entertained about 20 acquaintances at their summer residence, 83 Parkway, noting the tenth anniversary of their marriage.

An automobile owned and operated by Charles A. Bezunson, of Oakdale, and a machine owned and driven by Charles A. Collins, 2 Terrace court, were in collision this morning on Main street, near John street. Both machines were damaged somewhat.

An automobile owned and driven by Thomas Crocker, an insurance agent, residing at 3 Peninsula avenue, Ocean Beach, and a machine owned and operated by Frank Benvenuti, 76 Goshen street, were in collision late this afternoon on Bank street, when the former's auto skidded against Benvenuti's auto. The latter car sustained the brunt of the damage.

George O'Brien, 59 Oneco avenue, reported to the police this afternoon that his Ford roadster had been stolen. The car was parked in Atlantic street this morning when O'Brien was unable to start the engine. When he returned to where he had left his machine he discovered that it had been stolen.

Michael Cahill, one of the gang of laborers employed at intervals at Fishers Island, who was fined $5 in the police court this forenoon on a charge of intoxication, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Henry Hick, when the officer found Cahill drunk on Hobron street.

This afternoon McLean was again used as a stool pigeon and with equal success as in the morning's work of the police informer. McLean obtained information that Mrs. Helen Kalinowski, 29, wife of Stefan Kalinowski, 79 Crystal avenue, was dispensing liquor the alcoholic contents of which was greater than one-half of one per cent. After McLean had laid his information before the police, Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen James McKenna, William Graham and William Riordan went to the Kilnowski residence and, armed with a search warrant, made a thorough inspection of the house. A quantity of home-made gin, home-made whiskey, beer and wine was seized. The Kalinowski woman was taken into custody charged with violation of the liquor law and was held for trial in the police court tomorrow morning. Roman Potkai qualifying as surety on the accused bond of $1000.

Bartholome Curran, of advanced years and well known through his having been employed a number of years as sexton at St. Joseph's church, died suddenly of heart trouble, at his home on Bank street, Saturday, Mr. Curran had been feeling as well as usual but was stricken with acute indigestion and died a short time later. Mr. Curran, who had been employed at the plant of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company of late, is survived by his wife and a sister, Mrs. Ellen Sullivan. Summer street.

F. S. Williams, of Providence, who was taken into custody Sept. 17th by Constable Peabody, Waterford, charged with violation of the automobile law in operating a motor vehicle bearing Rhude Island license and while Williams was possessed of a Connecticut license and not a Rhode Island operator's license, was in the Waterford town court this evening. He was fined $3 and costs, but Judge Fred Dimmock ordered that the fine be remitted.

SOUSA, FRAUD CHECK-PASSER, DISAPPEARS FROM SUB-BASE

NEW LONDON, Oct. 5—Albert Sousa, a chief petty officer, stationed at the submarine base, is a much wanted individual because of his successful pursuit of passing worthless checks. Sousa, who was stationed here until recently, claims to be married and he is absent without leave at the base. Sousa, it became known a few days ago, passed a worthless check on a Bank street merchant. Complaint was made to the authorities and at his home, it was stated that Sousa had gone away a day or two before in his automobile and that his whereabouts was unknown to his family. It was known that Sousa formerly resided in New Bedford, Mass., and inquiry of the police of that city was made in an attempt to determine Sousa's whereabouts.

This afternoon Captain Charles W. Lawrence of the New Bedford detective force, stated that Sousa was known in that city because of fraudulent operations and not only did he have a long police record in several Massachusetts cities, but that at least two municipalities had caused a warrant to be issued for Sousa's arrest on charges of passing worthless paper. Sousa, it was stated had seven or eight arrests against him and he had twice served time for larceny, while he had been arrested for breaking and entering and non-support, but other than the two times that he was sentenced to jail, he was placed upon probation. It was also stated that Sousa used several aliases, including Alfred De Sousa, Alfred Lewis and Frank De Sousa.

WM. C. FOX NEW MAYOR— CHOICE OF CITY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. —This city is now under the government elected last month, which is substantially the same as was in authority during the year to date. James A. May is the only new member as he and Messrs Whiton and Fox were elected at the September voting contest. Former State Senator William C. Fox is the presiding officer of the council, chosen this evening by unanimous vote. The old council met at 7:30 and transacted the business that hung over from Last year. There was little of it, and it was dispatched quickly.

When the new council met, John F. Murray, was chosen temporary chairman. Then Mr. Fox was elected permanent chairman and the ship of state was launched. Chairman Fox thanked the council members and declared that he would work for the best interests of the city. He said that each and every member of the council would have the privilege of the floor and all would be accorded all the rights guaranteed them under the law. Applications for the privilege of building were received from half a dozen parties, including one for the erection of a building for a theatre that will be 90x200 eet and be located at the corner of Church and Meridian streets.

Joseph Mondelci offered to the city a tract of land for the continuation of Colmen street with the condition attached that the city shall grade and work the highway so that it will be completed within a period of eight months. The deed of the land was accepted by the council and the city manager was directed to proceed to put the land in condition for highway purposes. The council voted to renew the leases of land in the rear of Hillside Home for garden purposes. The lease in terms is the same as the city has had during the past year and is with the same parties.

The council voted to buy 2,500 feet of hose, one-half the quantity from the United States Rubber company of Boston and one-half from the Eureka company of New York, at 83 cents a foot with 2 per cent discount.

The director of finance was authorized to borrow such sums of money as might be needed to meet the current expenses of the city until the appropriations are made.

An application for a street sign on Bank street was referred to the city manager with power. On motion of Councilor Streeter the rules that governed the council during the past year were adopted to govern the council of 1925.

Chairman Fox appointed the following chairmen of committees of the council—public works, Councilor Woodruff; public safety, Councilor Scott; education, Councilor Whiton; finance, Councilor Murray; public welfare, Councilor May; administration, Councilor Streeter.

Chairman Fox requested that the council take up the matter of adopting a zoning ordinance, saying that it had for some time been before the council and that there was much work to be done under it.

A handsome basket of flowers for the new chairman arrived at the council chamber after the meeting adjourned. It was of roses and worthy of admiration. It received from Chariman Fox and those who were present when it arrived.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"The Lucky Devil," Richard Dix's latest starring picture for Paramount at the Palace is another of those Byron Morgan automobile tales, chockfull of laughs, thrills and just the right kind of romance, the feminine appeal being furnished by Esther Ralston, who played Mrs. Darling in the screen version of the Barrie classic, "Peter Pan," and also appeared in "The Little French Girl" and "Beggar on Horseback."

"The Lucky Devil," directed by Frank Tuttle, is a story of a young demonstrator of auto camping outfits who through a fluke wins a beautiful roadster. It develops that the car has been the center of a sensational divorce suit and when Dix, as Randy Farman, meets Doris (Miss Ralston), "the only girl," she recognizes the car and will have nothing to do with him, believing him to be the good-for-nothing Rudolph Frankiyne.

Randy sets off after Doris and her mother who are touring the country in a battered Ford. He comes upon them, stalled, just as he runs out of gas. He explains how he came into possession of the racer to their satisfaction, takes the gas from the flivver and tows them into town.

There's a big road race to be run off at the fair grounds. Two hundred dollars is the entry fee, and Randys wins the money by staying two rounds with a prizefighter, only to have it taken away from him by an officer who mistakes him for a thief.

Doris is all sympathy and takes it upon herself to "stake" him from her meager savings. Randy, after much ado about everything with mechanics who plan to "throw" the race, decides to drive his own car. He does, and to tell you just how he makes out would be but to spoil an evening's entertainment that we wouldn't want you to miss for the world.

With all due respect to "Manhattan," "Too Many Kisses," "The Shock Punch," and others, "The Lucky Devil" is away up and beyond anything Dix has ever done before. For thrills the screen has never seen the equal of the race sequence in this picture. For laughs it has never seen anything funnier than the department store scenes with Dix demonstrating camping outfits—his wrestling match with a "trick" lion; etc., and for romance—Well, Dix himself admits that his one weakness is pretty girls, and they don't come any prettier than Esther Ralston.

Townsend Martin adapted "The Lucky Devil" to the screen. "Gunboat" Smith is the "pug" who hands our Richard an artistic trimming in the picture—a fight that makes the little set-to staged by this same pair in "Manhattan" tame by comparison.

Connecticut College Concert

The recent announcement of the seasons concert offerings sponsored by Connecticut College has met with widespread interest and enthusiasm. The five concerts arrangement instead of four as in former years has been especially commended. In securing Jacques Thibaud, the most noted of all French violinists for the extra concert, the committee made a happy choice.

The Philharmonic will be led this year by Willen Mengelberg, their foremost conductor. The bringing of a great orchestra of over a hundred musicians to New London annually is an achievement in itself. With Mengelberg conducting, this concert will prove an outstanding feature not only of this series, but of all that had gone before.

Repeated telephone calls and every mail bring inquiries concerning the date upon which course tickets go on sale and how to secure them. Readers of this paper will find complete information in the announcement on another page.

Palace Theatre

The B. F. Keith's Palace theater of New York could not give a better program than the one seen at the Broadway theater yesterday and continues there Wednesday. There are five supreme acts of Kieth vaudeville and a very fine photoplay as the attractions.

Ed Hill, the cartoonist opens the program with a real novel routine of caricatures that are as interesting as they are funny. This is the first act of its kind ever seen in Norwich.

Hugh Wilson and Charlotte Dolson follow in Two in One. It is really a comedy offering that is different.

The big surprise came when Dixie Mason the musical comedy star and her Five Hearts and Spades appeared on the stage. It is a winning hand in song and dance that won over everybody.

Hal Holly and Ada Lee in The New Floorwalker came in for a good share of real laughter. It is a real bright comedy with song to help it along.

Ossi and Linko closed the stage offerings with a gymnastic novelty called Spring Training. It is just full of fun and thrills.

Imagine two voices so similar that even the husband of one of the women was unable to distinguish one from the other! An amazing photoplay has been builded about this strange situation. It is called The Substitute Wife and it was directed by Wilfred Noy for release beneath the Arrow banner. The patrons of the Broadway theater will be given an opportunity to see it today and Wednesday. Included in the brilliant cast are Jane Novak, Niles Welch, Louise Carter, Colt Albertson, Gordon Standing, Ruth Andre and Mario Majeroni.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS TO CRUSADE AGAINST USE OF TERM FLAPPER

NEW YYORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Camp Fire Girls, Incorporated, 160,000 strong, have organized a crusade against the use of the term flapper as "odious and unfair." Females of tender years must be called "moderns" instead of flappers, the organization has decreed and has drafted Colleen Moore, known as the "perfect flapper" of filmdom, to lead the crusade.

Announcing the campaign today, Lester F. Scott, national executive, pointed out that of 3,000,000 honors awarded to girls among the 600,000 past and present members of the Camp Fire Girls, more than half were for proficiency in homecraft, which includes cooking, sewing, housekeeping and the care of babies.

"Camp Fire work," he says "has revealed that gris of today are reaching an age of sophistication earlier than in previous years. Two years ago we lowered the minimum age limit for Camp Fire Girls from 12 to 11 years because of this."

BERT F. MORE RE-ELECTED— LONE SUCCESSFUL DEMOCRAT

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5. — Bert F. More, democratic candidate for tax collector, present incumbent of the office, was the sensation of the day in the annual election of the town of Windham, Monday, when he ran ahead of his ticket in every district and won the only democratic victory in a republican landslide. More was ahead of his ticket by 59 in the first district, normally republican, 39 in the second, 17 in the third, and 18 in the fourth. His opponent was Lester H. Bliss, whom he defeated by 74 votes. The remainder of the republican ticket was carrie dby heavy majorities.

A total of 3,650 votes was cast. At 10 o'clock at night all districts, headed by the first, had reported and the totals were compiled in the first district headquarters at the town building by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton and Chief Moderator George G. Gifford. Mr. Gifford then declared those elected and the meeting was adjourned to next Saturday afternoon.

There was considerable interest, especially due to the unusual circumstance brought about by James M. Smith, republican, being placed on the democratic ticket for first selectman, as a result of the activities of the former employes of the American Thread Co. Smith's backers were much in evidence throughout theday and left no stone unturned to sweep him into office. Rain, however, dampened the enthusiasm of the voters. Smith was defeated by Ernest P. Chesbro by 199 votes. The election day went on record as the quietest ever held in the town.

Following was the vote, the names starred being the winners:

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(A. P.)—With total sales again running around two million shares today's stock market disclosed considerable confusion in price movement. Heavy calling of loans in apparent rectification of the deficit in reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement, induced the heavy liquidation of stocks throughout the session. The decline in the general list was kept in check by the brisk accumulation of special issues, particularly in the food, merchandising and rubber groups.

United States Steel common appeared to be under pressure in the early part of the session, selling down to 120 3-4, but it later rallied to 123 1-2 and then eased to 122 for a slight fractional gain on the day. Some of the smaller independents were in good demand, Ludlum crossing forty for a gain of over 3 points, and United Alloy closing nearly two points higher at 29.

Extreme buoyancy developed in a number of high priced specialties, Nash Motors soared 32 points to 488, the highest price ever recovered, and then dropped back to 480, buying being influenced by rumors of an early split up of the stock. Recapitalization rumors also accounted for a jump of nearly 15 points in Woolworth to 193 3-4, a new high for the present stock. Foundation Company was bid up 4 3-8 points to a new maximum for all time at 146 7-8 in anticipation of heavily increased earnings through recent foreign contracts.

New York Ship Building, which will shortly be known as American Brown-Boveri, showed an extreme gain of nearly 8 points at 77, a new peak and then slipped back to 74 on realizing. American International, a large holder of New York Shipbuilding stock, touched a new top at 42 1-2 and then eased to 41 1-8.

Packing company shares continued to reflect the improvement in that industry. Armour A was taken in large blocks, closing 1 3-4 higher at 27 1-4 after attaining a recovery price slightly above that figure. Cudahy, selling ex-dividend, showed fractional improvement. Other food stocks for which there was a good demand were Coca Cola, which closed 5 points higher at 149, and Austin Nichols, both Fisheries first preferred, National Dairy Products, and Postum Cereal. United States Rubber was run up nearly 5 points to 72 1-8 at the expense of an overcrowded short interest, and Goodrich closed nearly 3 points higher at 78 1-2. Other outstanding strong spots included Brown Shoe, Coty, Inc., Dodge Brothers A, Fairbanks-Morse, S. S. Kresge, May Department Stores and Sears Roebuck, all up about 2 to 10 points.

Sharp declines took place in some recent industrial favorites. General Electric broke over six points to 300; Chrysler fell back to 183 and DuPont, Fleischmann, International Paper, Mack Trucks, New York Canners, Pierce-Arrow, preferred, Union Bag and Paper and Ward Baking A and B, lost 12 to nearly 4 points.

Trading in the rails was rather sluggish, the establishment of new 1925 highs by Bangor and Aroostook and "Big Four" being among the few features. Most of the trunk line carriers showed fractional recessions.

Call money opened at 5 per cent., and then advanced to 5 1-2, closing at the top. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Chief interest in the foreign exchange market centered in the brisk demand for Brazilian milreis which touched a new high record for the year at 14 7-8 cents. Scandinavian currencies were weak. Norwegian kroner dropped about 50 points to 19.68 cents and Danish kroner ruling 10 points lower around 23.98 cents. Demand sterling held firm at $4.83 1-32 and French francs at 4.63c.

Other European rates moved within narrow and irregular limits.

TAFTVILLE

Rally day was observed Sunday at the Taftville Congregational church school at 9:15 a. m. There was a large attendance. The speaker of the day was Henry D. Johnson of Norwich, who was introduced by Superintedent Victor H. Davis. Mr. Johnson spoke of the heritage that scholars in the school had to maintain — how in generations gone before much thought and work had been put in to supply the community with the church that now stands there. He also spoke of church school work in general and emphasized the point that it was his opinion that much of the holy scriptures should be committed to memory while the scholars were young. Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, pastor of the church, took of the feeling that there should be a teacher training class in order that the teachers of the church school could be better equipped and trained to handle the work they are doing. There is no doubt that the church school could enroll a great many new members if sufficient thought was given to the training of the teachers.

COUNCIL ADOPTS NEW TRAFFIC CHANGES SOON TO BE EFFECTIVE

The court of common council at its October meeting Monday evening in the council chamber, Mayor Milo R. Waters in the chair, adopted new traffic ordinances making Broadway Hill one way north and Union street one way south. These changes, along with one or two others, were proposed by the police committee at last month's meeting and at that time a hearing was set for Monday evening, at this month's regular council meeting. There was either little interest in the traffic law changes, or the public were well satisfied with the suggestions made by the police committee, for no one appeared to speak either for or against the new ordinances. In fact there was but one spectator present and that particular spectator has been a more or less regular attendant at the council meetings for some months past.

The meeting was called to order at 8.15 o'clock by Mayor Waters and but little business, outside of the action on the traffic ordinances, was transacted. There were but two petitions, the routine reports of city officials and department bills to be acted upon. In keeping with custom the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading, City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read his return of publication on the new traffic ordinances and the return was accepted. The city clerk then read the traffic changes in full, after which Mayor Waters declared the hearing open. There was no one present to be heard either for or against so the hearing was immediately closed by the mayor. The council then adopted the traffic changes.

The new traffic laws prohibit machines from driving down Broadway, turning around the beacon at the junction of Broadway, Main and Shetucket streets and driving back up Broadway. They also prohibit drivers from driving through Shetucket street, making the turn around the beacon and then driving back through Shetucket street. They will become effective after the necessary legal publication of the changes has been made.

Parking, which has been unlimited, up to five hours, on the northwesterly side of Cliff street, will be limited to 40 minutes. Broadway hill from Union square to the head of the Little Plain will be one way going north and Union street from the head of the Little Plain to Union square will be one way south.

A petition from M. F. Noyes asks for an electric light at or near No. 25 Garfield avenue. This was referred to the police committee with power.

Another petition, from Margaret A. Rohan, asks that a grade for a sidewalk be established in front of No. 66 North Cliff street. This petition went to the public works committee.

The monthly report of the street commissioner, the monthly report of the city treasurer, the quarterly cash statement of the water department, the quarterly report of the chief of police, and the quarterly report of the fire marshal on the number of building permits issued the last quarter, were received and accepted. The fire marshal's quarterly report showed that a total of 87 permits for new buildings and alterations to present buildings were granted during the quarter.

The police committee reported that they had granted the petition of Norwich Lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E. for the installation by the city of an electric light at their Elks parking space, the parking space being provided by the lodge for the free use of all Elks, local and visiting. The report was accepted.

Theodore F. Lokosky presented a claim, read by the city clerk, for damages of $15.50 to his machine while he was turning from Broad street into Boswell avenue. He claimed the housing on his machine was broken owing to the poor condition of the street, and accompanying his claim was a bill of repairs for $15.50. This claim went to the finance committee and the corporation counsel.

By resolutions petitions for the acceptance of Tyler avenue, Watercress avenue and a part of Sturtevant avenue as public streets, were referred to the public works committee.

The council then adopted a resolution authorizing the payment to Frank Brennan of $7 in settlement of his claim against the city for damage done to a spring on his automobile on Boswell avenue.

Mayor Waters announced his appointment of Robert J. Swanton as a member of the recreation commission to succeed Frank Leonard. Department bills were approved as follows:

Finance dept., $15,348.90; gas and electric dept., $48,975.23; fire dept., $6,121.38; park dept., $648.28; cemetery dept., $842.78; public works dept., permanent street improvement, $80.06; regular, $19,717.11; water dept., Deep River reservoir project, $14,491.23; water dept., $4,576.52; police dept., $5,439.74; street lightning, $2,536.29.

Since the last meeting of the council two new white shaded electric lights have been installed back of the mayor's desk, providing much better lighting facilities.

MASSACHUSETTS SALESMAN DROPS DEAD ON BUSINESS TRIP HERE

Ralph G. Merrill, about 50, of No. 33 Oakwood road, Newtonville, Mass., dropped dead at the entrance to the Liggett drug store, corner of Main and Shetucket streets, about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. Mr. Merrill, who was a traveling salesman, had been in The Boston store on business and had just left that store. He was standing in the vestibule which serves as an entrance for both the Boston store and the Liggett drugstore, when he suddenly crumpled and fell to the sidewalk, dying almost instantly.

Dr. Edward J. Brophy was called and reached the unfortunate man within a minute or two of his collapse. Mr. Merrill was dead when the doctor arrived. As soon as he fell he was carried into the drugstore where the body was viewed by Dr. George H. Gildersleeve, acting medical examiner, in the absence of Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve. Death was probably due to heart failure.

Mr. Merrill, it is said, had enjoyed exceptionally good health and was in excellent spirits while in The Boston store. Undertaker C. A. Gager was given permission to remove the body to his rooms on Franklin street. The dead man's wife was notified of his death by Undertaker Gager and immediately made preparations to come to Norwich from her home in Newtonville to make arrangements for the funeral.

DEFER CHOOSING ARCHITECT FOR SANATORIUM BUILDINGS

By changing its shape, size and its other characteristics, the tubecle bacillus, the cause of consumption, has the power of accommodating itself to varying degrees of hostile environments. This was the thesis supported by Dr. William M. Stockwell, superintendent of Cedar Crest sanatorium, during the conference which was held Monday at Hartford by the medical officers of the state's tuberculosis sanatoria.

Dr. Stockwell related many laboratory experiments and clinical observations as proof of his contention.

Dr. M. W. Teplitz, one of the assistants of Cedar Crest, opened a discussion of the frequency and importance of tuberculous pneumonia, that is, a pneumonia occurring in a patient who is already sick with consumption. X-ray pictures illustrating this condition in a series of fifty cases were shown by him.

In order to further study the dozen sets of excellent plans which were furnished last week by prominent architects for the new buildings at Uncas-on-Thames, it was decided by the state tuberculosis commission on Monday not to make final selection of architects until Monday of next week.

NORWICH GIRL WINS WAY TO THEATRICAL CAREER

Miss Betty Budnick, a native of this city, who has been in New York for the last two years, has had her efforts to make a place on the stage and over the radio crowned with success.

She went to New York as club entertainer and took the stage name of Betty Selwyn. Her voice, a lyric soprano, attracted the attention of Frank Whitmark, song writer, after she had been in New York a short time and he took her to Jimmy Clark, who presents the "White Way Entertainers." She was given an audition and without waiting for her to be assigned to a programme, he made her a member of his songsters.

In addition to broadcasting with "Jimmy Clark and His White Way Entertainers," Miss Selwyn has frequently appeared before the "mikes" at Stations WJZ and WEBH. She appears regularly with the "White Way Entertainers" at Station WHN Wednesday afternoons and on Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Miss Selwyn also plays the piano but she has not extended her efforts in the instrumental field since singing is her choice for a career.

She is also active in motion picture work, having appeared in First

MISS BETTY BUDNICK

National, Inspiration and Famous Players films, as well as at the Casino and Jackson studios.

She is continuing her film work in addition to her music. In the latter field she is specializing in "blues" songs and jazz novelties. She also entered the musical show field and appeared in the "Chiffon Girl."

Her club work during her early months in New York carried her into many of the leading hotels of the city, including the aldorf-Astoria, the Ritz-Carlton and the Astor. She faced one of her largest audiences in Madison Square Garden where she appeared in a drive for funds for the Israel Orphan Asylum.

Since becoming a member of the "White Way Entertainers," Miss Selwyn has made frequent trips out of the metropolitan area, one of the most frequent being to Lake Hopatcong. She has had many offers of parts in road companies of Broadway productions but has declined these in order to remain in the city where she will have the benefit of its musical advantages.

She will take up the study of dramatics this fall as a part of her preparation for her theatrical career.

COLLEGE QUARTETTE OPENS MUSIC ASSOCIATION SEASON

The Norwich Music association opened its eleventh season on Monday evening in Slater Hall annex with an unusual program presented by the College Quartette, a quartette composed of members and former members of the Harvard Glee club under the direction of Joseph Lautner. Gifted as individuals with fine, well trained voices, the ensemble was delightfully blended, unusual and most pleasing.

Care was evidently taken at all times to hold the voices within the realm of good quality in tone, the fortes ample but restrained, the ensemble at all times smooth, uniform, refined. The choice of programme was unique and a very pleasant change beginning with church music of the 16th century, the audience was lead easily and intelligently to the compositions of the near modern—a programme satisfactory to the ear as well as to the intellect.

Mr. Lautner very carefully making his selections with regard to the programme of the evening, appeared in two most pleasing groups of songs. He always satisfies, singing with finished voice, faultless control and a style and artistry which leaves little to be desired.

Adoramus Te—Palestrini 1526-1594, Lo, How a Rose—Praetorius 1571-1621, Miserere Mei Deus—Allegri 1580-1652, Not Let Every Tongue—Bach 1685-1750, quartet, Lusinghe piu Care—Handel 1685-1759, Be still, be still—Bach 1685-1750, Mr. Lautner, My Bonny Lass—Morley 1557-1603, three choruses from "The Tower of Babel"—1820-1894, quartet, Open the Door Softly—Hebert Hughes, Naples—Winter Watts, La Fuite de la Lune—Charles Griffes, Song of the Road—Vaughan Williams, Mr. Lautner, To All You Ladies—Callcott 1766-1821, Hunter's Farewell—Mendelssohn 1809-1847, Fireflies—Russian Folk Song, Bedouin Love Song—Arthur Foote 1854, quartet.

Before proceeding to the programme of the evening, resolutions were offered by Mrs. Robert W. Perkins upon the death of Frederick W. Lester and were inscribed upon the records of the association, expressing the great debt which it owed to Mr. Lester, as an advisor at the time of organization and later for his generous assistance in its programmes; as well as recording appreciation of his influence in the revival of interest in organ recitals in this city and the great loss to music in Norwich which had been suffered in his passing away.

During the evening announcement was made of the recital to be given under the auspices of the association by Maurice Marechal, cellist of Paris, France. This recital promises to be a real unusual event, as Mr. Marechal has gone far since his appearance here in 1920 and is now easily rated among the world's great cellists.

The enemy of teeth and gums

Film is the great enemy of teeth and gums; a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth and gum troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have firm, pretty gums unless you combat that film.

COOLIDGE SHOWS EVIL OF RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE

Chief Executive, in Addressing American Legion at Omaha, Declared There Could Be No Assurance of Lasting Peace Until Racial Hatreds Give Way to Good Will And Tolerance—Deplored the Wave of Religious Intolerance That Has Been Sweeping the Country—Declared That Military Power Must Be Subordinated to Civil Authority.

OMAHA, Nebr., Oct. 6—(A. P.)—Appealing to America to take the lead in prevention of war, President Coolidge declared here today that there can be no assurance of lasting peace until racial hatreds are supplanted by international good will and tolerance. His plea was made before the American Legion convention where he was cheered repeatedly as he read a carefully prepared speech.

An ovation was accorded the president during a crowded ten hour stay here which was climaxed by a review of thousands of world war veterans. For two hours he watched the parade protected somewhat in a covered stand from a chilly wind and the marchers were still filing by when he made a hurried departure to board a train for Washington.

During his convention address which was heard by more than 7,000 men and women, crowded into the municipal auditorium, the president sought to emphasize his remarks, particularly so when he deplored the wave of religious intolerance which he said had swept the country, and when he declared that in preparing the nation for emergencies, military power must be subordinated to civil authority.

"Divine providence has not bestowed upon any race a monopoly of patriotism and character," asserted Mr. Coolidge, recalling that during the war, "no man's patriotism was impugned or service questioned because of his racial origin, his political opinion, or his religious convictions."

"Thanks to our comparative isolation," continued the president, "we have known less of internal friction and rivalries than some other countries less fortunately situated. But among some of the varying racial, religious, and social groups of our people there have been manifestations of an intolerance of opinion, a narrowness of outlook, a fixity of judgment, against which we may well be warned. It is not easy to conceive of anything that would be more unfortunate in a community based upon the ideals of which Americans boast than any considerable development of intolerance as regards religion."

Nearing the end of his address, the president, with his audience listening attentively, declared that America can be made first in the true sense only by cultivating a spirit of friendship and good will by the exercise of the virtues of patience and forbearance by being "plenteous in mercy" and through progress at home and helpfulness abroad standing as an example of real service to humanity."

"It is for these reasons," he continued, "that it seems clear that the results of the war will be lost and we shall only be entering a period of preparation for another conflict unless we can demobilize the racial antagonisms, fears, hatreds and suspicions, and create an attitude of toleration in the public mind of the peoples of the earth."

Apparently in doubt as to whom his remarks were aimed at the vast audience listened without applause to the president's insistence that civil authority must be supreme over military power. Coupled with this suggestion was the declaration that "any organization of men in the military service bent on inflaming the public mind for the purpose of forcing government action through the pressure of public opinion is at an extremely dangerous undertaking and precedent."

The delegates to the first American Legion convention honored by a president with his presence greeted with cheers, Mr. Coolidge's statements that "nobody says now that Americans cannot fight."

That he was a firm "believer in a policy of adequate military preparation," that "the country can rest assured that if security lies in military force, it was never so secure before in all its history," and his advocacy of a selective service act applying to both persons and materials.

After he had wound up his speech with a declaration of faith in the American Legion, the president was cheered several minutes, Mrs. Coolidge, seating behind him on the platform becoming in also for cheers and applause.

Although a cold, drizzling rain was falling when the presidential party left its train here after a forty hour ride covering 1,300 miles, from Washington, it cleared off during the morning and at times during the review sunshine streaked through the clouds. It was chilly, however, and the thousands of spectators in the open stands, across the street from the president, had difficulty keeping warm.

Before going to the reviewing stand, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge attended a luncheon given in their honor by Omaha citizens and legion officials at the Omaha club. Finding they were unable to remain for the entire parade they entered an automobile and moved slowly toward the end of the line to wave a greeting to delegations yet to pass the reviewing stand.

The presidential train is due in Washington Thursday morning.

REPORT OF CONVENTION OF AMERICAN LEGION

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 6—(By the A. P.)—The American Legion put aside business of its seventh annual convention here today to listen to an address by President Calvin Coolidge and to pass in review before him in a four mile long, colorful spectacle, the Legion's annual parade.

With the departure of the chief executive at dusk this evening, formalities and festivities also took their departure and the legionnaires plunged into serious consideration of several paramount problems confronting them.

One point seemed to have been taken care of today when the place and time committee announced it unanimously would recommend Philadelphia for the 1926 convention, with the time to be announced later by the legion executive committee. Philadelphia has waged a hard fight for the next gathering wanting it along with the sesqui-centennial celebration.

Hotel lobbies and state delegation headquarters throbbed tonight with gossip concerning Colonel William Mitchell, the army critic of the nation's air service, and selection of the next national commander.

There seemed to be a determination in some quarters to prevent the Mitchell matter from getting to the floor of the convention, and in another quarter a determination equally as strong; th have the American Legion boldly assert that it unqualifiedly upholds Colonel Mitchell.

The sub-committee of five of the aeronautical committee appointed to adopt recommendations to the whole committee will make its report early tomorrow morning before the committee session opens.

Tonight it was indicated that the committee would be asked to adopt a resolution calling for a separate air service department, a plan similar to that advanced by Colonel Mitchell, it was understood, however, that the proposed resolution would not delve into personalities.

At least half the states were not represented in the original aeronautical committee meeting and no definite idea of the attitude tomorrow's early morning meeting will adopt could be ascertained tonight. There was strong indication, however, that regardless of its action, the name of Colonel Mitchell and a demand for official commendation for him would be spoken from the convention floor.

Virtually all of tomorrow's session will be given over to address by prominent army and navy men and civilians with reports from three committees, constitutional amendments, F. L. D. A. C., and world peace.

"The most successful parade in the history of the American Legion" was the comment of National Commander James A. Drain, as the last organization in line, the Salvation Army, filed by the reviewing stands. It required two hours and forty minutes to pass.

Heading the line, by virtue of its greatest increase in membership last year, was the delegation from Florida. Nebraska was second. But both of them were far outnumbered by the Iowa and Wisconsin men, and women.

Bands, drum corps, floats, clowns and civilians made up the long line.

Iowa, with its great mass of men each bearing a cornstalk and shouting Iowa's "national anthem," "That's Where the Tall Corn Grows," held a place in the parade nearly thirty minutes.

The president was saluted by the lifting of a veritable forest of cornstalks. Even drum majors of the Iowa bands beat time with corn stalk batons.

Iowa was joined by South Dakota in throwing corn to the 250,000 spectators, who lined the route of march. Kentucky threw tobacco, California threw oranges.

Drum corps, each nattily attired in bright uniforms, received rounds of applause.

One remarkable float was that of the Racine, Wis., post, a group of bronze-painted men representing soldiers in action, posed so realistically, despite the bumping and jouncing of the truck which bore them, that many thought the group was cast.

Other floats depicted the various industries of various sections.

Massachusetts had an impressive delegation in the line. They wore purple collegiate caps and gowns. Mrs. Coolidge applauded vigorously as the Massachusetts men and women filed by singing the state song.

The Vermont marchers were few, but President Coolidge beamed as they passed.

The Wyoming men, dressed as cowboys, fired six shooters, as they rode along ahead of two old time stage coaches.

Tennesseans were few, but the Chatanooga drum corps caused much comment by its appearance as men just from the trenches, with mud-stained faces and clothing. Pennsylvania had the largest group of women.

GRAVE CHARGES AGAINST PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 6—Sensational charges were lodged against Max Speilke, prosecuting attorney of the Stamford city court, before Judge John J. Walsh in the criminal court of common pleas, this afternoon, by two men who were arrested in Stamford for transporting 250 cases of genuine Scotch whiskey, valued at $40,000, on September 20.

Prosecuting Attorney Speilke, they said under oath on the witness stand, took them into a small room at city hall, Stamford, and there intimidated them by calling names. "Hi-jackers, bandits, second story men" they declared were the epithets he directed against them.

Then, they testified, Mr. Speilke, not allowing them time to retain counsel, "promised" he would "get them off" with a light sentence of thirty days if they would walk into court and plead guilty." The men did plead guilty in the lower court, but jail sentences of six months were imposed upon them. They took an appeal.

TIMES SQUARE IMPERIOUS TO AIRPLANE "BOMBING"

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Inhabitants of Times Square have stronger nerves than those of Wall street.

This was demonstrated today when a convoy of airplanes from Mitchell field "bombed" the theatrical district in a maneuver similar to that staged Saturday over the financial section. In the former case, thousands of tense brokers and clerks rushed to the street and some of them turned in fire alarms. Today, Times Square ignored the visit.

New Haven Express Derailed at Stamford

Eight Persons Injured—Accident Said to Be Due to Spreading Rails.

STAMFORD, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Seven cars of the train number 54, the Boston to New York express on the New Haven railroad were derailed here today, 11 persons being injured in the crash. The accident was due, it is believed to spreading rails, although an official statement issued by the New Haven railroad said the exact cause would not be learned until after a careful investigation.

Joseph Weisner, Andover, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Gurwitz, 494 Edgewood avenue, Hartford; Mrs. John Barry, 111 Medford street, Arlington, Mass.; Miss Lena Davidson, 52 Barclay street, Worcester, Mass.; A. Ekmamian, 333 Essex street, Lawrence, Mass.; Marie Barado, 71 1-2 Hudson street, Hartford; E. F. Walker, 92 Mulligan street, Melrose, Mass.

In addition to this list it is known that E. E. Abbott, Palmer, Mass.; A. E. Sweet, New York city, and Mrs. Lillian Saifer, New Haven, suffered injuries in the wreck.

Mrs. Barry, Mr. Ekmamian and Mr Walker were taken to the New Haven hospital for treatment and the rest received first aid treatment and continued on on relief special made up to take the passengers through to their destinations. Mr. Walker was released from the hospital this afternoon. Mr. Ekmamian received internal injuries and may die.

The accident occurred at 12:55 today about one mile east of Glenbrook. The train consisted of nine cars and was made up with an electric motor, a Boston and Albany mail car and a Pullman composite car, none of which were derailed; three Pullman cars, all of which were derailed, but remained upright and two coaches, and one smoker, all of which were derailed and which listed considerably.

The derailed cars blocked three tracks for several hours and the cars after jumping the tracks tore up about 1,000 feet of the roadbed.

Although the cars were dragged for a considerable distance after leaving the iron, they did not upset. The injured passengers were taken to the Stamford station where most of them were given medical treatment.

Track repair work was being done at the scene of the accident and the train was moving about 35 miles an hour when the c ars jumped the rails.

MOVEMENT OF GOLD FROM LONDON TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP) — The first substantial export movement of gold from London to New York since Great Britain's return to the gold standard last spring is now under way. Engagements for approximately $4,000,000 of British gold was announced today by three New York banks, which found it profitable to buy the metal through their London correspondents in foreign exchange transactions. Most of the gold, it is expected, will be shipped on the Homeric, which sails from Southampton tomorrow.

Additional shipments will depend on fluctuations of sterling exchange which recently has been quoted below the old export point. Following today's announcement that between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 had been withdrawn from the Bank of England for export to the United States and the continent, sterling quickly strengthened and local bankers expressed doubts that a profitable margin could be long maintained.

Although a few small shipments from England, aggregating about $1,-000,000 speeded into the United States last May, the consignments announced today are the largest since July 1924, when New York received $13,000,000 in gold from London. Most of the precious metal brought from England since the war has been in the form of trans-shipments of gold direct from the South African mines.

Approximately $2,000,000 of the gold now on its way will go to the Farmers Loan & Trust company, and about $1,000,000 each to Seaboard National bank and the Irving bank — Columbia Trust company.

BELIEVE MISSING AIR MAIL PILOT CRASHED TO DEATH

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—Volunteers, who for two days have been combing Stone Mountain in the vicinity of Rock Ridge for traces of Charles H. Ames, missing air mail pilot, tonight admitted defeat. Sheriff W. M. Corbin, who led the scores of searchers, said they had found it impossible to penetrate the dense forest and thick undergrowth for wide areas in the section where Ames was believed to have crashed to earth Thursday night. The sheriff declared that airplanes probably could be used effectively, but that no human being on foot could get through the rocky wildness.

The search in Stone mountain was started yesterday after racoon hunters had reported having heard a crash resembling the sound of falling trees about a mile from their camp on Rock Ridge at midnight Thursday. Three of the hunters, who have spent most of their lives in Stone mountain, led the party to the spot where they had heard the crash, but they are unable to get near the place where they thought the mail plane might have fallen.

Several additional reports were received today from farmers living in the foothills of Stone mountain that they had seen an airplane circling over their places late Thursday. They first heard the motor and then saw the lights. The plane, the farmers said, was just clearing the tree tops of the highest peaks and apparently was looking for a safe landing place.

A. F. of L. Resolutions Cover Varied Field

Urge Union Labelled Wall Paper — Favor Organization oft Bank Clerks.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP) — The American Federation of Labor was in session less than two hours today transacting routine business, receiving seventeen resolutions of a varied character and listening to an address by Fritz Tarnow, of Berlin, spokesman for a delegation of fifteen German trade unionists now in America investigating industrial conditions. The resolutions committee was in session tonight receiving many more resolutions which will be presented tomorrow.

Three of the resolutions were aimed at the administration of George H. Carter, the public printer at Washington, who was charged with "violating every phase of the civil service law" of "being guilty of many actions detrimental to the best interests of labor", and with being "an ineligible, incompetent and intolerant public servant who has become a public tyrant."

The resolutions were presented by James H. Lynch of the, International Typographical union, William S. Samson of the Pittsburgh, Pa., Central labor union and James P. Holland of the New York state Federation of Labor. One resolution called for Mr. Carter's removal from office; the others asked President Coolidge and congress to make an investigation.

Among the other resolutions were those opposing military training camps and any effort to foster militarism; urging union-labeled wallpaper; favoring the organization of bank clerks and that unions be circularized asking members not to subscribe to magazines printed by the Crowell Publishing company, Springfield, Ohio. The latter company publishes Collier's Weekly, the American Magazine, the Woman's Home Companion, Farm and Fireside and other publications. The resolutions charged that the Crowell company had refused to employ union labor.

The delegates of the Porto Rico Federation of Labor announced they would submit two resolutions, one demanding that the administration of Porto Rican official affairs be transferred from the war department to a civil department; and the other calling for an investigation by congress of the industrial, economic and social conditions of the island.

An international flavor was injected into the proceedings when President Green introduced Herr Tarnow, of the German Woodworkers' union, and Arthur A. Purcell, member of the parliament, a delegate from the British trades unions. The latter will speak tomorrow.

Although Herr Tarnow spoke in his native language and only a few understood him, he was listened to with close attention and cheered at the conclusion of his talk. An interpreter later translated the speech into English. He said that trade unionism in Germany was rapidly recovering from the effects of the war; that its membership was now 5,000,000 and that occasionally the bolshevists caused trouble.

He was applauded when he said that Germany would not return to a monarchy. "Only fools and political blockheads believe there will be a return to the old regime," he said. Herr Tarnow struck a responsive chord when he said that one of the first things the German delegation did upon its arrival recently was to visit the grave of the veteran labor leader Samuel Gompers, in Tarrytown, N. Y., and place a wreath upon it.

SAYS LACK OF FUNDS CURTAILS NAVAL ACTIVITY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP) — Rear Admiral W. R. Shoemaker, chief of the bureau of navigation, declared before the president's air board today that lack of funds had caused a curtailment of every naval activity, and necessitated a reduction in the enlisted personnel from 86,000 to 81,-700 for the fiscal year 1926.

One of several naval officers called today, Admiral Shoemaker advocated the training as pilots of one enlisted man to every flying officer as an economical way of preparing a reserve of skilled men to meet estimated war time requirements.

After concluding with the Admiral the board recessed until tomorrow, when it expects to recall Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, naval air chief, and also hear Captain G. W. Steele, commander of the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station.

While the hearing was in progress today, Representative Frank R. Reid of Illinois, who has announced he will serve as defense counsel if the war department initiates court martial proceedings against Colonel William Mitchell, wired the American Legion convention, meeting in Omaha, Neb., to "select some of your best lawyers to assist in case of a trial."

BREACH BETWEEN SHIPPING BOARD AND WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP) — The breach between the shipping board and the white house was greatly widened today when the board removed President Leigh C. Palmer, of the fleet corporation who was elected to the office in January, 1924, at the instance of President Coolidge and had been given his consistent support.

At the same time the board elected Elmer E. Crowley of Boston, operating manager for the American Export line in New York to succeed Mr. Palmer and effected a number of other changes in the executive personnel of the corporation. The changes were made effective as of today, and Mr. Crowley is expected here tomorrow prepared to take over his new duties.

The board elected Mr Palmer a vice-president in charge of European affairs of the corporation, a position for which he had been selected when Mr. Coolidge caused him to be made president.

This offer, one commissioner later explained, was only a mark of "courtesy" to Mr. Palmer, and the latter declined it. When he put on his hat late today he walked out of his offices for the last time as president.

GERMANY AND ALLIES DISCUSS RHINE PACT OF GUARANTEES

Dr. Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, Expressed Contentment Over the Day's Work at Locarno, Switzerland—The Security Pact as Far as at Present Arranged Provides For Operation Only After Germany Enters the League of Nations.

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Germany and the allies today took up for discussion in the second session of the security conference the thorny points of the Rhine pact of guarantees, Gustav Stresemann, the Germany foreign minister, was present looking pallid after his stroke of illness.

The more difficult questions include the problem of satisfying France and her allies, Poland and Czechoslovakia, on the matter of French military support to those countries in the event of aggression against them. The covenant of the league of nations already covers the possibility of troops, for punitive purposes, crossing German territory, as it does the soil of any other signatory, in the operation imposing penalties against an aggressor state, as authorized by the council.

Hence France and her eastern friends will enjoy protection general in nature once Germany subscribes to the pact, and the Germans were not slow to point this out today. But France wants to make a special guarantee, which will supplement and reaffirm the general protection now afforded by the covenant.

The conversations turned on whether such a guarantee could best be attached to the Rhine pact or made a feature of the arbitration treaties between Germany and Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Both Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand emerged from the conference expressing contentment over the day's work, though the French foreign minister was less radiant than the German who exclaimed in bubbling tones, "Things are going on merrily."

Dr. Stresemann added, "We are now in the position of schoolboys who are entering the most difficult part of their curriculum."

M. Briand said: "Now don't expect a sensational concrete fact nightly, as the discussion has only begun."

No settlement has been reached on the problem of how, or whether France can guarantee that Poland and Czechoslovakia shall not become victims of aggressive wars.

The Italians are beginning to exercise influence on the conference. They seem to be disinterested in a guarantee for the Brenner frontier unless Austria should later be annexed to Germany, though they may be disposed to guarantee the Rhine with England. Just what machinery shall determine the aggressor remains to be fixed.

From English sources comes the opinion that Germany cannot rightfully too loudly object to France's desire to stand by her eastern allies, because she was forced to make security alliances with them after the failure of the Wilson tri-partite project for the protection of France.

That Soviet Russia is keeping an eye on the Larcano discussions is shown by the arrival at Stresa, on of M. Kerzenzieff, counsellor of the ambassador Maggiore, not far from Cocarno, soviet embassy at Rome. It is alleged that from this frontier city he is maintaining close communication with agents at Locarno.

It is understood that the security pact, as far as at present arranged provides for operation only after Germany enters the league of nations.

RUSSIANS CELEBRATING RETURN TO ALCOHOL

MOSCOW, Oct. 6.—(AP)—For three days the Russian people have been celebrating with unabated rejoicing and conviviality the country's return to alcohol. After eleven years of partial prohibition, Russia let down the restrictions on strong liquors on Sunday last.

In Moscow today nearly 100,000 quarts of the new 40 per cent vodka was sold, and a correspondingly heavy sale was reported throughout Russia. From early in the morning lines of eager Russians, four deep, extending for a whole city block, waited patiently outside the wine shops for their share of the popular beverage. Some of them carried gallon tins, barrels, water pails and even tea kettles.

By five o'clock in the evening every store was sold out. Every police station is crowded with celebrants who drank to excess, including even juveniles; but good order was maintained. Recognizing that the people haven't had such a holiday in eleven years, the police dealt leniently with inebriates, doing little more than setting them on the right path homeward.

OBITUARIES

Thomas Joseph Healy

DUBLIN, Oct. 6—Thomas Joseph Healy, 71, brother of Timothy Healy, governor general of the Irish Free State, died today at Dungarvan.

J. Ray Sargent

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 6—J. Ray Sargent, for 21 years a member of the staff of the Boston American, died here suddenly tonight from cerebral hemorrhage. With other New England newspapermen, he had come to Sydney last Sunday to cover the return of the MacMillan arctic expedition, on its way homeward from the far north.

He arose early today and joined a party which went down the harbor to meet MacMillan's schooner, the Bowdoin, and stayed with the explorers as long as they were in the city. Soon after he had written the last of his story and had purchased a railroad ticket to Wiscasset, Me., the next port of call of the steamer Peary and the Bowdoin, he was seen to fall. At the time he protested that it was an old injury, a torn ligament in his leg, that was troubling him.

His condition became worse, however, and other members of the newspaper group summoned a physician and assisted in his removal to the general hospital, where he died within a few hours of the time he was first stricken. His last words to those about him were:

"Sorry I couldn't go to Wiscasset on the Bowdoin, but there were thirteen men for ten bunks and they had no extra room."

No other newspapermen sailed on the Bowdoin.

MACMILLAN EXPERIENCED WORST SUMMER IN ARCTIC

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 6—Donald B. MacMillan came out of the northland today after three months of the "worst summer known to men in the arctic and announced that he would return to labrador next summer to search for evidences of the route the Norsemen were supposed to have taken in coming to New England.

MacMillan drove his little auxiliary schooner Bowdoin into Sydney and sailed away again in four hours to join the Peary, companion ship on his latest arctic expedition, for the last leg of their journey to Wiscasset, Me., MacMillan's home port.

MacMillan stayed here only long enough to take on 20 barrels of fuel oil and to tell newspapermen he was convinced that the dog still was the "king of the arctic" and was more valuable as a means of transportation "above the circle" than the airplane. He also said he was certain he had found evidence of Norsemen visiting the American continent many years ago.

The Peary and Bowdoin are expected to reach Monhegan Island, off the coast of Maine, by Friday evening. Saturday they will sail on to Wiscasset where friends already are gathering to welcome the explorer and his crews.

As MacMillan steered the Bowdoin into her berth at Sydney today his first words to those who waited for him were: "The best crew I've ever had." and then he added "It was the worst summer known to men in the arctic."

"Every one of the fellows on board have been cheerful and willing," he continued. To prove his point, Commander MacMillan urged two of the men to relieve the crowded condition on the Bowdoin and return to Wiscasset by train, but they objected. They wanted to stick until the journey was over. Their wish was granted.

The explorer said his party had found a stone church at Gotthab, Greenland which he was convinced was built by the Norsemen, for use both as church and fort.

WILLIMANTIC

The Willimantic Rotary club members listened to an inspiring humanitarian-stereopticon talk given by A. J. Brundage, state club leader and head of the extension department of Connecticut Agricultural college, at the meeting Tuesday noon. With the illustrations cast upon a screen, Mr. Brundage sketched the lives of young Connecticut boys and girls who had achieved remarkable results in dairying, sheep raising, poultrying and housekeeping. In all of the cases thus illustrated the young people had succeeded by sheer determination of purpose and hard work. In many of these cases the assistance of the extension department had been valuable, but would have been worthless without the hearty co-operation of the subjects. Mr. Brundage was presented by Professor Richard E. Dodge, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Michael J. Farrell, well known vocalist, was introduced to the members by Dr. R. Bullock Jones, and he concluded several selections by leading the club in a series of familiar songs. Nathan A. Gibbs of the Norwich Rotary club was a guest of Herbert W Huber, and John E. Brick of this city, accompanied P. D. Donahue. Dr. Jones and P. D. Donhaue, the two newlyweds were required to stand at attention by President John Ahern and be the taregts of considerable jossing for some minutes. The club unanimously approved a resolution, introduced by A. Linn Weatherhead and seconded by Charles B. Pomeroy, endorsing the appropriation of $100,000 as the town of Windham's one-third share of the cost of erecting a new elementary school building in the city by the state. By the vote taken, the club will be well represented at the adjourned town meeting Satrday afternoon when the matter of the appropriation is brought up. The project was explained by Mr. Weatherhead, Mayor George W. Hickey and Principal George H. Shafer of the Normal school. Professor Dodge announced that the Norwich Rotary club would put on the program at the noonday meeting of the club Tuesday next, October 27, a joint evening meeting will be held with the Exchange club. Arrangements for this event are in charge of Harry W. Standish, J. E. Sullivan, William A. Dawson, Raymond A. Parker and Pierre J. Laramee. The meeting adjourned at 1:30 o'clock.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

With Thursday morning the open season on game birds begins. Heavy rains the past few days seemed to have guaranteed that no order will emanate from Hartford against hunting because of danger of creating fires in woodland country. The stage seems set for action. Hunters are resting on their arms today. There was great anticipation among them on Tuesday—their happy period of the year was near at hand.

Game officials were calling attention on Tuesday to the restrictions on killing birds and making known that violators will be severely dealt with if caught. Incidentally, the closed season on quail will continue until 1927, and they may not be legally hunted this season. Only male pheasants may be shot.

Next week at Putnam there is to be a conference between members of the Rotary club of that city and representative Danielson and Plainfield men who have become interested in forming a Rotary club in Danielson, as has long since been done in Norwich, New London and Willimantic. Rotary has become an institution in many towns and cities of the country. Its membership speaks in the most glowing terms of how fine it is and of the good things it does. The Danielson men will hear a great deal about all of this when they meet with their Putnam friends during the coming week.

The coming week October 12-17, has been selected as a period for an intensive drive in the interest of the American Legion Endowment, by Leo J. L'Homme post American legion. The local post area has been assigned an apportionment of $2654 of which amounts $1800 remains to be paid.

Danielson, Dayville, Attawaugan, Goodyear and other parts of Killingly will be covered in this campaign by World war veterans Saturday, October 17, there is to be a Tag day. In the morning of that day members of the Woman's auxiliary of the Legion will sell the tags. During the afternoon and evening Legion members in their uniforms will sell the tags.

The drive week will afford Killingly people an opportunity again to express their living appreciation of what the services of the World war veterans meant to them in a momentous period of the nation's history. Any contribution to this endowment fund will in large measure be as incense burning on the altars of liberty and patriotism.

The war is over, oNt so the sufferings of many thousands of American heroes who have known the horrors of war. Not for many years to come will there be a day when this stricken young manhood, bright promises of life blasted, will not need aid and comfort such as a thankful nation can give them. That is why the American Legion Endowment fund is being created with contributions from all parts of the United States.

Legionaires have asked little of Killingly. It is not for themselves that they ask today, but for those of their buddies and the dependents thereof who will benefit from the fund of $5,000,000 now being created. Killingly will honor itself through liberality toward this great effort of the local post of the American Legion.

That Killingly has authorized an appropriation of $150,000, for addition and extensions of Killingly High school to make it modern in every detail, more efficient and more commodious, has stirred the imagination of many. Of particular interest is the hopes and ambition for a better education it has aroused in many young people now of grammar school age, who had thought little of going on with their studies after eighth grade graduation. This was evident as early as Tuesday. It is a safe prediction that next year's entering class at Killingly High school will be the largest in history. The greater scope of efficiency in the greater high school appeals to the imagination of the young people. The opportunities to take courses in domestic science, in manual training and to follow some one of the regular courses of the school is not being overlooked by prospective high school students in this and surrounding towns. The inspiration to study more diligently also will have been supplied. It is something of which Killingly may well be proud. The town's cultural rewards surely will far outweigh any money cost involved.

The much talked of Thompson school case will be argued before the next session of the Supreme Court of Errors. In the superior court for Windham county, Judge William M. Maltbie found in favor of the defendant town and the plaintiff in the case appealed to the higher court.

Edward J. Keegan, as a citizen and taxpayer of the town of Thompson brought action to restrain the town from paying renumeration to the town school committee and making E. H. Cortlie, chairman of the committee, a party defendant. It was alleged on behalf of the plaintiff that the statute gave the town no authority to pay members of the town school committe, seeking to restrain further payments and a request for damages in the amount the town had already so paid was asked.

Judge Maltbie found that the town, under proper vote to do so, had authority to pay members of its town school committe and went into an exhaustive analysis of the situation from the founding of Connecticut.

The question is an important one and the decision of the supreme court will be watched for with interest by members of town executive bodies and by educators throughout the state. The payments made to members of the school board in Thompson were authorized by votes of the town in town meeting covering a period of years and Judge Maltbie found that the town had power to pass such votes and, having passed them, to pay remuneration accordingly.

FAKE REVENUE AGENTS TRIED MORE FLEECING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 6—Messrs. Gould and Shulman, now languishing in the New Haven county jail in default of bonds under which they are held for falsely impersonating federal officers and obtaining by this means a check for $265 from N. A. Jordan of this town, apparently tried to fleece D. Blumenthal also.

Last year Mr. Jordan sold his business here to Mr. Blumenthal, who has since conducted it. Gould, operating under the name of Lane, visited the Blumenthal store and demanded to see the firm's books, explaining that this was necessary in checking up on the former proprietor, Mr. Jordan. As in the case of Mr. Jordan, Lane talked about imposing a fine for records that might not be kept as the government desires they be kept. He insisted that Mr. Blumenthal must have his records complete for inspection by October 3, or be subjected to a fine of $500. This talk is now regarded as intended to set the stage for a fake checkup of Mr. Blumenthal's books with a view to holding him up for some sort of an assessment. As things have developed, this is not to be.

Mr. Blumenthal was aware practically as soon as was Mr. Jordan that Lane was an imposter and would have turned him over to the police had he appeared again.

HERE AT LAST IS REAL RELIEF FROM EXCESS FAT!

Silph Reducing Chewing Gum—

No longer need you suffer from excess fat. No longer need you be humiliated by sarcastic looks or remarks. No longer need you starve yourself to distraction or tire yourself out with exercises. With Silph Reducing Chewing Gum, the latest and most wonderful discovery ever made, every man, woman and child can today safely, quickly and easily reduce. Silph Reducing Gum is the result of years of scientific study and experiments—it is different from anything ever advised to take off FAT. It is simple, safe, cheap and easy. It is almost like telling you to eat candies to reduce. It is just as pleasant and as harmless.

Silph Reducing Gum is not a drug nor a laxative—it contains juice extract of sea plants known for years to possess wonderful reducing properties but until now it was impossible to obtain sufficient quantities of these plant extracts to supply a public demand. Today a group of scientists have found a way to obtain it and to incorporate it in a delicious, refreshing chewing gum. When mixed with the gastric juices, through the flow of saliva it eliminates fat forming elements in the system—at the same time it is great for stomach or intestinal trouble. The quick and amazing results already obtained with Silph have simply been overwhelming. Silph sells for 50 cents a box, enough for one week, at all good drug stores. Remember that to "CHEW SILPH IS TO BE SYLPH-LIKE," that's New York's latest slogan.

"I am the shadow of my former self," writes Mrs. N——, beautiful Brooklyn girl. "Silph Reducing Gum is wonderful!"

In case your druggist is out of Silph you can get it from the Silph Medical Co., 9 W. 60th St. N. Y. City. Silph sells for 50c. per box or two full weeks' supply, $1.00.

FIRE PREVENTION EFFORTS

In his proclamation designating Friday as Fire Prevention day Governor Trumbull sets forth that sober thought, sound education and intelligent action are essential to the correction of that condition which gave us last year the largest loss in lives and property in the country's history. It is the purpose of fire prevention efforts to obtain this very thing and the result of it to correct this deplorable condition. It may not be reasonable to expect that what is done on Fire Prevention day, or even during Fire Prevention week, will counteract all the influences that are at work for the destruction of property and human life, but the importance of getting thought directed in the right channel because of the wrong tendency which prevails cannot be too greatly stressed.

The fact that we have five times as great property loss as comparable European countries does not mean that we can look upon it with indifference, that we can rely upon fire departments or bask in the confidence of insurance policies to do the impossible. The great cause of fires in this country is the failure to give due regard to the fact that careless acts are allowed to go unchecked. We, as individuals are prone to disregard our part in the starting of costly fires until the smoke and flames are coming through the roof.

Then, it is to be realized, prevention is impossible. It is easy to reflect on what might have been done but the great necessity is to anticipate the possibilities of fires and devote the right kind of thought to them so that personal acts will not contribute to the combinations which cause them.

If fire prevention efforts will stimulate that thought and get the simply but necessary action it will accomplish all, that is expected of it. It cannot overcome what has happened. It cannot put out a fire, it cannot save property or lives only in so far as it urges the individual to realize his duty to himself and others in being more careful. Let fire prevention get you started on the right road, see that you keep there.

STRIVING FOR PEACE

Peace moves for Europe are bound to be of vital concern to the nations on that continent but also to the rest of the world. There have been several made since the war. Progress has not been all that could be desired but whenever there is a general tendency to talk and seek peace it must be regarded as progress.

Attention of the world is now directed of course to the conference at Locarno in Switzerland where the effort will be made to reach an understanding regarding future security. With the leaders from Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Germany assembled it remains to be seen whether they can be brought into such accord that a five power agreement will be signed before the conference breaks up, or whether through the unwillingness to subscribe to the terms the failure of one or more of the nations to sign results in the failure of the world undertaking.

Peace for western Europe is the goal aimed at. Germany is an uncertain quantity. It stands in a stronger position than it has for a long time and can offer more resistance to pressure for some time. It is ever directing attention to the fact that it has a trade agreement with soviet Russia and throwing out the inference that it might decide to link up with that country instead of trying to get what it believes it is entitled to through the league of nations. Germany is also setting forth that it would like some of its colonies back. What that might lead to relative to the other terms of the Versailles treaty can easily be imagined.

It is possible for Germany to bring into the conference certain matters which would serve to bring a quick end if insisted upon. Whether it attempts all the things with which it has been credited will be disclosed as the conference proceeds.

STILL SETTING

Even though the temporary debt settlement terms with France have not as yet been ratified, it is remembered that it is not alone France that is in debt to this country without having an arrangement for settlement. France is the largest of such nations and has the largest debt but there is a group of nations with comparatively small debts to be adjusted.

Already there is underway at Washington a conference with the debt commission from Czechoslovakia which owes something like $117,000,000 and there is no reason to suppose but what a satisfactory settlement will be reached. Whether others will be disposed to delay just because France has remains to be seen but there are reasons why they should appreciate the benefit in dollars and cents of coming to terms and beginning payments as quickly as possible. It will mean less in the end.

Capacity to pay will be taken into consideration with the small nations as well as the large. Nations will not be unjustly burdened or be required to pay in one, two or three years, nor will they be encouraged to extend payments over several decades when it can be adjusted in a much less time. There is no reason why they should be made to pay interest any longer than it is necessary. It is not desired from our standpoint and certainly they should recognize the advantage of cutting down the ultimate bill.

There have been preliminary discussions with Italy which are to be resumed this fall, while Rumania, Jugoslavia, Greece and a few smaller nations have not as yet got down to the business of settlement. Debt settlement may not develop much interest on the part of thedebtor nations but the wisdom of getting rid of such encumbrances ought to be sufficiently appreciated to hasten settlement. Likewise the betterment of its credit position ought not to go unnoticed. Inasmuch as it has been clearly set forth that the debts are not going to be cancelled, prompt debt agreement carry their advantages.

THE WORLD SERIES

In sporting circles there is no bigger event than the contest for the baseball championship of the world which opens today at Pittsburgh between Washington of the American league and Pittsburgh of the National.

Throughout the season fans from all corners of the country have watched the progress of these teams, their struggles to get to and remain at the top and the playing they have done to obtain the honors in their respective leagues.

Washington now holds the coveted pennant gained as the result of a hard struggle last year. For a good part of the season indications pointed strongly to the chance of contesting for the 1925 honor going to Philadelphia, but the slump during the western trip put them effectively out of the running. Washington jumping into the lead when the opportunity offered and staying there.

Pittsburgh has likewise had its contest with the New York aggregation which has recently participated several times in the series. As the result of the test it will have a chance to down the present world champions provided the necessary amount of playing and batting skill can be produced.

The struggle between Washington and Pittsburgh will give a different aggregation of fans a chance to see the leading baseball teams of the country play from what has been favored in recent years, and there are reasons for believing that there will be general satisfaction over the fact that the National league winner is this year located in some other city than New York. This cannot fail to serve for the good of the game though there appears to be no real evidence of any decline of interest in the leading sport of the country. Certainly there isn't any sport which arouses the same huge following and the keen enthusiasm that is connected with baseball.

In the series that opens today it is to be hoped and expected that the contest will match up well with those that have preceded it and that the team that plays the best ball will win.

GETTING AHEAD

While there are many opportunities for pointing out the great strides which have been made by captains of industry in this country and directing attention to the high positions to which they have risen from small beginnings, it is to be realized that all such instances do not rest with the past. It is not to be supposed that opportunities are things which had to do with the years that are gone and that no more of them are to be expected.

It is true that in the years that are gone it is possible to pick out and point to worthy examples of what can be accomplished by embracing opportunities. Such instances permit the study of completed careers, but it is not to be imagined that those who have made great successes had their entire courses chartered for them or that they were not obliged to work hard to meet and overcome innumerable obstacles.

Opportunities are to be found on all sides today quite the same as they were in the past. They may not be of the same character or deal with the same undertakings but they are to be found. Repeated instances go to show that this is so. Only the past week was there a change in the head of the Pennsylvania railroad. One great leader, President Rea, stepped down to the pension list because of age and William W. Atterbury took his place. This rise to the head of probably the greatest railroad system in the world has been that of a poor boy who got there through the manner in which he met his tasks and kept constantly to the front. He has done no more than others have done, but he has done it. This is another of those instances where success is obtained by not waiting to be awakened by opportunity's importunings.

AT THE CLUB

"There are two species of human pests," said the sandy-haired person, "who ought to be exterminated by law. One is the well-meaning friend who tries to induct you into matrimony and the other is the cheerful ass who invites you to a symphony concert and expects you to read notes in a program."

He thrust both hands into his trousers pockets and glared at the large and amiable member in the lounge chair.

"We-ll," said the large and amiable member, hoisting one gray spat onto the other knee.

"There is no such thing as a we-ll," snapped the sandy-haired person. "A well is a hole in the ground from which one does or does not draw water, as the case may be. So if you want to call me a liar you can do so with greater clarity and to our better mutual satisfaction by stating your case in less ambiguous terms. . . . Did you or did you not ever attend a symphony concert?"

"Yesterday," said the large member. "So did I," sighed the sandy-haired person. "Maybe it was the same one. Did you enjoy it?"

"We-ll," hesitated the large member.

"There you go again," complained the sandy-haired person, irritably; "of course there was that nice little piece at the beginning, but most of the selections were about an iron horse in the springtime, as nearly as I could grasp the idea. The lady who sat on my left told the friend who sat next her that it was the most symbolic thing she had ever heard in her life. She leaned forward and clapped until her permanent wave floated in the breeze. Her friend admitted soulfully that it was utterly symbolic, all right, but she didn't display the same gymnastic reaction. Her hair was growing out and she had it bicycled under at the neck like a Purdy house roll, so I suppose she had it on her mind not to dislodge the hairpins if any."

"If any what—hairpins?"

"No, mind. But by that time I was so irritated that I shouldn't have picked up her hairpins if they had fluttered all over me like flowers that bloom in the spring tra la. The atmosphere of the whole show was so hypocritical and un-American—" He paused and frowned.

"Why, how so?" inquired the large member in mild astonishment.

"Scattering cats, how should I know?" growled the sandy-haired person. "I'm no psychologist. It was that's all. Every democratic bone in my body ached, and they are all democratic except one shoulder blade that I broke in my youth. Don't interrupt me with that skeptical look until I tell you what happened."

The large member nodded politely.

"There was a lady sitting over in one corner," explained the sandy-haired person. "In an angle of the wall. An angle, you may remember, is the point or location at which two walls meet. The lady had her back to the wall and her side to the wall, and had concluded, no doubt, that her small and inoffensive hat was not annoying the wall. But during the iron horse in springtime affair an usher came up and called her attention to the fact that hats must not be worn during the performance. The lady was much embarrassed."

"Well, a rule is a rule," said the large member soothingly.

"Certainly it is, as a rule," agreed the sandy-haired person blandly. "But with a reason behind it in this our own native land. And the funny thing about this case was that I thought I saw this case of hats in the box tier."

"Your mistake," chuckled the large and amiable member, with a wink. "Those weren't hats. Those were creations. Now your sister had one on the other night that Raphael himself might have painted on the head of—"

"Hmmm," interrupted the sandy-haired person, dryly. "Raphael didn't run heavily to hats, as I remember it. Probably it's Sir Joshua Reynolds you're thinking of?"

"—that Raphael himself might have painted on the head of his wife, if he had one," finished the large member, firmly.

"I'll tell sis you mentioned it," concluded the sandy-haired person, grudgingly. "But you needn't settle your collar that way and shake out your trouser legs, because she isn't driving down to met me this afternoon. And unless you quit talking and give me a chance to go and do a little work before my office closes the mortgage on her Raphael hat will never get paid. . . . Oh, must you hurry? Well, see you later!" — Chicago News.

Stories That Recall Others

Loyalty for Past Favors

Four year old Mary being the only grandchild is a great favorite with her grandmother and her Aunt Grace. A short time ago a neighbor laughingly asked her whether she was a republican or democrat and for whom she intended to vote. She replied: "I am not sure what I am, but I think my daddy is a republican but when I vote I am going to vote for granny and Aunt Grace."

High Life

A young woman who has always had her own notions about luxury and independence had this idea of perfect ease: She longed to see the time when she could go shopping and look the things over, make her selections, never asking the price of an article and say: "Send it up with the bill."

Lately she came into an inheritance and started out to realize her hopes. She visited a store, tried on a handsome gown, smacked her lips and said: "I'll take it, send it with the bill," figuring to herself it would be $75 or $100. She never asked the price, however. The next day the gown was delivered with the bill and the bill was $19.50.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Begum of Bhopal, whose visit to London is attracting much attention, is the only woman Mohammedan ruler in the British Empire. Bhopal, over which she exercises her sway, is a little mountain state of central India founded about 50 years ago by an Afghan adventurer, Dost Mohammed Khan. While he built it up by force and grew immensely wealthy doing it, the history of the state has all the engaging elements that go to there were no longer men fit to rule the female descendants of Dost Mohammed took over the crown. The present Begum ascended the throne in 1911. Like her predecessors she has rigorously enforced the rule of Islam requiring all women to veil their faces in public. She is a woman of broad education, a good musician, and an accomplished painter. She speaks English fluently and has written several books.

From Small Beginnings

Joseph Conrad, the Great Novelist

Joseph Korzeniowski might never have become as widely known as he is today if he had not changed his name to "Joseph Conrad." In the short, strong name of Conrad there is more than a hint of the strength and vigor of the famous sea stories that the Polish writer has produced. Curiously enough this great master of style in written English was not by birth a speaker of the English language. For many years Joseph Conrad, or Joseph Korzeniowski, to call him by his childhood name, knew nothing of English. He could neither speak it nor write it, nor did he dream of the else dream for a moment that he would become one of the greatest writers of English. In fact, no one thought that he would ever be anywho saw the young Polish sailor thought that he would ever be anything else except a sailor.

Joseph Conrad was born in Poland, where he spent the early years of his life. Then the instinct for adventure swept him away from home and sent him tramping across Europe. He was only a youngster just in his first "teens" when he landed in Paris and set about looking for a job. He managed at last to find a position on a French ship, and from then for many years he lived the hard, rough, adventurous life of a sailor. He had in him all the good qualities that one finds in the heroes of his novels and so he rose from being a mere boy at the beck and call of every one to being a man in command of a ship.

Joseph Conrad was a sea captain and he went up and down the ocean lanes and experienced the dangers of the sea. He fought his way through storms like that he describes so vividly in his short novel called "Typhoon" a novel that better than any other tells of the awful power of a storm at sea and of the grim determination of captains who fight their vessels through everything.

When he was a mature man Joseph Conrad learned English, and began to write down in the form of fiction the thrilling experiences through which he had passed. He was 39 when he published his first novel. From then on he has written many stories of the sea, such as "Lord Jim," "The Nigger of the Narcissus" and "Typhoon."

As he grew older he increased in insight into character and in artistic skill. A life such as his developing from vagrancy in boyhood through hard manual work in manhood into the highest literary achievement in later life, is worthy of admiration.

A Rumor of a Cold Winter

Rumor, busy day and night,
Is at that but seldom right.
—Old Mother Nature.

Of course with so many people preparing for winter there was a great deal of talk about the winter. All sorts of rumors were flying about. Peter Rabbit heard these rumors wherever he went.

"I hear," said Danny Meadow Mouse, "that the Squirrel cousins are laying in extra nuts and acorns for the winter. I suppose that is a sign that we are going to have an extra long, cold, hard winter. What puzzles me is how the Squirrel cousins should know any more about what kind of a winter we are going to have than you or I."

"I've heard the same thing," confessed Peter. "The last time I was over at the Smiling Pool, Jerry Muskrat was working unusually hard. I have never known him to take such pains with his house. He is making the walls extra thick. The Merry Little Breezes say that his fur coat is extra thick this year. Perhaps it is, but I don't know any reason why he should have a thicker fur coat this year than I, and my coat is no thicker than usual. Still folks say this is a sign of a hard winter."

A day or so later Peter was over in Farmer Brown's cornfield. The corn had been cut and was in shocks. Blacky the Crow alighted on one of these and began to tear open the husks of an ear of corn. "Seems to me these husks are unusually thick," he grumbled. "Folks say that thick husks on an ear of corn mean a cold winter. I don't take any stock in it myself, but that's what people say."

"I know," said Peter. "I've heard that same thing. I heard a rumor today that Honker the Goose has started earlier than usual from his summer home in the Far North, and this is another sign that we are going to have a long, cold, hard winter. Do you believe in signs, Blacky?"

Blacky's eyes twinkled. "When I see a man with a gun coming toward me I believe it's a sign that I better move on, and when it begins to rain that is a sign that I had better get under cover if I don't want to get wet. Those are the only signs I believe in Peter," said he.

"But listen, Blacky," said Peter. "the Squirrel cousins are laying up an extra supply of food; Johnny Chuck is fatter than I've ever seen him; Jerry Muskrat's fur is thicker than usual and he's building an extra big house; Honker the Goose is starting South early and the husks on the corn are extra thick. Now what does all that mean?"

"That may be so, Blacky, that may be so," said Peter

Blacky cocked his head on one side and looked very wise. "Well, if you want to know what I think about it," said he, "it means that the Squirrel cousins and Johnny Chuck have found food extra plentiful and easy to get and so they've laid in an extra store. Jerry Muskrat's coat may be thicker than usual, and if it is it is probably because he has had extra good living. If Honker the Goose really has started extra early from the Far North it probably is because he knows he will find better living farther south. As for this corn, I don't know why the husks are thicker than usual and I don't care. It isn't a sign of a cold winter to me. It is merely a sign that I have got to work a little harder than usual to get at this fine corn. I've found that when people are extra well prepared for winter it is usually because it was extra easy to prepare and really doesn't mean anything else."

"That may be so, Blackey, that may be so," said Peter. "Just the same I'd like to know if we really are going to have a cold, hard winter."

"What good would it do you to know?" demanded Blacky.

"Why, I—I—I might get ready for it," said Peter.

How Blacky did laugh. You see he knew that Peter Rabbit has no more idea of thrift and how to prepare for what the future may bring than he has how to fly. Peter grew indignant. He turned and away he went, lipperty—lipperty—lip. "Just the same I think it is going to be a long, hard, cold winter," he shouted over his shoulder. (Copyright, 1925, by T. W. Burgess)

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE GLAUCOUS GULL

"High above the rock talus where the black and white dovekies chatter and swarm like bees, sits the hypocrite of Etah birddom, the glaucous gull, whose superior air and haughty demeanor have won him the title of 'burgomaster,'" radios Maynard Owen Williams, staff correspondent of the National Geographic Society with the MacMillian Arctic Expedition, from South Greenland via amateur radio station 1-MY, of Donald C. S. Comstock, Milford, Conn.

A unique feature of the message was that it was picked up by an amateur operator Comstock while on his vacation at the sea shore near Milford, Conn., ten miles from a telegraph station. Mr. Comstock has had success in picking up messages from the MacMillan Expedition at his regular station 1-MY, East Hartford, Conn., but this is believed to be the first time that two-way connections have been established with the Arctic with a temporary field outfit.

"The glaucous gull's pure white vest and coat of lightest gray, his high flying manners and his comparative silence make him superior among the sociable, flighty and noisy little auks or dovekies," the dispatch continues. "Yet the glaucous gull is a voracious thief, who like the Eskimo or the infrequent visitor, will, without compunction, rob an elder duck of her young or her eggs. Trout and other Arctic fish, and, as with the little auk, shrimp, can easily be obtained in the water whenever he cares to supplement his bill of fare.

"As an enemy of the little auk, however, he seems to be best prepared. The glaucous gull arrives at Etah a week or so ahead of the little auk army and makes his home on some inaccessible point of rock high above the little auk niche nests. Although he hesitates to attack them when they are in numbers, he can catch an individual bird in midair, swallow it whole, digest its meat in his lower throat and disgorge the head, feet, and feathers and wings.

"On a ridge to the north of Brother Glacier parent birds of several families of glaucous gulls inhabit the top of a rock pinnacle, which juts up in a wild gorge close to a thin water fall. As the visitor approaches the birds set up a hue and cry, scolding in a way that no true-spirited burgomaster would do.

"The adult bird is an admirable aviator and when the Navy planes scared the thousands of little auks into the air and made them restless for hours on end, the burgomaster gulls watched the whole proceedings with a supercilious stare, contemptuous both of the dovekies and of the slow takeoff and heaviness in flight of the mechanical birds.

"The glaucous gull can make headway into the wind without seeming to move a muscle, stop dead as though equipped with four-wheel brakes, and bank a turn with the best acrobats of the air. While the more common turn with each wing stroke the glaucous gull of the Arctic has steadiness and grace that is unexcelled.

"The young gull is a prize boob. He squawks like an ill-mannered child, gabbles about himself with an air of bucolic wonder and seems to be afflicted with vertigo whenever he looks off the lofty pinnacle which his parents have chosen as his jumping off place in life. When full feathered and ready for flight, even, the young gulls are so stupid and slow that repeatedly we have photographed them at arm's length."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Business Men Needed

Mr. Editor: One billion dollars paid the yearly expenses of this nation before the world war. The expense yearly now is $3,500,000,000.

We send men to Congres to transact business on business principles. If a capitalist had a business manager who showed figures at the end of the year like these what kind of a raise would he get?

Look at this picture of figures again and see if you can see the culminating effect of game after game for "adequate amounts" (bunk) or "A Living Wage," (more bunk.) A 70c per day farmer is bunkoed to the bone. Are there any more games coming? Of course they'll come, just as long as we have statesmen who are stupid enough to put them across.

Send keen witted, well educated business men to congress. Scholars and lawyers are failures for this work. For further proof of this philosophy see Websters Unabridged Dictionary under the word "Business."

Candles Now Made of Glass

Candles have become so popular for purely decorative purposes in homes which are well equipped with electricity that manufacturers have designed a candle that will not wilt, break or chip. It is simply made of glass tubes filled with colored silk floss. The silk projects through a hole in the top of the tube, giving the effect of a frizzled wick.

Radium Locator Devised

Because the small needles of radium are so frequently lost in the excitement and hurry of an operating room, a device has been perfected that locates the chemical element in the most unexpected places. The device is an instrument extremely sensitive to the presence of radium, and has a dial which moves violently when near it. By holding the device near the debris can, in apparatus cabinets or wherever radium is suspected of being lost its general location can be determined and the hunt confined to that place.

The man who lives for himself alone hasn't much to live for.

MAKING SUGGESTIONS FOR FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IN NORWICH

Talks in the schools and suggestions to the public along fire prevention lines will be included in the Norwich observance of fire prevention week which began on Monday, as it did all over the country. The Chamber of Commerce is co-operating with Chief Howard L. Stanton of the fire department in bringing the observance of the week to public attention, urging that citizens unite in the effort to look after their own property in order that all fire hazards be eliminated.

Chief Stanton has a man out all the time making inspections and he declared Tuesday that the week should carry something more than the mere idea of fire prevention. In addition there should also be the thought of fire protection, by which he means that every household should be provided with the means to protect itself from fire, such as a small fire extinguisher, a bucket of sand or anything else handy that could be used quickly against a blaze.

Talks in the schools were begun Tuesday when Capt. Dennis Brennan of Company No. 1 was assigned to visit the parochial schools to speak to the children along fire prevention and protection lines. Chief Stanton and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft will divide up the work of covering the other schools of the town.

It had been intended to display the old Torrent engine in one of the windows of the Boston store during the week but this plan had to be abandoned when it was found that it was impossible to get the old engine into the window.

Chief Stanton said Tuesday that he wished it understood that the public always had an invitation to visit the fire houses, where instruction would be gladly given them upon pulling fire alarm boxes or advice given along fire protection lines.

Speaking of the importance of Fire Prevention Week locally, Chief Stanton said:

"In reminding my fellow citizens of the coming of Fire Prevention Week and in urging an enthusiastic observance I cannot refrain from stating a few bald facts which, it seems to me, must surely startle us into immediate action. First of all we faced last year the heaviest fire loss ever known in any country in any period of the world's history—$548,810,000, or upwards of $1,044 a minute, and not much improvement is being shown thus far in 1925. The increase has been a steady one from year to year and the end is not yet, nor will it be until we learn to act upon the truth that is brought out every Fire Prevention Week in Norwich that fully three-quarters of this annual waste is due to carelessness or lack of knowledge and that it rests with us to stop it, here and now.

"When, furthermore, we add to this enormous property destruction the loss of life through the flames, a loss amounting to 15,000 persons yearly, and the injuries from fire, we see at once and clearly, what our duty is. And in all this, we must remember, we in Norwich suffer our share, and must continue to suffer it until we learn to recognize and remove the causes of fire, learn to build better and safer, learn to be heedful in our acts, big and little, which lead to fire, and, finally, learn to look upon the person who sustains a fire from his own negligence exactly as such a person is looked upon in Europe; not as an unfortunate but as, in the truest sense, a menace to the well-being of us all.

"These things we shall hear about during the coming week. Let us not only hear them but ourselves express them, and in the best possible way—by revising our habits and our whole outlook in regard to fire. Although the keeping of the week of October 4 to 10 is a national affair in which whole communities should take part, it is at bottom a matter for individual action. We have often heard the old saying: 'What's everybody's business is nobody's business,' so, let's make Fire Prevention Week not only a public occasion here in Norwich but also a private matter and keep its lessons by us throughout the years to come. To this end I have drawn up for guidance these brief rules for fire-safety:

Fire-Safety Rules

Watch disposal of matches and lighted smoking materials; they are responsible for a heavier annual loss than any other known cause. Always keep matches out of the reach of small children.

Use proper fuses in electrical circuits; the fuse is the safety valve of the system and should not be tampered with.

Turn off electric flat irons and other electric devices while attending to something else.

Gasolene and other volatile liquids make dangerous cleaning fluids; many safe compounds are on the market, including carbon tetrachloride, which is obtainable at any drug store.

Defective chimneys and flues caused about $20,000,000 destruction last year; keep them clean and in repair.

A gas leak should be hunted with a flashlight instead of with an open flame light; to the 'suspected' part of the pipe apply soap suds which, in bubbling, will reveal the leak.

Clean all smoke-pipes before the winter comes on; clogged pipes overheat easily and may start fire when the furnace is operated.

Walls, ceilings and partitions should be shielded from the over-heating of stoves, furnaces and connecting pipes.

Hot ashes belong in metal containers, not in wooden boxes and barrels.

Oil lamps or stoves are safely filled only by daylight.

Open fires always should be screened when left untended.

CONVENTION REPORT MADE TO CENTRAL LABOR UNION

The regular meeting of the Norwich Central Labor Union was held Tuesday evening in Carpenters' hall with a large attendance of delegates. Delegate McNeily reported the organization of a local of electrical workers, which was received with enthusiasm.

President William E. Donahue reported as delegate to the convention of the Conn F. of L. held in New Britian, reported the largest gathering of labor in Connecticut since the war. The membership and finances of the federation have been greatly increased in the past year so that they are in a better position than ever to carry on their programme for the coming year. Many things of great importance to labor in Connecticut were passed at this convention, the outstanding ones of these being the state labor bank and the Connecticut Labor News, a newspapper to be operated by organized labor of this state. After some discussion, he said it was voted to employ a professional salesman to sell the stock in the bank on a commission not to exceed 5 per cent. The delegates believing better results could be obtained in this way. On a resolution offered by the committee it was unanimously voted to accept the offer of I. M. Ornburn, the present editor of the Connecticut Labor News, to turn the paper over to the Federation. This means that workers of Connecticut will have a newspaper run by organized labor which is a big step forward. A resolution to form a labor party in Connecticut was strongly opposed and defeated, the convention taking the non-partisan attitude of electing friends of labor. It was brought out at the convention that of the many bills favorable to labor that were passe at the last session of the legislature the most important were the raising of the maximum of the compensation act from $18 to $21 per week.

In closing Delegate Donahue touched on the strike situation at Willimantic and urged the delegates to continue their unstinted financial aid to the strikers. The report was accepted as a report of progress and the delegate was given a vote of thanks. Most of the delegates present reported business fair with the exception of the cigar-makers, who reported the cigar trade very bad due to the high revenue, the high cost of tobacco and the indifference of the local manufacturers. Tobacco has taken another raise and it looks as if the price of cigars would have to be raised to meet this condition. They also reported a movement for a co-operative cigar factory in Norwich to be run by cigarmakers but as the plan is in its infancy nothing definite counld be said at this time.

PARTRIDGE FLEW THROUGH GLASS INTO HOUSE

Crashing through the glass in a window at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley, No. 11 Slater avenue, at 9 o'clock one morning last week a large partridge landed in the room and after flopping about for a few minutes, died. The bird smashed the glass and tore one of the window curtains. It is thought that the partridge broke its back when it hit the window glass which was of double thickness.

SAW HIS AUTOMOBILE STOLEN IN THIS CITY

A few minutes before 1 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning an Essex roadster owned by John Ludwig of this city was stolen from in front of the Boston store. Mr. Ludwig saw the thief make a getaway with the roadster but he was quickly beyond reach and got such a start that it was useless to follow him.

The thief shot from the curbing and cutting the beacons on Franklin square dashed up Franklin street at a high rate of speed. Officer Patrick Shahan who was on Franklin street, near The Bulletin office saw the machine as it was driven to the left of the flashing beacons in the square and although he blew his whistle and tried to stop the driver the machine continued up the street at a furious rate of speed. Police in surrounding towns and cities were requested to be on the watch for the stolen machine and to hold the driver for the local police. It is thought that the stolen machine was headed for Willimantic or Hartford.

The roadster has a white body with black hood and mudguards and the registration number is N-3591.

FUNERAL
Leonard Owen Smith

Funeral services for Leonard Owen Smith were held at 2:30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, at his home, Oldelms, Washington street. Former business associates of Mr. Smith from Norwich and other cities, bank men, a representation from Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., members of other patriotic and social organizations, numerous members of Park Congregational church, where Mr. Smith was an honorary deacon, prominent townsmen in various interests, joined with neighbors and relatives in the final services.

The Scripture was read and prayer was offered by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park church, whose words throughout were the fervent tribute of one speaking not alone as pastor, but as friend. Rev. Dr. Howe called upon Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, of the First Church, New London, who counted it one of the greatest privileges of his boyhood to have known Mr. Smith as early as 1874. At that time Rev. Mr. Danforth's father, pastor in an eastern Massachusetts city, had gone to the pastorate of the Central Congregational church in Philadelphia. Here, Mr. Smith was prominent in the choir, a beloved teacher of a large class in the Sunday school and a leader in the industrial and social activities of the city. The war was over but nine years; and Mr. Danforth narrated the deep impression which the war service and war memories of Mr. Smith made up his own mind and life and outlook, just as upon the lives of the other young men who came under his inspiring influence.

The speaker dwelt upon Mr. Smith's rare gift as knowing men, as knowing nature, as knowing and loving animals—appreciating in each and all the manifestations of the God whom he knew as the source of all. The incidents which he narrated gave the most loving testimony to the life of chieftanship which Dr. Howe later summed up in his eulogy as so fine and sweet and serviceable.

In concluding the services Rev. Dr. Howe said:

It is altogether fitting that a few words be spoken on behalf of the community of a man who has lived so completely in the public eye and who, by his personal character and unremitting service, has given distinction to the city's life.

Mr. Smith might have come among us for a career of aloofness and abstraction; holding himself out of contact with the life of the community, taxing himself with no responsibility for its churches and charities and organizations for city betterment. We should not have been surprised if following the exemple of those who after the accumulation of a competence hold themselves aloof from community service he had settled down in his beautiful home in unconcern for the well being of his fellow citizens. But in his case this custom and convention was reversed. For if there was a movement for the city's betterment and for social and religious uplift from which he withheld support we have not heard of it.

He did not stand on the bank and watch the stream of life sweep by as he could have done. But he was out in midstream helping some half floundering craft to hold on his way. He was a public soul if there ever was one.

He did not merely send his check to a weak and struggling cause while he sank back in slippered ease in his arm chair beside his own peaceful fireside and let others take the laboring oar, but he was himself in the thick of the busy workers, and you were sure to hear the rattle of his sickle among the eager reapers. This surprised many of us for men acquiring a competence generally retire to the great cities or to incessant travel, leaving responsibility to others for taking community service. In every enterprise and in every movement in city and social and church life he was at the front as a leader and inspiring comrade but without the consciousness of leadership. But we all knew that it was wise judgment and sheer force of personality and passion for service that gave him this enviable chieftanship. And that which appeals to us today is that instead of going to the city to escape responsibility among strangers, he came to pass his closing years among the scenes of his childhood and young manhood and to live his quiet but most useful life among his own people.

And now when we have rehearsed these public acts and private services some of us almost forget them in the consciousness of the sense of personal friendship. Some of us are thinking of the friend who has passed from our company and we long for the touch of the vanished hand and the sound of the voice that is still. Some of us cannot tell the full story of his personal kindness and constant thoughtfulness for your comfort and our encouragement which he lavished upon us. We think of his public spirit and community service but we think most of his personal friendship. It is this that weighs heavily on some of our hearts. We are poorer and life is lonelier when our friends one by one drop from our side. The world seems empty and we can only find relief by pluming more deeply into the exigent duties which always await us. But we comfort ourselves in the thought that friends cannot depart for the last time and that our farewells are only the prelude to the greeting on the eternal shores, where separations are no more.

It is fitting that a few words be spoken emphasizing the service rendered by our honored citizen to the community.

We need not dwell solely on his fine personality. His stalwart uprightness, his fine Roman dignity, his commanding and stalwart Christian faith. His strong intellectual grasp of current events, his compelling influence in winning us into his following, which a whole community felt, all this and more was an open secret to us all, and the story of this has ben worthily told in the city press.

Burial was in the family lot in Yantic cemetery, where the committal was by Rev. Dr. Howe, Rev. Mr. Danforth pronouncing the benediction.

The honorary bearers were Oliver L. Johnson, Henry A. Tirrell, Wallace S. Allis, Rev. George C. Pollock, Frank W. Browning of Norwich, and State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers of New London.

The active bearers were nephews of Mr. Smith: B. L. Armstrong, J. P. Taylor Armstrong, Robert Lovell Smith, of New London and Leonard P. Smith of New Rochelle, N. Y.

A pall of pink and white roses concealed the casket. Among other beautiful floral tributes was a placque of Ascension lilies, white roses and orchids and maiden hair ferns, from the Cortieclli Silk company, a wreath of white chrysanthemums from the Woman's Auxiliary, Y. M. C. A., a sheaf of white carnations tied with ribbon in the national colors from the Daughters of Veterans, and a choice emblem sent from the Norwich Y. M. C. A.

Among others from out of town in attendance at the funeral were Leonard P. Smith, a nephew, from New Rochelle, N. Y., Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Cutler, nephe wand niece of Mrs. Smith from Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Edward Warren a cousin, from Boston.

The funeral arrangements were by Church & Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daggett of Moosup are on a motor camping trip planning to move along in the general direction of the Carolinas and Florida, camping as convenient wherever the climate seems beneficial.

TRIED $1 TIP TO COP, FINED IN ROCKVILLE COURT

Dennio Sphak, 24, of New Haven found it rather costly to attempt to bribe a state policeman at Rockville. He was in the city court there Monday morning. He was also charged with violating the motor vehicle laws. He was held up by State Policeman Edgar Azlid at Union and West streets. He cut to the left of the silent policeman and appeared to be driving as if under the influence of liquor. The officer became suspicious and held him up. Assistant Prosecutor John B. Thomas appeared for him in court Monday morning and entered a plea of guilty to both charges. Prosecutor Dennis J. McCarthy brought out at the trial that the accused had offered the officer a one dollar bill as a bribe to drop the case against him.

The court imposed a fine of $5 for violating the motor vehicle laws, and upon the charge of bribery a fine of $20 and 30 days in jail with costs of $12.73 was imposed. The jail sentence was suspended.

RICH STAKE WON IN STRAIGHT HEATS AT LEXINGTON TRACK

LEXINGTON, Oct. 6—Aileen Guy, driven by Ben White, won the $14,000 Kentucky Futurity here today in featureless style. In each heat she was the winner without apparent efforts. It was White's fourth victory in the stake and the third one in four years.

OLD SAYBROOK FAN HAS NEVER MISSED A SERIES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—Seated on a dilapidated berry crate in a line that slowly stretched itself out tonight around the entrances to the bleachers of Forbes field, scene of tomorrow's opening world's series game, was Ralph P. Stillman, of Old Saybrook, Conn., 65-year-old fan who probably holds the world's record for series endurance.

Stillman claims to have seen every baseball championship since the major league series was started in 1903, gaining admission to nearly all of them by waiting his turn to buy a bleacher seat. Last year at Washington, when he was too far back in the line to get a bleacher ticket, he finally was able to buy standing room.

The Connecticut veteran is sure of his seat in the newly erected pine bleachers at Forbes field tomorrow, however, at 11 o'clock tonight he was twentieth in line of "faithful" which had started to form at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon and had steadily increased until it numbered 200. There are 6,000 general admission bleacher tickets to be sold, the only space not yet bought.

The first fan in the line that made itself comfortable under difficult circumstances was Ralph Arkle, a died-in-the-wool Pirate fan and resident of Pittsburgh. Next to him were R. S. Crabtree and Hamilton Roebuck, both from Columbus, Ohio, while in fifth place was Robert Kline, of Denver, holding the record for coming from the longest distance.

While the fans were lining up, police arrested two men on charges of ticket "scalping" as they offered two pasteboards for the opening game at $20 apiece.

SOCCER GAME OPENS NEW ATHLETIC FIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 6.—With great pomp and ceremony the new athletic field of Connecticut college was initiated, as it were to the post that it is to assume as prominent gathering place of sport-enthusiasts during the fall hockey and soccer season. On Tuesday afternoon at four, giant gladiators garbed in helmets and red capes led by their manager, marched out of Branford house across the athletic field to their appointed places. Simultaneously, from the steps of Colonial house, stalidly came the Colonial Dames, bravely wearing blue serge bloomers and white sweatshirts, and carrying Navaho blankets in preparedness for any change of temperature that might occur. Each of the teams had grown to huge dimensions, not any more in numbers, for there were just the eleven necessary besides the subs, but in breadth and width. Slim girls had as if by some magic food taken on weight in the time between their last class and time for formation. The secret spread that the girls were "stuffed!" Every available pillow in the place had been utilized for this worthy purpose. Huge brawn had been cultivated on the one-time girlish muscles of arms and legs; chests had risen as if inflated by great air pumps; back and shoulders were stiffly padded to prevent any serious casualties.

The guardsmen of Colonial house carrying a three foot line rushed to their posts. The waterboy stood ready to aid with cool liquid if need be. The whistle blew; the first quarter had begun! Four downs were quickly taken by the Colonials, and the Gladiators were within kicking distance of the goal. Cries of "Fight, team, fight," were heard on all sides. The spectators had risen from their seats along the sloping sides of the field and were wildly cheering for their respective teams: the goal was almost within sight. A brave kick and a forward pass helped the Colonials even things up a bit. The first quarter was over.

The second quarter began with a fifty yard dash by Thompson, captain of the Gladiators, but this could not be scored, since in the general excitement of the occasion she had forgotten to stay within bounds and had early in her courageous flight with the pigskin stepped out of bounds. Similar incidents of humorous nature occurred throughout the game, rendering it difficult for even the referees to give an unbaised opinion of the various plays. During the quarters and the half of the game cheering for both teams was done by side lines and also by the teams themselves for one another.

When, in the third quarter, the Gladiators made a touchdown the Colonial Dames took time out to cheer lustily for their opponents. The game ended with the score 6 to 0 in favor of the hefty Gladiators who had been gathered from all corners of the campus to oppose the newly ancient Colonial team. This was the first occasion that Colonial had opportunity to prove what good spirit she possessed as a house, and judging by the fair, clean, jolly way in which they carried on this mock game on Thursday, they are a worthy addition to Connecticut college spirit.

The line-ups:

Colonial—Elizabeth Platt, captain; Katherine Foster, Elizabeth Fowler, Eleanor Whittier, Eleanor Ganty, Lyda Chatfield, Marjory Ebsen, Laura Dunham, Madeline Smith, Harriet Tillinghast, Louise Wall, Elizabeth Dameriel and Theodosia Hewlitt, Marjory Lloyd and Elizabeth Dorky were linesmen, Patricia Clark was waterboy, and cheer-leader combined.

Gladiators — Marjory Thompson, captain; Iona Barrett, Henrietta Owens, Hazel Osborne, Mildred Dorman, Margaret Sterling, Barabara Bancroft, Katherine Whitely, Jean Gillete, Lois Penny, Alice Owens was cheer-leader and Ruth McCaslin was manager.

The crowd came away from the game much satisfied with the first venture of the college on the football field.

YALE TEAM SHOWS MORE SPEED AND PUNCH

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 6.—(AP)—With increased speed and cleaner handling of the ball than characterized last week's work, the Yale varsity football machine rushed through fifteen minutes of offensive play against a strong scrub team today and scored two touchdowns. For an equal period the first team line was subjected to the attack of the scrubs to test out its defensive abilities.

Using old fashioned formations while on the offensive, Quarterback Bunnell gave Kline and Allen the ball for a series of successful line plunges. The first score came when Allen broke through after the scrubs had held the varsity for three downs on the one yard line. The second score was made by Sutler after line gains by Allen and Kline.

Te varsity lined up the same as it has for several weeks: Potts and Bradley ends; Butterworth and Richards, tackles; Flaherty and Root, guards; Sturhahn, center; Bunnell, quarterback, and Allen, Kline and Cutler, backs.

HARD WORK IS ORDER FOR ACADEMY SQUAD

Saturday afternoon Coach Whitney stated as his charges probably would not play for at least ten days, he intended to make them work as hard as possible in preparation for their next game, Yesterday afternoon he put them through a stiff practice, starting with kicking drill and then sent them for a two lap jog around the track. The remainder of the afternoon was given over to practice in charging for the linemen and forward passing drill for the backs. As usual the day's work closed with the grass drill.

The team as a whole shows a little improvement but is still far from the fast, hard-fighting eleven that it should be, considering the material on hand. This is not the fault of Coach Whitney who has done his best to make a real team. The spirit is lacking without which even Tad Jones could not turn out a winning eleven.

ASSAWAGA AND ALL STARS PLAY TIE GAME

DAYVILLE, Oct. 4 (Special to the Bulletin)—The Assawaga baseball team and the Danielson All Stars played a ten-inning game here Sunday which was called on account of darkness at 5.15, the score being 8-8. The Assawaga team had a bad inning in the fifth period, allowing four runs and the All Stars in the eight frame allowed three men to cross the plate. The All Stars did not show up as well Sunday as most people seem to think they would. A La Belle, pitching for them struck out seven, walked five and allowed 11 hits. Gagnon played a good game at second, pulling a double play unassisted in the seventh inning. Lavall, pitching for the Assawaga team struck out 13, walked five, hit two and allowed 10 hits. Mathiew did good work with the stick, getting three two-base hits. The score:

SIX PLAYERS FIGURE IN BROOKLYN-BRAVES TRADE

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6 (AP)—A deal between the Brooklyn and Boston National league clubs by which the Braves receive outfielder Eddie Brown, Catcher Zack Taylor and infielder Jimmy Johnston for Pitcher Jess Barnes, Catcher Mickey O'Neil and Outfielder A. G. Felix was reliably reported to have been closed here today.

Formal announcement of the deal one of the biggest major league transactions in some time, was withheld by Wilbert Robinson, manager-president of the Brooklyn club, but it was understood "Robbie" had consummated it with Emil E. Fuchs, vice-president of the Braves.

No money was involved in the trade, it was said.

O'Neil and Taylor are regarded among the leading backstops in the National league. Barnes, a veteran right handed twirler, went to Boston from New York in 1923. Johnson also has had long major league experience, filling many roles with Brooklyn. Brown and Felix are comparative newcomers.

STALLINGS DENIES HE WILL SIGN CONTRACT WITH CUBS

ROCHESTER, Oct. 6 (AP)—George T. Stallings, half owner and manager of the Rochester club of the International league denied emphatically that he had signed or would sign a contract to manage the Chicago Cubs in 1926. The local magnate reiterated a previous statement that he would remain in Rochester next year and that he had no intention of quitting his post here.

STAGE IS SET FOR FIRST GAME OF WORLD'S BASEBALL CLASSIC

PITTSBURGH, Penna., Oct. 6 (AP)—A battle that promises to add a spectacular chapter to the history of baseball's championship conflict starts tomorrow with the Washington Senators, heroic champions of 1924, defending their laurels against the onslaught of Pittsburgh's new National league titleholders, a fighting array which hopes to regain the glory that was this city's 16 years ago.

Unless all signs fail, it will be as closely waged a struggle as was the sensational championship series last fall, with Washington's great defensive club, led by Bucky Harris and Walter Johnson, pitting its experience and steadiness against the youthfully inspired and brilliant attack of Bill McKechnie's Pirate crew.

Johnson vs. Meadows

Johnson, dramatic pitching figure of the world's champions, will pick up for the Senators where he left off victoriously in the final game of last season's battle with the Giants. His opponent in all probability will be Lee Meadows, veteran be-spectacled right hander and mainstay of the Pittsburgh staff. Both have been through many a big league struggle, though Meadows had had no world's series experience, and both are ready to put forth their best efforts.

They will be the central figures in the opening spectacle tomorrow at Forbes field, where a capacity crowd of 45,000, taxing every available bit of seating space, is expected to provide an enthusiastic setting for the first world's series game here since 1909.

Rain and Cold Weather Predicted

It will be a colorful and brilliant scene, with notables on hand from every walk of life—if the weather survives the pessimistic predictions distributed tonight. The official forecast is for a rainy, cold day but since some of this was gotten out of the weather system today, hope was held out that it would clear sufficiently for Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania to toss out the first ball promptly at 2 o'clock.

The eve of the big championship tonight found Pittsburgh like a convention city, jammed and packed at every angle with enthusiasm rampant but wagering comparatively light and chiefly on an even money basis. Only a few of the more rabid hometown rooters letting loose a spirit of the type that worked Washington's first pennant victory a year ago, were apparently willing to back their opinions in substantial fashion.

Offering Odds on Senators.

As a matter of fact, Johnson's selection as Washington's first pitcher and the reliable reports that the "Big Train" is "right" have influenced Washington's legion of followers to offer odds, in some instances of seven to five that the American league titleholders will capture the opening game.

A consensus of expert opinion, of which the representation is far, wide and numerous, favors Washington to retain its championship but there is no lack of faith, on the other hand, in the ability of the Pirates offensive to break down the defensive bulwalks of its rivals.

In pre-series speculation tonight the physical condition of both teams was a subject of keen discussion. Both will have their full strength upon the opening field of battle but both also will face some handicaps, with Washington seemingly up against the severer difficulties.

Injuries May Play Part.

Pittsburgh has lost her star utility infielder, Johnny Rawlings, who will watch the series on crutches from the grandstand as a result of a broken ankle, sustained several weeks ago. Eddie Moore, who replaced Rawlings at second base, also will start under the handicap of an injured thumb on his throwing hand, but Washington has three semi-casualties among her stars, including Manager Harris himself, shortstop Roger Peckinpaugh and Stanley Coveleskie, veteran right handed twirler counted upon to share the main burden with Johnson.

Of the three, Harris, with a badly swollen middle finger on his right hand, seems the most handicapped and may not, in fact, be able to last through the entire series. He admits this himself.

Coveleskie has recuperated from a strained back, but there remains some doubt whether he will be at his best. The Senators' chances will suffer a sharp reaction if he isn't.

Peckinpaugh's ankle has again shown signs of weakness and there is the possibility that in a quick fielding play he may sustain the same sort of injury that forced him to the bench last fall.

Washington's prospects depend a great deal upon these men—all major cogs in the team's defense and attack—and should one or more of them fail to be at his best, the world's champions' stock will tumble, in spite o fthe fact that Harris has much better reserve material for emergencies than he had last year.

Washington supporters, on the other hand, feel that if their club was able to survive triumphantly last year's series after having a badly patched up infield, the same winning streak can be kept up now, with capable reserves on hand.

Harris to Use Full Strength

Stanley Harris will have his heaviest hitting array in action tomorrow to combat the Pirate attack. He decided today to put Joe Harris, a strong sticker, in right field in place of Sam Rice, who will move over to center to relieve Earl McNeely, whose $50,000 hit won the last world's series but whose stickwork has fallen off considerably this season.

With the exception of Rawlings Pittsburg will have the identical lineup which carried the club to the pennant. While it has not been through the tests which the Senators have met the Pirate club excels in youth, speed and batting punch, three vital factors upon which home-town hopes are chiefly based.

Four Dangerous Men.

In Cuyler, Carey, Traynor, Wright and Barnhart, the Pirates have an array which has battered down all opposition thus far, backed up by a pitching corps which ranks among the best in either league, although boasting no star with the outstanding achievements of Johnson or Coveleskie.

Meadows, tomorrow's choice, is the most experienced and steadiest of the staff. Vic Aldridge, another seasoned right hander, is generally picked to twirl the second game against Coveleskie while the third contest, in Washington Friday, barring postponements here, will be a southpaw battle with Dutch Ruether of the Senators opposed to Emil Yde, Young Pirate portsider.

SPORTS ARTICLES FORM FEATURE IN BRADFORD PAPER

The first number of the new monthly publication of the Bradford Dyeing association, "The Bradfast," made its appearance this week. It is intended to be a "family" paper for the employees of the association and the editor O. F. Lincoln has produced a splendid sheet in his first attempt. It is concise and snappy, with a resume of the social, industrial and athletic activities of the association. The editorials are timely and to the minute and very interestingly written. There is a sprinkling of bright humor that includes a number of good natured jibes at various members of the association. The sporting columns contain well-written sports articles on the association's athletic teams that should stimulate athletic activity in Bradford.

Chicago City Series Opens Today.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Cubs and White Sox will start the city series tomorrow, playing the first game of a seven-game series at the White Sox park, weather permitting.

The world heavyweight boxing champion stopped here for a short while today enroute home to Los Angeles from the East and said he would return to Salt Lake City soon to stump for his friend, Merkley Olson, who is a candidate for city commissioner in the November election.

MINOR LEAGUE SERIES TO BE RESUMED TODAY

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP)—With game count standing two-all, the Baltimore International league champions and the Louisville Colonels, title holders in the American association, tomorrow will resume hostilities for the minor league baseball championship.

Speedboys Notice

The Nutmegs challenged the Speedboys for a game to be played some time this season and not this month. In as much as the Jewett City team is so anxious to play, the Nutmegs will play them on Sachem field, Norwich, Sunday Nov. 29.

SKETCHES OF SOME OF WORLD'S SERIES STARS

The following pen sketches give a brief history of players who will participate in the world's series next week:

Rice—Senators

Entering the big show as a pitcher, Edgar C. Rice—for that and not Sam is his name—was converted into an outfielder by Clark Griffith because of his hitting ability and in that role he has become one of the outstanding stars of the American league.

Unusually fleet of foot, his speed on the paths won for him the sobriquet of "Man o' War" and that same speed in the field enabled him to save more than one game in the 1924 world's series by circus catches.

Born at Morocco, Indiana, on February 9, 1892, Rice began playing professional baseball with Galesburg in the Central association at the age of 20. After one season, however, he got the wanderlust and joined the navy. He was with the fleet that captured Vera Cruz in 1914 and as a member of a landing party from his ship he saw plenty of action.

Upon the return of his ship to Norfolk Rice attracted attention by his pitching there for the sailor team and he was signed by the Petersburg club of the Virginia league in 1914. He remained with Petersburg just a year, Washington obtained him in 1915. Sam still thought he was a pitcher, but Griffith decided that a lot of good hitting talent was going to waste in a not promising box man and so Rice became a fly chaser.

Goslin—Senators

Like his running mate, Sam Rice Leon Allen Goslin is another of the Senators' outfielders who began his diamond career with a desire to shine behind a toe plate. But his mistake was corrected in the minors where he embarked upon a career of "fence-busting" that landed him an American league job with Washington after one season.

Baseball has been in Goslin's blood from earliest childhood. He was born near Salem, New Jersey, on October 16, 1900, and grew up to be a farmer boy, but he couldn't keep away from a baseball field and many a chastisement he received for deserting his chores to pitch on a neighborhood nine.

Showing early promise, "The Goose" was invited to play on the Salem semi-professional nine, one of the strongest in that neighborhood. After two years he got his first professional engagement with Columbia in the South Atlantic league in 1920. He proved only a fair pitcher, but so great was his hitting ability that he alternated between in the outfield and the box.

When he joined Washington Goslin probably was one of the most awkward outfielders in the majors, but he was a natural hitter. They taught him to field and he taught opposing pitchers to fear his bat. He improved rapidly and became a star slugger in the 1924 world's series, equalling Babe Ruth's record of three home runs in this baseball classic.

Russell—Senators

To moral courage as much as to pitching ability Allen Russell owes his presence now in the major leagues.

Twice while with the New York Americans he was incapacitated, once by a failing arm and another time by partial paralysis due to a blood clot caused by a ball striking him on the head. The doctors held out little hope for Russell in either case, but he fought on with grim determination and finally won back to health.

Born in Baltimore, Md., on July 31, 1892, Russell had his first professional experience with the York team in the Tri-State league. He was obtained then by the Baltimore internationals and from that club went to the New York Americans in 1915. Four years later he was traded to the Boston American, in the deal which sent Carl Mays to the Yankees and three years later he was obtained by Washington in a trade. Like Marberry he plays purely the role of relief hurler.

Peckinpaugh—Senators

Obtained by Washington in one of the big trades of baseball, Roger T. Peckinpaugh, shortstop and assistant manager, became the mainspring of the Senators' machine of inner defense and covered himself with glory in the 1924 world's series after somewhat of a failure in a similar series when he was shortstopping for the New York Americans.

WESTERLY

For Columbus day observance in Westerly, next Monday afternoon and evening, Oct. 12th, plans are being perfected by the committee in charge, headed by Joseph Ruisi, Joseph S. Grills and Michael D. G. Papalia. Monday forenoon these men, following their appearance before the Westerly town council, visited the superior court and received from Associate Justice Antonio A. Capotosto, of Providence, who is on the bench at this term, the promise that he will be orator for the day and would speak in English in Wilcox park on the conclusion of the street parade. The speaker in Italian will be Ernesto Ruggiero, of Westerly, who formerly resided in Providence and is now employed in Bradford.

The plans of the Columbus day committee include a review of the parade in which will be local Italian societies, the Westerly band an an Italian band from Providence. Following the conclusion of this in front of Westerly town hall, the marchers will be reviewed by the Westerly town council. Then the speaking program will be carried out in Wilcox park. In the evening at the Westerly Athletic field, off High street, a band concert by the Italian band of Providence will be followed by fireworks.

Found guilty of intoxication, by Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn, Jr., in a special session of Third District court Monday night, John Arron, 28, U. S. S. Cassin, and Charles J. McCarthy, 27, of U. S. S. Alexander Hamilton, sailors, paid fines and costs amounting to $6.80 each. These sailors were picked up by the Westerly police department early Monday morning and were released with the proviso that they return by electric car to New London; a parole said to have been violated by them, as they were next reported "up the alley." In an intoxicated condition the sailors were at the Westerly station when the 11:04 express was leaving and one of the sailors in jumping from the train got caught between the moving cars and iron fence, with a remarkable escape from more serious injury. In the party at the time were three sailors one of whom boarded the train but the other two were gathered in by Patrolman Robert Kessel and locked up at the police station.

The first session of Westerly Probate for October was held Tuesday afternoon with Judge Edward M. Burke on the bench. Probate matters were disposed of as follows:

Oct. 5 Charles P. Crandall to Mary C. Scanlon, a tract of land with dwelling No. 88 High street. Abby M. Potter to John Whitehead et ux. a parcel of land with buildings on the south side of Wells street.

Tuesday was the second day of jury trial of the $50,000 damage case of Edwin D. Vennard vs. Harold Lihme. This suit is for damages alleged sustained Sept. 23, 1924, as the result of a collision between a motorcycle which Vennard was riding up Elm street from the Watch Hill coast guard station and an automobile which Lihme was driving up School from Main street.

The plaintiff was on the stand at the close of the court session Monday and occupied the stand the greater part of the Tuesday session. Opening of court was delayed by the late arrival of Juror Fred K. Crandall from South Kingstown, it being 11:20 a. m. before the court opened; but an hour's nooning was taken in place of the usual hour and a half.

Vennard, who was questioned by his counsel, Attorney John Ferguson, Jr., stated that he was 21 on June 2, 1923. He enlisted in the U. S. coast guard service on Sept. 23, 1923, and re-enlisted April 23, 1924 for one year. He was a surfman. Sept. 23, 1924, he said he had a leave of absence from the Watch Hill station going on liberty at 12:15 o'clock in the afternoon.

Witness left Watch Hill on a motorcycle with Prentice Lamphere and he left Lamphere at his home on Beach street. He was bound for his home in Stonington, Conn., where his parents were preparing to move. He said he had operated motor vehicles for three years and a motorcycle for one year. The witness said that as he drove up Elm street and passed Cross street he was traveling at a rate of from 15 to 20 miles an hour and after passing Cross street changed his speed, slowing down.

As he approached School street he said he sounded his horn and he looked to the left when he was a little way below the steps in front of the Pendleton residence and saw nothing coming. He was going less than 15 miles per hour. He turned his head to right, he said, until he arrived at the corner of the wall because of the elevation and obstruction there. He said he looked up School street, saw nothing to the right and then turned his head to the left.

He saw a car approaching, he testified, and it was practically upon him. He turned his motorcycle to the right to save himself; a crash came and that was all he remembered.

The first time he regained consciousness was in Providence Surgical hospital. There were pains in the back of his head and the daylight hurt his eyes, besides he had pains in his arms. For a long time he remained a patient in the hospital.

Mrs. G. Byron Cottrell and daughters, Misses Kathryn and Mary Stuart Cottrell, arrived at their homes in Westerly Tuesday after a summer passed abroad. They arrived in New York Monday morning, on the Minnewaska of the American Transport line, having sailed from London, Monday, Sept. 28th. Well known members from Westerly of the Watch Hill colony, they were not at the Hill the past summer, having left the United States early in the season for several months' visit in Europe.

Arthur G. Stillman of Westerly and Albert P. Kenyon of Pawcatuck are on a week's vacation from their duties in the office of the C. B. Cottrell and Sons company press works, on Mechanic street, Pawcatuck.

The Westerly Chamber of Commerce holds its first fall meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Colonial club on High street. President Lewis Stanton presided and Edwin D. Hawie was secretary.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ASKS BETTER TELEGRAPH SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 6—In the first meeting of the Westerly Chamber of Commerce since the summer recess held Tuesday evening at the Colonial club with President Lewis Stanton in the chair, a diversity of matters were considered, the first being relative to a request made some time ago or extending telegraph office hours. The reply from the telegraph company showed an average of three telegrams a month for a late night service and the company recommended telephoning telegrams to New London before midnight and to Providence thereafter. It was voted to start action about the first of January to see if longer open hours of the telegraph office could be obtained from the first of May. Secretary Edwin Hawke was directed to ascertain the number of Westerly night calls from New London and Providence telegraph offices.

Favorable report was received from Pawcatuck board of trade by its secretary, Paul Rietzel, concerning the co-operation of the Westerly chamber represented by Fanchar Smith in the Clean Up campaign of the past year.

From the committee on the annual banquet held June 16th at the Colonial club a report was accepted and recorded showing 49 in attendance when the guarantee of 90 reservations had to be paid for, in the joint banquet with the Pawcatuck board of trade with a deficit of $137.51 to be met, the Westerly chamber paying $101.01 and the Pawcatuck body $37.50.

From the federal director of census came a request for co-operation in the census of manufacturers, with the principal product of each concern. It was voted that the secretary send in a list of the manufacturers of Westerly and Pawcatuck. Printed reports were distributed to the members of the Westerly town planning committee.

Daniel F. Larkin, of the Shore Development committee reported the distribution of 5,000 booklets on the shore resorts of Watch Hill, Pleasant View and Weekapaug. To the literature sent out and advertising done in newspapers and periodicals over 600 inquiries were received. The receipts for this purpos from subscribers showed a total of $4,570 and expenditures of $4,485.44 leaving a balance on hand of $84.56.

From the executive secretary Charles F. Hammond of the shore development committee was read a lengthy report showing the work done to have been the raising of funds, the preparation of advertising matter and the distribution to agents and to other sources of circulation. The material was sent to Florida and put out by real estate agents and hotels which resulted in the answering of many inquiries. The meeting of the committee is to be called in a short time, when action will be taken to secure some of the $1,000 voted at the financial town meeting for advertising the town of Westerly. A special committe was named who planned to erect a big billboard near one of the main entrances to the town, costing between $200 and $300, and to use the balance for discriptive literature which it had planned to place in the shore development booklets. It was the opinion of the town's committee that the money was to be used to advertise the whole town, instead of the shore resorts exclusively.

A vote was passed authorizing the secretary of the chamber to communicate with the committee to ascertain if the money could not be made available for expenditure for the purpose voted by the town before the appropriation lapsed.

Favorable mention was reported as made by many summer visitors relative to the drive to the west train shelter at Westerly station recently completed by the New Haven R. R.

President Stanton asked for constructive action relative to the collection of garbage about Westerly and disposal system for the whole town. It was voted that the president be a committee on the project with power to appoint associate members.

Reports from the big trapping district, away back in the Stone Hill and Mt. Misery section, indicate that the trap lines for the fall and winter sets, will be laid out earlier than usual. With the sharp advance in prices of furs and pelts, local hunters and trappers will be out for a fine winter's catch. The cool weather of late has made furs prime before the snow comes, and Mr. Skunk, that lives out under the wood-shed is worth from one to three dollars.

The big white rabbits that many go hunting for with the first flurry of snow, are reported, not as scarce as for two or three years back.

One old hunter wondered Tuesday where the two or three pairs of bobcats had gone to that were seen several times, even as close as Pachaug, adding that the severe winter promised, will bring them around again.

Blackstones are millionettes

(We'll explain)

If three of a kind make triplets and four of a kind are quadruplets, Blackstones may rightfully be called millionettes.

Why? Because while we make millions of Blackstones every month, you can pick any five, fifty, or five thousand Blackstones at random and always be sure of finding the same finely-made, uniformly satisfying cigar. Always 100% Havana filled. Always the same sweet, mild taste. Always the same free draft. Nearly half of all Blackstones are sold in handy Pocket Packages of 5 or 10 factory-fresh, foil-wrapped cigars—the same Blackstones as those sold from the cedar box. That's the best proof of their uniform goodness.

Blackstone was a fine cigar 52 years ago. It was even finer 10 years ago. It is at its very finest in this year of 1925!

HANOVER

Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock the Missionary meeting was held in the church parlor with Mrs. H. B. Hazen, leader. Mrs. A. B. Ladd conducted the opening exercises after which the leader gave a brief talk. The feature at this meeting was Miss Margaret Porter's appearance in a foreign costume of bright colors and hand-made lace. Miss Porter gave the large number attending a plain idea of the costumes of the Check people, she coming from Checkoslavika. Misses Carrie and Jennie Gallup served ice cream, cookies, cake and coffee during the social hour.

Finding a California redwood log is almost as good as finding a gold mine or so, says George Walker, of Cannon Beach, Ore. He dug up a redwood which was partly buried by the sand. He worked two days with a team and scraper and then began sawing it up in lumber lengths. He estimates that he has taken $3,000 worth of lumber out of the log and has cut 30 circular dining table tops worth $75 each. The log was eight feet through and 50 feet long. The rings show that it was 527 years old. It had lain in the same place for many years and no one realized its value.

Makes Grave Charges Against Army Leader

KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK

Maj.-Gen. Harry L. Rogers, retired former Quartermaster-General of the Army, who from his sick bed in Philadelphia, Pa., filed charges at the War Department against his successor, Maj.-Gen. Wm. H. Hart. He says that Hart, while a colonel under his command stationed at the Brooklyn Army Base from January, 1921, until August, 1922, "malicously, selfishly and disloyally" plotted to prevent his re-appointment and to procure the post for himself. This technical charge violates Article 95 of Army Regulations, of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Dismissal from the Army or conviction by court martial will be the result, if proven true.

GERMANS SUBMIT NEW TRADE TREATY WITH FRANCE

PARIS, Oct. 6—Members of the German delegation attempting to draw up a new commercial treaty between France and Germany today handed Charles Chaumet, French minister of commerce, a note containing German proposals framed with a view to finding a new basis for the resumption of negotiations. This was in pursuance of the agreement at the time the chief German negotiator, Dr. Trendelenburg, returned from Paris to Berlin three weeks ago, when a temporary impasse was reached.

French proposals for the new treaty have been under consideration at Berlin since Dr. Trendelenburg left Paris, and the document handed over today is understood to be the German reply to these. M. Chaumet has taken the note under consideration with the aid of experts to determine whether it furnishes a possible basis for fresh discussions. French official circles, however, maintain a pessimistic view of the German demands for "most favored nation" treatment without offering what the French consider adequate reciprocity.

MUST HAVE PROOF OF DEATH OF CZAR NICHOLAS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—The stories and rumors of the death of Czar Nicholas II of Russia and his immediate family following the Russian revolution must be sifted until actual proof of death further than has been presented and the order of decease of the members of the family is produced, before local courts will take action regarding the personal estate of the late czar in this country.

Surrogate John P. O'Brien today named these requirements when Prince Serge Georgievich Romanovsky, now a resident of New York, applied for letters of administration for credits held in the United States. The prince claims to be a blood cousin and nearest living kin of the Russian monarch.

He cited official Russian records to prove the Czar's death, but Surrogate O'Brien asserted:

"The court cannot take official cognizance of certain reports it must be punctilious as to facts in this as in all other cases."

The court required the order of death of members of the family, stating that upon the point whether the czar or the czarina died first would rest the order of precedence of the heirs of the estate. No value was placed upon the estate and this information also was required of Prince Serge.

When Surrogate O'Brien suggested that the czar's mother and sisters would have precedence in the estate over a cousin, Prince Serge's attorney replied that the prince merely wishes to conserve the estate for the benefit of his cousin's family.

Among thirty-three heirs of the czar listed in the prince's petition are Empress Marie, Copenhagen; and Princesses Zenia and Olga, Denmark, sisters.

The surrogate ordered the petitioner to file a new petition incorporating the required information and naming the public administrator a party to the proceedings to safeguard the rights of non-resident heirs.

ARGUMENTS IN OIL LEASE CASE CLOSED YESTERDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6—Argument in the double appeal of the government and the Edward L. Doheny oil interests from a decision of the United States district court in Los Angeles cancelling Doheny's leases on naval oil reserves in California with certain provisos that he be re-imbursed, closed today in the United States circuit court of appeals.

Former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, special government oil counsel, made the final argument. He described in detail the tender of $100,000 by Doheny to Albert Fall, while Fall was secretary of the interior, holding that such tender was in anticipation of certain concessions that Doheny wished to obtain from Fall relative to the leasing of the naval oil lands. Senator Pomerene repeated the finding of the trial court that such tender was a "colossal infamy."

Final arguments by the government followed the conclusion of the presentation of contentions by counsel for Doheny who endeavored to induce the court that cancellations of the leases and contracts should not be upheld. Frederick R. Kellogg of New York closed for the defense.

In arguing that the leases be restored to the government Senator Pomerene repeatedly pointed to the decision of Federal Judge McCormick of Los Angeles who held that they should be stricken down because of fraudulent conspiracy between Doheny and Fall and because the executive order under which they were made was invalid.

Attorney Kellogg defended the $100,000 transaction between the oil magnate and Fall, holding that it was a personal loan between friends of lifelong standing.

HOW TWO WOMEN AVOIDED OPERATIONS

The Following Letters of Mrs. Thurston and Mrs. Beard Carry an Encouraging Message to Other Sick Women

MRS. ETHEL THURSTON
324 N. PINE STREET, LIMA, OHIO

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations, and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking the medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine." —Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine Street, Lima, Ohio.

Mrs. Beard's Letter

Eddy, Texas.—"I will write you a few words, thinking it will do some one else good. Two doctors said I would have to be operated on because for nearly twelve months I suffered from a weakness from which I could get no relief. I was restless and nervous and was not able to walk across the house. They said it was the Change of Life. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers, and as I could not get any help from doctors I thought I would give that a trial. I began with the liquid and it helped me some, then you advised me to take the tablet form and I began to improve rapidly. I have gained in weight from 105 to 170 pounds. I recommend it to all women with this trouble."—Mrs. M. E. BEARD, R. No. 1, Box 143, Eddy, Texas.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

It seemed likely 75 years ago that the plan of Asa Whitney of New York, a native of North Stonington, for the building of a railroad across the country, would be carried out, as it was deemed the best plan by the committee of the senate. Papers devoted pages to the report and all spoke highly of the method suggested by Mr. Whitney.

News of the week as taken in part from the Norwich Courier of 1850 is as follows:

Tuesday, October 1, 1850—A boast of a man living in a city not far from Norwich came true almost as soon as he had spoken and people in that town are now taking care lest their boasts should have the same ending. This man, according to the report, was roasting clams over a fire at the shore and was having poor luck with them. Just as he got the fire burning nicely a rainstorm came up and the fire was extinguished. Angered by this the man exclaimed, "I will roast these clams, if I have to go to hell after the fire." Just at this moment there came a flash of lightning and friends rushing to the spot found he had been instantly killed. The burial took place a few days later.

From reliable sources, information has been secured at Washington that the state of South Carolina, with sanction of the state government, was making plans for secession from the union and that this action was also being seriously considered by Georgia. An immediate call of convention has been made when the matter will be taken up.

Thursday, October 3, 1850—In a lengthy editorial the Courier of 1850 took its stand as absolutely opposed to slavery and the action now taking place in this state and in Massachusetts by slave catchers, who find fugitive slaves and sell them back into bondage in the south. Recently in a city in New York two slaves were found and for returning them into bondage the slave catchers received $250. Slaves are now fleeing in troops to Canada and they are well armed and determined to fight to the last ditch before being captured. The omnibus bill is destined to further widen the breach between the north and south. The Courier stands firmly in the rights of freedom for all people, regardless of color, and bitterly assails any law which allows man, woman or child to be torn from free realms and consigned to bondage upon the oath of any champion of slavery.

In Springfield, Mass., a town meeting was held Tuesday night at which the people pledged themselves that no fugitive slave in Springfield, and there are over 50 of them there, shall be allowed to be taken back into slavery. Fear of a serious outbreak is growing in that city for the negroes are all armed and slave catchers are expected to get into a battle with them at any moment. A large committee has been appointed to assist the negroes in protecting their rights in a free state and another meeting is to be called Friday night.

If things materialise a railroad from coast to coast may become a reality if Asa Whitney of New York, a native of North Stonington, is allowed to put his plan into action. Recommendations are that a strip of land 60 miles wide be sold to provide money to build the road across the country, ten miles to be completed before the land for ten miles ahead is sold to provide money for the next ten miles of railroad building. The plan to run the railroad across the country will cost millions of dollars and Mr. Whitney's plan has been judged the best ever proposed and it is believed that if he lives for ten years, the work will be completed and land values be greatly increased because of the connecting of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts by railroad.

Saturday, October 5, 1850—At the annual meeting of the Young Men's Bible class of Norwich and vicinity, the following officers were elected: Doctor C. B. Webster, president; J. G. Cooley, vice president; E. Fuller, recording and corresponding secretary; Edward Worthington, treasurer and librarian; H. H. Osgood, Joseph T. Thurston, Wesley Ireson, Gurdon Jones, Jr., and Edwin Leach, directors.

Ross, the express man, bought the first ticket for Jenny Lind's concert in Providence, paying $650 at auction.

At a whig meeting last evening at the town hall candidates for town offices were named as follows: Assessors, John Dunham, Benjamin Durfey and Eleazer L. Lathrop; board of relief; Joseph A. Yerrington, Joseph Backus and Oliver Woodworth; treasurer, Lyman Brewer; town clerk, Othniel Gager; constables, Frederick Prentice, Edward W. Ells, Daniel Connell, Jr., Thomas L. Stedman, William H. Farrington and George D. Fuller; grand jurors, Jacob Welden, William Rond, Stephen Allen, Frederick M. Lothrop, George A. Meech and Asa Manning. The town committee comprises Messrs William E. Park, Thomas L. Stedman, Daniel Connell, Jr., and Henry H. Osgood.

THRIFT OF AMERICANS IS FOUND ON UPGRADE

The United States is held up as the most extravagant nation on the globe, yet there are evidences that it is not so bad in this respect as it has been painted. For instance, the Federal Reserve board report on savings shows that in the 912 principal savings banks in the country there was on deposit on August 1, $790,000,000, a half million dollars more than those same banks reported on the same date of 1924. The increase is equivalent to $5 for every man, woman and child. No doubt the United States does rank as the most extravagant of all nations, but it likewise leads all others in the total amount of its savings deposits and there is ample evidence that the practice of national thrift is growing.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

SOY BEAN OIL MEAL MERITS MORE USE AS POULTRY FEED

With the rapid expansion of soybean culture in the corn belt states farmers of that region have at their disposal a new poultry feed which could well be used to much greater extent than is being done at present, says the United States department of agriculture. Poultrymen in the Pacific coast states have used soy-bean oil meal for several years and consider it a most excellent feed for growth and egg production.

A number of feeding tests at various experiment stations have shown the value of soy-bean oil meal as a poultry feed. At the North Carolina station it was found that when fed in equal quantities with wheat shorts and cracked corn mixed with sweet milk, soy-bean oil meal proved to be a most valuable feed and one to be recommended as a good ration for feeding to little chicks. One lot of chicks on soy-bean oil meal averaged 1.4 pounds when eight weeks old. From these tests it was concluded that the soy-bean oil meal could replace rolled oats in chick feeding.

Another series of experiments showed that soy-bean oil meal with a suitable mineral mixture is a better supplment to corn meal than meat scraps and is nearly as good as condensed buttermilk when fed to chickens for short-time intensive-feeding periods. A simple mineral mixture composed of bone ash, limestone, and salt was used. To be most effective, the amount of mineral mixture to be added should be about 2 per cent of the ration.

The addition of the mineral mixture is necessary to prevent too great a growth of fat at the expense of protein growth. Hens responded in these tests to the use of the mineral mixture in a similar manner to that of young growing birds. The mineral mixture, it has been shown, increases the value of the soy-bean oil meal as a protein supplement for growth and egg production more than 40 per cent.

GOOD FARM YEAR WILL HELP SUSTAIN GENERAL PROSPERITY

Agriculture has been fairly profitable this year and the improved purchasing power of farmers will do much to uphold general economic well-being through the winter the United States department of agriculture declares in its October report on the agricultural situation. The department points out, however, that while conservative judgment of the recovery of agriculture is warranted, farm prosperity can be as easily over-rated as depression.

"It is a splendid harvest," the department says. "Not bumper yields but production well adjusted to reasonable needs. The two great money crops, cotton and wheat, are now along where some idea can be gained of their value. Cotton apparently stands to bring its producers an income of approximately $1,500,000,000, which is about like last year, and wheat producers apparently stand to receive about $1,000,000,000 which is also near or slightly below last year.

"There two leading crops probably index the general crop income. Agricultural income will not be greatly in excess of last year, but the point is that this is the second fairly profitable year. The season will go a long way to level up regional conditions. The corn belt along with the dairy and diversified east have been slow to feel the stimulating current of revival, but now the rising prices of hogs and cattle, together with a reasonably good corn crop mean some profit in the corn belt. The slowly strengthening prices for dairy products plus higher potatoes and minor cash crops promise somewhat better income for the east. The whole agricultural map thus slowly emerges from economic shadow."

John J. Hayes, a constable, is dead, and Robert A. Smith is in a critical condition at St. John's hospital as the result of a double shooting in the tobacco shop of Sam Scott, Middlesex street, Lowell, Mass.

HONEY

It is not generally realized that extracted honey and comb honey are produced by practically the same method. The honey in all cases must be placed in the comb by the bees. In the production of extracted honey the bees are encouraged to build large sections, five or six times as large as the small white sections sold in basswood frames. After the honey is thoroughly ripened in the hive the large frames are removed and the thin wax cappings are shaved off with a sharp steam-heated knife. These frames are then placed in rapidly revolving wire baskets and the honey is extracted by centrifugal force; hence the name, extracted honey. The frames, after being emptied, are returned to the bees for refilling with honey; thus the bees are saved the labor of rebuilding wax combs, which they must always do in producing comb honey. This shows why comb honey commands a higher price per pound than does extracted honey, for the wax-building process is an expensive one.

POLES FOR LONG SERVICE

Large telephone companies throughout the country have found that pine poles impregnated with coal-tar creosote give the longest service. Following the advice of the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture, California electric power lines are using a large number of yellow pine and Douglas fir poles which have been impregnated with coal-tar creosote, instead of untreated red cedar poles, which were badly damaged by termites. These pine poles have been treated for their entire length by the open-cell pressure method, which will prevent bleeding or sweating of the creosote.

A new attractive agent, geraniol, for use in Japanese beetle control work, was demonstrated during the course of an observation tour conducted in New Jersey in August. The party consisted of a number of orchardists and entomologists who were especially interested in the work of the Japanese beetle laboratory of the bureau of entomology, United States department of agriculture. About 100 acres of demonstration orchards were visited. The orchards consisted of peaches, apples, cherries, and grapes. The demonstration of geraniol was held in one of the orchards, using the attractor to draw the beetles into a limited area, where they could be killed by a contact spray, consisting of oleoresin of pyrethrum and soap. This has been developed at the laboratory during the past season and has given remarkably good results.

Glacial Signs in South

Glacial boulders and pebbles found in the blue grass region of northern Kentucky recently show that the great ice sheets once extended to that region and that much more of the Ohio valley was glacial than scientists heretofore have believe according to W. R. Jillson, state geologist of Kentucky.

Jillson tells of the discovery of erratic igneous and metamorphic pebbels of early glacial origin in northeastern Kentucky. These pebbles were found at elevations of from 720 feet on the Big Sandy river to 850 feet on the North Fork of Licking river. This, he holds, supports the hypothesis of Pleistocene glacial ponding in a part of Kentucky which had been regarded as south of the southernmost advance of the glaciers.

The pebbles weighed from a few ounces to three pounds and were of granite, gneiss and quartzite, none of them having the slightest resemblance to Indian art facts or any indication of artificial ware or use, but all being round, smooth, semi-polished, true glacial type, Jillson says.

Hawk Flies Through Window

While chasing a swallow in County Donegal, Ireland, a hawk flew into the open door of R. E. Bidlake's place and followed the swallow up the broad stairs at the head of which was a large plate glass window. The swallow in its graceful manner, although going at great speed, made the turn in the stairs and through an open door into a room. The hawk, however, was going at such speed as to be unable to stop and flew through the plate glass window, showering glass in all directions.

Sunday Schools

There are more than a quarter of a million Sunday schools in active operation in the world, attracting an attendance of more than 30,000,000 pupils. North America is ahead of other continents in this census, with some 150,000 schools and 20,000,000 pupils. Europe has fewer than 70,000 schools and about 8,000,000 pupils. Asia ranks next with 30,000 schools and 1,300,000 pupils.

Apponyi Saves Day For Disarmament

Count Albert Apponyi, of Hungary, 84-year-old dean of Mid-European statesmen, who received an ovation at the League of Nations assembly in Geneva, when he pleaded for a general reduction of armaments, and a conference to be formed to start work at once. His statement, asking all nations to speak frankly, brought him a rousing cheer and applause.

"Time is money," so says the proverb, yet lots of fools throw away money in order to kill time.

The Southdown Sheep

Writing about "fashions in sheep breeding," an expert mentioned that there are signs of a revival of the Southdown fashion. The statement might be supplemented by the reflection that the Southdown sheep represents the best instance of fashion as applied to sheep breeding. In its great days the Southdown sheep had two rather different titles. It was known as the "gentleman's sheep," partly because it was thought that no gentleman's park was complete without a flock of Southdowns; it was also known as the "butcher's sheep," for reasons more obvious. It became the fashionable sheep in the reign of George III. The attention of Farmer George was specially directed to Ellman's famous Glynde flock a century and a half ago, and the royal interest made "sheep" and "Southdown" interchangeable words among the "nobility and gentry." It is easy to imagine how eagerly the Nabobs supplied themselves with Southdown flocks in order to be in the fashion of the day. But the royal and aristocratic fame of the sheep has a later anecdote unsurpassed in the history of farming. The great Jonas Webb took over some Southdowns for exhibition at a big international show in Paris, and the Emperor Napoleon III stopped at the pen and asked who was the owner of these beautiful sheep. "You are the owner, your majesty," said Webb, "if your majesty will accept of them."—Manchester Guardian.

Tanganika to Get Railroad

Tanganika, the new name for the territory formerly known as German East Africa, is to have double the railroad facilities that now exist. The east African commission is preparing to run lateral lines connecting with the main line which goes across that country at this time. The mileage today is about 1,000 miles and at least 700 miles will be added.

Czechs Order U. S. Engines

The minister of railways in Czechoslovakia is purchasing American railway engines in order to improve the efficiency of railroads in that country. The engines being ordered will make 35 miles an hour on upgrade hills and this speed will be increased to 65 miles an hour on level stretches. They are wanted for express trains.

Esperanto College

A summer university in psychology, languages and international law, with Esperanto as the language of instruction, was conducted this summer in Geneva in connection with the Seventeenth Universal Esperanto Congress meeting there—the first time in history that an artificial language has been used in that way.

Esperantists from many parts of the world attended the congress, the culmination of various national congresses previously held in the most important European countries, in America and Japan. Almost every civilized country now issues a publication in Esperanto and the national language, and about 18 magazines are published in Esperanto only.

Busy New South Wales

To stimulate secondary industries in the smaller centers of New South Wales and to popularize the products of home industry, several organizations are combining to promote an exhibition train which will carry its displays to 100 country towns throughout the state.

Famous Movie Actress Once more Slender
Gives full credit to French discovery

Loses 61 Pounds in 10 Weeks. No Diets, Exercises, Dangerous Drugs or Reducing Girdles.

"For the last year I had tried everything known to lose the 60 pounds or so of excess fat which had rapidly accumulated on my figure and made me look so matronly and awkward that I could no longer appear in pictures," writes beautiful movie actress, "but not until I used SAN-GRI-NA did I take off any fat, although I had tried diets, exercises, etc. Thanks to this new French discovery, I easily and gradually lost 61 pounds in about 10 weeks. I dreaded to reduce for fear of after-effects, but I must say that I consider SAN-GRI-NA absolutely marvelous, and that is why I fully endorse it. Although I lost such a large amount of weight, I feel perfectly strong and well. My face is not drawn looking or wrinkled, I am not skinny or angular, and everyone seems to think I look so much better and younger." (This letter is on file for inspection.)

If you weigh 10, 50 or 100 pounds too much, you can bring your weight down to normal WITHOUT INJURING YOUR HEALTH, says well-known beauty specialist of New York and Paris. If you suffer from heart trouble, puffing, swollen feet, you can be relieved. NO MATTER HOW MANY THINGS YOU HAVE TRIED BEFORE AND HOW MANY TIMES YOU HAVE BEEN DISAPPOINTED, I am absolutely convinced from my own results and that of hundreds of others, that anyone burdened with excess fat can be made slender and attractive with SAN-GRI-NA. Before I found out about this new discovery I myself weighed 180 pounds, and many times I had been told that I was a most obstinate case and could never reduce; yet to-day, thanks to this discovery, I tip the scales at 120. Letters of praise from all over the country come in to us daily from men and women in all steps of life, some of them who have been burdened with fat for years who are to-day slender and healthy, thanks to SAN-GRI-NA.

Make this simple test to-day: First weigh yourself, then get a package of SAN-GRI-NA, take it as per directions, and watch your weight go down. No miracles done overnight. Nothing magic, BUT A STEADY AND GRADUAL LOSS OF WEIGHT AND A DAILY IMPROVEMENT IN HEALTH AND APPEARANCE. SAN-GRI-NA has been found wonderful not only as a reducing treatment, but also wins praise from its users because it is incomparable to do away with high blood pressure, puffing and tired feeling. Be sure you get the right tablets, called SAN-GRI-NA. Do not accept any substitute. Look carefully for the name, and it will not be long before you will say, like so many others: "I tried everything advertised, but SAN-GRI-NA is the only thing which ever reduced me."

On sale at any good drug or department store. If your druggist does not carry San-Gri-Na in stock he can get it from his wholesaler or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, N. Y. City.

POETRY

HURRAH FOR OLD NEW ENGLAND.

This is our own, our native home,
Tho' poor and rough she be;
The home of many a noble soul,
The birthplace of the free.
We'll love her rocks and rivers
Till death our quick blood chills,
Hurrah for old New England
And her cloud-capped granite hills.

CHORUS.

Hurrah for old New England,
And her clogd-capped granite hills;
Hurrah for old New England,
And her cloud-capped granite hills.

Shall not the land, tho' poor she be,
That gave a Webster birth,
With pride step forth to take her place
With the mightiest of the earth?
Then for his sake whose lofty fame
Our farthest bound'ries fills
We'll shout for old New England
And her cloud-capped granite hills.

They tell us of our freezing clime,
Our hard and rugged soil,
Which hardly half repays us for
Our spring-time care and toil;
Yet gayly sings the merry boy,
As his homestead farm he tills;
Hurrah for old New England,
And her cloud-capped granite hills.

Others may seek the Western clime,
They say 'tis passing fair,
That sunny are its laughing skies,
And soft its balmy air;
We linger round our childhood's home
Till age our warm blood chills,
Till we die in old New England
And sleep beneath her hills.

THE LOST WINDOWS.

A craftsman once made pilgrimage for glass
To lime with golden leaf and azure stain
Fair saints around a central crimson pane
Whence Christ should light an abbey's
pillared space;
And faring homeward, humbly sought the place
Beside the Rood where he had prayed in vain
For power to show the doubting world again
The quiet beauty of a thorn-crowned
Face.

But as he looked, lo, all his soul had dreamed
Flamed through the glass from aisle to empty choir
In colors that no earthly artist
knows;
And in the East where waxen tapers
gleamed
Wrought by an angel from his heart's deep fire,
Christ shone within the window's perfect rose.

Situated on a volcanic plateau, the whole course is covered with dust, with not a blade of grass. Players locate their ball by the puff of red dust that rises when it drops. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Eight well known professional racing drivers, including Leo Nomis, the famous movie 'stunt' man, takes part in a road race scene which provides many of the spine-tingling thrills in Richard Dix's latest Paramount starring picture, "The Lucky Devil," which will be the feature at the Palace theatre.

The story is a screen original by Byron Morgan, who wrote "Code of the Sea," and "The Air Mail". Frank Tuttle who directed Dix in "Too Many Kisses," made this one also.

Dix plays a young man who longs for what he hasn't got. He wants it so awfully bad that he finally succeeds in getting it. Randy Farman is a demonstrator of auto camping outfits. He falls in love with the beautiful car that is in the department's store window.

Deciding that he'd like to own one, he invests half of his savings on chances to win a car at a bazaar. Then the fun begins, because—he wins it. But—he hasn't any money to run it with. Love, thrills, races and suspense enter into the story. They're all here, and plenty of them to each foot of film.

Prominent in the supporting cast of the picture are Esther Ralston, leading woman; Anthony Jowitt, and "Gunboat" Smith.

Palace Theatre

Wallace Beery and Irvin Willat started together on the road to film fame five years ago. The famous actor and noted director were reunited during the filming of "Rugged Water," Willat' latest Paramount production in which Beery is featured with Lois Wilson, Warner Baxter and Phyllis Haver.

The picture that lifted Wallace Beery from the "among those present" class was "Behind the Door," a strong sea story directed by Irvin Willat. It made both men famous.

Like their first venture together, "Rugged Water," deals with the sea, it was adapted from Joseph C. Lincoln's story of the life saving service on Cape Cod. The picture opens at the Palace on Thursday next.

It is surprising how many men have things they wish to sell for less than cost.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Another big cash prize night comes to the Broadway theatre tomorrow night. Prizes will be again awarded in gold. Are you lucky? Everyone has an equal chance. Bring your neighbor along.

In addition to the prize night a big B. F. Keith vaudeville show is scheduled. There are five acts on the bill and again a perfect show is guaranteed.

"One glorious Night," the new Columbia feature picture, which will come to the Broadway theatre tomorrow for a run of 2 days, is a story of the mistake a young girl made in entering a hasty marriage. She was born with an appreciation of the finer things in life, but circumstances had made her a shop girl subject to the whims and fancy of customers who did not know what they wanted, if anything at all. She met a man who fell in love with her and offered her all the things that she had always dreamed of: A private yacht, motor cars, a wonderful home with a continuous succession of parties, dinners and dances. The fly in the ointment was her husband's mother, who held the pursestrings and who was vain and ambitious. She had been very much disappointed in her son not having made a brilliant match and did all she could to make her daughter-in-law uncomfortable. The final straw was her statement that she would not tolerate any grand-children in her home.

Coming to the Breed

The screen's greatest fighter—Milton Sills.

Sills' movie career has been just one fight after another the last few years. And in The Knockout, which will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Breed theater, he enacts the biggest physical encounter of his career, surpassing even that in The Spoilers, which established a fight precedent in screen history.

As the fighting Sir Oliver Tressilian in The Sea Hawk, Sills established himself definitely in the screen world as a portrayer of virile roles. He followed this with his forceful characterization of Major Craig in As Man Desires. His fistic struggles in this picture were so realistic that he was laid up for a week. As the intrepid fighting Officer Jim in his first starring picture, The Making of O'Malley, he fought his way through seven reels.

In his present picture, The Knockout, Sills surpasses any of his former affrays, having John Kolb, a six-foot-seven-inch Titan as his opponent, battling furiously in the turbulent waters of a Canadian river during the break of a log jam. Sills was badly bruised and nursed a black eye for several days as a result of his hectic physical exertions in this fight.

The Knockout—an Earl Hudson screen version of M. D. C. Crawford's The Comeback is a story of romance and adventure. Lambert Hillyer directed and its cast includes Lorna Duveen, Jed Prouty, Claude King, John Philip Kolb, Hurlan Knight and others.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Armour and Co.

Again, the Bulletin has been chosen as the medium for Armour and company's advertising in this community.

The campaign will be a continuation of the "60 Ways" message which has already earned an enormous popularity in all parts of the country. The idea is to make the advertising render a real service by teaching women the numerous ways of serving Armour's "Star" ham on occasions of different kinds.

The reason back of the selection of the Bulletin for this vital message was because the Bulletin reaches the class of readers desired. And, inasmuch as Armour and company use newspapers to a large extent, they must, naturally, select publications which assure the greatest possible number of returns.

The campaign in the Bulletin will be educational to a large extent. It will feature the "60 Ways" idea—and, as well, explain to the reader the value of purchasing ham of reputation.

The "60 Ways to Serve" booklet, several hundred thousand copies of which have been distributed, is free. It can be obtained from local dealers—or will be mailed upon request. A tag is attached to every "Star" ham for this purpose.

According to Armour and company, ham is the most popular of all meats. Tastes differ with respect to meats, but everybody seems to like ham—especially, if it is young tender ham with a mild cure flavor. For that reason, every housewife should know a number of ways to serve it: not only for dinner or breakfast, but for luncheons, parties, picnics and lighter repasts of all kinds. The "60 Ways" campaign will serve to increase the enjoyment of those who like good ham.

Every dealer will be linked with this campaign as it appears in the Bulletin, and there is little doubt but that Armour and company will realize profitable returns in the city of Norwich.

Well Child Conference

Little children grow so fat that they need even more careful checking up than adults. The mothers in Connecticut appreciate this because they have been bringing their pre-school children to the nearest of the 41 conferences which are being held monthly for well children. It is a wise thing to form a health habit of this kind, watching the weight, talking over with doctors and nurses factors which make for health, and checking any little deviation from normal as they are found.

Children, whose mothers have taken advantage of this splendid health service, will be better able physically to stand the strain of school work.

The next conference in Moosup hall will be held on Friday afternoon, Oct. 16th, in Franco-American hall, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

It's well to know thyself and it's just as well not to give thyself away.

HEAVY RAINS HALT FRENCH TROOPS IN MOROCCO

FEZ, French Morocco, Oct. 6—(A.P.)—Heavy rains have fallen in Morocco and the advance of the French troops on the eastern and center sections, although proceeding energetically, has been somewhat delayed.

Should the present weather conditions continue it is expected that the French, after occupying the ridge north of Kifane, will make no further advance toward a junction with the Spanish troops until the next dry spell. This would mean that the French will hold their present lines until the spring.

Being applied externally Vicks does not disturb the digestion. It can be freely used without the slightest harmful effect.

Vicks brings prompt relief from croup and often checks even the worst cold overnight.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(A. P.)—Despite aggressive pool operations in a number of specialties and favorable business news, today's stock market was under heavy selling pressure, closing quotations showing a long list of declines ranging from one to nearly six points. Trading was on an enormous scale, the day's sales totalling 2,136,400 shares.

Heavy selling for both accounts was inspired by the growing belief that the technical position of many stocks had been weakened by the recent brisk advance and by the maintenance of call money at 5 1- per cent., which led to the calling of additional loans, and the forced liquidation of weakened marginal accounts.

Outside the stock market, chief interest centered in the announcement of large shipments of gold from England to the United States and raising of the American Smelting dividend from $6 to $7 annually, which curiously, was followed by a decline in the stock to 112 5-8, off 3 3-8 on the day, after having touched 116, the highest since 1917, in the early trading.

Most of the standard industrials lost ground. United States steel common closed a point lower at 121 after having reached 122 3-4. Baldwin showed a net loss of 1 3-8 at 117 1-2 and American Can was off 4 5-8 to 232 1-4 after having sold above 237. Mack Trucks broke six points to 206, closing slightly above that figure.

Standard rails also were liquidated freely, the popular explanation for the selling being the announcement that the examiners of the interstate commerce commission had rejected the Loree merger plan, on the commission's failure to approve the proposed acquisition of the St. Louis S. Western by the Rock Island. Net declines of a point or two were recovered by Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, St. Paul preferred, Reading, Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna and Denver and Rio Grande, Western preferred. Wabash fell back three points and Atlantic Coast Line dropped 4 1-4.

New peaks price were attained by a number of mail order and merchandising issues including Woolworth which touched 199 1-3 and then broke to 191 1-8 for a net loss of 2 5-8; May Department stores which reached 138 7-8 and then sagged to 137 where it was up 1-3; National Cloak and Suit, which closed 3 points higher at 76 after having sold as high as 79, and Gimbel Brothers, which hit 65 3-4 and then settled back to 64 for a small fractional gain.

Revival of speculative activity in Willys Overland common, which carried that stock up nearly four points to a new high record at 30 1-2 on total transactions in excess of 200,000 shares, and the establishment of new highs by General Motors at 113 1-4, and Studebaker at 60 5-8, were the outstanding developments in the trading in the motor shares.

Foundation company continued its sensational advance by touching another new high at 152 3-4, an extreme gain at nearly 6 points, and then yielded to 149 1-4. New highs also were recovered by Coca Cola at 154, United States Realty at 153, Barnet Leather at 63, New York Shipbuilding at 81 1-2 and Ward Baking at 192.

Fleischmann, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester and United Fruit were conspicuously weak, falling 3 to 7 1-2 points.

Call money ruled unchanged at 5 1-2 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

Foreign exchanges continued to move within rather narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher at $4.83 7-8, despite heavy withdrawals of gold from the Bank of England, but French francs broke below 4.60 cents for a net loss of nearly 4 points. Norwegian kroner ruled about 10 points lower at 19.58 cents. Brazilian milreis crossed 15 cents to a new high record for the year in anticipation of new financing.
